THOMAS EXPECTED BREAK

Demand for the Warden's Suspension Shelved by Ohio Governor's Inquiry.

Special to The New York Times.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, April 22.—A board of inquiry appointed and headed by Governor Myers Y. Cooper, beginning an investigation today into the disastrous State prison fire last evening, heard testimony tending to place responsibility for the great loss of life upon the prison administration.

The death list was placed at 317 tonight, with 231 others in the prison hospital suffering from burns or from the effects of smoke. Two of the latter are not expected to survive and three are in a serious condition.

Warden P. E. Thomas was the first witness summoned before the hearing, conducted in the records room of the prison. At the outset County Prosecutor John J. Chester Jr. demanded the warden's suspension until the investigation had fixed responsibility for the disaster.

The prosecutor's demand was shelved when the Governor appointed the Attorney General to supersede Mr. Chester as inquisitor before the board. Hal Griswold, State Welfare Director, with two members of the Clemency Board and two Assistant Attorneys General constitute the board.

Keys Wrested From Guard.

Salient points developed in the testimony were as follows:

1. Thomas Watkinson, guard in the cell blocks where prisoners on the upper tiers were suffocated, refused to hand his keys to other guards, who finally wrested them from him and carried on the rescue work until overcome by smoke. Watkinson was suspended by the warden.

2. Warden Thomas assigned his 72-year-old chief deputy, J. O. Woodward, to command within the walls, while he took a post outside the prison.

3. The prison personnel had never received instructions for the routine to follow in case of fire, and no fire drill had been held among the prisoners within memory of the warden.

4. The loss of most of the lives was attributed to delay in opening the cells. Watkinson, the guard, testified, however, that in refusing to turn over the keys he was following the specific instructions of his captain, John Hall. The latter also testified, denying Watkinson's story.

Death Descended Suddenly.

Before testimony was begun members of the board inspected the fire-swept cell blocks, finding mute evidence of the swiftness of the disaster. On the floor of blackened and vacant cells lay half-eaten candy, overturned checkerboards and open books, indicating that the men were at recreation when the flames and smoke swept in.

The devastated section was the oldest unit of the prison, its double-brick walls and combustible roof having been erected in 1890. The fire began on the northwest corner of the roof, swept through the oil-soaked rafters to the southwest and burned through, igniting mattresses, pillows and blankets.

The board of inquiry met this afternoon and again this evening, adjourning until tomorrow when the ruins will be inspected.

In his testimony Warden Thomas declared that at the first alarm of fire he sent Thomas Little and W. C. Baldwin, night guards and acknowledged heroes of the fire, with instructions to get keys for the cell block. The warden admitted he had not given specific instructions that the prisoners be released.

The warden explained his assignment of the chief deputy to command within the walls by saying he considered the menace of a possible break for liberty by the prisoners as more pressing than the fire itself. He took the post outside the walls to guard against any attempt at a prison delivery.

"I suspended Guard Watkinson because I considered he had shown lack

Favors Naming Planet Bacchus; Says It Makes Neptune Wobble

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, April 22.—Finding a name for the eccentric trans-neptunian planet recently discovered from the Lowell Observatory is the subject of much chaff among scientists here.

Professor Leonard Erskine Hill, noted physiologist, tonight dismissed "Minerva" and "Vulcan" and considers that the "personality" of the new body is more akin to Bacchus, "because," he said, "it is ruled furthest out into space, it makes Neptune wobble, it was discovered in the land of prohibition and it is by general agreement, a rum-runner."

WHALEN WILL FIGHT FOR TAXI CONTROL

Declares He Will Continue to Refuse to Grant Licenses to Cut-Rate Machines.

DENIES DEFYING WALKER

Stands By Contention Set Forth in Court Test of Police Power—Walsh Organizes for Survey.

Undaunted by Mayor Walker's veto of the minimum taxicab rate ordinance, transmitted to the Board of Aldermen yesterday afternoon and filed without comment in its official archives, Police Commissioner Whalen declared last night that he would continue to refuse to license cabs to operate for less than the prevailing rate of 15 cents for the first quarter-mile and 5 cents for each succeeding quarter. He declared that he would stand by his contention, now being tested in the Supreme Court, that a police commissioner has the power to refuse to permit rate-cutting on the ground that it would tend to prevent effective traffic regulation, jeopardize public safety and lead to violence due to rate wars.

Commissioner Whalen declared emphatically that his position was not to be construed as placing him in conflict with Mayor Walker. It was interpreted in exactly that light, however, in political circles, where it was pointed out that the veto message, in mentioning the public's right to get the benefit of lower rates through taxicab competition, declared that "I recognize no power in the City Government, and certainly no disposition on the part of the Mayor, to deprive them of it."

A Fight in Courts.

The question of Commissioner Whalen's power to withhold a low-rate cab license was raised by the application of Eugene Piantoni for a flat 15-cent-a-mile license. It was rejected, and soon afterward Supreme Court Justice Ford ruled that Commissioner Whalen had no power to withhold the desired permit. The minimum rate ordinance was passed soon afterward, and subsequently Commissioner Whalen refused Piantoni a license on the ground that the ordinance was before Mayor Walker. Justice Ford issued a contempt order, which was stayed when Corporation Counsel Hilly filed an appeal from the original ruling which denied Commissioner Whalen's power to fix the minimum rate.

"If a flat fifteen-cent-a-mile cab, properly equipped and metered, was

ROOSEVELT VETOES KNIGHT UTILITY BILL FOR PUBLIC COUNSEL

Says Public Service Commission Itself Should Do Work Planned for Proposed Official.

HOLDS BOARD NOT A COURT

Sees Disadvantage to Consumers in Contests With Public Service Corporations.

URGES MORE INQUIRIES

Hopes Commissions Will Undertake New Rate Investigations on Their Own Initiative.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, N. Y., April 22.—Governor Roosevelt today vetoed the first measure in the public service law amendment series upon which he has taken action, the Knight Commission bill providing for a "people's counsel" to be attached to the Attorney General's office and charged with the duty of representing the public in proceedings before the Public Service Commission.

In a memorandum explanatory of his action the Governor said that the function the bill sought to transfer to the Attorney General's office really was the function the commission itself was created to perform.

The veto of the "people's counsel" bill is thought to be merely the forerunner of adverse action upon a number of the more important bills in the series and an aggressive use of the utility regulation issue in the course of his campaign for re-election this Autumn.

The Governor will discuss this topic extensively, together with water power, in a radio address tomorrow evening, according to announcement made from the Executive chamber.

Holds Commission Not a Court.

Governor Roosevelt's veto memorandum follows:

"The entire purpose of this bill is based upon a fundamentally false conception of the proper function of a public service commission. Public service commissions were originally adopted, in this and other States, for the purpose of carrying out certain duties in connection with utility companies theretofore performed by the various Legislatures.

"These duties, in essence, are to see that public utility companies furnish to the consuming public adequate service at fair and reasonable rates, and to protect legitimate investors in utility securities. The Public Service Commission has taken these legislative functions over.

"It is not, and never has been, merely a court. It is rather intended to represent the public interest in connection with various industries of a semi-public character subjected to its jurisdiction.

"The very nature of the business under their control renders inoperative the ordinary controlling force of competition; therefore, the State has provided this machinery to protect the public from the evils which would inevitably follow from the granting of monopolistic privileges.

"Many people think that the Public Service Commission of New York State in recent years has not measured up aggressively to these standards and that this was proved by showing a decrease in the number of instances in which the commission has initiated rate cases since 1923.

"In a great many places, it is alleged that consumer complaints have not aggressively been followed up.

"This decline in effectiveness is shown very clearly by the minority report of the commission on revision of the Public Service Commission's law at pages 78 to 72. I believe, how-

J. D. Rockefeller Gets $356,378 Tax Refund, Resulting From Reallocation of 1917 Dividends

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 22.—An income tax refund for 1917 of $356,378 has been awarded to John D. Rockefeller, the Internal Revenue Bureau announced today.

Bureau officials said that they assumed the refund was to Mr. Rockefeller, the senior, but that the papers did not show and that therefore they could not say of certainty.

Of the overassessment $94.44 was caused by the allowance of an additional deduction for depreciation of rental properties since "after a field investigation and conferences held in the bureau it is determined that the deduction claimed in the tax return is inadequate and less than the reasonable allowance."

Regarding the main portion of the refund, Commissioner of Internal Revenue Robert H. Lucas said:

"Of the overassessment, $356,283.90 results from a reallocation of dividends received during 1917, and the determination of the tax liability, with respect thereto, at the rates prescribed by law for the years in which the profits or surplus from which the dividends were paid are found to have been accumulated by the distributing corporations."

Other important adjustments of income and estate taxes were as follows:

The Reading Company of Philadelphia, credit and refund of $228,325.

Estate of Ellen W. Durye, Guaranty Trust Company et al. of New York, executors, abatement of $108,711.

Estate of Gustav Blumenthal, Robert G. Blumenthal et al., executors, of New York, abatement of $60,596.

Estate of Julius Mautner, Emanuel Magnin et al., executors, abatement of $34 213.

Estate of Franklin D. Locke, City Bank Farmers Trust Company of New York, executor, abatement of $32,606.

McBride and Curran Meet In Friendly Chat at Hearing

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 22.—The Rev. F. Scott McBride, superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League of America, was a spectator at the hearing of testimony by Henry H. Curran, president of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment, today. Following adjournment of the hearing he went up to Mr. Curran and introduced himself.

"We might get together and talk this over some time," suggested Mr. Curran, smiling.

"Yes," said Mr. McBride. "We might settle it with less time and less trouble—and better."

There was a pause.

"Well, you'll soon be in this chair here yourself," said Mr. Curran.

"They seem to be getting hot for me," agreed Mr. McBride.

They shook hands again.

$29,000 FOR REFERENDUM

Witness Predicts Rise of New Liberal Party—Denounces Seizure of Records.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 22.—The Association Against the Prohibition Amendment spent $11,000 in behalf of the Senatorial campaign of Senator Blaine in 1926 in Wisconsin, Henry H. Curran, president of the association, told the Senate lobby committee today. Mr. Curran explained that no money was directly contributed to the Blaine campaign fund, but that it was all spent independently, largely for advertising.

The association spent $29,000 last year in Wisconsin in the campaign to repeal the State prohibition enforcement law, the witness said. A representative was maintained at Madison for five months while the referendum was being debated, at a monthly salary of $2,000.

Mr. Curran admitted that the subject of a new Liberal party had been brought up at a directors' meeting of the association early this year, but he denied that the association, as such, has any connection with the movement.

He predicted, however, that such a development might "pop out of the grab bag" at any time, if both the major parties remain dry. A letter endorsing a project for such a party written to Samuel Harden Church, its sponsor, by Pierre S. du Pont, was read into the record.

Mr. Curran insisted, under cross-examination by Senator Robinson, that the association is not interested in court tests of the dry laws, but primarily in repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment.

He again protested against the seizure of his records by the committee, contending that such action violated the spirit of the Fourth Amendment. He added, however, that the association had nothing to conceal, and would engage in no action to test the committee's authority.

Mr. Curran will testify again tomorrow—his fifth appearance before the lobby committee. Simultaneously the House Judiciary Committee will reopen its hearings on wet bills to give the anti-prohibitionists an opportunity for rebuttal.

Letters on "Liberal Party" Read.

The reported interest of Mr. du Pont in a Liberal party, verified by letters in the correspondence subpoenaed by the committee, came out after Mr. Curran testified that the formation of such a party had been discussed by Samuel Harden Church, a director of the association and president of the Carnegie Institution at Pittsburgh, at a directors' meeting.

Mr. Curran denied that the new party was launched at a meeting of the directors early this year, but Senator Walsh insisted that "it was launched by the speech made at your meeting."

"Yes, it was," agreed Mr. Curran.

"How did you come to listen at a meeting of your board of directors to a proposition to create a new party?" Senator Walsh asked.

"Well, those meetings are open season for speeches, Senator," replied the witness. "Any director can say anything he wants to on anything that is germane to the subject."

Mr. Church's suggestion was received "cordially," he added.

Among letters entered in the record as indicating Mr. du Pont's interest in the Liberal party movement was one written by him to Mr. Church on Feb. 14, as follows:

Samuel Harden Church,
Pittsburgh, Pa.

My dear Mr. Church:

My objection is withdrawn. A new party will be successful if the backing is obtainable. You seemed

HOOVER FORECASTS $20,000,000 DEFICIT IN NEXT FISCAL YEAR

Total May Reach $30,000,000 on Basis of Bills Already Adopted, He Says.

Jones in Senate, Wood in House, Insist Budget Requests Have Not Been Exceeded.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 22.—The Treasury faces a deficit of $20,000,000 to $30,000,000 in the fiscal year 1930-31, on the basis of budget proposals and appropriations already passed, President Hoover announced today.

The President made the revised Treasury estimate known in letters to Senator Jones, Chairman of the Senate Appropriations Committee, and Representative Wood, Chairman of the House Appropriations Committee. The letter was read to the Senate by Senator Jones.

Mr. Hoover previously had predicted a surplus. Today, referring to "125 acts passed by either the Senate or the House or favorably reported by different committees," he expressed "real alarm" lest these bills be enacted and add "$300,000,000 or $350,000,000" to the contemplated deficit.

President Hoover did not mention what specific project or projects he had in mind, and efforts in the Senate by Senator Borah to have some light thrown on this point met with failure.

Text of Hoover Letter.

Here is the text of the identic communications received by Senator Jones and Mr. Wood:

The White House, Washington,
April 18, 1930.

The Hon. Wesley L. Jones,
United States Senate.

My dear Mr. Senator:

I thought you would like to know that a re-examination of our fiscal situation for the next year by the Director of the Budget shows that upon the indicated income of the government, and the expenditures to which the government is already committed through budget proposals and legislation which has been completed, we are faced with a deficit of some twenty or thirty millions of dollars.

This, of course, is not as yet a very material sum, but it is obvious that any further large amounts of expenditure will jeopardize the primary duty of the government, that is to hold expenses within our income.

Something over 125 acts have been passed by either the Senate or the House or favorably reported by different committees, which would authorize an additional expenditure of three hundred or three hundred and fifty million dollars next year.

A good many of these proposals are of course for comparatively small sums and some of them are necessary for the functioning of the government, but I know you will agree with me that there is cause for real alarm in the situation, as we cannot contemplate any such deficit.

I am writing a similar note to Representative Wood.

Yours faithfully,
HERBERT HOOVER.

In submitting the President's letter, Senator Jones said that it dealt with "an important situation" which, he said, "every one desires to meet in a practical way."

MacDonald Thanks Press for 'Forbearance'; Says Four-Power Agreement Is Possible

By CLARENCE K. STREIT.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, April 22.—Prime Minister MacDonald's last word today was for the press and that word was "Thanks." It came this way: A talkie company, which was unable to make a record of the closing session of the conference, got Mr. MacDonald to agree at least to make a little speech for it in an adjoining room as soon as the conference was over. The room was the press room, and when Mr. MacDonald came in, he turned the talkie into a tribute to the press and thanks "for its kindly forbearance."

Not content with mere thanks, he added a little news. Not only a three-power, but "maybe even a four-power agreement was possible," he said—the strongest indication the British have yet given of how close to a naval solution the British and the French came in their long search for a political formula. The French, it is true, previously said that a four-power accord could have been made, and then they refused to make it because they thought it unwise in the long run to leave Italy thus isolated.

The European group of naval powers, "with remote commitments," Mr. MacDonald said, is going to ponder, talk, work and go ahead, and, he added, "Every hope I had three months ago which has not been realized has been resurrected and is just as much alive today." He said he had "no doubt at all that, before you are many years older," the European group would be included in the "law and order" group.

Gold Pen Used by Delegates Is Presented to British Premier for Able Chairmanship.

By EDWIN L. JAMES.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, April 22.—Amid the crimson and gold of Queen Anne's drawing room in St. James's Palace the London Naval Arms Conference concluded its labors today with the signature of a five-power treaty embodying three-power limitation among America, Britain and Japan.

It was not as pompous a ceremony as the opening in the Royal Gallery of the House of Lords when King George welcomed the delegates with high hopes. Today, at the end, some of those hopes were still unrealized, but the sum total of the three months negotiations formed a notable contribution to the cause of international understanding. For who can deny the value of the two great accomplishments of the London conference, the definite fixing until 1936 of the fleets of the three greatest naval powers of the world and a five-power agreement for a further battleship holiday, which in effect will probably mean the end of capital ships as they have been known?

There were other smaller accomplishments, but these two big acts will be what is remembered of the London conference in the years to come.

MacDonald Centre of Group.

The conference started in a thick fog; it finished in brilliant sunshine, the first London has seen for some time. Through the high windows overlooking the Mall, brightness poured over the crowded room where, around the red covered horseshoe table sat the delegates of five nations.

In the centre were Premier MacDonald and the British delegation. On his right were the delegates of France and the United States. On his left were the representatives of Italy, Japan and the British dominions. In the centre of the table were interpreters and secretaries. At each end were seats for the experts. One side of the room was filled with chairs for 100 correspondents who had drawn cards for the final session.

It was, above all, a businesslike meeting. There was no surplus of enthusiasm but a sober weighing of what had been done and what had not been done. And then came a promise to complete the work remaining unfinished. Rightly enough, the talk was of limitation, and justly enough the talk of reduction pertained to future plans. One bit of color to the speeches, which seemed at times to reflect the weariness of the statesmen, was supplied by Aristide Briand, France's brilliant Foreign Minister, who stood by his theme that peace must be organized to get real disarmament.

True enough, England, America and Japan had agreed on limitation, but M. Briand found those three na-

Leviathan Sails at Dawn.

SOUTHAMPTON, Wednesday, April 23 (AP).—The American delegation to the London Naval Conference left Southampton for New York at dawn today with the sailing of the Leviathan at 7:30 A. M.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

SOUTHAMPTON, April 22.—With their three months' task completed, the American delegation slept aboard the Leviathan tonight.

The delegates were in buoyant good humor but so worn out by the day's events that they went to bed at once on their arrival here, although the Leviathan's new night club had been kept open especially for them.

"I am not interested in warships any more," said Secretary Stimson, wearily. "My chief trouble now is that I have left one of my suitcases in London."

To Mayor Hector Young of Southampton, who congratulated the delegates on the treaty, Mr. Stimson replied, "It has been very hard work and I am glad to be going home."

The Americans left London amid the booming of flashlights and the fluttering of handkerchiefs beneath the vast trainshed of Waterloo Station. Silk hats were there in plenty, but the formality of this morning's conference session had vanished. For the first time since the conference began the girl stenographers and the marines were back in the limelight—the girls again wearing those furs which startled London three months ago and the marines leaning from the windows and waving their caps as the train pulled out.

"I think we have done a good job," said Ambassador Morrow, bidding farewell from a train window. Senator Robinson was a picture of contentment as he settled back in his compartment for the train journey. Secretary Adams, usually taciturn and tight-lipped, allowed himself a broad smile as he watched the platform slipping past his window.

Japanese at Train.

Prime Minister MacDonald did not come to the train, as Mr. Stimson and the other delegates had said farewell at 10 Downing Street in the afternoon. The only head of a delegation present was Reijiro Wakatsuki, who brought with him Ambassador and Mrs. Matsudaira and Admiral and Mrs. Takarabe. The French Ambassador, Aimé de Fleuriau—always a picturesque figure with a flowing black necktie—came to bring Foreign Minister Briand's farewell.

Viscount and Viscountess Astor, who had been unofficial hosts to the Americans, hurried down the platform a few minutes before the train left. Lady Astor, who was wearing an evening dress and a long mink wrap, made a bee-line for Senator Robinson's compartment and both stayed so long they were almost carried off to Southampton.

Others in the platform group included Ambassador and Mrs. Dawes and Ambassador Gibson, who will return to Brussels at the end of the week.

Mr. Stimson unexpectedly became a talkie star when he visited 10 Downing Street for his farewell to Mr. MacDonald. The delegates found cameras and Klieg lights when they arrived and the informal good-bye developed into a speechmaking occasion. Mr. Stimson's voice was too

PRESIDENT PRESSES ACTION

Wins His Plea for Prompt Consideration—Opinion of Leaders Divided.

HALE WANTS HEARING FIRST

His Purpose Is Looked Upon as Hostile to Some Parts of the Treaty.

BORAH FAVORS QUICK VOTE

Adjournment Set for June 15 and Debate May Go Over Into Next Session.

By RICHARD V. OULAHAN.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 22.—Informal announcement was made by President Hoover at his semi-weekly press conference today that he intended to submit the London naval armament treaty to the Senate as soon as the American signature copy had been brought back to the United States by Chairman Stimson of the American delegation.

This means that an effort will be made to have the treaty ratified during the current session of Congress, which has been tentatively set for adjournment on June 15.

Whether action is possible that quickly is problematical. Considerable difference of opinion exists among Senators as to when a final vote may be expected.

Senate Leaders Consulted.

The President explained to his newspaper visitors that his decision to transmit the treaty to the Senate as soon as the official copy was brought to Washington was reached after consultation with Senate leaders. Heretofore, there has been some Senatorial opposition to having the treaty brought up in the Senate for disposal at this session, but the leaders were willing to conform to the President's desire and will seek to obtain a vote on a motion to ratify instead of permitting the treaty to lie over until the next regular Congressional session, which will not begin until December.

The schedule of the returning American delegation calls for its arrival in Washington on April 30, so it is expected the treaty will be laid formally before the Senate in the first week in May.

Outside of the fact that considerable business remains for the Senate to transact before adjournment, and it is estimated this will take until the projected time of final adjournment almost two months hence, a prospect of delay in bringing the treaty before the Senate for consideration is furnished by the decision of Senator Hale, chairman of the Committee on Naval Affairs, to have hearings on the treaty to ascertain its effect on the American Navy.

His plan to hold hearings, at which many naval experts are expected to appear, is looked upon as hostile to some of the most important provisions of the treaty. It is believed long hearings might prevent action on the treaty at this session.

Borah Will Seek Speed.

Senator Borah, chairman of the Committee on Foreign Relations, to which committee the London treaty will be referred for consideration and report, said today, after having been informed that President Hoover had made known he would transmit the treaty to the Senate when it was brought from London he would seek to have the Foreign Relations Committee report the treaty to the Senate with as little delay as possible. It was probable, said Senator Borah, that his committee would have hearings on the treaty, with high ranking officers of the navy appearing for examination.

Although the text of the treaty was published today, little comment concerning its terms was forthcoming from Senators. Few of them had had an opportunity to read it and there was a disposition to await appraisement until after the text had been considered. The points of outstanding importance in the document had been known in advance, however, and those Senators who have taken an interest in it have been familiar with these, but have not been disposed to commit themselves to a course of action. Senate opinion is

CONFEREES WILL END TARIFF DRAFT TODAY

Partial Report to Be Made by Monday After Experts Revise Bill.

WILL PUT ISSUES TO VOTES

Return of Measure to Committee, Enactment by June, Without Debenture, Are Predicted.

TWO ITEMS STILL PENDING

Smoot Summarizes Revisions, Showing Rises Over Duties Now, Especially in Farm Rates.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 22.—The work of readjustment of the tariff bill by the conference committee was practically completed late this afternoon, and a partial report on the revised measure may be presented to the Senate and House this week. Tomorrow the conferees will put the finishing touches on the bill and turn it over to experts to be whipped into shape for report.

The controversial items of the bill, which the committee has passed over, will be fought out and voted on in the Senate or House or both, and the measure will probably be returned to conference before final action by Congress.

An agreement entered into in the House at the time the bill was sent to conference stipulated that the membership of that body should have opportunity to vote on the cement, sugar, lumber and shingles rates. The conferees got into a deadlock on a Senate amendment for a duty of 30 cents an ounce on silver, and finally decided to ask for instructions on this item.

The conferees will report that they were obliged to disagree on the Senate amendments for a legislative flexible tariff policy and export debenture payments on agricultural products. It is understood the Senate sponsors of the farm debenture will not agree to withdrawal of the amendment unless the House by formal vote rejects it.

By the program tentatively agreed to, the conference report will be brought up first in the Senate. The managers of the bill say it will take experts of the Treasury and the Tariff Commission two or three days to prepare the report. Their expectation is that the report will be ready by Monday at the latest.

Rates Generally Advanced.

The bill, as it stands, represents a higher level of rates than embodied in existing law and higher than the scale prescribed by the House in the Spring of 1929. In a statement tonight, Senator Smoot, head of the Senate conference, analyzed rates to be embodied in the conference report in comparison with those of existing law and the House and Senate bills, but he was unable to indicate a general average because full computations have not yet been completed.

His analysis shows that the average ad valorem rate of Schedule 7, agricultural products and provisions, as agreed to in conference, is nearer the higher level set by the Senate than to the House average. The House group won many higher rates in industrial products.

Mr. Smoot expressed the opinion that the bill probably would be finally passed three weeks from the presentation of the first report by the conferees. If his hopes are realized the bill will become a law on or about June 1, unless vetoed by President Hoover.

The belief among his party associates is that the President will sign the bill, the administration supporters in Congress expressing confidence that the flexible tariff and debenture amendments of the Senate, both objectionable to the President, will be thrown overboard before the final roll-calls.

The tariff bill was passed by the Senate on March 24, but was not reached in conference until April 3. The conferees were confronted with 1,253 Senate amendments. Of these, 1,112 affected the rate structure and 141 had to do with administration provisions of the proposed act.

Two Clauses Still Pending.

When the conferees adjourned this afternoon, only two sections of the administrative provisions remained to be acted upon. One was the Norris anti-monopoly amendment, adopted by the Senate, providing that products produced by "restraints of trade" be placed on the free list by order of the President.

The other was the House amendment proposing repeal of that section of the revised statutes which prohibits importation of cigars in packages of less than 3,000, to which Cuba has objected and has refused to renew a parcel post treaty with the United States. It is the understanding that, if the House provision becomes law, the way will be opened for renewal of parcel post arrangements with Cuba.

Agreement was reached during the day on a Senate amendment excluding goods made by forced or indentured labor. The language approved follows:

"The provisions of this section relating to goods, wares, articles and merchandise mined, produced or manufactured by forced labor or-and indentured labor, shall take effect on Jan. 1, 1932, but in no case shall such provisions be applicable to goods, wares, articles or merchandise so mined, produced or manufactured which are not mined, produced or manufactured in such quantities in the United States as to meet the consumptive demands of the United States."

The conferees rephrased the language of the provision bearing on appraisers' decisions to read:

"Review of Appraiser's Decision—A decision of the appraiser that foreign value, export value or United States value cannot be satisfactorily ascertained shall be subject to review in reappraisement proceedings under Section 5,016, but in any such proceeding an affidavit executed outside of the United States shall not be admitted in evidence if executed by any person who fails to permit a treasury attaché to inspect his books, papers, records, accounts and documents pertaining to the value or classification of such merchandise."

The House conferees yielded to the Senate members on the definition of "United States value." A Senate amendment admitting antique furniture free of duty was approved with minor modifications.

Provision that an American labor union representative should have the same right to complain, appeal or protest as a manufacturer, producer or wholesaler in respect to merchandise, in the manufacture of which members of the union took part, was deleted. The Attorney General, instead of the Secretary of the Treasury, would control the appointment and fixing of pay of clerks of the Customs Court by a Senate amendment agreed to.

The Senators receded from an amendment on trade-marks, and the bill would permit import if the American holder of the trade-mark agreed. The Secretary of the Treasury is authorized to appoint a deputy commissioner in the Customs Bureau under one Senate amendment adopted.

The conferees agreed to a House amendment prohibiting the importation of wild animals and birds in violation of foreign law, and another House amendment making the owner of a vessel or vehicle liable in case of falsity or lack of manifest was approved.

Agreement was reached on a Senate amendment exempting the owner or a master of a vessel from penalties for carrying opium if it appeared to the satisfactoin of the court that such owner or master could not have known that opium was aboard. A House provision requesting the President to make a survey of bases for the valuation of imported merchandise was agreed to.

The conferees accepted a Senate amendment with respect to licensing of custom house brokers, and a Senate amendment making certified checks, United States notes and national bank notes receivable in payment of customs duties.

Senate Decides to Consider Parker Monday; Swing to High Court Nominee Is Reported

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 22.—The Senate in open executive session today agreed to consider at 3 o'clock next Monday afternoon the nomination of Judge John J. Parker of North Carolina to be an associate justice of the Supreme Court.

Senator Borah of the opposition expressed a desire for action tomorrow, but Senator McNary said that it would be more acceptable to a majority of the Senate and would fit in with the legislative program if postponed until Monday.

Since yesterday, when the Judiciary Committee, by a vote of 10 to 6, decided to report adversely Judge Parker's nomination, there has been some reaction among the opposition with Southern Democrats lining up almost solidly for confirmation. Republicans of the opposition now assert that if the Democrats vote solidly Judge Parker will be confirmed.

The same opinion was expressed by Senator James E. Watson, Republican floor leader, who, at a breakfast conference with President Hoover today, went over the situation.

He told the President that some of the opposition was vocal and represented political pressure which would disappear when the vote is taken. According to Senator Watson, forty Senators are now classed as safely for Judge Parker's confirmation, with indications that sufficient votes would be found to confirm by a narrow majority.

Other Republicans do not agree with Senator Watson. They feel that the action of the Judiciary Committee has solidified the opposition, which would increase instead of diminish.

Republican Senators learned officially today that President Hoover would not withdraw Judge Parker's nomination. The attitude of the administration is that Judge Parker has all the necessary qualifications and that the Senate must assume responsibility for its disposal of the nomination.

Judge Parker, according to Senator Overman, has made no move to appear voluntarily before the committee and is satisfied to have the Senate pass upon his record.

The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People announced last night that it had sent to President Hoover, with a covering letter, a photostatic copy of a clipping from The Greensboro Daily News of April 19, 1920, containing a report of the address Judge John J. Parker delivered when a candidate for Governor of North Carolina and containing statements reflecting upon Negroes as voters.

SMOOT SHOWS RATES REVISED BY CONFEREES

Senator's Statement Compares Schedules With Those Voted by Two Branches.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 22.—Senator Smoot, chairman of the tariff conference committee, in his statement tonight giving a comparison, schedule by schedule, of actual or computed ad valorem rates as tentatively agreed to in the conference and the rates as provided by the House and Senate, said:

Schedule 1—Chemicals, Oils and Paints.

"The weighted average actual or computed ad valorem rate for all the paragraphs in Schedule 1 was 28.92 per cent under the act of 1922; 31.82 per cent under H. R. 2667 as passed by the House of Representatives; 30.95 per cent under H. R. 2667 as passed by the Senate, and 31.07 per cent as tentatively agreed to in conference committee. The average ad valorem for Schedule 1 is only 0.12 per cent higher than the Senate and is 0.75 per cent lower than the average ad valorem equivalent of the present rates. Excluding the items in Schedule 1 relating to agriculture, the equivalent ad valorem of Schedule 1 is 1 per cent lower than the act of 1922 (the present law), based upon the imports of 1928.

Schedule 2—Earths, Earthenware, Glassware.

"In this schedule the Conference Committee has not yet agreed upon the rate of cement. If the rate on cement is fixed at 6 cents per 100 pounds, which is the Senate rate, the resulting ad valorem equivalent rate for all paragraphs in Schedule 2 will be 52.19 per cent, or lower than the average for either the House or the Senate rates.

"If cement is left at 8 cents, which is the House rate, the average ad valorem equivalent for Schedule 2 will be 53.50 per cent, or 0.47 per cent higher for all items in Schedule 2 than the average of the rates as passed by the Senate and 1.13 per cent lower than the average for the schedule as passed by the House.

"No matter what is done with cement, the conference report will show the average ad valorem rate for the ceramics schedule as a whole to be nearer the average as passed by the Senate than the average as passed by the House.

Schedule 3—Metals and Manufactures Of.

"The actual or computed ad valorem rate for the metals schedule was 33.71 per cent under the act of 1922, 36.34 per cent as passed by the House of Representatives, 32.35 per cent as passed by the Senate and 34.54 per cent as agreed to in conference. The rate of the conference is therefore about midway between the House and the Senate rates, being slightly nearer the House than the Senate rate and but slightly higher than in the act of 1922.

Schedule 4—Wood and Manufactures of

"The conference committee has not yet acted upon the log, shingle or lumber rates, and consequently the resulting ad valorem equivalent has not been calculated pending action on this subject by the conference committee.

Schedule 5—Sugar, Molasses and Manufactures of.

"As with Schedule 4, so with Schedule 5; the conference committee has not yet agreed upon the rate of duty on sugar. Consequently the ad valorem equivalent has not been calculated for Schedule 5.

Schedule 6—Tobacco and Manufactures of.

"The ad valorem equivalent of the rates in Schedule 6 as passed by the House is 66.96 per cent; as passed by the Senate, 63.09 per cent, and as agreed to in conference, 64.78 per cent. The conference rate is nearer to the Senate than to the House rate, being higher than the Senate rate by 1.69 per cent and lower than the House rate by 2.18 per cent.

"This change is due to the lowering of the House duty on wrapper tobacco from $2.50 per pound to $2.27½ per pound on unstemmed tobacco, and from $3.15 per pound to $2.92½ per pound on stemmed wrapper tobacco. These rates are a compromise between the House and Senate rates. As in schedules already mentioned, so in this schedule, the conference rate is nearer the Senate than the House rate.

Schedule 7—Agricultural Products and Provisions.

"With Schedule 7, as with the preceding schedule, the conference average rate for all items in Schedule 7 for which comparable calculations have been made, is nearer the higher rate as passed by the Senate than to the rate as passed by the House. The average ad valorem as tentatively agreed to in conference is 35.02 per cent; as passed by the Senate, 35.95 per cent, and as passed by the House 3.35 per cent. In most cases the conference committee accepted the higher Senate rates on agricultural products. In only a few cases were the rates compromised.

Schedule 8—Spirits, Wines and Other Beverages.

"No rates were subject to conference. The average ad valorem equivalent as passed by the House, as passed by the Senate and as agreed to in conference, is 47.44 per cent.

Scehdule 9—Cotton and Manufactures of "The average ad valorem equivalent of the rates on cotton manufactures is 43.19 per cent as passed by the House; 40.59 per cent as passed by the Senate, and 46.30 per cent as agreed to in conference. The average for the whole schedule is higher than the average for either the House or the Senate. This results from the fact that some of the House rates and also some of the Senate rates were adopted where these rates were higher than the corresponding rates in the other house.

"It is also due to the fact that the compensatory duties were included by the conference for the 7-cent per pound duty on long-staple cotton, which is an agricultural product.

Scehdule 10—Flax, Hemp, Jute and Manufactures of

"The average equivalent for flax, hemp, jute and manufactures thereof as agreed to in conference is 19.10 per cent; as passed by the Senate, 18.95 per cent, and as passed by the House, 19.03 per cent. There is no great difference in any of these rates. The slight increase of .07 per cent over the House rate is due to several compromise rates which raised the resulting conference rate slightly.

Scehdule 11—Wool and Manufactures Thereof.

"The average actual or computed ad valorem rate in the wool schedule as passed by the House of Representatives is 58.09 per cent; as passed by the Senate, 57.38 per cent; as tentatively agreed to in conference, 59.69 per cent, or 1.60 per cent higher than the average house rates for this schedule.

"While the same ad valorem equivalent is shown for Paragraph 1102, as tentatively agreed to in conference as that shown for Paragraph 1102 as passed by the House, the conference committee provided on wools finer than 40s, but not finer than 44s, a rate of 5 cents per pound less than the rate on wools not specially provided for, but imports of these coarse wools are not separately recorded, consequently data are not available to show the effect of the reduction on the ad valorem equivalent for the paragraph as agreed to in conference.

"Undoubtedly, however, this reduction in rates, if data were available to determine its effect upon the resulting ad valorem equivalent, would show that instead of 59.69 per cent the rate would be somewhat lower and probably lower than the 58.09 per cent agreed to in the House.

"The conference committee also agreed to the higher rates in Paragraphs 1,105, 1,107, 1,109 and 1,111, as passed by the Senate, and to the higher rates more nearly like those passed by the House for Paragraph 1,115. The lower rates of the Senate for Paragraph 1,116 were agreed to. The net result of these changes, excluding the lower duty on coarse wool, is a slight increase of the average conference rate over the House rate.

Schedule 12—Silk Manufactures.

"The actual or computed ad valorem rates for silk manufactures as passed by the House of Representatives is 60.17 per cent, as passed by the Senate 58.03 per cent, and as agreed to in conference 58.88 per cent. The conference rate is 85/100 of 1 per cent higher than the Senate rate, and 1.29 per cent lower than the average of the House rates. The conference rate is nearer the Senate rate.

Schedule 13—Rayon Manufactures.

"The average actual or computed ad valorem rate for rayon manufactures is 53.42 per cent as passed by the House, 49.14 per cent as passed by the Senate and 53.46 per cent as tentatively agreed to in conference. The conference rate is about the same as the House rate, although some rates were lowered and some raised.

Schedule 14—Paper and Books.

"The actual computed average ad valorem equivalent for the paper and books schedule is 26.14 per cent as passed by the House, 25.91 per cent as passed by the Senate, and 25.06 per cent as agreed to in conference. The conference is about midway between the House and the Senate rates.

Schedule 15—Sundries.

"The calculations for Schedule 15 have not yet been completed."

SOLDIER'S BAIL $15,000.

Driver Who Hit Crowd Pleads Not Guilty of Manslaughter.

James S. Ware, 34 years old, sergeant in the United States Army attached to Tank Company 1 at Miller Field, S. I., pleaded not guilty to manslaughter in the second degree yesterday before Supreme Court Justice Dunne at St. George, S. I. He was committed to jail in default of $15,000 bail for trial early next month.

The indictment charges the soldier drove his automobile into a crowd of fifteen persons at Hylan and Slater Boulevards on April 6, killing Theodore Winzig of New Brighton and seriously injuring five women and four men.

MAPS FROM PLANE RADIOED TO GROUND

By New Device, Army Fliers Over San Francisco Bay Send Data to Field Station.

Special to The New York Times.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 22.—An experiment unique in the history of aviation was successfully carried out here today when maps and diagrams were transmitted by radio from a plane flying over the Golden Gate to a ground station at Mather Field. The test was made by army radio engineers in cooperation with officials of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company, developers of the apparatus used.

In an army transport plane piloted by Lieutenant C. A. Ross, Dr. H. M. Elsey of the Westinghouse company and Lieutenant H. P. Roberts drew maps and diagrams and placed them on the sending machine, which weighs less than twenty-five pounds. Within five minutes, the pictures had been received complete at the ground station by L. R. Philpott, Westinghouse engineer, and Lieutenant A. L. Smith, Air Corps communications officer.

The fliers were assumed to discover two "enemy" submarines preparing to enter San Francisco Bay and flashed charts of the exact whereabouts of the craft to Mather Field. As they were preparing to land, they spotted the wreckage of an army plane and sent a map indicating the location.

Utilizing a principle akin to that of the telephone, the equipment will transmit by radio within a space of a few minutes, over scores of miles, an exact facsimile of the observer's notations. Simultaneously with the transmission, the observer may, by means of a radio telephone, give the ground station a description of the activities, calling attention to certain parts of the drawing he is sending down.

THREE FLIERS KILLED IN PLANE NOSE DIVES

One Craft, Using Auto Fuel, Hits Pennsylvania Hill—Another Falls on Virginia Lawn.

PITTSBURGH, April 22 (AP).—A young man who was described by an air field official as "inclined to take chances," late today crashed to his death with a friend when their plane fell on a wooded hillside near Oakmont, a suburb. Those killed were Harry S. Lyle, pilot and owner of the plane, and Richard E. Gibson, both 29 years old.

C. P. Mayer, owner of Mayer Field, where Lyle kept his ship, said that the machine, bought on Friday, was in good condition when it left the field this afternoon, but that Lyle filled the tank with "motor" gasoline instead of the prescribed "aviation" grade. Whether motor trouble caused the crash has not not been determined.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 22.—Henry Trageser, a 30-year-old student pilot, was killed this afternoon when his plane crashed in the yard of a house near a street car station in Virginia. He lived at Silver Springs, Md.

A section of wing fell off the plane and it became unmanageable. It was an almost unrecognizable mass of twisted wreckage, its nose buried deep in a lawn. The side porch of the house escaped being hit by a margin of about six feet. A large tree was partly broken down in the crash.

HEARING FOR MAXON TODAY

Bishop May See Son Arraigned on Charge of Homicide.

James Mathew Maxon Jr., son of the Right Rev. James Mathew Maxon, Episcopal Bishop Coadjutor of Tennessee, will be arraigned in the homicide court this morning on a homicide charge growing out of a brawl early Friday in a rooming house at 550 West End Avenue.

Maxon is accused of having caused the death of David Paynter, 73-year-old printer, by striking him over the head with a chair while in a frenzy of intoxication. His father, who came north to aid his son's defense, has promised to stand by him and is expected to be present in court at the arraignment. Maxon will be represented by Martin W. Littleton.

While the police said they had two witnesses, including Rose Hickey, landlady at the West End Avenue huose, ready to testify that they saw Maxon hit Paynter with the chair, Mr. Littleton has declared that the youth is innocent of the attack, and that there was a general mêlée following a drinking party. Maxon, Mr. Littleton has contended, remembers nothing of the attack on Paynter, a fellow lodger.

Broker Cleared in Auto Death.

Fergus Reed Jr., 29 years old, of 226 East Sixty-first Street, a broker and former Yale athlete, was exonerated in the homicide court yesterday on a technical homicide charge in the death of Patrick Neary, 60 years old, in an automobile accident at Third Avenue and Ninety-first Street April 1. Mr. Reed was driving the car. Witnesses told Magistrate Corrigan the accident was unavoidable.

CURRY IS HONORED; YEAR IN LEADERSHIP

Fifth District Association He Founded Gives Party to Mark Anniversary.

HIS RECORD IS PRAISED

Magistrate McAndrews Hails Him as Chief of the State as Well as the City.

The John F. Curry Association, the Tammany club of the upper part of the Fifth Assembly District, gave a party last night at its clubhouse, 413 West Fifty-seventh Street, to celebrate the first anniversary of the election of its founder as leader of Tammany Hall.

The association, founded by Mr. Curry in 1904, the year preceding his election as leader of the district after a primary fight with Daniel F. McMahon, the "Two-Spot" of the historic Tammany triumvirate, has grown in strength since that time, and virtually all the residents of the neighborhood; Miss Martha Byrne, to Mr. Curry.

A Neighborhood Gathering.

The celebration was entirely a neighborhood affair. Except for the newspaper reporters, the only outsider was Marshall Ingram, leader of the adjoining Seventh Assembly District, whose presence was explained by the fact that Mr. Curry attended his celebration of his first anniversary as district leader only a few weeks ago and Mr. Ingram's desire to return the compliment by attending the celebration of Mr. Curry's election as supreme Tammany chieftain.

Joseph Cicato, president of the club, presided. The speakers included Walter Burke, now blind but once an influential business man in the neighborhood, Miss Martha Byrne, associate leader of the district; former Representative Thomas Ryan, former State Senator Elwood M. Rabenold, Frederick Klein, Municipal Court Justice Thomas E. Murray, Bernard Fagan, chief probation officer of the Children's Court, Walter Flynn, Thomas Quinn, son of a former owner of the old Daily News, Mrs. Katherine Smith and City Magistrate Thomas F. McAndrews.

Judge McAndrews, close friend and adviser of Mr. Curry, told those present that Mr. Curry had worked hard during the last year and had made a good leader. "In my opinion," he aded, "he is not only the leader of all the districts but he is the State leader."

Grateful for Celebration.

Mr. Curry in his first public speech since his election as learder expressed his thanks for the celebration and said that he had known many of those present for fifty years, or since he was a boy of 5.

"I want to say right here that the boys who were my pals when I was five or ten years of age are still my friends," he continued.

"What about the girls?" called a woman in the audience, causing Mrs. Curry and her two sons, who were seated by Mr. Curry on the stage, to smile.

"I am an ardent Democrat," Mr. Curry resumed. "If any effort of mine can make Democratic majorities larger in the Assembly districts, the city, the State or nation, I certainly will give the best I can for the Democratic organization."

The speeches, all short, were interspersed with a series of vaudeville selections.

ASKS MIAMI PADLOCK FOR CAPONE ESTATE

Prosecutor in Petition Declares Place a 'Public Nuisance as a Harbor for Criminals.'

MIAMI, Fla., April 22 (AP).—A petition to padlock the estate of Alphonse ("Scarface Al") Capone, Chicago racketeer chief, on Palm Island, Miami Beach, was filed in Circuit Court here today by N. Vernon Hawthorne, State's Attorney, in an effort to force Capone's removal from the community.

The residence was declared "a public nuisance and a source of annoyance to the community as a harbor for all classes of criminals and desperate characters."

The petition asked for a temporary injunction to be followed by a hearing Saturday before Judge Paul D. Barns. A later hearing would be held on making the padlock permanent.

Capone Arsenal Raided.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, April 22.—Six boxes of bullets, said to be poisoned, were found in a raid yesterday on "Scarface Al" Capone's headquarters in the Lexington Hotel, Lieutenant William Blaul, leader of the raiders, revealed today.

"The six boxes of cartridges, all for use in .38-calibre automatic pistols, had been dipped in something which, knowing these hoodlums, I presume to be garlic," Lieutenant Blaul said today. "Garlic and lead in a bullet wound combine to form a poison that starts tetanus and ends in death.

"As if that weren't enough, most of the bullets were of the dum-dum type. There is no question that the bullets were intended as 'sure death messages' to anybody aimed at."

TWO KILLED AT CROSSING.

Two Also Injured When Train Hits Auto Near Bloomfield, N. J.

Special to The New York Times.

BLOOMFIELD, N. J., April 22.—Two Newark men were killed and two others slightly injured late tonight in a grade crossing automobile accident on the Greenwood Lake branch of the Erie Railroad near here.

The Dead.

MIAN, LOUIS, 26 years old, of 5 Coeman Street, Newark, driver of the automobile.

DE BERNARDO, BATISTE, 24 years old, of 775 North Sixth Street, Newark.

The Injured.

BENUTI, DAVID, 22 years old, of 206 Sylvan Avenue, Newark.

DEPOL, CLEMENS, 24 years old, of 775 North Sixth Street, Newark.

Both of the injured were taken to Mountainside Hospital. Eyewitnesses said Mian drove his machine into the path of an eastbound train.

JURY IS COMPLETED TO TRY GOV. KOHLER

Phillip La Follette Asks Ouster, Citing $100,000 Expenditure in 1928 Campaign.

ENTERTAINMENTS ARE ISSUE

Defense Will Claim Feeding of Visitors at Model Town of Kohler Was Company Promotion.

Special to The New York Times.

SHEBOYGAN, Wis., April 22.—Governor Walter J. Kohler went on trial in the circuit court at Sheboygan, his home town, today on a charge of having violated the State corrupt practices act during the 1928 primary campaign, when he won the Governorship away from the La Follette forces.

Phillip F. La Follette, chief of his opponents, charges that the millionaire manufacturer spent $100,000 in getting elected, when the law restricted him to $4,000.

The jury was selected during the first day's session. As this is a strong "progressive," or La Follette, community, although it gave Mr. Kohler a small majority in the election, it had been expected that much political color would have to be erased from the jury box before the case could actually get under way. But the panel selected proved to consist largely of men who had not been active in politics and had no decided opinions in this controversy.

Governor Kohler was in the court this afternoon and took part in the final selection of the jurors. Phillip La Follette, younger son of the late Senator La Follette and brother of the present Senator, is expected in court tomorrow.

Both he and Governor Kohler had announced themselves as Republican Gubernatorial candidates in the November election and this case will play an important part in the campaign regardless of the outcome.

If Governor Kohler is convicted he is automatically ousted from office, under a recent Supreme Court decision, although it is possible that the case might be taken to the United States Supreme Court. In this way, while his present administration would not be greatly affected, his prospects for re-election are deeply involved.

Judge Gustave G. Gehrs of Milwaukee, selected for this case by the organization of circuit court judges, is presiding.

While the nature of the evidence has not been disclosed, it is understood that the prosecution will show the vast amount of entertainment done by the Kohler company, which is three miles from here, located in the model village of Kohler. This feeding and entertaining of convention and all other visitors is said to have been an important part of the campaign.

The defense is that this was merely promotion work for the company.

While the Governor claims that he spent but $2.194.17 in his campaign, the effort will be made to show that other sums were spent with his knowledge or direction.

TWO BROKERS HUNTED ON FRAUD COMPLAINTS

Vanish After Inquiry Begins at Request of New Hampshire Governor—One Firm Enjoined.

While State troopers attached to the State Bureau of Securities were searching yesterday for two brokers who disappeared after an investigation into their activities had been started at the request of Governor Charles W. Tobey of New Hampshire, another brokerage firm, accused of swindling customers of $10,000, was permanently enjoined from further dealings in securities.

The missing brokers, according to Assistant Attorney General Watson Washburn in charge of the bureau, are Benjamin Marcus, former head of Allston Charles & Co., Inc., investment security dealers of 7 East Forty-fourth Street, and H. H. Benjamin, former sales manager. Governor Tobey wrote to Mr. Washburn that Mrs. Gladys I. Ward of 290 McGregor Street, Manchester, N. H., had been defrauded of $10,000 and requested an investigation. Other complaints against the same company were received.

Marcus was not found at the time, but Benjamin was living at the Hotel Commander, 240 West Seventy-third Street. He appeared at the bureau for one examination, said he was ill, and asked for a postponement. According to Mr. Washburn, he has not been seen since.

Allston Charles & Co., Inc., was formed in 1928 and was sold in 1929 to Marcus, who employed Benjamin.

The broker, whose manipulations are said to have cost his customers $10,000 is Walter Eckland of 2,300 Sedgwick Avenue, head of a brokerage house bearing his name, at 32 Broadway. He and his firm were permanently enjoined by Supreme Court Justice John MacCrate in Brooklyn on a motion by Deputy Assistant Attorney General Marie Teresa Scalzo, who charged that Eckland, after soliciting and receiving orders for the purchase and sale of stocks, failed to execute such orders. An examination of the firm's books showed that the company was insolvent, and that stocks for which Eckland had paid $8 a share were sold to purchasers at prices ranging from $16.50 to $21 a share.

SENATE REJECTS ALIEN BILL

Paves Way for Vote on Repeal of Origins Clause Today.

WASHINGTON, April 22 (AP).—The Senate paved the way today for a vote at tomorrow's session upon the Harris bill which, originally intended to extend quota immigration provisions to Latin-America, now carries also a provision to repeal the national origins provision of the immigration laws.

The Gould proposal to limit immigration from Western Hemisphere countries was rejected by the Senate today, but an amendment by Senator Shortridge, Republican, of California, to limit immigration from the Philippines must still be passed upon.

Czechs Hold Hungarian Rail Official

BRATISLAVA, Czechoslovakia, April 22 (AP).—Authorities today took into custody Dr. Toeroek, secretary of the Hungarian State Railways, alleging that he had instigated ninety-five Hungarian railway men to sing war parodies on Czechoslovakia while passing through territory of that nation. The ninety-five railway men also were arrested, but later were freed.

MOST PRISONS HERE CALLED FIREPROOF

Patterson Says Inmates Are Drilled Frequently — Lawes Holds Sing Sing Is Safe.

OHIO CONDITIONS SCORED

Penologists Declare Disaster There Calls Attention to Many Prison Fire-Traps.

While penologists and civic workers denounced the Ohio Legislature yesterday for allowing fire hazards to exist at the Ohio State prison, Richard C. Pattersn Jr., Commissioner of Correction, and Warden Lewis E. Lawes of Sing Sing prison discounted the possibility of fire in their institutions similar to the Columbus disaster.

"We have no fire hazards in our institutions," Mr. Patterson said. "While there are some frame buildings on Riker's Island and Hart's Island they are so low in height they could be emptied almost immediately if fire should start. The dormitories are inspected regularly. We have frequent fire drills and the inspection of fire-fighting equipment in each of the city's eighteen institutions takes place at regular intervals. Most of the city prisons are constructed of stone and concrete and are practically fireproof."

While some of the old cell blocks at Sing Sing are of frame construction, Warden Lawes expressed belief that no serious fire could occur there. Only 300 convicts are kept in the old block and 1,800 are confined in modern concrete and steel blocks that are fireproof.

William B. Cox, secretary of the National Society of Penal Information, who made a personal survey of the Ohio State prison two years ago, blamed the State Legislature for not providing sufficient funds to relieve the overcrowding in the prison and called the efficiency and discipline of the guards there "damnable."

Mayor Charles D. Osborne of Auburn, son of Thomas Mott Osborne, who is president of the society, authorized a statement in which he said gross overcrowding in prisons intensified the danger of death through fires and declared that these conditions were made known in the society's handbook in 1926.

"The terrible catastrophe at the Ohio State prison calls attention to the fact that there are a large number of prison plants throughout the country, especially the Missouri State prison, which are veritable fire traps," he said. "These plants include road camps, bunk houses, farms and jails. The dangers from fire are intensified in many of these plants because of gross overcrowding. In Ohio this condition arose because of the State's failure to remedy bad conditions. Overcrowding, inadequate, poorly constructed and non-fireproof buildings; idleness, low pay and other causes helped to bring about this holocaust.

"This tragedy should finally awaken Ohio to the necessity of a constructive program and warn other States that there is grave danger of similar tragedies in overcrowded prisons. Periodic and systematic fire drills for either officers or inmates is almost unheard of in civil prisons. Fire-escapes are practically unknown in prisons. This is probably because of the danger of men using this sort of equipment as a means of unlawful escape. While it is true that all prisons have fire-fighting equipment and partially trained officers and men for fighting fires, it is usually rather a haphazard effort.

"The National Society of Penal Information in its handbooks has called the attention of the public repeatedly to prison conditions in the United States. Until prison officials and State governments the country over recognize conditions as they really are and take constructive and farsighted steps to right them such horrible occurrences as this Ohio affair are bound to happen."

William H. Allen, director of the Institute for Public Service, said his organization was hired by a joint legislative committee of the Ohio Legislature to survey the prisons of that State in 1919. Robert Rosenbluth, assistant secretary of the New York State Board of Charities, reported that serious overcrowding existed at Columbus, that the buildings were firetraps instead of being fireproof, and that more rigid fire prevention and inspection was required. Mr. Allen said that Ohio had "ignored for more than ten years official evidence that the State penitentiary at Columbus was apt any day to be a firetrap."

Postman, 48 Years in Wall St. Area, to Retire; Carrier, 69, Delivered Mail to Elder Morgan

William Manck, letter carrier, will retire on Friday after forty-eight years of service in the New York Postoffice, all of it spent in the Wall Street district.

He is No. 69 in the postal service, and by coincidence his retirement falls on the eve of his sixty-ninth birthday. He lives in Lynbrook, L. I., an dthe number of his house in Davidson Avenue there is 69.

Mr. Manck entered the postal service during the Cleveland administration in 1882. In his long service he has delivered mail to many of the Wall Street notables of decades ago, including the late J. Pierpont Morgan, Russell Sage and James Hazen Hyde.

He first carried mail from the General Postoffice to Broadway, between Pine and Wall Streets, which included the old Equitable Building. The greater part of his service, however, has been with the Wall Street Branch, formerly at 60 Wall Street, and for the last twelev years at Pine and Pearl Streets.

He retires on a pension of $1,000, and his retirement, because of age, is compulsory, although he says he is physically fit and able to continue much longer. He likes to work. This is shown by what his fellow-workers call an extraordinary record.

Since he entered the postal service he was absent only one week, and this was because of illness, in 1893. He reports for work at 6 A. M. He has commuted from Lynbrook for the last thirteen years, leaving there at 4:05 A. M. He has never known to be late to work. Until 1888 he worked twelve hours daily, also on Sunday.

Mr. Manck expressed regret yesterday at quitting the service. "I don't know what I am going to do," he said. "If I get tired of resting, I will probably look for something else to keep me busy."

His favorite sports are fishing and bowling, and he is also fond of playing pinochle, he said. He is unmarried, and lives with his brother, Charles J. Manck, who is also a bachelor.

HOLD GERMAN JAILS SAFE.

Officials Say One-Key System and Steel Doors Minimize Fire Peril.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, April 22.—The penitentiary tragedy at Columbus, Ohio, provoked a wave of sympathy here, and has also elicited assurances from leading prison experts that such a catastrophe is well-nigh impossible in Germany.

The former director of Prussian prisons, now Privy Councilor Carl Maria Finkelnburg, said he believed most of the recent unrest in American prisons was due to over-crowding.

Dr. Walter Strube, the chief director of the Moabit jail in Berlin, emphasized that all locks in this jail open with the same key, a duplicate of which every warder carries, thus making impossible such confusion from the loss of keys as was reported at Columbus. He said all fire alarms from prisons are treated as third alarms. He further suggested that the German system of steel-bound doors to cells, instead of bars, minimizes the danger in case of fire, as well as preventing an incendiary fire, started in a mattress, from spreading.

KIRCHWEY SCORES PRISONS.

Former Warden of Sing Sing Lays Ohio Disaster to Lack of Progress.

The disaster in the Ohio State Penitentiary was described as representative of the lack of progress in the prison field in this country in an address last night by Dr. George W. Kirchwey, former warden of Sing Sing, at the Society for Ethical Culture, Central Park West and Sixty-fourth Street. He spoke on "Ethics and Recent Developments in the Law."

Overcrowding of prisons is not due to an increase in the crime rate, but to the imposition of long sentences as a result of a change from a humanitarian to a more "brutal" attitude toward criminals, Dr. Kirchwey said.

"I once told the warden of this Ohio prison that he had the worst situation in the United States," Dr. Kirchwey continued. "His reply was, 'What are you going to do? There are men coming in every day, and none going out.' "

OHIO CONVICT REWARDED.

$500 Sent to Prisoner Who Described Disaster Over Radio.

A check for $500 was mailed yesterday to Convict 46812 in the Ohio State penitentiary at Columbus in recognition of his vivid description over a nation-wide radio hook-up Monday night of the fire in the institution that cost more than 300 lives. The check was the gift of William S. Paley, president of the Columbia Broadcasting System, through which the broadcast was made.

"At a time when the entire country was anxiously awaiting news of this worst catastrophe in American prison history you willingly, in the face of great danger, gave a sympathetic and accurate word picture of the holocaust," Mr. Paley wrote.

A broadcast of the disaster, with appeals for doctors, nurses and narcotics, was made from the prison through WAIU, the Columbus station of the Columbia System, from 7 P. M. until midnight. The microphone was located only 30 feet from the blaze at times.

FLEE WESTCHESTER PRISON.

Two Escape When Sent to Milk Penitentiary Cows.

Special to The New York Times.

EAST VIEW, N. Y., April 22.—Two prisoners of the Westchester County penitentiary here escaped tonight from the detail sent out to milk the prison cows. Two hours after they were missed their dull gray prison uniforms were recognized by passers on a back road near Hawthorne, three miles from here, and a posse of guards has been sent in that direction to search for them. So far as is known the men are unarmed.

They are Edward Moran, 28 years old, of Tarrytown, in prison for second degree assault, and Leon J. Hanna, 29, of Jackson, Mich., who is serving a sentence for third degree perjury. To reach Hawthorne it is believed that they must have passed through the woods of the John D. Rockefeller estate.

ORDERS SAFEGUARDS IN STATE PRISONS

Dr. Kieb Directs Wardens to Check Up on Fire-Fighting Equipment and Forces.

PATROLS ARE INCREASED

Matteawan and Elmira Get Special Attention — Hazards Reduced Since Ward's Island Fire.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, April 22.—Aroused by the disastrous fire at the Ohio State Penitentiary, Dr. Raymond F. C. Kieb, State Commissioner of Correction, today sent to the wardens of all the State's penal institutions a general order calling upon them to exercise extreme vigilance against fire and to check up on all the fire-fighting equipment and on the discipline of the fire-fighting forces at the prisons, which includes, in every case, squads of prisoners.

To the State Hospital for the Criminal Insane at Matteawan an order went to quadruple the patrol of the laundry, which is a non-fireproof structure, and an order went out also to double the partol at the school building of the State Reformatory at Elmira. All the orders were issued by Dr. Kieb early today over the long-distance telephone. During the day he has been in telephonic communication with every institution under his jurisdiction.

The orders sent to Matteawan were prompted by the fact that pyromaniacs undoubtedly are among those confined or receiving treatment there and these might be roused by reports of the Ohio Penitentiary fire into some action that might have "unfortunate results."

Except for the workshops at some of the penal institutions, including Sing Sing, Dr. Kieb said there are no great fire hazards at the State prisons. After the disastrous fire at Ward's Island in 1922 provision was made for a $50,000,000 bond issue, the proceeds from which have been used for improvements safeguarding the State hospitals against outbreaks of fire, while proceeds from the $100,000,000 bond issue for permanent public improvements have been employed in part to eliminate the fire peril at the prisons.

Dr. Kieb said that prior to a general survey made in 1927, the situation was very different and very serious hazards existed.

"In my estimate that $30,000,000 would be required to bring the State prisons up to date by 1935 I had in view not only the elimination of the old cell blocks and substitution of modern structures, safe and sanitary, but I also had in mind and recommended that the industrial buildings at all the penal instiutions be replaced with modern fireproof structures," Mr. Kieb said.

"In connection with this, I want to make it clear that I have recommended absolute fireproofing of the prisons, not merely the use of fire-retarding material in the new structures. Much of the work has already been provided for, but there is still a lot to be done."

"We have good fire fighting equipment of high pressure water connections at all of our penal institutions. I do not believe that the Ohio experience could be repeated here. When we had the fire and riot at Auburn all the convicts were locked up in one cell block, but when the smoke became thick under the fire-retarding roof we were able to transfer them successfully to another part of the prison, though it had to be done in absolute darkness."

All cell blocks at the prison, according to Dr. Kieb, are of solid stone and steel construction, with nothing combustible in the cells except the bed clothing.

5 Fires at Trenton Prison in Year.

TRENTON, N. J., April 22 (AP).—William J. Ellis, Commissioner of Institutions and Agencies, commenting today on the disastrous fire at Ohio State Prison, revealed there had been five fires at the New Jersey State Prison in the past year. None, he said, was serious. A fire such as occurred at Columbus, he said, was highly improbable. Mr. Ellis said the present population of the prison was 550 in excess of accommodations, but that this number would be reduced by 300 when the new cell block at Rahway Reformatory is completed.

BIRTHS DECLINE FOR WEEK.

Only 2,207 Babies Born Here—Measles Shows Slight Increase.

Births in New York City for last week were 2,207, a low mark for the year, Health Commissioner Wynne reported yesterday. The average of weekly births since Jan. 1 has been 2,450. Each borough's population average declined in the last seven days. Only 721 babies were born in Manhattan, 333 in the Bronx, 908 in Brooklyn, 205 in Queens and 40 in Richmond.

Measles is increasing in the city, 1,332 new cases and seven deaths being reported for the week ending Saturday. This is a high mark for 1930, but Dr. Wynne said the disease is a mild type. He called attention to the fact that the death rate continues normal.

The number of deaths from all causes, 1,624, was the lowest in five weeks. Motor cars caused twenty-four fatal accidents. Diphtheria declined, eighty-one new cases and four deaths being reported. Diphtheria immunization treatments given last week throughout the city numbered 11,008.

WOMAN LEAPS INTO RIVER.

Rescued After Plunge From Ferryboat Crossing From Brooklyn.

Mrs. Theresa Fucilo, 31 years old, of 2,020 New York Avenue, Brooklyn, jumped from the New York Central ferryboat West Point yesterday afternoon into the North River. She was rescued.

The ferryboat had reached the slip at Forty-second Street before Captain William H. Smith knew what had happened. He reversed his engines and proceeded back to midstream.

A lifeboat crew under Quartermaster Nicholas Rickard rescued the woman, who was swimming toward shore. She was taken aboard the ferryboat, which returned to Manhattan.

Mrs. Fucilo was taken to New York Hospital. He condition was not regarded as serious.

DELAY IN FREEING CONVICTS REVEALED

of judgment in refusing to give up the keys," Warden Thomas said. "Guards Baldwin and Little proved their common sense when they took the keys from him."

Guard Says Flames Were Spreading.

Watkinson was the second witness called.

"When the fire broke out, Captain Hall came in and the first thing I asked was whether I should unlock the cells," he testified. "Hall said: 'No, don't do that yet.' "

Watkinson asserted that when the captain refused his suggestion flames were already spreading through the K and L cell block, adjoining the block where prisoners perished, and that some smoke had already filled the entire section.

"Do you mean to tell me you were awaiting orders from Captain Hall in the face of this advancing fire?" demanded Joseph Godown, Assistant Attorney General and member of the board.

"Certainly. I had to obey orders or be suspended," the guard answered.

"What did you do to get the prisoners out?" asked Mr. Godown.

"I had the key to the cell range. Baldwin and Little came in on the run and I said, 'For God's sake, get the cell keys.' Then Captain Hall came in and ordered me not to open the range door.

"Baldwin and Little had returned by this time. They heard Hall's order and said: 'Isn't this hell?' About five or six minutes later I swung the door open. There hadn't been much flame up to that time."

Says He Feared to Disobey.

"And you didn't think the fire was serious?" Mr. Godown asked.

The guard repeated that he feared to disobey his captain's orders. He admitted he had not protested against Captain Hall's alleged command.

"When the gate was finally opened, Baldwin, Little and two other guards rushed in and began to release prisoners on the first, second and third tiers," the guard continued.

"Did anybody stop to reflect that the smoke was denser on the top tiers and that they should have started opening doors up there first?" Mr. Godown asked.

"Well, it was apparent that the fire was worse upon the fourth and fifth tiers, but I knew we couldn't get the men out because the smoke was so thick," the guard explained.

"Wait, isn't it a fact that the freed prisoners got sledge hammers and broke open the locks?" Mr. Godown asked.

The witness answered that it was.

"Where were you then?"

"I was on the ground floor, but I had breathed so much smoke that I had to get out or collapse."

Captain Hall emphatically denied having issued any orders to the guard. A few minutes after entering the burning cell block, Captain Hall said, he was affected by the smoke and left.

Little, the guard who preceded Captain Hall on the stand, contradicted the warden's testimony relative to getting keys. The warden's only order to him, the witness said, was "Get down there."

Prison routine was restored today as the investigation got under way. The woolen and cotton mills, ignited by flames from the cell blocks, were out of commission and the 4,300 inmates were kept in their cells until meal time. In the afternoon the prisoners took their regular exercise in the prison yard.

In the horticultural building at the State Fair Grounds a corps of undertakers spent the day preparing bodies for burial.

Fifty-one of the dead remained unidentified, but the prison authorities were confident that Bertillon and fingerprint records would establish the identities.

Investigates Shooting Stories.

Mr. Griswold, the Director of Public Welfare, directed that investigation be made to determine whether any of the dead prisoners were shot or otherwise mistreated during the fire. Mr. Griswold defended Warden Thomas in a radio talk tonight, declaring that the stories that prisoners had been shot during the excitement came largely from convicts and were not confirmed by the guards or visitors.

Besides the investigation of the fire and responsibility for the loss of life directed by Attorney General Gilbert Bettman for the Governor, State Fire Marshal Ray R. Gill is conducting an inquiry.

While Fire Chief Allen E. Nice said the fire was of incendiary origin, the Fire Marshal withheld an opinion. Within forty-eight hours, Joseph D. Clear, who has been placed in charge of the investigation into the specific cause of the fire, expects to make his report.

"There really were four fires," Mr. Clear said today. "Three of them undoubtedly were of incendiary origin. I would not care to be quoted at this time on the main fire. I have checked the electrical equipment. It could not have been from that source, in my opinion."

The fire in the chapel was placed skillfully under a stairway, Mr. Clear said. The fire in the dormitory occupied by Negroes was extinguished, he added, by the better element of the prisoners.

One Prisoner Escaped.

Only one prisoner escaped during the fire, evidently working his way out of the gates by a ruse.

The State press united in the assertion that Ohio has been derelict in its social obligations not only to the men confined in prison for crime but "before history."

Plans for a new cottage at London prison farm to house 500 prisoners were completed today and work is to be begun within a short time. Arrangements also are to be made to house 300 prisoners at Grafton, but this is only to relieve the Ohio State reformatory at Mansfield.

Governor Cooper announced plans for a study of the whole penal problem by a commission in line with his many utterances on the public platform that the greatest problem before Ohio is its welfare work.

The Ohio Penitentiary has been a constant source of disputation. Former Governor James M. Cox laid plans under which the Ohio Penitentiary would have a subordinate place in the Ohio prison problem and the prison farm near London, Madison County, would be the principal place of detention. In his second and third terms the World War delayed the execution of the plans.

TELLS OF FIRE 3 WEEKS AGO.

Ex-Convict Says Inmates Burned "Idle House" After Ohio Riot.

Special to The New York Times.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., April 22.—Charles (Chisel) Carroll, transferred to the county jail here from the Ohio Penitentiary at Columbus just a week ago today, is thanking his lucky stars the machinery of justice saved him from being burned to death. Charged here with housebreaking and larceny, he was taken into custody as soon as he finished his prison term.

"I was right where the fire was worst," he said. "I was acquainted with many of the men who were burned to death.

"While I was there I helped in the construction of cell blocks I and K. Block K is where the fire started. It was easy to set it afire. I suppose the men only had to pour the oil that was being used on top of the new building and set fire to it.

"Three weeks ago another building was burned, right where I was.

"The men started to riot three days before that fire at the breakfast table because they didn't get enough to eat. Soon after that they managed to smuggle in a half gallon can of gasoline. The plot was to involve four hundred or so men in the 'idle house.' A note was sent to warn the others. We could have all got out, but the note must have fallen into the wrong hands.

"The night of the first fire the men knocked two guards in the head, poured the gasoline on the floor, set it afire and burned down the 'idle house.' The warden sent out for reinforcements, but the rest of the men didn't know about it and the 400 of us could do nothing."

ASSAILED PRISON LAST YEAR.

Head of Convict Relief Society Rebuffed by Ohio Governor.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 22.—Governor Meyers Y. Cooper of Ohio was appealed to a year ago by the Prisoners' Relief Society, a national organization, to investigate charges that the Ohio State Penitentiary was badly mismanaged, but replied that he could manage the penitentiary without any suggestions from the society, E. E. Dudding, founder, said here today.

Mr. Dudding, who is president of the society, with national headquarters here, asserted that in no penitentiary in the country are conditions worse than in the Ohio prison. He wrote to Governor Cooper today as follows:

"On or about March 10, 1929, I wrote you that I had received a letter signed by twenty-one convicts in the Ohio penitentiary in which they stated that the prison was badly managed and that it was as bad as an outpost of hell.

"Now you see that I was not in error in writing you as I did. You failed to take heed and now you see the result.

"The convicts in that prison seem to have lost confidence in the warden and the officials in general, and I made it plain in my letter, which was given wide publicity, and you came back with a reply that you could manage the institution without any suggestions from the Prisoners' Relief Society."

The letter to which Mr. Dudding referred said, in part:

"These men charge that food intended for the convicts is taken out by the guards. Only half the coffee furnished by the State is used, the other half being taken by officials for their private use. They claim that blankets and other merchandise is taken out by guards and sold.

"They claim it is pay or suffer, and that when they pay they still suffer. Graft in many forms is going on daily. Pay to get food. Pay to get bed covers. Pay to be a trusty. Pay to be recommended for a parole. The system is like a big circle—no matter which way you turn, it gets you."

Mr. Dudding said he had been getting smuggled letters from Ohio convicts steadily for several months complaining about the lack of discipline and other conditions in the penitentiary. He said he "threw them in the waste basket because I thought the Governor didn't care."

FEDERAL RELIEF IS OFFERED.

Reformatory Warden Ordered to Help House Ohio Prisoners.

WASHINGTON, April 22 (AP).—The bureau of Federal Prisons today instructed Albert MacDonald, Warden of the United States Reformatory at Chillicothe, Ohio, to go to Columbus and confer with Warden Thomas of the State Penitentiary to see if the Federal Prison Department could be of any assistance in the catastrophe which resulted in the death last night of more than 300 convicts.

Mr. MacDonald will offer to provide accommodations for any prisoners that can be cared for at Chillicothe.

Not many can be taken there, however, as the normal capacity of the reformatory is 1,000 and there are now 1,500 inmates in the Federal institution.

THE PIONEER WOMAN PRAISED BY HOOVER

President, by Radio, Aids Unveiling of Bronze Group at Ponca City, Okla.

HE LAUDS SIMPLE VIRTUES

Secretary Hurley, Ill in Washington, Broadcasts Main Address of Dedication.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 22.—The Pioneer Woman of the West, commemorated in a statue unveiled today at Ponca City, Okla., was praised as a moving force in radio speeches by President Hoover and Secretary of War Hurley. The speeches were broadcast over a nation-wide network, and to Ponca City as part of the ceremonies there.

The President spoke briefly from his office in the White House; Mr. Hurley, who is ill, spoke from a study in his Washington home.

The National Broadcasting Company's program lasted from 2:30 to 4 o'clock, the first half-hour coming from Washington and the rest from Ponca City. Speakers at Ponca City included Will Rogers, Bryant Baker of New York, who conceived and executed the bronze statue; the Right Rev. Thomas Casady, Episcopal Bishop of Oklahoma; Governor W. J. Holloway of Oklahoma and E. W. Marland, donor of the monument.

The bronze statue stands in a small park on the Federal Highway, a mile from the centre of the city. It commemorates "the frontier woman, whose fortitude and courage aided those hardy adventurers to push beyond the Mississippi and people the plains of the West."

President Hoover's Speech.

Speaking from the White House, President Hoover said:

"Mr. Chairman and fellow-citizens gathered at Ponca City:

"It is a pleasure both to address a great audience gathered to do honor to the pioneer woman and to support my friend, the Secretary of War, who, to your and my misfortune, cannot yet leave his room from recent illness, from which happily he is on the road to recovery.

"There are few men of the West of my generation who did not know the pioneer woman in his own mother, and who does not rejoice to know that her part in building that great civilization is to have such beautiful recognition.

"It was those women who carried the refinement, the moral character and spiritual force into the West. Not only they bore great burdens of daily toil and the rearing of families, but they were intent that their children should have a chance, that the doors of opportunity should be open to them. It was their insistence which made the schools and the churches.

"But it is my duty to introduce a product of the pioneer woman of Oklahoma, who has risen high in the councils of the nation—and high in the esteem of the whole country—the Secretary of War, Patrick J. Hurley."

Hurley Planned to Be Present.

Secretary Hurley had planned to attend the dedication and deliver the address, but was prevented by his illness, which has kept him confined to his home for the past two weeks. The broadcast was therefore arranged as a substitute.

"In the erection of this monument," he said, "we pledge a reverence to the woman who has laid the foundation of the character of our community, State and nation. This tribute to her memory will keep the fundamental principles of her character constantly before the people of Oklahoma. Every citizen who passes this way and looks upon this memorial will be strengthened in the conviction that this State shall be kept worthy of the woman whom this bronze statue commemorates."

The memorial, Secretary Hurley said, was "a late tribute to the sterling character of the pioneer woman.

"Woman," he added, "has never been given her just place in history as a pioneer, an educator, a builder, or as a leader. This is probably due to the fact that most of the pages of history are written by men about men.

"Historians have been so busy with the lives of great sons that they have not stopped to immortalize the mothers who produced them. The characters of men are molded by women. We have reached that period in civilization where we are fair enough to accord to woman the honor of the pre-eminent part she has taken in shaping the destinies of mankind.

"The woman has held the objectives gained by the man. She has been the bulwark ever standing between civilization and barbarism. The pioneer woman has played her part in the conquest of nature through all the ages.

"We cannot evaluate her character without any appreciation of her intelligence. Here was an intelligence that quickly and clearly recognized that the three great pillars of democratic government are religion, education and the home. Statue Is Centre of Group.

PONCA CITY, Okla., April 22 (AP).—Erected on the Marland estate northeast of the city, "The Pioneer Woman" is surrounded by other bronze pieces depicting early day settlers, cowboys and Indians.

Her countenance betokening hope and the determination to hold true her course as she sets forth into a new land, she rises majestically from a plot of ground in the foreground of the estate. At her side, as she strides forward, is her eager son, and clasped in her right hand is a Bible.

Atmosphere of the days exemplified by the massive bronze piece was lent by the presence, as honored guests, of many old settlers who participated in the race for land in the "new country" of Oklahoma, together with Indians and cowboys in the dress of '89.

F. H. PAYNE NAMED AS AIDE TO HURLEY

Hoover Picks Massachusetts Industrial Leader as Assistant Secretary of War.

EXPERIENCED IN ORDNANCE

Appointee Was Major During the War and Has Continued as an Officer in Army Reserve.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 22.—President Hoover today appointed Frederick Huff Payne of Greenfield, Mass., to be Assistant Secretary of War.

The new Assistant Secretary, who is a lieutenant colonel of the Ordnance Reserve and chairman of directors of the Greenfield Tap and Die Corporation, will succeed Colonel Patrick J. Hurley, who formerly held the post and was named Secretary of War on the death of James W. Good. "It is understood that he represents the type of industrial expert whom the President considers necessary for the place.

As a young man, Colonel Payne was a bank examiner in Massachusetts. He became president of the Mechanics Trust Company of Boston in 1908 and later vice president of the Federal Trust Company of Boston. Mr. Payne has been connected with numerous industrial organizations, and since 1912 has been treasurer, vice president and chairman of the board of the Greenfield company.

He has served as president of the Associated Industries of Massachusetts, chairman of the Massachusetts division of the New England Council and the Massachusetts Industrial Commission, and is a member of the National Industrial Conference Board of New York.

At the outbreak of the World War he became a major in the Ordnance Department of the army, in charge of procurement activities in the Bridgeport district.

"He has since taken a great interest in matters pertaining to the industrial activities of the War Department," the department stated today. "Since 1923 he has been the assistant district chief of the Bridgeport Ordnance District and this has brought him in close touch with many of the problems of the War Department, especially in connection with its munitions program.

"As the Assistant Secretary of War he will have supervision over the procurement of all military supplies and all matters pertaining to industrial preparedness for war."

Payne Is Coming Here.

Special to The New York Times.

GREENFIELD, Mass., April 22.—Colonel Frederick H. Payne, after receiving notification of his nomination as Assistant Secretary of War, left tonight for New York. He made a brief statement, saying:

"Like any one, I would feel honored at the selection by President Hoover to take such a department post. Having already indicated my willingness to assume the responsibilities of the office there is nothing for me to do beyond awaiting official notice of the Senate action."

UPHOLDS HOOVER VETO.

House Votes, 243 to 96, Against Special Coinage Bill.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 22.—By a vote of 243 to 96, the House today voted to uphold President Hoover's veto of a bill to authorize the coinage of 10,000 fifty-cent pieces to commemorate the seventy-fifth anniversary of the Gadsden Purchase. The bill was rejected by the President yesterday in his first formal veto.

An attempt to override the veto was made by the committee which originally approved the measure and engineered it through the House. Representatives from sections of the country where celebrations similar to the Gadsden Purchase anniversary are in prospect and who wanted similar measures passed voted with the committee.

Opponents of the veto held most of the debate. The only voice raised in support of the President was that of Representative Tilson of Connecticut, majority floor leader. His word was found enough when the roll-call was called.

JAPANESE GIRLS VISIT COMMANDER BOOTH

Express Nation's Gratitude for Aid of Salvation Army in Period Following Quake.

The Japanese girls visiting New York as messengers of gratitude from their country for the aid extended during the reconstruction period following the earthquake of 1923 called yesterday on Commander Evangeline Booth of the Salvation Army. The girls are the Misses Yoshiko Matsudaira, Kima Ashino, Sumiko Tokuda and Keiko Nakamura.

Accompanied by Consul Ko Ishii of the Japanese Consulate General, the party was taken to the roof of the twenty-story building at 853 Broadway, where they posed for a talking picture. There Miss Tokuda expressed the thanks of the Japanese people to the Salvation Army.

In reply, Commander Booth said in part: "I deeply appreciate your recognition of the service of the Salvation Army at the time of Japan's sorrow. I regret that we could not have made this service greater.

"I am sure you may depend upon the Salvation Army at any time to render any service possible.

The Japanese also visited Cardinal Hayes, who presented each with his autographed photograph.

They were entertained at a luncheon at the Astor of the Japan Society and the American Asiatic Association, and were welcomed by Alexander Tison, president of the society, and Martin Egan of the association. Among those present were Consul General and Mrs. Sawada, Willard V. King, Mr. and Mrs. Henry W. Taft, Robert Underwood Johnson, Commander Fitzhugh Green, Mrs. Norman de R. Whitehouse, Mrs. F. D. Waterman and Mrs. Howard E. Cole.

The young women visited the offices of the Japanese Society of the United States in the General Motors Building, where they were received by Takiji Kisanubu, president of the organization, and gave to him a copy in Japanese of an official scroll of gratitude for work done by the society. They also thanked the General Motors Company for the use of cars which have been placed at their disposal during their stay here.

They called at the offices of the Japan Society, 36 West Forty-fourth Street. They were received by the American Association of University Women at the Women's University Club, 106 East Fifty-second Street, in the afternoon.

Today's program includes a luncheon by the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America, at the Women's University Club. Dr. Sidney L. Gulick, secretary of the Commission of International Justice and Good-Will, is to preside. In the afternoon a tea is to be held at Johnson Hall, Columbia University.

Reserve Officers Must Be Grooms.

Despite the motorization and mechanization of warfare, young infantry reserve officers residing in New York, New Jersey and Delaware hereafter must master the best methods of caring for horses and mules, Major Gen. Hanson E. Ely, commanding the Second Army Corps Area, announced yesterday. Stable management and the handling of draft and riding animals are to be added to the army extension course, to be studied at home by Second Lieutenants of the infantry reserve before they can be eligible for promotion.

or measures that the President may have had in mind in uttering his warning about a possible deficit.

Mr. Jones replied:

"I have followed closely all the measures that we have passed. So far as general appropriations are concerned, the Appropriations Committee has held them, in the aggregate at any rate, below the budget estimate, so that whatever increases may be contemplated are probably going to arise from independent legislation that we have been passing or that may be in contemplation."

Senator Borah asked:

"Has the Senator any knowledge of any specific bill to which the letter refers?"

"No, I have not," said Senator Jones.

"Does he know how we could get information as to what specific measure it has reference to?" Mr. Borah pressed.

"No, I do not," Senator Jones answered.

Wood Declines to Comment.

Representative Wood declined to comment on the President's note, but said he would inform the House tomorrow of the Treasury's condition, during debate on the Johnson veterans' bill, which proposes further financial aid to World War veterans, estimated at between $90,000,000 and $200,000,000 annually above the $500,000,000 now being expended.

An attempt will be made to amend the bill to add even greater extensions, calculated by administration leaders to cost more than $400,000,000 in excess of the Johnson bill.

Mr. Wood said it was time the House was made to realize that there was a limit to government expenditures. As chairman of the Appropriations Committee, he felt it his duty to go before the House and inform it of the Treasury's condition before letting it go further with the program for veterans.

It was the opinion around the corridors of the Capitol today that the veterans' bill may be "sweetened" to death. The amendment will be proposed by Representative Rankin of Mississippi, and his Democratic colleagues are said to be behind him almost to a man. Added to these is a substantial bloc on the Republican side, which holds that no amount is too great for World War veterans. If the amendment carries it is considered certain President Hoover will veto the bill.

Budget Adhered To, Says Wood.

According to Chairman Wood, the appropriations bills already passed by the House are well within budget estimates.

In drafting the supply bill the House kept within the budget brackets, and the Senate has fallen in line with this program in compliance with President Hoover's wishes. Appropriations for the current year totaled $3,976,141,651.26.

The budget estimates upon which the appropriations for the new year are based were cut about $145,000,000 below the current appropriations. Thirty independent establishments of the government are allowed more than $801,000,000 in the current year. The appropriations asked for them in the fiscal year 1931 are a little in excess of $643,000,000.

When the budget was made up last Fall the President estimated the probable surplus at the end of the current fiscal year at $225,581,000. Since then $100,000,000 has been made available for the Farm Board, and it is figured that the new tax reduction act will cut revenues for this year in the sum of $80,000,000.

A short time ago the President, in a formal statement on income tax receipts, predicted a surplus in the next fiscal year of $40,000,000.

$28,693,540 EXTRA ASKED BY HOOVER 2

President Requests Additional Appropriation for New Public Buildings.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 22.—President Hoover today sent to the House a request for $28,693,540 for expenses incident to carrying out the public building program during the fiscal year 1931 in addition to the $48,709,390 carried by the Treasury appropriation bill passed by the House and now in the hands of a Senate committee.

The President also transmitted a list of public building projects under the enlarged program authorized by the Keyes-Elliot act, approved March 31, which increased the general authorization for new building construction from $338,000,000 to $568,000,000, to be spread over ten years.

"Submission at this time of these additional projects for specific authorization and appropriation," the White House explained, "will afford employment for many thousands of men engaged in the building trades and allied industries."

The President's letter read:

The White House, Washington,
April 22, 1930.

The Speaker of the House of Representatives:

Sir:

I have the honor to transmit herewith for the consideration of Congress supplemental estimates of appropriations for the Treasury Department for the fiscal year 1931, for public buildings projects authorized by the act of May 25, 1926, as amended by the acts of Feb. 14, 1928, and March 31, 1930; for the acquisition of certain properties within the District of Columbia to be used as sites for public buildings, as authorized by the act approved Jan. 13, 1928, and amended by the act of March 31, 1930, and for expenses incident to carrying out the public building program, $28,693,540.

The details of these estimates, the necessity therefor and the reason for their submission at this time are set forth in the letter to the Directors of the Bureau of the Budget, transmitted herewith, with whose comments and observations thereon I concur.

Respectfully.
HERBERT HOOVER.

Statement Explains Request.

The White House issued this statement:

"There is being transmitted to Congress today the first list of public building projects under the enlarged program authorized by the act of March 31, 1930, which extended general authorization for new building construction from $338,000,000 to $568,000,000 to be spread over about ten years.

"These expenditures have been rendered necessary to finally overcome the long delay in provision of quarters for Federal activities during recovery from the war, and are imperative for the more economical carrying on of the Federal agencies.

"The sums required for the next fiscal year's expenditure have been included in our estimates of receipts and expenditures, which were transmitted by letter to the chairmen of the Senate Finance Commitee and the House Appropriations Committee.

"About 200 cities and towns are represented in the program. Concerted effort will be made to place contracts for the building contemplated for this year as rapidly as possible, and land is now owned in more than fifty places named, and directly the approval of Congress is given for specific location of these buildings, steps will be taken toward acquiring sites in other places.

"Since the passage of the public buildings act of May 25, 1926, Congress has specifically authorized and appropriated for 327 projects. Of this number 117 buildings are either under contract or have been completed.

"Drawings are now being prepared for eighty-eight buildings, which are expected to be placed under contract during this calendar year. Submission at this time of these additional projects for specific authorization and appropriation will afford employment for many thousands of men engaged in the building trades and allied industries."

Total Cost Put at $112,687,800.

Director Roop's statement, forwarded by the President, contained a summary of estimates listing Federal buildings in three places, under the 1926 appropriation act, as costing $333,500; scores of other projects, under another section of the 1926 act, as costing $76,804,300, and certain projects in the District of Columbia under the same act, as costing $35,550,000; the whole constituting a total of $112,687,800.

The $28,693,540 requested by the President included $25,000,000 for sites and construction all over the country; $2,000,000 for sites in the District of Columbia, $1,400,000 for professional services; $28,140 for salaries in the office of the supervising architect of the treasury and $265,400 for general expenses of public buildings in the fiscal year 1931.

GOVERNOR SIGNS HARLEM COURT BILL

Negroes Obtain New Municipal District After Three Vetoes of Proposal.

AUBURN TRIALS BILL SIGNED

Roosevelt Approves Measure Providing State Aid for Indians at Secondary Schools.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, April 22.—Governor Roosevelt approved the bill today introduced by Assemblyman Francis E. Rivers of New York creating the Tenth Municipal Court District in Manhattan, which will embrace a large section of Harlem inhabited almost wholly by Negroes.

The Governor's action represents a victory for the Negro residents of Harlem, who for many years have been fighting, with the backing of the New York County Republican Committee, for a municipal court of their own, and more particularly for a district carved out to render almost certain the election of Negroes as municipal justices.

The Rivers bill, in a different form, was passed by the Republican Legislature three times and vetoed twice by Governor Smith and once by Governor Roosevelt.

In its present form, the act creating the Tenth District is the product of an agreement entered into by the New York County Republican organization with Tammany Hall. The bill was rescued from the scrap heap during the final day of the legislative session, following a visit to the capital by Chairman Samuel S. Koenig of the New York County Republican Committee and Republican State Chairman William J. Maier. Senator Samuel H. Hofstadter sponsored the bill in the upper house.

The act provides for eight new municipal court justices in Manhattan and defines the boundary lines of the new Tenth. Of the new justices, two will be elected in the Third District, one in the Fourth, one in the Sixth, two in the Ninth and two in the new Tenth.

The Tenth District will be bounded by 110th Street, 155th Street, St. Nicholas and Eighth Avenues, Fifth Avenue and the Harlem River.

Two other bills affecting the municipal courts in New York City were included in the batch approved by the Governor today. One, introduced by Senator Quinn, provides for the designation by Mayor Walker of a Chief City Marshal.

The Governor approved an appropriation of $31,129 to reimburse Cayuga County for the prosecution of Auburn prisoners on charges growing out of the riots at the institution in December.

Indian children at the Thomas School or those living on reservations who can qualify for admission to a secondary school will receive appointments as State pupils where their parents are too poor to provide such education under Senator Webb's bill approved by the Governor. The State aid will include transportation to and from school.

The Governor also approved five bills for the construction of armories at Newburgh and Kingston, an addition to the Syracuse Armory and the preparation of plans for armories at Binghamton and Peekskill.

BANKING BILLS APPROVED.

Amendments Bring All Private Banks Under State Supervision.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, April 22.—Four bills amending the State banking law signed by Governor Roosevelt today are designed to safeguard depositors against loss. The measures were recommended by the Banking Commission the Governor appointed, the joint legislative committees on banking and the Banking Department under its new superintendent, Joseph A. Broderick.

The most important broadens the powers of examination of the State Superintendent of Banks and extends his supervision over all private banks except a few complying with very drastic conditions in return for exemption.

This provision, which goes into effect July 31, will bring "bootleg" banking concerns under the supervision of the State or drive them out of business, according to the Governor.

He declared that had such an amendment been in force before, "abuses of the public confidence as typified by the failure of Clarke Brothers would have been averted."

In order to place bank directors in a position where they cannot plead ignorance of derelictions by their banks, one of the amendments approved provides for copies being forwarded to them of all communications sent to their banks by the Banking Department on examinations, recommendations and suggestions.

With the changes approved by the Governor, the State Superintendent of Banks will have jurisdiction over every individual, partnership or corporation using the words "bank," "banker" or "banking," and the right of examination of any "individual, co-partnership, unincorporated association or corporation" to determine whether they are subject to the banking law or not.

The jurisdiction of the department is broadened to include any private banker who pays interest on a daily credit balance, or holds securities of a daily market value less than $7,500; who receives money on deposit (other than for transmission to others) in such amounts that the average of the separate deposits is less than $1,000, or who receives money for transmission in amounts less than $500, but small transmissions are secured by a deposit of $100,000 of securities with the Superintendent.

The Governor regretted the defeat of the Banking Commission's recommendations relative to permanent organization, salaries of deputies and examiners and the prohibition against public banking officials acting as bank directors.

Superintendent Broderick declared sections of the banking law dealing with personal loan companies still needed revision and that changes might be needed in reserve requirements and restriction in investments of private bankers, which, he said, would be brought before the 1931 Legislature.

ROOSEVELT SIGNS LIBEL BILL

Rights of Newspapers in Actions Are Defined.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, April 22.—A bill introduced by Senator Fearon of Onondaga to define the rights of newspapers in libel actions was approved by Governor Roosevelt today.

Under the terms of the Fearon bill, an action for civil or criminal libel cannot be maintained against a reporter, editor, publisher or proprietor of a newspaper for the publication therein of a "fair and true" report of any judicial, legislative or other public and official proceedings, or for any heading of the report, provided this fairly reflects the contents of the articles published.

The bill also provides that in an action for libel or slander a defendant may prove mitigating circumstances, including the sources of his information and the grounds for his belief, even though he shall have pleaded or attempted to prove justification for the published matter on which the action is based.

The provisions of the bill will become law on Sept. 1.

Knight Is Regaining His Strength.

BUFFALO, N. Y., April 22 (AP).—Surgeons attending Senator John Knight, seriously injured in an automobile accident Saturday night, announced today that there was a slight improvement in the Senator's condition and that he was slowly regaining his strength. The Senator spent a restful day yesterday, with all visitors prohibited except the Sheriff who is investigating the accident, hospital attendants said. Hope was increasing that an amputation of the Senator's right arm would not be necessary.

ROOSEVELT VETOES KNIGHT UTILITY BILL

ever, that recent changes in personnel and additional appropriations for the commission may be expected to correct this tendency.

"Takes Place of Competition."

"The testimony before the revision committee shows that whatever sentiment was developed in favor of a people's counsel was due entirely to the recent letting down of commission activities in connection with these functions. The duty and function of the Public Service Commission can never remain in doubt. It can never be transferred to an individual as a counsel.

"At the hearings before the revision commission, Commissioner Henry C. Attwill of the Massachusetts Department of Public Service and Commissioner Howell Ellis of the Indiana commission stressed the importance of having the commission itself exert its initiative on behalf of the public service.

"The proper doctrine was expressed by Mr. Harold Evans, a former member of the Pennsylvania commission, who stated that regulation by the commission was intended to take the place of competition; that any properly functioning public service commission must have the attitude that it is taking the place of the force of competition; that an important case should be handled on its own motion, and that the commission itself should carry the burden of representing the public interest with such aid as the complainants can offer.

"Mr. Thomas J. Tingle, who was the so-called people's counsel in Maryland, points out the danger of establishing a people's counsel who would be independent of the Public Service Commission. He states that this would run contrary to the undoubted function of the Public Service Commission of instigating rate cases itself.

"The people's counsel in Maryland is an entirely different kind of officer from the one contemplated by this bill; he is really a part of the commission itself and corresponds with the general counsel of our commission.

Urges Board Take Initiative.

"Indeed, the entire testimony before the revision commission tends to emphasize the unmistakable fact that the function which this bill aims to transfer to the Attorney General's office is really the function of the commission itself.

"The bill would divide this responsibility for protecting the public. It would in effect reduce the Public Service Commission to the rôle of a near-utility court in which the people would have to fight their unequal battle against the huge resources of public utility corporations.

"The functions of the people's counsel provided for in this bill should be exerted by the commission through its own counsel, assistant counsel, or any other employes whom it wishes to designate therefor.

"I hope that the present Public Service Commission will more and more undertake on its own initiative to institute rate and service proceedings. It should not rely on the complaints, but on its own efforts, to establish proper protection for the people.

"The idea of a people's counsel as intended by this bill is antagonistic to such an attitude on the part of the commission.

"Without the help of engineers and accountants a lawyer can accomplish little, because the questions involved are almost always nonlegal. The bill provides that the proposed people's counsel shall have the assistance and cooperation of the staff of the Public Service Commission. This is destructive of efficiency and responsibility, for no staff can work simultaneously for two masters."

Port Chester Re-elects Munson.

Special to The New York Times.

PORT CHESTER, N. Y., April 22.—Halsey J. Munson, Republican, was re-elected village president here in the annual elections today, defeating Trustee W. Burdell Banister, Democrat, by 92 votes. The final count was Munson 2,434, Banister 2,342. Charles O. Frederick and Thomas F. Connolly, Democrats, defeated L. C. A. Lewin and D. J. Miller, Republicans, for trusteeships.

LARSON SIGNS BILLS MERGING TWO BOARDS

Three Republicans Named With Two Democrats on Single Body—Hague Fight Promised.

Special to The New York Times.

TRENTON, N. J., April 22.—After signing the three so-called "ripper" bills to abolish the Hudson County Boulevard Commission and the Hudson County Park Commission and create a single board to be named by him, Governor Larson appointed today three Republicans and two Democrats to make up the new body.

Hudson County Democrats aligned with Mayor Frank Hague of Jersey City have declared their intention of fighting the legislation in the courts. The two Democrats appointed today are not of the Hague faction.

Those named by the Governor are:

DE WITT VAN BUSKIRK of Bayonne, Republican; five-year term.

WILLIAM DAVIS of Harrison, Republican; four-year term.

JOHN G. EDWARDS of Union City, Democrat; three-year term.

JOHN H. MORRIS of Jersey City, Democrat; two-year term.

JAMES W. McCARTHY of Jersey City, Republican; one-year term.

The so-called ripper bills were widely publicized during the battle for their passage in the Legislature as a blow at the Democratic dominance of Mayor Hague in Hudson County, inasmuch as substitution of the new State commission in place of the County Boulevard and Park Commissions would deprive him of about 750 patronage jobs.

It is anticipated that the newly appointed commission will appeal on Saturday morning either to Supreme Court Commissioner Luther A. Campbell or Charles Black for an order of mandamus, forcing the present members of the two commissions to turn over their books and offices, which is expected to presage a long court fight. The appeal may be taken directly to the Chief Justice of the Supreme Court, William J. Gummere in Newark, it was said.

NOYES AGAIN HEADS ASSOCIATED PRESS

John Cowles of Des Moines and Paul Patterson of Baltimore Chosen Vice Presidents.

PUBLISHERS MEET TODAY

Reports on Newsprint and Labor Will Be Discussed—Advertising Dinner on Thursday.

Frank B. Noyes, publisher of The Washington Star, president of The Associated Press since 1900, was reelected yesterday by the board of directors, following the annual meeting of the members on Monday. John Cowles of The Des Moines Register, formerly second vice president, was named first vice president to succeed Colonel Robert Ewing of The New Orleans States.

Paul Patterson of The Baltimore Sun was elected second vice president; Kent Cooper was re-elected secretary; Jackson E. Elliott, assistant secretary, and J. R. Youatt, treasurer.

Regret Old Precedent.

The board of directors adopted the following resolution in explanation of the failure to reelect Colonel Ewing:

"The directors of The Associated Press wish to record their regret officially and personally that the precedent which has been strictly followed for many years to elect every year a new vice president has prevented us from re-electing Colonel Robert E. Ewing of The New Orleans States, who has so loyally and constructively served the organization as first and second vice presidents and who has otherwise contributed so largely to strengthening The Associated Press."

Five members of the board whose terms expired were named for an additional three-year term by the members. They were:

W. H. COWLES, Spokane Spokesman-Review.
FRANK P. MacLENNAN, Topeka State Journal.
E. LANSING RAY, St. Louis Globe-Democrat.
ROBERT R. McCORMICK, Chicago Tribune.
FREDERICK I. THOMPSON, Mobile (Ala.) Register.

Publishers who came to New York to attend the Associated Press meeting are remaining for the American Newspaper Publishers Association annual meeting, which opens this morning at the Pennsylvania Hotel and continues until Friday.

Southern publishers who are members of the Southern Newspaper Publishers Association met informally at a luncheon at the Governor Clinton Hotel yesterday noon to discuss questions of labor policy, particularly the question of adopting a program similar to that of the American Newspaper Publishers Association. There were 125 at the luncheon. At the round-table discussion members voiced their opinion freely regarding labor problems and their trends. No vote was taken and the matter will be brought up at the regular meeting of the association to be held this Summer at Asheville, N. C.

Committees to Report.

The A. N. P. A. meeting at the Pennsylvania Hotel will be called to order at 10 o'clock this morning by Edward H. Butler, publisher of The Buffalo Evening News, president of the association. During the morning reports of standing committees will be presented, chief of which will be the newsprint and labor reports, which probably will be discussed at greater length from the floor by the members.

W. G. Chandler, general business manager of the Scripps-Howard papers, is chairman of the newsprint committee, and Harvey J. Kelly is chairman of the special standing committee on labor problems.

In the afternoon there will be discussion of technical topics, such as mechanical problems, advertising and circulation. The topics to be discussed have been suggested by the publishers themselves and the program was prepared by a committee of which G. J. Palmer of The Houston Chronicle is chairman.

The annual dinner of the Bureau of Advertising will be held on Thursday evening with Julius H. Barnes, chairman of the President's National Business Survey Council, and Heywood Broun as speakers. Judge Robert W. Bingham of The Louisville Courier-Journal and Times will be toastmaster and William P. Rogers of The Boston Transcript will preside. Roy W. Howard is chairman of the dinner committee.

FEARON TO TALK HERE AT REPUBLICAN CLUBS

Probable Candidate for the Governorship Will Discuss Legislature's Record.

State Senator George R. Fearon of Syracuse, regarded as one of the leading aspirants for the Republican nomination for Governor, will make two speeches in this city next Monday evening. Senator Fearon has been invited here by Irwin Kurtz, chairman of the Speakers' Bureau of the New York County Republican Committee, to discuss the record of the Legislature, and there has been a disposition to regard his visit as the beginning of a boom for the Gubernatorial nomination.

Senator Fearon will speak at the Republican Club of the Twenty-third Assembly District, of which Jacob Friedman is leader, at 186th Street and Bennett Avenue, and afterward at the Republican Club of the Seventh Assembly District, of which Albert J. Berwin is leader. The latter speech will be broadcast and Mr. Kurtz will make an effort to have members of other Republican clubs listen in at gatherings at their clubhouses.

MAYOR FOR BREWERY PLEA.

"There's Hope," He Says, in Approving Use of Pipe Under Street.

"That's right; keep them alive. There's hope!"

Such was Mayor Walker's exclamation of approval yesterday when the Board of Estimate in Committee of the Whole, over which he was presiding, granted to a west side brewery permission to continue until 1940 the use of a pipe running under West Forty-first Street near Tenth Avenue.

The plant is that of V. Loewer's Gambrinus brewery, and the underground pipe permit has been in effect since 1910.

New Jewish School Is Established.

The Zitomer Talmud Torah Darchei Noam has been established on the lower east side through the amalgamation of the Darchei Noam Talmud Torah and the Zitomer Talmud Torah, according to an announcement made yesterday by Representative William I. Sirovich, who will be chairman of the advisory board of the combined schools. The home for the new school has been established at Eighth Street and Avenue B, facing Tompkins Square Park. It has facilities for 1,500 children.

SHIP BOARD INQUIRY VOTED BY SENATE

Committee Is Directed to Take Up Charges Involving Cost and Sale Price of Vessels.

O'CONNOR "WELCOMES" IT

Chairman Sees Opportunity for "Accounting to Congress" and Pledges Cooperation.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 22.—Investigations of the affairs of the Shipping Board were ordered by the Senate today when it passed the resolution offered by Senator McKellar of Tennessee providing for the appointment of a special committee "to make a thorough investigation into all the acts and doings" of the board and the Merchant Fleet Corporation.

The committee is authorized to inquire "especially into the question of sales of ships by the board, the prices secured, the terms under which ships have been sold, the character and responsibility of the purchasers, the changes in terms, and all other facts relating to the conduct of the board and the Emergency Fleet Corporation, and also thoroughly to investigate all construction loans and mail contracts made under or pursuant to the merchant marine act."

The resolution, with an appropriation of $5,000 for initial expenses, was carried without debate.

One of the first inquiries to be made will be into statements made by Controller General McCarl that the board had sold ships costing $408,062,000 for $43,962,000 and had collected to date only $15,413,000 of the purchase price.

The controller also charged that in one case the board sold ships for $325,000 on a down payment of $28,000 and that immediately afterward the purchasers received a mail contract bringing them in from $350,000 to $250,000 a year.

Upon being informed of the passage of the resolution, Chairman T. V. O'Connor of the Shipping Board said:

"The Shipping Board will do everything in its power to cooperate fully with the special committee of the Senate, which will be appointed to inquire into the acts of the board and the Merchant Fleet Corporation to the end that we may arrive at a mutual understanding in the efforts of all concerned to reconstruct the American merchant marine.

"Personally, I welcome this opportunity to place before the Congress an account of what has been done through the Shipping Board and Merchant Fleet Corporation agencies to enable private operators of American flag tonnage to compete on a more nearly equal footing with the merchant fleets of other nations."

MIDDLETOWN, N. Y., April 22.—Colonel Elmer E. WALKER HAILS AMITY AT HEARING ON CENTRE

Tells Queens Factions if They Will Continue Friendly Attitude Solution Can Be Soon Reached.

Hearings on the proposal to establish a civic centre in Queens, which heretofore, Mayor Walker declared, had been marked by local prejudices and sometimes by bitterness, were continued yesterday before the Board of Estimate in committee of the whole with a calmness which won the praise of the Mayor.

"You gentlemen seem to be cooling off," said the Mayor, "and I congratulate you upon the calm, dispassionate nature of the arguments adduced here today in contrast with the local partisanship and bitterness shown hitherto in advocating the various sites proposed. You are showing such great improvement that I am encouraged to hope that you may ultimately get together.

"This civic centre, if it be built, is going to cost the city of New York millions of dollars. We have no intention of forcing down the throats of the people of Queens any public improvement that is going to be so costly to the city at large. There are too many pressing matters waiting decision to permit this proposal being drawn from the bottom of the calendar to be dealt with in a few minutes."

The hearing yesterday lasted only about fifteen minutes and the speeches were all restricted to from one to three minutes.

The Rev. Dr. Howard A. Northacker, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Elmhurst, urged the establishing of the civic centre on the proposed Elmhurst site, but said that he and his parishioners would be satisfied with the recommendation of any impartial commission.

Thomas D. Cronin, representing the Queens Ridge Taxpayers' Association of Flushing, advocated the Parental School site, which is favored by Borough President George U. Harvey.

Joseph Geiss of the civic organization of the Rockaways also spoke for the Elmhurst location. Albert E. Short of the Long Island Business Men's Civic Centre Committee of One Hundred filed a brief in behalf of Long Island City's claims, and Otto Schuler, vice president of the Central Queens Allied Civic Counsel, asked that the question be determined by a borough referendum.

SENATOR GOFF TO RETIRE.

West Virginian ill Not Seek Reelection Because of Ill Health.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 22.—Because of ill health and acting on the advice of his physicians, Senator Guy D. Goff of West Virginia announced this afternoon that he would not be a candidate for re-election in November.

The Senator, who is serving his first term, would have had no opposition in the Republican primary, but would have to face former Senator Neely, Democratic nominee, in November.

In stating his intention not to seek re-election, Senator Goff made public a letter from Drs. Davenport White and James A. Lyon warning him that he was in no condition to make a campaign.

VOTE CORRUPTION CHARGED BY DAVIS

Secretary's Allegations Speed Senate Committee's Inquiry in Pennsylvania Primary.

DETAILS ARE KEPT SECRET

Grundy May Be Called by Chairman Nye to Enlarge on His Accusations.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 22.—Secretary Davis, seeking the Republican nomination for the United States Senate in Pennsylvania, today filed with Senator Nye, chairman of the Senate campaign committee, charges of alleged corruption in that State.

These allegations, which were not made public by Senator Nye, were declared, however, to be "grave enough to make the committee act."

Accordingly the committee will meet some time this week to hear Mr. Davis's story of alleged moves on the part of the Grundy-Mellon machine to influence the primary on May 20.

The committee later will ask Senator Grundy to appear to testify as to his earlier assertion that General W. W. Atterbury, president of the Pennsylvania Railroad, and the power interests were prepared to use their influences to set aside the will of the people in the election.

Secretary Davis went to the Capitol unheralded today and laid his charges before Senator Nye and requested an opportunity to be heard promptly by the full committee.

He declined to explain the nature of the charges be made but said they represented complaints sent to him and hearsay reports of which he had no personal information.

"At present I do not care to discuss the details of the charges made by Secretary Davis," Senator Nye said. "He pointed to a very grave charge that had been filed with him concerning the campaign now in progress in Pennsylvania. He also related other charges that have been brought to his attention and strongly urged that the committee take prompt steps to prevent abuses taking place that would have the effect of denying the voters the fullest exercise of their franchise.

"Many of the charges related by Secretary Davis do not differ from charges that have come to the committee and to me from other sources. But what he told me convinced me that there is great need of a prompt investigation in Pennsylvania."

Senator Nye said that Senator Grundy had made serious charges before the Committee on Privileges and Elections and would be asked to appear before the investigating committee to give information that might "prevent abuses and lead to an honest election in Pennsylvania."

ASSAILS FARM BOARD ACT.

Chicago Exchange Joins in Asking Repeal or Amendment.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, April 22.—Directors of the Chicago Board of Trade voted today to endorse a resolution asking the repeal or amendment of the agricultural marketing act under which the Federal Farm Board operates. The resolution originated in the Minneapolis Chamber of Commerce and is to be presented at the annual meeting of the United States Chamber of Commerce in Washington on April 28.

The Chicago grain exchange acted as a similar vote was being taken in the Minneapolis Chamber of Commerce. The Minneapolis chamber's delegates to the national meeting were instructed to condemn the Farm Board and urge united action to obtain its overthrow.

In the official announcement issued by John A. Bunnell, president of the Chicago Board of Trade, the exchange officials emphasized that their action is "aimed against the legislation which created a Federal Farm Board and is not directed against the board itself."

Among the groups which have endorsed the resolution, according to officials of the Minneapolis chamber, are the Buffalo Corn Exchange, the Buffalo Chamber of Commerce, the Kansas City Board of Trade, the Omaha Grain Exchange and the Duluth Board of Trade.

TROOPS IN MADRAS AWE 50,000 RIOTERS

Sight of Rifles Quickly Quiets Huge Mob Hurling Stones Into Police Station.

RAIDERS BELIEVED TRAPPED

Soldiers Encounter Thirty of Those Who Looted Chittagong Arsenal—Gandhi Says Police Ruin Salt.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MADRAS, April 22.—Troops supporting the police checked a dangerous outbreak tonight when a mob of 50,000 Nationalists gathered on the beach and began hurling stones at a group of soldiers. The meeting had been arranged by the civil disobedience committee and was assuming all the aspects of a violent demonstration. Inflammatory speeches had aroused the crowd, which soon threw stones and other missiles into the police station.

At the crucial moment a large force of police, some of them mounted, followed by armed reservists, marched to the beach. At the sight of their rifles the main crowd quieted down, but a gathering outside the police station had to be charged by the police, and several were injured in the scuffle.

General Strike Call Fails.

An attempt on the part of Gandhi followers to start a general strike in protest against the imprisonment of salt law violators failed today, owing to the opposition of the Madras shopkeepers, who asked for police protection and received it. One crowd of Nationalists, incensed, stoned the police, but were scattered. Seven were arrested.

The tense situation in Madras continues, however, and the least misstep on either side may provoke bloodshed. It is significant that the striking Indian cotton mill workers have joined the Gandhi volunteers.

Think Raiders Are Trapped.

CALCUTTA, April 22 (AP).—The British authorities believed tonight that the Indian insurgents who raided the Chittagong Arsenal Saturday were surrounded and that capture would soon follow.

Forty soldiers of the Eastern Frontier Rifles and a troop of Burma Valley Light Horse engaged a party of about thirty of the rebels on a road a few miles north of Chittagong today, but details as to the outcome were lacking.

The Gandhi followers imprisoned in the Alipore central jail, including J. M. Sen Gupta, Mayor of Calcutta, went on a hunger strike as the result of an alleged assault by officials of the jail.

General Situation Easier.

SIMLA, India, April 22 (AP).—The authorities said today, following reports from all important centres of the civil disobedience campaign, that a distinctly easier situation prevailed after the foment of last week.

Fail to Rout Salt-Makers.

BOMBAY, April 22 (AP).—British police made an unsuccessful attempt to break through a Nationalist volunteer cordon around the salt pans at Bhatia Baag today. Three people were injured during the scuffle. Several were arrested, including Professor Gharpure, president of the "war council," and two joint secretaries of the Bombay Provincial Congress Committee.

K. M. Munshi, who recently resigned his seat in the Legislative Council, today was convicted of incitement to disobedience of the salt laws and was sentenced to six months' simple imprisonment and fined 600 rupees (about $210).

Complains Police Spoiled Salt.

NAVSARI, Bombay, April 22 (AP).—Mahatma Gandhi today complained to the British authorities that the police had spoiled the natural deposits of salt near Aat. He said they had thrown some deleterious powder into the natural deposits. He sent a sample of the salt to be analyzed.

SPAIN ORDERS NEW CENSUS.

Voting Lists Are Expected to Speed Up Elections.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MADRID, April 22.—Stating that, while it must still accommodate its action to the exigencies of events "in marching with firm steps to normality," the government tonight indicated its wish to convoke Parliament as soon as possible and called for the taking of a completely new political census, which, it is generally thought, will bring elections sooner than had been expected, perhaps within the next four months, although no such promise is made.

Revision of the old elector census was ordered in March, but owing to the poor condition of the old lists the task was considered to be long and tedious and many thought the government manoeuvring for time. Reading between the lines of today's announcement, it is plain that Premier Berenguer feels that any further temporizing would have a bad effect.

3 Cuban Convicts Killed in Escape.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

HAVANA, April 22.—Three convicts of the Cuban penitentiary on the Isle of Pines were shot to death by guards during a dash for liberty late yesterday, according to advices received by the State Department today.

POPE, IN ENCYCLICAL, EXALTS ST. AUGUSTINE

Offers Prayers for the Saint's Country, Site of the Next Eucharistic Congress.

VATICAN CITY, April 22 (AP).—An encyclical letter was issued today by Pope Pius on the fifteenth centenary of the death of St. Augustine.

It exalted St. Augustine from two points of view—one as a doctor of the Church, the other as a saint—and called attention to the Eucharistic Congress which opens May 7 in Carthage, where St. Augustine was a Bishop 1,500 years ago.

The Pontiff declared that St. Augustine's teachings were important, even today, particularly his opinions in the book "City of God," in which he discussed the relationship between Church and State.

St. Augustine advocated submission to the Church, the letter said, showing that the end of man is in God and that the means for reaching that end is in the right use of the creatures of God: that both are contained in the Catholic Church, with her constant guidance and authority reposing in the visible head, the Roman Pontiff.

The letter closed by urging clergy and all Christians to imitate St. Augustine toward the union of all in adhesion to Christ and the Church, and the prayer was offered that the country of St. Augustine, where the congress will be held, may grow in safety.

HUNGARIANS STONE ITALIAN.

Minister in Auto Escapes, but Son and Aide Are Injured.

BUDAPEST, April 22 (AP).—The motor car of Signor Arlotta, the Italian Minister, was bombarded with stones today as it passed through the village of Kapalnasnyek.

The Minister himself was not injured, but his son was hurt and Colonel Oxilia, Italian military attaché at the embassy, was wounded in the head. It is believed here that the assailants were youths who were unaware of the identity of those occupying the car.

Portes Gil President of Party.

MEXICO CITY, April 22 (AP).—Emilio Portes Gil, former Provisional President of Mexico and now Minister of the Interior in the Ortiz Rubio Cabinet, today was elected president of the National Revolutionary party, to which President Ortiz Rubio belongs. Señor Portes Gil immediately resigned as Minister of the Interior. He will probably be succeeded by Carlos Riva Palacio, former Governor of the State of Mexico.

NOURMAHAL AT PANAMA.

Astor's Yacht Is Bringing Scientific Specimens Here From Galapagos.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BALBOA, April 22.—The yacht Nourmahal arrived off Taboga Island today, returning in three weeks from its scientific expedition to the Galápagos. It anchored off the canal until morning in order to change the water in the tanks in which it is carrying the specimens to the United States.

The yacht is expected to enter the harbor tomorrow, but when it will make the transit of the Panama Canal and continue its voyage to New York has not been revealed.

The owner, Vincent Astor, with Kermit Roosevelt and a party of scientists, is aboard. C. H. Townsend, in charge of the scientific expedition, has made various trips to Galápagos, on which he is considered an authority.

WORLD BANK NAMES M'GARRAH AS HEAD

New Yorker Elected President Unanimously by Directors at Basle Meeting.

QUESNAY ALSO IS CHOSEN

Becomes Director General Though Germans Oppose Him as French —Operations May Be Delayed.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BASLE, Switzerland, April 22.—Gates W. McGarrah, former chairman of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York, today became president of the Bank for International Settlements, the organization created by the Young plan for the solution of Europe's reparation problem. Mr. McGarrah was elected unanimously by the first meeting of the board of directors of the institution, held here in the former ballroom of the old Hotel Savoy and Universe, which has been turned into the temporary quarters of the world bank.

The election as managing director of Pierre Quesnay of the Bank of France, which took place immediately after, did not realize unanimity, despite the efforts of Mr. McGarrah and other members of the board to prevent what might be construed as a political controversy appearing at the first meeting of the world bank.

The vote of Dr. Hans Luther, Germany's head delegate, was cast against M. Quesnay, though the president of the Reichstag explained that his stand was based on principle rather than political or personal opposition, because the German nation and the Reichsbank considered that the manager of the bank should be chosen from a neutral nation and not from a former enemy of the Reich.

McGarrah as Peacemaker.

The progress of this first meeting, which lasted from 11 A. M. until 2:30, was also hampered by the fact that the British and Italian delegates, though attending the session, abstained officially because neither Britain nor Italy has yet ratified the Hague protocol, so that Mr. McGarrah at the very outset fell heir to Owen D. Young's rôle of peacemaker among the European nations.

The controversy over the choice of M. Quesnay as the bank's manager, however, may be regarded as definitely settled, for he was nominated by Mr. McGarrah and obtained the full approval of all the nations present with the exception of Germany. M. Quesnay, with the collaboration of Mr. McGarrah, will proceed at once with the organization of the bank's staff, in hopes of beginning operations during the first week in May.

The question of Italian and British participation is delicate, however, and may cause delay. Accordinig to an arrangement concluded before today's session, all decisions taken today and in the interval will be required to be pronounced approved by a meeting of the board to be called immediately upon Italian and British ratification.

Italy's reluctance hinges entirely upon the deadlock which has been reached in the settlement of the Eastern European reparation question by the commission meeting in Paris. This, owing to disaccord between the Czechs and Hungarians, leaves open the possibility of a Czech refusal to recognize obligations to Italy under previous treaties.

Accord on Share Distribution.

At the afternoon session agreement was obtained on the unsettled question of the distribution of the bank's capital shares. Some of the nations had advocated holding these shares in the banks of issue or the principal banks of each country, while others favored the disposal of them in turn to the general public.

Each of the big seven original members of the bank will receive 16,000 out of the total of 200,000 capital shares. By the accord reached today each nation may dispose of these shares in accordance with its own preferences, and Britain, Italy, France and Belgium have announced their intention of reissuing them to the public. The Reichsbank will retain its share intact, while the Japanese and American delegates have announced the decision that their shares will be distributed among the leading banks of their countries, which will be authorized but not necessarily obliged to sell them to the public.

One hundred and twelve thousand of these shares must be definitely placed before the bank, whose total of 200,000 shares represents about $100,000,000, can begin operation.

Vice Presidents Named.

At today's meeting Sir Charles Addis of Britain and Dr. Melchior of Germany were named vice presidents and tomorrow the other principal officers of the institution will be designated. At the session tomorrow the board will also determine the issue price of the capital shares and in subsequent sessions matters connected with the commercialization and mobilization of reparations will be discussed and the details of the first slice of bonds to be issued in the international markets agreed upon.

The city of Basle has received its distinguished international visitors with mingled feelings, for while the representatives of the municipality, the canton and the Federal Government were announcing a program of fêtes in honor of the international bankers, a large procession of Communists, including some municipal councilors, paraded the streets, with their placards and cries indicating anything but cordiality for the financiers.

RADICAL LABORITES CONDEMN M'DONALD

Financial Policy Renounced as Not Socialistic Enough—The Snowden Budget Scored.

WOULD TAKE OVER ESTATES

Independents Also Advocate Making Bank of England an Institution of the Government.

By CHARLES A. SELDEN.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, April 22.—The Independent Labor party, which represents the extreme radical wing of the British National Labor party, wound up its conference at Birmingham today with the passage of a resolution renouncing the MacDonald Government's financial policy as not sufficiently Socialistic.

The resolution declared that Philip Snowden, Chancellor of the Exchequer, had demonstrated by his budget that the Labor Government was not prepared to compel the transference of wealth by drastic taxation from those who had too much to the people who had not enough. Mr. Snowden also was condemned for intimating in the House of Commons that there probably would be no necessity for increased taxation next year. This, in the opinion of the Birmingham conference, made futile all efforts to help the masses of the people, who, in the opinion of the delegates, should have insurance and pension benefits amounting to about a billion dollars a year instead of the $200,000,000 now provided.

Another resolution passed was to the effect that there was not only need of a great increase in taxes on large incomes, but that estates valued above certain amounts should be taxed 100 per cent or entirely confiscated by the State upon the death of the owners.

Another decree of the conference was that the State should take over the Bank of England and run it as a publicly owned institution.

Although the votes on these radical resolutions all showed large majorities, there was some dissent by moderates in the debate. One delegate said Mr. Snowden deserved great credit as a sound Socialist financier who had had the courage to introduce a budget which was the first serious attempt in the history of England to direct national finance along Socialist lines by adding $200,000,000 taxation for the benefit of social services.

Although no direct reference was made to the five-power naval conference by the Birmingham radicals, they voted that attempts at disarmament by international agreement were too slow and that each country should disarm regardless of the others, taking it for granted that the good example gradually would be followed by the rest of the world.

FRENCH AUTO TOLL LIGHTER

Easter Holiday Deaths Totaled 19, With 88 Injuries.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, April 22.—During the three Easter holidays ending last night there were nineteen deaths and eighty-eight persons injured in motoring accidents in France.

Reports received from all parts of the country and checked over today reveal that fewer automobilists were killed in Easter crashes than either last Easter or at Easter time in 1928. There were twenty-two deaths and seventy-five injured last year and twenty-seven deaths and eighty injured the year before.

The reduction in mortality figures is credited to stricter enforcement of traffic regulations by increased forces of the rural gendarmerie each year on the nation's highways. On some of the more congested roads it is against the law for a high-powered car to pass a slower automobile.

ROB CINEMA OF $25,000.

London Thieves Get "Journey's End" Holiday Box Office Receipts.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, April 22.—The holiday receipts of the talkie "Journey's End," believed to total $25,000, were stolen from the Tivoli cinema in the Strand during last night. Yesterday nearly 10,000 people paid admission to see the screen version of Sheriff's war play, which had its London premiere only a week ago. Throughout the four-day Easter holiday, ending yesterday, long queues lined the streets with record week-end receipts at the box office.

It is believed the thieves hid in the theatre after the last performance yesterday, waited until the house was locked for the night, then rifled the manager's office safe. Five inspectors from Scotland Yard are investigating the robbery.

KYLSANT ADMITS SHIP POOL CHANCE

Won't Deny That White Star and Cunard May Unite in the Future, Though Not Now.

BIG COMBINATION FORESEEN

Fusing of All Royal Mail Interests, With Government Represented on Board, Said to Be Considered.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, April 22.—Lord Kylsant, the shipping magnate, today admitted that eventually the Cunard and White Star lines might pool their interests as the North German Lloyd and Hamburg-American lines did last month.

"Although no such developments are being considered at the moment, I cannot say that they might not be practicable at some future date," said Lord Kylsant, who is chairman and managing director of the Royal Mail Steam Packet, White Star, Union Castle and associated lines, and who on Sunday had issued a flat denial of the whole story. "I should not like to say that some sort of pooling arrangement will never be reached. Anything may happen."

Lord Kylsant quickly added that next week's meeting of Cunard and White Star representatives would be "an ordinary routine feature."

Cunard officials professed complete ignorance of the proposed combination.

"I know of no negotiations," said Sir Percy Bates, the new chairman of the Cunard Company. "It is all new to me."

Whether or not the two great lines decide to pool their fleets, British shipping men are more and more convinced that some amalgamation of forces is brewing. From one usually well-informed cource came the prediction today that Lord Kylsant's dream of amalgamating his world-wide interests might soon be realized by a sweeping combination of the Royal Mail and associated companies, with the government holding a direct financial interest.

The scheme said to be under official consideration is for the formation of a huge British shipping corporation, with Lord Kylsant as governor and the British Government having direct representation on the board through nominated directors. All the Royal Mail interests would thus be fused into one company, as Lord Kylsant hinted in a speech to the Lamport & Holt line stockholders last month, but the constituent companies would not lose their identity and would keep their own house flags and trading names.

No confirmation of this plan was obtainable from the Royal Mail offices, but it is said to be in line with Lord Kylsant's hint of "a shipping company of which Great Britain would not be ashamed."

DE FOREST HAILS BYRD'S RADIO WORK

Sending Tale of Polar Flight Is Called Most Astounding Event in Communications' History.

DIFFICULTIES ARE CITED

Link to Civilization Helped Spur Explorers to Greatest Efforts, Inventor Declares in Book.

The achievements of Admiral Byrd and his associates in radio communication, especially at the time of the south polar flight, provided the most astounding example in the history of the art of transferring intelligence, in the opinion of Dr. Lee de Forest, radio inventor and producing engineer.

This estimate of Admiral Byrd's accomplishment is contained in an essay on "Communication," in a volume entitled "Toward Civilization," edited by Dr. Charles A. Beard and published today by Longmans, Green & Co. Professor Michael I. Pupin and Dr. R. A. Millikan are among the others who in this volume give some of their views on present day life.

Whole World Awaited Story.

"Outstanding, beyond all compare, as a vivid example of the wonders which modern radio has achieved in the progress of communication is the reporting to a breathlessly waiting world of the recent flight over the South Pole by Commander Richard Byrd," Dr. de Forest declares. "In that event," he says, "shines epitomized all the wonder, all the thrilling romance with which radio has endowed and adorned science. Nothing has more grippingly appealed to the popular imagination, now somewhat stabilized and based on foundations of fact, than this reality.

"There at the uttermost nadir of the world was an intrepid hero of exploration, with a devoted band, carefully educated and trained for the task, equipped with the latest implements which the sciences of navigation and aviation have contrived, profiting from all that the hard experience of a century of polar exploration could teach, in the very act of epochal flight over bleak abysses, scaling forbidding barriers of unimaginable mountains of ice. And by virtue of radio communication the runners of Byrd's plane had scarcely touched the snows at his base station before the presses of the entire world were detailing this latest triumph of man over matter.

"It is not too much to classify the achievement of Byrd and his assiciates with radio communication, especially during this South Pole flight, as the most astounding example in the history of the art of transferring intelligence.

Radio Spurs Explorers.

"The explorer now knows that the world may follow him, intimately almost, if radio is employed. It cheers him to accomplish the utmost in the limited length of time the party can survive beyond the borders of civilization."

"Constant use of radio by Byrd since his party went south has proved its reliability under conditions more trying than could have been produced artificially by man. It means infinitely more than if communication was merely established between two fixed radio stations far apart on the earth's surface, such as New York and London.

"It may be only a matter of a few months before some means may be found to transmit photographs by radio even from such a frontier post of hazardous exploration as that of the camp at Little America," continues Dr. de Forest. "It most certainly is possible today. A small portable device hooked to the radio transmitter there on the ice cap could send a daily picture account of the men and their environment intensely interesting to the public.

"Television even from such a transient outpost will come in time. But television would be of only a limited value to such an expedition, as more detail, at least for printing purposes, can be put into still-picture transmission."

Dr. de Forest sees the "whole scheme of communications, by electricity, by news print, by post," as a "constantly working tendency toward education, culture, broadermindedness, community of aims, mutual understanding. It is a far-reaching, slowly extending step toward a common, or at least a commonly understood, language. And finally to international friendship, international comity—an end of war."

Sees "Soul" in Machinery.

Professor Pupin asserts in a chapter on "Machine Industry and Idealism" that as every medieval cathedral had a soul—a part of the soul of its designer and of the souls of the pious men who built it—so "every modern machine has a soul; it is a part of the soul of its inventor and of the patient souls of the men who developed it. Who dare say that these souls are guided by a sordid spirit? Whenever you speak of this land as the land of machines, remember the machine and its pilot who with a honey-hearted smile carried our American message of good-will to the nations of the earth. The gentle soul of the pilot is so closely welded to the soul of his machine that the union cannot be better described than by the affectionate title 'We.'"

LUNA PARK CYCLORAMA TO SHOW BYRD'S BASE

Painting in Amusement Park Will Be 350 Feet in Diameter and Will Cost $25,000.

A cyclorama of Little America, the base of Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd in the Antarctic, will be opened in Luna Park, Coney Island, on May 17, it was announced yesterday by E. B. Merritt, the general manager of the amusement resort. Mr. Merritt said that the cyclorama, which will cost $25,000, will be one of the largest in the world, not excepting the famous cyclorama of the Holy Land in Ste. Anne de Beaupré, Quebec.

The cyclorama is being painted on the cylindrical interior of the Moon Building in Luna Park, where last year there was a cyclorama of the Battle of Château-Thierry. It will be 350 feet in diameter and 50 feet high. A staff of thirty artists, under David Paige, New York portrait painter, is executing the work.

The central part of the painting will depict Byrd's base at Little America, and will show the huts and stations in which the explorers lived. Some of the huts will be constructed in relief in the foreground, lending verisimilitude to the spectacle.

To the left will be a painting of the Bay of Whales, showing Byrd's flagship at anchor. To the right will be the passageway between two glaciers through which Byrd passed on his flight to the South Pole. A model of the airplane Floyd Bennett will be suspended in front of the glaciers.

Around the sides of the cyclorama will be paintings and miniature reliefs of huts, dog teams and men. In the foreground will be reliefs of glaciers and ice and water, animated by electrical effects.

In front of the cyclorama building will be a model of Byrd's wireless aerial, which will issue an intermittent blue spark. The building itself will be painted to represent icebergs and Antarctic scenery. In the entrance will be an exhibition of photographs of the expedition, lent by THE NEW YORK TIMES.

The Moon Building is so-called because it originally housed the cyclorama, "A Trip to the Moon," the first to be shown at the island, it was said.

BYRD TO BROADCAST TALKS TO CHILDREN

Admiral in Three Lectures Will Tell Them All About His Expedition.

Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd will deliver three radio lectures on his Antarctic expedition in response to requests from school children, it was announced yesterday by Captain H. H. Railey, representative of the expedition. The lectures, to be given under the auspices of the Tide Water Oil Company, will be carried by a nation-wide hook-up of the National Broadcasting Company.

Contingent upon the Admiral's arrival here on June 14, his talks will be put on the radio on June 19 and 25 and July 2. They will recount the purposes, history and achievements of the expedition. Admiral Byrd is to be introduced by Dr. John H. Finley, who will sketch Admiral Byrd's boyhood.

"The talks will be given in response to hundreds of letters received from school organizations and from individual boys and girls in all parts of the country," Captain Railey said. "Each letter, at Admiral Byrd's specific request, has been personally acknowledged by me in his name. The Admiral is eager to express his appreciation of the interest of these children as soon as possible after his return to the United States.

"Letters from children's organizations indicate that the progress of the Byrd expedition, by the children's own choice, has become one of the most popular topics of discussion in current events classes, in Sunday schools, young people's clubs and high schools. The activities of the expedition have been repeatedly taken up by such groups, indicating a sustained interest and an eagerness to absorb additional information as it has developed."

WILKINS TELLS HOW POLE ICE AFFECTS US

Explorer Here Declares Path of Antarctic Pack Alters Climate in North.

PLANS WEATHER STATIONS

Observations There Will Greatly Aid Predictions Here, He Asserts at Geographical Society Dinner.

Captain Sir Hubert Wilkins, speaking before the members of the American Geographical Society at the Engineering Societies Building, 29 West Thirty-ninth Street, last night, gave a brief outline of his plans for the establishment of meteorological stations in Antarctica. In this manner the seasonal weather conditions may be forecast with greater accuracy than in the past, and daily information may be transmitted during the Summer months by airplane from one station to another and ultimately by radio to the outer world, he declared.

He asserted that the ever-changing ice drift from the Antarctic regions have a great influence not only on the Southern but on the Northern Hemisphere, and that the meteorological information to be gained from Antarctic stations would be of great benefit and importance.

Sir Hubert, who was introduced by Dr. John H. Finley as "among the immortal explorers who began with Ulysses, the future anemocrat of the south winds," repeated his conviction that the submarine will be more economical and practical for Antarctic exploration than the airplane and the surface ship.

The chief value of the airplane, said Sir Hubert, is in reconnaissance. The surface ship is impractical in that it cannot penetrate more than a certain distance of ice. For real scientific research work that requires time the submersible boat will ultimately be found to be the most suitable, he predicted.

"I firmly believe," declared Sir Hubert, "that it is both safe and feasible to use submersible vessels. It is more economical than airplanes and surface vessels for use at meteorological stations. I have had ample occasion to establish the use of the airplane both in Arctic and in Antarctic exploration, and the Norvega, the Belgica and other ships have showed how unsafe and unsatisfactory it is to take surface vessels to the coast line. Such a submersible ship need not necessarily be like a war vessel. It would be specially constructed. It could follow the lanes of thin ice and easily break through with the conning tower."

Again, the explorer continued, the submarine could travel on the surface of the water and dive whenever meeting belts of ice that form absolute barriers to surface vessels.

Describing the Antarctic as "the greatest refrigerating area in the world," Sir Hubert intimated that his future exploration in those parts would be confined to meteorological studies. He paid tribute to the late Carl Ben Eielson and expressed his gratitude for the financial support and confidence given him by the American Geographical Society. The two expeditions with Deception Island as the base he described both by word and motion pictures. While the ice had been six feet thick in 1919 and 1920, it had been only two feet on the last expedition, and the weather seems to be becoming warmer each year, he said.

"We can no longer depend on Deception Island as a base," he declared. "In all the 4,000 miles we traveled on the steamer William Scoresby we did not see one-half mile of flat land or flat ice on which we could land or start on an airplane, and for that reason I had to forego my visit to the Ross Sea to Admiral Byrd, one of my very great and illustrious friends."

R. M. SMYTHE ESTATE DEFIES APPRAISAL

Officials Who Used to Call on Testator to Value Old Stocks Now Must Tackle His Own.

CARD INDEX IS CHIEF ASSET

Describes Most Security Issues in America Since Colonial Days—Widow Is Sole Beneficiary.

With the filing of the will of Roland M. Smythe in the Brooklyn Surrogate's Court yesterday proceedings were begun to settle one of the most unusual estates ever handled by that court. As a dealer and appraiser of obsolete stock and bond issues, Mr. Smythe left what is regarded as among the most extensive collections of "worthless" securities in the world.

Tax appraisers, whose customary procedure has been to call upon Mr. Smythe to trace and appraise such extinct securities as may come to their attention, are now confronted with the task of appraising without his aid an estate of hundreds of thousands of corporate ghosts.

Mr. Smythe, who died at his home, 62 Montague Street, Brooklyn, on April 2, bequeathed his entire estate to his wife, Mrs. Edith Haviland Smythe. For more than forty years he conducted his business at 2 Broadway.

The principal asset of his estate is regarded as the card index system which describes the history of nearly every stock and bond issue ever put out in this country. The records go back to Colonial days. In addition to the card index, Mr. Smythe left a collection of New York City directories which goes back to the eighteenth century.

George Brokaw Compton of Compton & Delaney, attorneys for the estate, said yesterday that the value of the estate could not be estimated at this time.

Mr. Smythe had jealously guarded his records during his lifetime, and it was learned yesterday that he left a memorandum to his family directing that they be destroyed rather than be sold to what the testator regarded as some of his "imitators." Mr. Compton, however, said that the business would be continued by the estate for the time being and eventually would be disposed of to persons to be selected by the family. The will which was filed yesterday was made in 1914.

Although Mr. Smythe's business was principally concerned with appraising obsolete securities, he also dealt in them and used to tell many stories of almost miraculous recoveries on apparently worthless stocks. One customer, he once related, purchased 700 shares of a "dead" issue for $40 a share and afterward realized $280,000 for the block of stock. Another man who bought a similar block for papering his walls afterward sold the stock for $14,000.

GERMANY AGAIN BANS ARMS SALES IN CHINA

Berlin Government Frowns on Oriental Trade—Missions Enrage Communists.

BERLIN, April 22 (AP).—In view of the threats of revolution in China, the government today warned Germans interested in Oriental trade against supplying munitions to Chinese groups.

[This is the third such warning issued by Germany within a year.]

HANKOW, April 22 (AP).—Miss Nina E. Gemmell, a missionary, formerly of Girard, Kan., and Tacoma, Wash., kidnapped March 23 by bandits at Yanchow, Kiangsi Province, and later released, asserted here today that foreign missionaries in the interior of China were being made the special victims of Communistic raiders whose depredations have wrought chaos in many districts.

Miss Gemmell said her captors repeatedly stated that they considered foreign missionaries responsible for China's ills and the poverty of the people.

"The Communistic leader charged we were imperialistic agents of our home countries and pathfinders of business; that we were capitalists, taking the people's money; that we were leading the people astray with religious superstitions; that we were effecting a cultural invasion, and that we had taken the best land, leaving the people the worst," she said.

TORONTO, Ont., April 22.—Chinese officials are in communication with the captors of the Rev. C. A. Bridgman, Canadian united church missionary in West China, and hope to negotiate an early release, said a cablegram to foreign mission offices in Canada from the mission station at Chungking, West China.

HOLD-UP GIRL GETS 5 YEARS IN AUBURN

Judge Imposes Sentence After She Admits Taking Part in 30 of 65 Robberies.

2 YOUTHS GO TO SING SING

Receive Terms of 7 to 15 Years After Pleading Guilty—Spent $5,000 Loot in Night Clubs.

A girl and two youths were sentenced to State's prison for a series of hold-ups yesterday by Judge Bertini in General Sessions. A fourth member of the band pleaded guilty to another robbery charge before Judge Levine in another part of the court and was remanded to the Tombs for sentence today.

Amelia Bascom, 20 years old, of 15 West Ninety-sixth Street, who admitted that she had abandoned her husband and their infant son when she came to this city from Chicopee, Mass., several months ago, was sentenced to Auburn prison for women for five to ten years after she had admitted participating in more than thirty of sixty-five robberies.

"On whose suggestion did you perpetrate those robberies?" Judge Bertini asked after she had made her admission.

"The boys here," she replied, pointing to Samuel Solomon, 23, of 50 West 112th Street, and his brother, Jacob, 17, who also lived at the West Ninety-sixth Street address. They were awaiting sentence.

"I was going to give you a chance and send you to Bedford Reformatory for Women," said Judge Bertini, "but I'm afraid you have gone too far. I'll send you to Auburn."

The Solomon brothers, with the girl, had pleaded guilty to the specific hold-up of two men in a shoe store at 2,593 Broadway on Jan. 20, after the girl had entered as a customer. They took $402 from the cash register and $13 and a wristwatch from Jerome J. Siegel, the manager.

One of two pistols found under a pillow in their apartment proved to be that taken by the gunmen from Detective Hubert after the robbers had felled him with pistols when they held up a shoe store at 837 Eighth Avenue.

The court also was told that the two young gunmen had admitted they obtained between $5,000 and $6,000 in money in their hold-ups, but had spent it all with the girl and the fourth member of the band, Morris Con, in night clubs.

"I'll sentence each of you to Sing Sing for from seven to fifteen years," announced the court to the youths, "and I'll add an additional sentence of from five to ten years each for the use of the pistols."

Indicted for Murder in Bronx.

The Bronx grand jury returned yesterday a first-degree murder indictment against Harry Shuttenfeld, 24 years old, in the fatal shooting of Abraham Olshwang, 23, of 2,226 Westchester Avenue, on June 13, 1929. The shooting followed an argument during which Shuttenfeld and a friend are alleged to have accused Olshwang of "tipping off" the police to a dice game the day before. District Attorney McLaughlin said Shuttenfeld, who has not been at his home at 940 Simpson Street since the shooting, had been traced to Chicago. The shooting occurred at 3 A. M. in front of a restaurant at 942 Southern Boulevard.

I. R. T. to Test Silencer Today On Grand Central Turnstiles

The noisy clattering of Interborough turnstiles in the Grand Central station will be replaced by gentle clicking sounds this afternoon, if a new noise-eliminating device, to be installed by the company, proves effective. Members of the Transit Commission, reporters and officials of the Noise Abatement Commission will lend attentive ears at 2:30 P. M., when the new device will receive its first public tryout.

In a letter received yesterday by Chairman William G. Fullen of the Transit Commission, Frank Hedley, president of the Interborough, explained that the company had been working on the device since Feb. 19 and would attach it today to all turnstiles at Grand Central. If the test proves effective the company plans to make similar installations on all its turnstiles.

The Transit Commission heard a request yesterday by Pelham Bay Park taxpayers for improved service and facilities and directed its engineering staff to make a survey and report.

presented for license tomorrow, would you grant it?" Commissioner Whalen was asked yesterday.

"I will maintain my present attitude while the case now in the courts is pending," he replied.

Although Mayor Walker did not comment on the situation yesterday, it is understood that he will not interfere with Commissioner Whalen's course of conduct, although theoretically he has the power to order Corporation Counsel Hilly to drop the appeal or to request Commissioner Whalen to give up his contention of rate-fixing power.

If Commissioner Whalen adheres to his present policy it will mean that the 1,500 members of the Amalgamated Taxi Association, who are said to be ready to operate at a flat 15-cent-a-mile rate, will derive no immediate benefit from Mayor Walker's veto of the Board of Aldermen's ordinance. It will take some time for litigation of the issue through the Appellate Division and possibly through the Court of Appeals.

Edward J. O'Brien, counsel for the Amalgamated, and Michael Donella, its vice president, said yesterday that they were studying the effect of the veto. It is believed that they will make another court effort to force Commissioner Whalen to grant a low-rate license if he shows no disposition to align himself with Mayor Walker's attitude.

Walsh Begins Organizing.

Frank P. Walsh, chairman of the five-man commission named by Mayor Walker to make a thorough survey and report on the taxicab industry in this city, began yesterday the work of organization. Within a week, he said, he expected to begin work on a program for the commission to follow. The Merchants Association submitted five nominations to Mayor Walker, from which one will be chosen to serve. The State Chamber of Commerce and Day & Zimmerman, Inc., are expected to name their choices within the next few days. The fifth member of the commission is Daniel L. Reardon of the United States Trucking Corporation.

Commissioner Whalen did not comment yesterday on Mayor Walker's plan for a commission study of the taxicab situation. Whether the Police Department should control and regulate taxicabs, including the question of minimum rates, or whether they should be regulated by some other agency, perhaps under a system of franchises, as suggested by Mayor Walker, is certain to be one of the important problems to come before the Mayor's new commission.

The taxicab manufacturers and the operators of large taxicab fleets were silent yesterday on Mayor Walker's plan for a commission survey, but indicated that they would have statements to make later in the week. Their general attitude was that a thorough and impartial survey of the industry would reveal the need for a rate revision permitting operators and owners alike to earn a fair return.

ARGUES FOR THE ELEVATED

Browne Would Delay Removal Until Sixth Av. Subway Is Built.

Postponement of the removal of the Sixth Avenue elevated line until the new Sixth Avenue subway is in operation was urged yesterday in a letter sent to the Board of Estimate by Stewart Browne, president of the United Real Estate Owners' Association. The question of the immediate removal of the elevated line was before the Committee of the Whole for public hearing, but was adjourned for two weeks.

Mr. Browne declared that there was no real merit to the argument that construction of the new subway while the elevated line remained in place would make Sixth Avenue impassable for vehicular and foot travel. The Hudson tubes, he said, were constructed without blocking traffic. To construct the subway first and then remove the elevated road, he declared, would mean a tremendous saving in condemnation costs because the subway line would destroy almost entirely the value of the overhead route.

Havemeyer Sale Brings $12,245.

A one-day session yesterday of the furnishings and decorations of the residence of the late Mrs. H. O. Havemeyer, 1 East Sixty-sixth Street, sold yesterday under direction of the American Art Association-Anderson Galleries, Inc., brought $12,245. A mudejar pino wood ceiling, fifteenth century Spanish, brought $625 from P. Cormier. Mrs. T. Dunham paid $425 for a grand piano, $300 for a suite of boxwood furniture and $325 for a suite of stencil-decorated furniture. A Persian stair carpet was sold to G. G. Riggs for $335.

AMERICAN DENTIST KIDNAPPED IN MEXICO

Dr. G. E. Purnell, 64, of Guadalajara Held for $6,000 Ransom—Troops Seek Band.

MEXICO CITY, April 22 (AP).—Dr. George Edward Purnell, the third American victim of Mexican kidnapping bands in a period of two weeks, was held captive tonight in a rough and wild country northwest of Guadalajara. Federal troops were scouring the country in pursuit of the kidnappers.

Only this morning the American embassy received word that Dr. Purnell, a dentist, who has lived for nearly thirty-five years in Mexico, had been seized near Guadalajara on Sunday.

By telephone from that city it was reported this afternoon that the kidnappers were demanding a ransom of $6,000. Raleigh Gibson, American Counsel, was in the field all day trying to get information about Dr. Purnell and to arrange for his release but could not be reached late this afternoon.

Dr. Purnell is 64 years old, and has a wife and three children.

MANILA, April 22.—Three army Loening amphibian planes left Manila today in a survey flight of the Southern Philippines airways and airports. One of the four starting planes damaged a wing in its take-off and dropped out. Arriving at Iloilo, another of the planes broke its steering wheel. There was no casualty.

MESSITER'S SLAYER HANGED

British Home Secretary Refuses Reprieve for Podmore.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, April 22. — William Henry Podmore, 29-year-old engineer convicted of murdering Vivian Messiter, an American oil company agent, was hanged at Winchester prison this morning after last-minute appeals had failed to bring about a reprieve.

J. R. Clynes, the Home Secretary, made a strongly worded statement concerning the Independent Labor party's resolution regretting his refusal to recommend a reprieve.

"The resolution would require me to ignore the solemn decision of the courts, judges and jury and to act upon the opinion of capital punishment," he said. "I hope no Secretary of State will ever be influenced by such an indefinable doctrine. I am not prepared to make mock of the law, however strong the desire may be to change it."

Podmore showed no emotion as he went to his death. He walked to the scaffold firmly, with head erect. When aroused at 6 A. M., apparently after having slept well, he dressed himself in the double-breasted blue serge suit, brown shoes and spats that he had worn throughout his trial. He drank a pint of coffee and a stimulant, but refused the breakfast offered him.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., April 22. (AP)—J. Harrold Sommers, author and publisher and former husband of Rheba Crawford, who was known as the "Angel of Broadway," was married today to Miss Hazel Albright, of East Liverpool, Ohio. They started by automobile for New York. Mr. Sommers obtained a divorce from Miss Crawford in February, asserting that she deserted him for her religious work. Three days later Miss Crawford announced she would marry Ray Splivalo, of San Francisco.

SLAIN IN A QUARREL OVER EX-CONVICT PAY

Marshall Stillman Secretary Shot Down in Home Brew Resort—Two Others Hurt.

FOUR HUNTED AS KILLERS

Victim Was to Have Announced Decision on Demand for Rise in Leather Plant Salaries.

One man was killed last night and two others were wounded in an alleged home brew beer establishment in the basement of the four-story tenement building at 227 West Twenty-fifth Street as the outgrowth of an argument on the question of increasing wages of employes of the Amazon Leather Goods Company, 151 West Twenty-sixth Street, which is operated by the Marshal Stillman Foundation for the rehabilitation of ex-convicts.

The dead man was George Hodson, 40 years old, secretary of the leather goods company. The wounded men, both of whom were taken to Bellevue Hospital and questioned, were Murray Baumanblatt, 24 years old, of 162 Blake Avenue, Brooklyn, the Hotel Arlington, Twenty-fifth Street and Broadway, who is also connected with the leather goods company and who was shot in the left breast, and Charles Meyers, 43 years old, alleged proprietor of the West Twenty-fifth Street establishment, who was shot in the neck, the bullet lodging in the jaw. Meyers was held a prisoner on a charge of violating the prohibition law after the police had seized seventeen cases of what they asserted was home brew beer. Baumanblatt was later held on a charge of homicide.

The police said that Hodson and Baumanblatt had attended in the afternoon a meeting of employes of the leather goods company at which there was a discussion of the employes' demands for increased wages. Hodson and Baumanblatt left the meeting late in the day, saying they were going out to supper and would return and announce the decision on the wage increase.

The police were informed that when they failed to return four of the workers went out in search of them. They went to Meyers's establishment, where an argument began immediately between them and Hodson. Two of the four men, according to the police, drew pistols and started shooting, the noise of the shots arousing tenants on the upper floors.

Before the police arrived the four men escaped, leaving Hodson lying dead with three bullets in his body, and Meyers unconscious on the floor. Shortly afterward, Baumanblatt was picked up wounded at the corner of Twenty-seventh Street and Sixth Avenue. His condition caused suspicion and he was taken also to Bellevue, where Meyers identified him as the man who was in company with Hodson.

The police learned that Hodson had submitted his resignation a month ago as secretary of the leather goods company but that it had not yet taken effect.

Alpheus Geer, founder of the Marshall Stillman Movement, denied last night that there had been a conference in the afternoon relative to a wage-rate for the workers at the leather goods factory.

WASHINGTON, April 22 (AP).—Harry F. Guggenheim, Ambassador to Cuba, arrived at Bolling Field today, after a flight from Havana started yesterday afternoon. He came in a two-seated Vought Corsair plane piloted by Lieutenant Philips Melville, air attaché of the embassy in Havana. The Ambassador said he would remain in the capital a few days, that his business was official and that he expected to make similar airplane trips in the future.

HOSPITAL HONORS THOMAS SNELL AT 94

St. Mark's Presents Scroll to Senior Member of Board—He Recalls Early Days Here.

Thomas Snell, 323 Lexington Avenue, senior member of the board of managers of St. Mark's Hospital and a trustee of Cooper Institute, celebrated his ninety-fourth birthday yesterday by receiving a committee from the hospital bearing a scroll of greetting. He received the scroll at his office at 110 East Tenth Street. To the committee Mr. Snell described the New York of his boyhood, when he went swimming in the pond at what is now Fifth Avenue and Union Square, and visited the glue factory of Peter Cooper on the shore of the pond.

Mr. Snell's grandfather founded in 1793 the paint firm which continues under the direction of Mr. Snell, and wihch painted and decorated Cooper Union when the first steel work was put in place, and which decorated the first home of St. Mark's Hospital, the old Rutherford mansion, Eleventh Street and Second Avenue.

Mr. Snell was a member of Company K, Thirty-seventh New York State Militia, called out to greet the Prince of Wales, later King Edward VII, when the "Fighting Sixty-ninth" Regiment's Irish commander, Colonel Corcoran, refused to turn out his regiment to greet a British prince. As a first sergeant, Mr. Snell fought through the Civil War and suffered several wounds.

The scroll presented to him reads:

"1836 to 1930—To Mr. Thomas Snell, April 22.

"Greetings on your ninety-fourth birthday from the school of nursing of St. Mark's Hospital. This greeting is offered as a tribute to your interest in education for those who earnestly desire it and as a congratulation upon your long years of useful residence in older New York City, and as a hope of continued health and happiness in the service of young men and women."

The committee included Bradley Martin, vice president and member of the board of managers of St. Mark's Hospital; Dr. John F. Breshnahan, superintendent; Miss Elsie Maurer, director of nursing service, and the Misses Beatrice Kublanow, Mabel Vallella and Cecilia Devlin, class presidents of the nursing school.

SLUG ADMIRAL IN STREET.

Thugs Fell and Rob Retired British Officer Here.

Rear Admiral F. W. Parker, British Navy, retired, who has been for some years surgeon of the Atlantic transport liner Minnetonka, was attacked Monday night by thugs in West Fourteenth Street between Seventh and Eighth Avenues while returning to his ship. His jaw was broken in two places and skull fractured by blows from a blackjack.

Dr. Parker's pockets were turned inside out and $3 taken. He managed to get back to the Minnetonka after lying in the roadway for some time and was sent in an ambulance yesterday morning to the French Hospital, where it was said that his condition is critical. He has a pension from the British Navy of $4,500 a year, and always said that he remained at sea because he liked it.

EUROPA NOT SEEKING FURTHER RECORDS

German Liner Arrives Here Nearly 3 Hours Behind Time of Maiden Voyage.

HEAD OF LINE A PASSENGER

Philip Heineken Says His Company Will Be Satisfied Till Another Challenges Its Speed Marks.

The North German Lloyd liner Europa, which established an Atlantic speed record on her maiden voyage last month, arrived yesterday in 4 days 19 hours 57 minutes, 2 hours and 51 minutes behind her record time. Captain Nicolaus Johnsen, commodore of the line, said that no attempt had been made to beat the ship's best crossing from the Cherbourg breakwater.

Both Captain Johnsen and Philip Heineken, president of the company, who was a passenger, denied that the Europa and her sister ship, the Bremen, would contest for new Atlantic speed laurels. The Europa holds the westward record and the Bremen has made the best time on the eastward trip, and both men declared that they would be satisfied until a contender "outside the family" threatened the records.

ment between the North German Lloyd and the Hamburg American Line constituted a merger. He asserted it was merely an arrangement for economical reasons, to avoid duplication in passenger schedules.

Felix M. Warburg, banker and philanthropist and chairman of the American Jewish Joint Distribution committee, returned from London on the Europa. He said he was encouraged by the Palestine outlook after four weeks of conferences with the Jewish Agency for that country.

Mr. Warburg disputed the statements of recently returned travelers that America is hated in foreign countries and said that American prestige was never higher abroad than it is today.

Herbert Brenon, movie director, who returned on the Europa, said that American talking pictures were a failure in Europe and that Continental theatregoers were satisfied with the silent drama.

Jo Davidson, sculptor, returned with the announcement that he was through wasting his time with "big men," with kings and potentates, and would work hereafter only on real people like George Bernard Shaw, Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, Edgar Wallace and Somerset Maugham. He said he had just finished busts of these men and found them "real human beings."

ENDORSE EDISON CONTEST.

Governors of All States Reported In Favor of Scholarship Plan.

The Governors of all forty-eight States again have endorsed the Edison scholarship contest, Frank B. Schell of the Thomas A. Edison Industries announced yesterday through The Associated Press.

Mr. Schell said the District of Columbia refused to participate in the contest "on the ground that it makes too much of the award of a single scholarship, and because they fear it may be used to serve the ends of commercial publicity."

The Indiana State Board of Education has made two scholarships available in the contest.

TELLS OF GIVING TAX BRIBE.

Former Collector's Accuser Testifies "Fixing" Cost Him $15,000.

Testimony that a $15,000 bribe had been paid to certify a false income tax report as correct was given yesterday at the trial in the Federal court in Brooklyn of Meyer Bronin, former deputy internal revenue collector, charged with conspiracy to defraud the government. The testimony was given by Joseph Jill, produce dealer of 270 Washington Street, who has pleaded guilty to a similar charge.

Jill swore that Bronin had discovered the failure to make proper returns from the firm's books in March, 1926, and had asked for $100,000 to have it "fixed." Jill said that he had refused to pay so much and after discussion $15,000 was agreed upon. He swore that Leonard Martin, confidential secretary to Jill's brother Frank, had taken the money to Bronin's home at 3,572 Bedford Avenue, Brooklyn, and later reported that he gave the money to Bronin.

STARTS COOLEY INQUIRY.

Crain Aide to Call Witnesses Before Grand Jury Today.

Assistant District Attorney Hastings announced yesterday he would begin submitting evidence this morning before the regular April grand jury in the investigation District Attorney Crain had ordered of the General Sessions Probation Bureau.

Mr. Hastings said that the investigation would be inclusive of the employment for seven months last year of Mrs. Marguerite F. Lawler as provisional chief clerk, under her brother, Edwin J. Cooley, chief of the bureau, while, at the same time, she was employed as a public school teacher in Buffalo.

Mr. Crain a few days before had ordered that in the event of any evidence of crime in the operation of the bureau being uncovered, this be segregated, and taken to the additional grand jury for possible indictments.

"I shall call several witnesses before the grand jury tomorrow," Mr. Hastings said, "but I shall not give out their names at present. The investigation will be thorough."

Mr. Crain last Monday said that both Mr. Cooley and Mrs. Lawler would be permitted to testify before the grand jurors if they waived immunity.

Stocking 'Bank' Costs Woman $400.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., April 22 (AP).—Women still carry money in their stockings. Mrs. Irene Sidney of 216 West Seventy-second Street, New York, reported to the White Plains police today that she had lost $400 in bills she was carrying in one of her stockings as she was traveling between a restaurant at 189 Main Street and the New York Central station.

FURRIER JAILED FOR THEFT.

Gets Three-Month Term for $17,000 Larceny From Bank.

Samuel Cohen, 38 years old, of 477 East Second Street, Brooklyn, indicted in connection with the theft of $17,000 from the Chatham Phenix National Bank and Trust Company in January, 1928, through filing a false financial statement, was sentenced to a three-month workhouse term by Judge Collins in General Sessions yesterday.

Cohen had pleaded guilty to the charge a month before. He was a member of the firm of Cohen & Feldman, furriers, which failed in December, 1928, with liabilities of $650,000 and about $25,000 in assets. Cohen, according to a probation officer's report to the court, owed the bank $80,000 at the time of the failure, and at one time had owed the bank as much as $121,000.

Judge Collins explained the light sentence by saying he had been informed that Cohen was a victim of heart disease which might prove fatal at any minute, and that clemency pleas had been made on Cohen's behalf in letters from about 150 persons, including lawyers, rabbis and business and professional Newspaper Union Rejects Offer to Arbitrate All Differences, Including Five-Day Week.

PUBLISHERS REVIEW CASE

Explain Split With Workers Followed Attempts to Reach Agreement Lasting Nearly a Year.

Typographical Union 6, which includes employes of the New York newspapers, has voted to ask the parent organization, the International Typographical Union, for authority to take a strike vote and has rejected the proposal of the Publishers Association to arbitrate all differences which arose in the negotiations of the last year for a new agreement, it was announced yesterday by Lester L. Jones, executive secretary of the association.

The union's demand for a five-day week with six days' pay was refused by the publishers, who proposed a three-year contract with a wage increase of $1 a week for each year of the contract. This was rejected by the union, which voted to consider no proposal that did not embody the five-day week. Subsequently, at conferences with Charles P. Howard, president of the International Typographical Union, the publishers withdrew their previous proposals and suggested an immediate resort to arbitration by an unbiased authority. The arbitration proposal was placed before the union members last Sunday and they voted it down and decided to ask for strike sanction. The wage agreement expired last July. Conferences on a new contract had begun on June 18, 1929.

Negotiations Are Cited.

Mr. Jones's statement summarizing the negotiations preceding the break between publishers and the union follows:

"At a meeting held last Sunday of the New York Typographical Union 6 the members of which constitute the work forces in the composing rooms of all the New York newspapers, the members voted to reject a proposal from the Publishers Association of New York City to arbitrate all differences which had arisen in the negotiation of a new working agreement and further voted to request the officers of the International organization, which is superior to the local union, to give it authority to take a strike vote, which if granted may affect the daily newspapers of Greater New York.

"The proposal of the Publishers Association to resort to arbitration followed almost a year of negotiations between the representatives of the union and a committee of the publishers, which negotiations had proved fruitless so far as determining the provisions of a new contract. This condition was largely the result of a demand on the part of the union for a five-day working week with six days' pay, which demand was and is so firmly persisted in by the union that the publishers were officially notified that the union would consider no proposal which did not include the five-day week with six days' pay.

"The efforts of the publishers to reach a prompt and mutually satisfactory agreement were begun early in January, 1929, some six months previous to the end of the period covered by the contract negotiated in 1926. In January the publishers wrote to the union asking an early exchange of proposals and suggesting May 1, 1929, as the date for the beginning of negotiations and proposed that if no agreement had been reached by July 1, 1929, that all differences then existing be submitted to arbitration. The publishers offered to advance the date of arbitration if the union so desired.

Demands Are Delayed.

"The union replied that they were in accord with the publishers' request for an early exchange of proposals, but, although the publishers' proposals were ready for the consideration of the joint committees on Feb. 21, the union's proposals were not presented until June 10.

"Conferences began on June 18, 1929. After sixteen meetings had been held with little or no progress toward an agreement and following the announcement of the union that it would not agree to the arbitration of certain paragraphs in the publishers' proposal, the publishers offered to renew the terms of the existing contract for a further period of four years.

"The union's committee submitted this proposal to a general meeting of the union held Sunday, July 21, and later reported to the publishers' committee that the proposal had been rejected, accompanying this report with an implied threat of a strike. At this time the publishers in a written document notified the union's committee that it was their desire to continue the policy of negotiation, and of unrestricted arbitration if negotiation should prove ineffective.

"The union thereupon referred the differences which had arisen to its international president, Charles P. Howard, who came to New York from International headquarters at Indianapolis and conferred with the publishers' representatives on Aug. 6 and 7. Because of engagements which he explained could not be postponed he left New York without making any progress toward a settlement and the publishers were not able to arrange for further conferences with any union representatives until Jan. 16 of this year, when President Howard and two representatives of the local union again conferred with a subcommittee of the publishers' representatives.

"After several meetings and when it became apparent that no agreement could be reached because of the union's insistence upon a five-day week, President Howard asked the publishers' representatives to make some further offer for the settlement of a new agreement. In compliance with that request the publishers proposed a three-year contract which should include a wage increase of $1 each week for the first year; an additional dollar each week for the second year; and another dollar each week for the third year, asking only that the union should agree to give the newspapers a satisfactory production and that the publishers should have the privilege of paying wages by check.

"This offer was submitted to a full meeting of the union held on Feb. 9 and was refused and its committee instructed to notify the publishers that the union would not consider any proposal that did not embody the five-day week.

"Following this action of the local union President Howard and representatives of the executive council of the International union came to New York and were in conferences with the publishers' representatives on March 21, 24 and 25. At the conclusion of these three conferences the publishers notified President Howard and his associates that withdrawing all previous proposals the publishers suggested an immediate resort to a fair arbitration in which all differences should be submitted to an unbiased authority. This offer of arbitration was made in writing and was last Sunday submitted to the members of the local union, who voted to reject the proffer and ask for strike sanction."

FIGHT PORTO RICAN DISEASE

Columbia University Physicians Report on Tropical Ills.

Advances in attacking tropical infections were made during the past year by the School of Tropical Medicine of the University of Porto Rico, under the auspices of Columbia University, according to a report by Dr. Earl B. McKinley, the director, made public at Columbia yesterday.

The staff of America's first school of tropical medicine located in the tropics has conducted researches into the care and treatment of tropical anemias, leprosy, skin infections, malaria, typhoid fever, tuberculosis and other diseases.

Dr. McKinley, in his report, stresses the need for solving nutritional problems in Porto Rico if general good health is to be maintained. Food poisoning, a common form of death on the island, Dr. McKinley attributes to habitual carelessness of the natives in cooking and handling, and resultant contaminated food.

Dr. Francis W. O'Connor has conducted a special study of filariasis, the infection that commonly results in elephantiasis. A circumstance that he cites as significant is that 75 per cent of those infected with filariasis are either laundry workers or residents in homes where laundresses live. He will investigate further into the full importance of this discovery during the coming year.

WOMEN WETS MEET TO MAP CAMPAIGN

Mrs. Sabin Leads Delegates at Cleveland Session of New Organization.

CLAIMS 100,000 MEMBERS

Declares Issue Cannot Be Avoided —Senator Tydings to Address Convention.

By WINIFRED MALLON.

Special to The New York Times.

CLEVELAND, April 22.—Prohibition will not only be a prominent political issue in the campaigns this year, but it is, right now, an issue no party and no candidate for office can afford any longer to ignore, according to Mrs. Charles H. Sabin, chairman of the Women's Organization for National Prohibition Reform, who arrived from New York today for the opening tomorrow afternoon of the first national conference of women opposed to the Eighteenth Amendment.

"Because," Mrs. Sabin explained, "a party or a candidate refusing to say anything about what every one is thinking about isn't going to go very far."

Mrs. Sabin and Mrs. Amasa Stone Mather of Cleveland led the vanguard of 248 women delegates from twenty-six States.

Right now the General Federation of Women's Clubs in Cleveland is divided over an article by Mrs. Mather published in the club's official organ, which brought out into the open the difference of opinion regarding prohibition which all of the federation women knew existed within their ranks, but discussion of which hitherto had been avoided.

Article Starts Controversy.

In that article, Mrs. Mather, who is a vice chairman of Mrs. Sabin's organization and a leader among the younger group of club women here, dared to criticize the prohibition amendment and the workings of the Volstead law.

The immediate result of the publication of this article was a session at which a group of the younger members sought to put the federation on record as favoring a change in the prohibition laws.

The determined opposition of Mrs. Anna Mendenhall, president of the local W. C. T. U., prevented the moving of this resolution.

Mrs. Sabin says her organization has grown from eleven women from six State, less than a year ago, to an organized nation-wide group of 100,000 women.

California, she said today, has 15,000 women enrolled. The other two States with the largest membership are New York and Pennsylvania, with well-organized and active groups in New Jersey, Delaware, Massachusetts and Kentucky, and lively interest is being manifested in the Northwest, the Central States and even in the South.

Constructive Program Planned.

"So far," Mrs. Sabin said, "we have been reviewing systems of liquor control in other countries and investigating the workings of prohibition in our respective communities.

"Now we are meeting together in a working conference to report and discuss existing conditions to effect a permanent organization and to outline a constructive program of work and a definite policy which hereafter we shall actively work to carry out."

The opening meeting tomorrow afternoon will be called to order by Mrs. Sabin, and greetings extended by Mrs. G. W. Grandin of Cleveland.

The keynote speech will be made by Mrs. Henry B. Joy of Grosse Point, Mich.

At the evening meeting Mayor Marshall of Cleveland, Mrs. Carroll Miller of Pittsburgh and Senator Tydings of Maryland will speak.

Mrs. Miller resigned last week from the Daughters of the American Revolution in protest against their attitude toward international questions. She was a delegate to the Democratic conventions in 1924 and 1928, and was one of those who seconded the nomination of Governor Smith at Houston.

EX-CONVICT HELD IN BAKER MURDER

Washington Police Doubtful of Richmond Suspect—Two Negroes Faced With Arlington Clue.

WASHINGTON, April 22 (AP).—Detectives who for eleven days have been trailing to inconsequential ends clues that promised much declined tonight to put too much faith in the possibility that the arrest of a man in Richmond would aid them materially in finding the slayer of Mary Baker, a Navy Department clerk.

Inspector William S. Shelby, chief of detectives, said that reports regarding the man, known as Earl Franck, would be scanned closely before definite action was taken here.

Franck was said by the Richmond police to answer descriptions broadcast of a man who was seen beating a woman in an automobile here on the night that Miss Baker was killed.

The Richmond police said that he had acted suspiciously and had told conflicting stories. They added that newspaper clippings containing an account of the murder and a picture of Miss Baker were found among his belongings. He was believed to have served two terms in the North Carolina State prison.

The search in Washington was announced as having reached at least a temporary impasse.

"Investigators have run out numerous clues and there are numerous still to be run out," Inspector Shelby said, "but we are practically where we started a week ago last Saturday."

The Virginia authorities, however, turned today to a theory that the crime may have been committed by a Negro, and Commonwealth Attorney William Gloth of Arlington County said that this investigation might yet lead to a solution of the mystery.

This turn followed the discovery that a coral necklace, a green-backed novel and other articles which were found stuffed in a sewer along with Miss Baker's hat and coat a week after she was slain had never belonged to her but were stolen goods.

Two Negroes, who were arrested over a week ago, when found to have other articles belonging to Miss Baker in their possession, were questioned today for several hours.

Inspector Shelby tonight disposed of as clues the watch and coat, which the police had believed were sold near the scene of the crime. The peddler who had sold them came voluntarily to headquarters today and disclosed that he had bought the articles at second hand stores in Washington. A laborer who purchased them had previously wrongly identified a traveling salesman as the seller.

ACTS ON BRONX NOTARIES.

McLaughlin to Give Evidence Against 24 to Court on Friday.

District Attorney McLaughlin of the Bronx announced yesterday he will turn over on Friday to the presiding magistrates of the Morrisania and West Farms courts evidence gathered by the Bronx Bar Association against twenty-four notaries public and commissioners of deeds accused of posing as attorneys.

Mr. McLaughlin said the magistrates will be requested to issue warrants or summonses for the accused men, who are alleged to have caused losses to some of their clients by executing imperfect legal papers. The affidavits which named the suspected notaries and commissioners of deeds were turned over Sunday evening to Chief Assistant District Attorney Adlerman by Owen S. M. Tierney, an Assistant United States Attorney and president of the bar association.

Mr. McLaughlin said two investigators for the association, who obtained the evidence, will be the complainants in the court proceedings.

UNION CITY ADOPTS CHANGE

Voters Approve Commission Form of Government, 3,462 to 1,467.

Voters of Union City, N. J., approved yesterday at a special referendum a proposal to replace the existing city government by the commission form of government, by a vote of 3,462 to 1,467. The action followed several months of agitation after a Supreme Court investigation of the city's finances.

A special election will be held on May 27, at which the commission members will be chosen, and the new government will take office on June 4. The Mayor, the president and five members of the city council and five commissioners of the existing government lose their positions as a result of the referendum.

LILA JIMERSON DECIDES TO STAND TRIAL AGAIN

Attorney Says Guilty Plea Will Be Withdrawn—Darrow to Confer With Her Counsel.

BUFFALO, N. Y., April 22 (AP).—Lila Jimerson, Cayuga Indian who pleaded guilty to a reduced charge of murder, second degree, in connection with the slaying of Mrs. Clothilde Marchand, today announced through her attorney that she was prepared to change her plea and stand trial a second time for the murder.

The announcement was made by John S. Knibloe of defense counsel, after a conference with the woman in the hospital where she is being treated for tuberculosis. Her first trial was halted abruptly when she suffered a hemorrhage and her plea of guilty to the reduced charge was made in an improvised court room at the hospital.

Clarence Darrow of Chicago, who has been asked by members of the Seneca Indian nation, on whose reservation the woman lived, to aid in reopening her case, will be in Buffalo on April 29 and will confer with her attorneys before giving a definite answer as to whether he will take the case.

Meanwhile, Nancy Bowen, aged Seneca woman jointly indicted with Lila Jimerson for Mrs. Marchand's murder, is in jail awaiting trial on a charge of murder, first degree. District Attorney Guy H. Moore has intimated that he will take no action in her case until that of Lila Jimerson is definitely settled.

CITY-WIDE RETURNS OVERWHELM DRYS

Repeal Wins Big Majority in First Digest Report on All Five Boroughs.

8 MORE CITIES ARE WET

Trend Against Enforcement Continues in Four More Counted for Second Time.

The first reports from all boroughs of New York City, issued yesterday in The Literary Digest prohibition poll, showed the city giving 59.81 per cent of its vote for repeal and 7.41 per cent for enforcement. Of twelve other cities tabulated, eight for the first time and four for the second, none gave a majority in favor of enforcement, while three of the four reported for the second time gave repeal majorities.

This was the third report issued by the magazine for New York City, but in the previous tabulations only Manhattan, the Bronx and Brooklyn were counted. Queens, newly added, showed a majority for repeal, but somewhat smaller than the majorities in the three boroughs previously reported. Staten Island was the only one of the boroughs not giving a repeal majority, although it cast a plurality in this column.

The Literary Digest announced that a total of forty-six newspapers in cities throughout the country had notified the magazine of check-up polls being conducted by them. Among the papers recently added to the list were The Orlando (Fla.) Sentinel, The Lewistown (Mont.) Democrat-News, The Westwood (N. J.) News, The Rutherford (N. J.) Republican, The White Plains (N. Y.) Reporter and The Nyack (N. Y.) Journal.

A total of 271,653 votes were tabulated in the city. Repeal received 162,471 of these, Modification had 89,042, or 32.78 per cent, and enforcement 20,140.

An increased vote for repeal was recorded in the second report from New Orleans, where 10,123 ballots out of 15,237 were marked for repeal. Detroit, Mich., also in a second report, gave 44,101 votes in a total of 84,489 for repeal. Hartford, Conn., cast a repeal majority and Portland, Me., a repeal plurality.

In the cities reported for the first time, three gave pluralities for enforcement, with the combined modification and repeal totals outweighing the bone dry total. These were Harrisburg, Pa., Alliance, Ohio, and Medford, Ore. The remaining cities, Norristown, Pa., Waltham, Mass., Chillicothe, Ohio, White Plains, N. Y., and Durham, N. C., cast repeal pluralities. The tabulations follow:

CLEARED OF GIRL'S CHARGE.

Richard Hutt Freed When Plaintiff Fails to Corroborate Tale.

Richard Hutt, 26 years old, a salesman for the Vacuum Oil Company, and said to be a member of a wealthy and socially prominent family, was discharged by Magistrate Brodsky in Family Court yesterday for lack of corroboration of testimony of Mary McMullen, 21 years old, former restaurant hostess, that he had kept her prisoner in his apartment at 157 East Seventy-second Street for fourteen hours the night of April 6 and morning of April 7.

Miss McMullen, who gave her address as 700 Ocean Avenue, Brooklyn, asked to withdraw the charge when the case was called, explaining that she had no corroboration, but Magistrate Brodsky ordered the hearing to proceed.

Under cross-examination by Benjamin Schrieber, defense counsel, the complainant admitted having been married in Cleveland in 1925 and of having been convicted of forgery and paroled in the custody of her husband shortly after her marriage.

W. H. Stewart Jr. Wins Separation.

Special to The New York Times.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., April 22.—William H. Stewart Jr., 26 year old, an insurance agent of this city and Mount Vernon and son of an executive of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, received a decree of separation today from his 24-year-old wife, Moncure, when she withdrew her opposition following the offering in evidence of a letter written by Mrs. Stewart to a girl friend. The letter said Mrs. Stewart was in love with a man, who, she is quoted as saying, "looks like Mussolini."

SHOT IN ROOF CHASE AS BOGUS DRY AGENT

Young Man Near Death in Brooklyn Hospital Is Accused of Extortion Attempt.

A man described by the police as John Earl Robinson, 22 years old, of 41-02 Seventy-third Street, Jackson Heights, Queens, was taken to Greenpoint Hospital in Brooklyn last night as a prisoner under a charge of extortion after detectives of the Herbert Street station had shot him in a chase over the rooftops at Driggs Avenue and Humboldt Street.

The police said that Robinson had extorted $10 on Sunday from Martin Lydon and Michael O'Neil, owners of a restaurant at 164 Driggs Avenue, by posing as a Federal prohibition agent and that he returned last night to demand $30, promising that the establishment "will not be bothered for the next two months." He appeared in a new sedan of expensive type.

While Robinson was talking with Lydon, O'Neil slipped into the street to summon Detective Daniel Hart and Patrolman Walter Granberg. Robinson became suspicious and slipped out a few minutes later through a door leading into Humboldt Street.

The policemen saw the man dash into the hall of a three-story tenement at 635 Humboldt Street and they followed. The chase led up to the roof and the fugitive, becoming desperate as he lost ground, leaped to the top of 637 Humboldt Street, about twenty feet. The detectives saw him dive down the skylight of 639. They were still on the roof when he reached the yard.

Realizing that the fugitive would escape, both policemen fired at him as he fled across the yard. Two of the shots took effect and Robinson fell. By this time the whole neighborhood was aroused.

In his pockets the police found business cards with the name, "J. E. Robinson" and the address of a butter and egg concern in Manhattan. It appeared to be a salesman's card. At the Jackson Heights address neighbors said a youth of that name had lived in the house with his father and mother; that the family maintained two expensive automobiles. Two months ago the family vacated the apartment.

Lydon identified the wounded man as the individual who had posed as a prohibition agent and a Mrs. Edward D. Doyle of 637 Humboldt Street identified him, according to the police, as the man who had fled across the roof. At Greenpoint Hospital it was said the patient had only a slight chance to recover.

HITS JERSEY ROAD BUREAU.

W. H. Bacon Jr., Its Counsel, Says His Reorganization Was Thwarted.

Special to The New York Times.

TRENTON, N. J., April 22.—Assistant Attorney General Walter H. Bacon Jr., chief counsel for the State Highway Department, told the Abell Audit and Survey Committee of the Legislature today that his attempts to reorganize the legal and right-of-way negotiation divisions of the department had been balked by members of the Highway Commission.

He said that he had been named as head of the legal division with the understanding that there would be a reorganization of the department. There were some "bad spots" in the right-of-way division, particularly those having to do with appraisals and with negotiations for property, he said. Orders issued by him to correct these conditions had been disapproved by the commission, he said.

The session yesterday resumed the work of the committee after an interval of two weeks. Senator Frank D. Abell of Morris, chairman, was absent. Senator Emerson L. Richards of Atlantic, vice chairman, presided.

DROPS CHARGE ON JUDGE.

Federal Jury Frees North Carolina Jurist Accused of Having Whisky.

WILSON, N. C., April 22 (AP).—Charges of possessing and transporting whisky, brought by a prohibition officer against Judge N. A. Sinclair of the North Carolina Superior Court, were dropped here today by a Federal grand jury.

The charges were brought against Judge Sinclair by Federal Agent C. S. Coats, who on March 30 found a pint bottle of whisky in the jurist's handbag. Coats, who halted the judge on the highway and searched his luggage, reported he also found an empty liquor flask. Judge Sinclair, who was on his way from holding court at Williamstown, reported the incident at Sanford and branded it as a "frame-up."

Coats swore out a warrant for Judge Sinclair, but the judge waived preliminary hearing and the case was placed before the grand jury by the District Attorney.

WETS HELPED ELECT BLAINE, SAYS CURRAN

to have proved that point, so I shall not add another word of discouragement.

While the platform has not been submitted, I feel confident I shall become a member of the party.

Sincerely yours,
PIERRE DU PONT.

Curran Thinks Party Is Likely.

When Senator Robinson resumed the questioning concerning the projected party, Mr. Curran explained his views concerning it as follows:

"If the Republican party in the North becomes the prohibition party, and the Democratic party in the South becomes the prohibition party, it seems as though some new political party, something new politically, might some day pop out of that grab-bag."

"It has already popped, hasn't it?" asked Senator Robinson.

"Well, it is popping pretty fast, I think. I don't know just how they are going to explain to themselves when they get to their conventions two years from now, unless they continue to say 'the law ought to be enforced,' and that is just like saying, 'the grass is green,' or 'water is wet.'"

Senator Robinson having invited Mr. Curran to express his own views concerning the political situation, the witness replied:

"I think it would be presumptuous in this presence for me to say anything about it."

The clash over the seizure of Mr. Curran's files by the committee grew out of numerous questions asked the witness by Senator Robinson, on the basis of political activities shown in the association's correspondence.

Avoids the Judiciary.

The Senator had read a letter from Dr. J. J. Seelman, who was paid $10,000, Mr. Curran testified, for conducting the fight against prohibition in Wisconsin, in which he reported the appointment of Justice F. A. Fowler to the Wisconsin Supreme Court.

"You are interested to some extent in the judicial officials?" Senator Robinson asked.

"Well, personally, I don't believe in going into them, Senator, and we do not," said Mr. Curran.

Q.—Is it your intention to again test the validity of the Eighteenth Amendment before the United States Supreme Court? A.—No, I have no intention of doing that.

Q.—Isn't it a fact that you are just waiting until the complexion of that court should change before urging its reconsideration? A.—No, we have no plans for that. The complexion might change for the worse. You can't tell.

Q.—But a little later the thing might properly be pressed again? A.—I don't know. It might.

Q.—Well, I mean that has been your opinion, has it not? A.—No. This spider and fly business. Read me that letter you took out of my files and ask me some questions. You are just trying to trap me into a contradiction. You know that.

"We will get to that. I think tomorrow you can look forward to it. I was going to give you an opportunity to explain anything in connection with it without going into the letters," said Senator Robinson.

"Well, go ahead," said Mr. Curran. "Have your own way. I don't know what this has got to do with any lobby in Washington, myself."

Denies Fight on Volstead Act.

"I don't either," Senator Robinson admitted, adding:

"The only thing it has to do with evidently is taking the Eighteenth Amendment out of the Constitution of the United States and repealing the Volstead act, because that is your prime mission."

"Not the Volstead act," Mr. Curran said, adding:

"I don't mind you asking any question about our association, if you ask it fairly, but I say again it has nothing to do with the purpose of this committee. It is a fishing expedition. I don't know what has become of the Fourth Amendment to the Constitution, when you search and seize all our papers and matters extraneous to your jurisdiction."

"No, they were subpoenaed," Senator Robinson retorted. "You wouldn't surrender them."

"Subpoenaed or not, you took them," Mr. Curran said. "And they have got nothing to do with your committee and you have them, and where has the Bill of Rights gone?"

"Wait, Mr. Curran," Senator Walsh interrupted. "There has been a good deal of talk along that line made both before this committee and before the Senate.

"If you object to any proceedings taken by this committee, of course you have your remedy. If this committee has violated the Fourth Amendment of the Constitution there is a way by which you can test that.

Walsh Denies Violation.

"My own judgment about the matter is that the Fourth Amendment has nothing whatever to do with what this committee has done. The Fourth Amendment relates to forcible seizures and searches. This committee has not authorized any of its helpers, and I am sure none of its helpers have forcibly seized anything."

"No, they have not," replied Mr. Curran.

"I want to make that plain," Senator Walsh declared.

"Senator, I bow to your knowledge of the Constitution and of the Constitutional law, and perhaps I am talking more about the spirit of that amendment than the letter of it.

"But I do think that regardless of any question of forcible seizure, that if it is clear, and it seems so to me, that these inquiries, glad as we are to respond to them, since we have nothing to conceal, if they have nothing to do with the purpose for which your committee is formed, that they are beyond the pale of what is the proper procedure."

Senator Walsh suggested that Mr. Curran could register protest on the committee's procedure with the Senate.

"I don't expect to raise the question, Senator, because we have nothing to hide," Mr. Curran said. "It is your responsibility if you go into all those things, not mine. With all due respect to you, Senator, I believe it is a breach of propriety."

Wisconsin Campaign Is Topic.

The committee delved deeply into the Wisconsin activities of the association, where Dr. Seelman of Milwaukee was retained for a fee of $2,000 a month for five months, to represent the wet interests at Madison while the prohibition referendum was pending.

"The purpose of the campaign," Mr. Curran testified, "was to try and help secure a verdict by the people in favor of advice to the Wisconsin Legislature recommending the repeal of the Seversen act."

Expressing his curiosity as to how Dr. Seelman was to earn $2,000 a month, Senator Robinson received the reply that he was to do "whatever anybody does that is interested in legislation," adding, "If you please, they lobby."

The witness contested the authority of the committee to inquire into work outside Washington, but Senator Robinson held that any activity regarding the Eighteenth Amendment must have a national aspect.

During this questioning, Senator Robinson repeatedly read from the weekly reports submitted by Dr. Seelman, one in particular dated April 8, 1929, telling of conferences with legislative leaders, during which the new bill was discussed and changed, and the manner of pushing it to passage arranged.

"Did Dr. Seelman make these arrangements as to just what the Legislature should do?" asked Senator Robinson.

"If he did, he did it very well indeed," answered the witness, adding soon afterward:

"Senator, the people of Wisconsin have been kicked around so long that they are grateful to see one fellow like Dr. Seelman in the fight who is going to help them. They have been ground down by your people for twenty years."

Curran Denies "Plenty of Money."

"You at least have plenty of money," commented Senator Robinson.

"No, we haven't," was the reply. "We only had half as much as the Anti-Saloon League. They spent a million and a half in the last two years and they are prepared to spend more. They outnumbered us ten to one."

The statement of the association's aid for Senator Blaine, not commented upon by him until later in the hearing, finally caused him to ask Mr. Curran:

"Of course, your organization didn't contribute one cent to me or to my campaign committee?"

"No," replied Mr. Curran, explaining that the money had been spent in an independent effort.

Some other elections in Wisconsin also have claimed the Association's attention, he testified, and he named the Pennsylvania candidates favored by the Association as Thomas W. Phillips, for governor; Charles Dorrance for Lieutenant Governor, and Francis T. Bohlen for Senator. It is probable that these will be gone into later, as the committee indicated today that it may take up the Association's work State by State.

It was also brought out that the Association had gained last year four of nine votes needed in the Illinois Senate to get a favorable vote on a motion to submit prohibition in another State referendum.

11,098 Contributing Members.

Questions regarding both the membership and the finances of the Association also recurred in Mr. Curran's examination today.

As for the membership, Senator Robinson pointed out that whereas the Association claims a membership of about 150,000, a report on last Jan. 8 gave the membership on Dec. 31, 1929, as 11,098.

Mr. Curran said that the low figure was based on a count which included only contributing members. When Senator Robinson also pointed out that a report of the Reed committee, which sat two years ago, showed that the Association collected $478,037 in 1928, Mr. Curran replied:

"I'm sure that's a mistake. My recollection is that it was about $360,000."

Other testimony concerned the investigation of the Black Duck rumrunner shooting off the New England coast by the Association, Senator Robinson referring to an Association investigator's report as indicating that "apparently there was no spontaneous sentiment against it. It was necessary to get the people worked up and he (the investigator) must push at high pressure."

"Not at all, not at all," retorted the witness, "you go up and ask them if they weren't excited over the Black Duck."

Denies Foreign Donations.

Mr. Curran also denied that the association had received any contribution from the International League of Adversaries of Prohibition, a European organization, or any other foreign group, saying,

"We are not interested in wine making. It's a question of constitutional liberties with us."

The League was mentioned in a clipping from a newspaper first given prominence by Horace D. Taft, when he testified before the House Judiciary Committee. The head of the league is Baron de Mun, who, Mr. Curran said, called on him once in New York.

The witnesses scheduled to appear before the House Judiciary Committee tomorrow, when the wets will engage in rebuttal, were announced today as including two famous football coaches, Tad Jones of Yale and William W. Roper of Princeton.

Also expected to appear are Pierre S. du Pont, who spoke once before for the anti-prohibitionists; Major Gen. Clarence S. Edwards, retired, and Miss Elizabeth Harriss of Washington, who is scheduled to speak in behalf of Mrs. Charles H. Sabin, who will be unable to appear because of other engagements.

WOULD EXTEND DRY ACT TO ISLAND TERRITORIES

Senator Bingham Offers Bill Including Liquor Store for Ships at St. Thomas.

WASHINGTON, April 22 (AP).—A bill to extend the prohibition law to all Territories subject to the jurisdiction of the United States, including Hawaii and the Virgin Islands, was introduced today by Senator Bingham, Republican, of Connecticut.

The bill, which was referred to the Territories Committee, of which Senator Bingham is chairman, would confer jurisdiction upon the courts of Hawaii and the Virgin Islands to enforce the prohibition law.

It would provide that the Governor of the Virgin Islands might, by Executive order, permit storage of liquor in a warehouse at St. Thomas for transhipment, repacking and sale to vessels of foreign registry which call at the port.

Senator Bingham explained that the purpose of the proposal was to build up foreign trade, adding that it was difficult to get vessels to go to the Virgin Islands unless they could replenish their liquor supplies.

SUPERIOR PERFORMANCE at EXCEPTIONALLY LOW COST

In the New Oakland Eight you can enjoy top speed, swift pick-up and unusual climbing ability which few cars at any price have been able to match. Yet this eight provides its superior performance at surprisingly low cost. Very moderate purchase price is only the beginning of its remarkable economy. In mileage per gallon of gasoline it rivals many sixes of comparable size and weight. And its sound, simple V-eight design makes it even more economical to own by reducing maintenance expense to a minimum.

The engineers who designed Oakland's power plant included a number of features which assure reliability and economy of operation over a long period. They made certain of fuel savings by employing a complete down-draft carburetion and manifolding system. They made the engine parts extremely accessible. A typical example is the valve mechanism which is easily reached by removing two conveniently located plates. They achieved unusual sturdiness in the engine by using a short, heavy crankshaft supported by large, interchangeable long-lived bearings.

Visit our salesroom and let us tell you more about these and many other features which account for this car's notable economy. While you are here you can also learn about the durable construction of Oakland's smart new bodies by Fisher. Then, seated back of Oakland's 85-horsepower engine, you can try out the superior performance which it now provides at exceptionally low cost.

Prices are f. o. b. Pontiac, Michigan, plus delivery charges. Lovejoy Hydraulic Shock Absorbers included in list prices. Bumpers, rear fender guards and spring covers extra. General Motors Time Payment Plan available at minimum rate.

Consider the delivered price as well as the list (f. o. b.) price when comparing automobile values . . . Oakland-Pontiac delivered prices include only authorized charges for freight and delivery and the charge for any additional accessories or financing desired.

MORROW OPPONENT FOR DRY LAW REPEAL

Frelinghuysen Comes Out for Change of Volstead Law "Under Certain Conditions."

VOTED FOR IT 10 YEARS AGO

But Aspirant for Senate Seat Declares Public Sentiment Makes Enforcement Impossible.

Ten years of prohibition have caused Joseph S. Frelinghuysen, New Jersey candidate opposing Ambassador Morrow for the Republican nomination to the United States Senate, to favor repeal or amendment of the Eighteenth Amendment or modification of the Volstead law "under certain conditions," he said yesterday.

"As a candidate for United States Senator," he said, "it is proper that the voters should know my position on prohibition. As a member of the Senate I voted for the Eighteenth Amendment because I believe that the people should have the opportunity to express themselves on any important proposed amendment to the Constitution in the manner provided therein and that it would destroy the corrupt and debauching power of the liquor interest and work social, economic and moral benefits.

"I voted for the Volstead act because it seemed to me the duty of Congress to enact legislation to make the amendment effective.

"Ten years of experience and study have modified my views. While the law has destroyed the open saloon, it has developed new and grave evils with which the public is familiar.

Sees Public Sentiment as Obstacle.

"The present law has encountered the obstacle inherent in our democratic form of government—that it is difficult, if not impossible to enforce a law making crimes of acts which large numbers of the people regard as moral and reasonable privileges of citizenship.

"I have therefore concluded that the policy of prohibition must be modified. Public sentiment has not yet crystalized in favor of any specific plan of modification.

"My judgment is that those who desire to use alcoholic beverages should be allowed to do so under conditions of national control that would eliminate the element of private profit and prevent the return of the saloon.

"I believe that any practical change in the policy of prohibition must ultimately come through a change in the Constitution. I will vote, if elected, to submit to the people through the method provided by the Constitution any resolution proposing the repeal or amendment of the Eighteenth Amendment which will carry out the principles heretofore stated, namely, national control, elimination of private profit and prevention of the saloon.

"While I personally believe any attempt to modify the Volstead act will become involved in long litigation as to its constitutionality and would lead to confusion without solving the problem, nevertheless I will vote for any modification if it embodies the principles which I have previously stated.

"If elected, I shall support all reasonable measures for the enforcement of the law as long as the Eighteenth Amendment and the Volstead law are in effect."

Republican Wet in Fight.

Special to The New York Times.

TRENTON, N. J., April 22.—Styling himself "an organization Republican against prohibition," John A. Kelly Jr. of Belmar today filed petitions with the Secretary of State as a candidate in the June primary for the Republican nomination for United States Senator. Ambassador Morrow and former Senator Frelinghuysen also will be candidates.

HEFLIN TURNS WRATH ON RASKOB AND CURRAN

In Senate Speech He Assails Also Catholic Church, Democratic Party and The New York Times.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 22.—In a two-hour speech in the Senate today, Senator Heflin of Alabama assailed Chairman Raskob of the Democratic National Committee and Henry H. Curran, president of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment, renewed his attacks on the Roman Catholic Church and asserted that the program of the Tammany leaders was to renominate former Governor Smith for President in 1932.

His speech was accepted by many as an appeal for re-election by the voters of Alabama, where the Democratic State Committee has barred him from the party primaries because he bolted the national ticket in 1928.

Discussing the testimony of Mr. Raskob and Mr. Curran before the Senate lobby investigating committee, Mr. Heflin said Mr. Raskob was contributing to the wet association to "help elect wet Republicans against dry Democrats."

"I have called upon Raskob to resign," the Senator said. "Disgraced, he stands, before the American people, chairman of the Democratic National Committee, coming down here and stultifying himself, lifting his hand under oath, telling the lobby committee that he knew little about the whisky ring he has up there, a committee to elect wets against drys."

He recalled that Mr. Curran told the lobby committee the American people were in a "state of revolt" against prohibition.

"I am sorry the committee did not lock him up," Senator Heflin added. "Mr. Curran comes here representing the European program to lay down our law and set up the barroom business again, and Alfred Smith is to be the candidate. God pity the Democratic party!"

Mr. Heflin at the beginning of his speech said that THE NEW YORK TIMES, in an editorial yesterday, "charges me with having conjured up a situation in the country that does not exist and seeing phantoms regarding papal plan and purpose in the United States." He went on to declare that THE TIMES earlier had criticized the Pope's encyclical on public schools, and asked in view of that if he was to be accused of seeing phantoms.

He continued by predicting that "inside of ten years they [the Catholics] will own that sheet outright, as they own many other big dailies in the country. I assert here today that they dominate the press. They dominate three-fourths of the press of the United States."

Four Senators were in the chamber when Senator Heflin finished. Senator Trammell, Democrat, of Florida, congratulated him on his speech.

COLORFUL SCENE AS TREATY IS SIGNED

By EDWIN L. JAMES.

tions in a rather special political situation. That France would work with Italy to enable those two nations to join the limitation provisions of the London naval treaty in 1930 was his sincere promise.

Premier Opens Final Session.

Premier McDonald as chairman began the proceedings by asking permission to forward to the League of Nations the agreement on a compromise plan between the category and global tonnage systems for the limitation of navies, which was not included in the treaty. This would be for the use of the League preparatory commission in its dealing with general disarmament. Then he proposed, and it was agreed, that the 1931 naval conference provided in the Washington naval treaty would not take place. It was decided that the treaty signed today would be known as the London Naval Treaty of 1930.

The Prime Minister then turned to the conference. Signing the treaty, he said, meant that "compared with Washington and Geneva we have gone far; compared with our desires we are still short." Although a step has been made, he stressed that the work must continue. He said he found a great work in the results of the London conference. Great advances of this kind, he asserted, must be done in stages. The three-power limitation he called a thing of great import because it stopped the competition which had begun and kept the three powers from following the will-o-the-wisp of security through big armaments.

As for the safeguarding clause, he declared it was not put in the treaty as a method of getting around it but only as a protection to be used as a last resort, and he doubted it would ever be necessary to use it.

Mr. MacDonald said the conferees could go home carrying not only a good treaty "but the most precious of all factors in international peace, sterling good-will and mutual friendly understanding and respect."

Secretary of State Stimson, who spoke next, said the treaty meant the fixing of the American naval relation to Britain on a lasting basis and the establishment of a naval relationship with Japan. He expressed pleasure over the fact that France and Italy would continue conversations to complete a five-power limitation.

"As we believe naval limitation of itself increases security," he said, "so we look forward in the future to periodically recurring conferences, confident that we shall obtain ever-increasing security with ever decreasing armament."

650,000,000 Are Affected.

J. E. Fenton of Australia made the interesting point that the naval armaments of 650,000,000 people were limited by the treaty. Dr. Philippe Roy of Canada, said Canada would view with the greatest satisfaction "a complete agreement reached by the powers which happen to be our nearest neighbors."

It then was France's turn. M. Briand said France had made it plain, even before the conference, that she believed real reduction of armaments depended on a political agreement for the organization of peace. France was not asking something for herself, he said, but was seeking something for the community of nations. France has never varied from that program, he emphasized.

"It is quite natural that the views of the various countries represented here should have been such as to show those countries were not equally ready to pursue such a wide debate to its logical conclusion," he said, but insisted he thought the setback was only provisional. France, he said, extended the heartiest congratulations to the three countries which had reached a limitation agreement "within the sphere of political conditions in which they find themselves as a result of existing treaties and after long preparation. France, he said, would make every effort to arrive at a similar arrangement in the coming negotiations. He felt sure the Italians agreed with him that the prospects for a settlement were good.

Sir Atul Chatterjee for India, praised the treaty as "a notable landmark in the history of human relations."

Professor Timothy Smiddy for Ireland pledged his country's support for the treaty and everything like it which contributed "the surest foundation for a league of hearts."

Italy's Hopes Are Disclosed.

Admiral Sirianni, speaking for Italy in the absence of Foreign Minister Grandi, said Italy "anticipates with pleasure the day on which the negotiations between Italy and her great and friendly neighbor are resumed, and with the firm will to succeed they will likewise bring about an agreement completing that now concluded among the United States, the British Empire and Japan."

The Fascisti, he declared, had only one idea—the reduction of armaments to the lowest possible level. He made no reference to Italy's demand for parity with France, which occupied so much attention of the conference.

Reijaro Wakatsuki's speech was notable for the emphasis laid on the freedom which the Japanese expected to exercise at the 1935 conference. He said that if the treaty had settled matters for too long the Japanese might feel worried, but they signed gladly with the understanding that it limited them only until 1936.

The Japanese Government considers it important, he said, "that while the naval strength of Japan is now agreed on, especially in cruisers carrying 8-inch guns and in total tonnage, in cases where the right of option is not limited beyond the life of the present treaty, it has been explicitly understood among the signatory powers that its stipulations will be entirely without prejudice to our attitude at the conference to follow."

He thought it a great achievement that for the first time all classes of ships of the three largest naval powers were limited.

"What was sown at Washington has been reaped at London," he asserted.

T. M. Wilford for New Zealand said the treaty fell short of his hopes, but that he believed it would put a brake on the wheel of competitive naval building. Charles te Water for South Africa pledged his country's support to the cause of disarmament and noted that the influence of "these new nations" was an influence for peace.

Stimson Is First to Sign.

Then came the signing. Mr. Stimson was the first to affix his name to the engrossed copy of the London Naval Treaty of 1930, using a special gold pen made for the occasion. Then followed the other members of the American delegation—Ambassador Dawes, Secretary of the Navy Adams, Senator Robinson, Senator Reed, Ambassador Gibson and Ambassador Morrow, the latter using his own fountain pen. Next the Frenchmen signed, headed by M. Briand. Then Mr. MacDonald led the British delegation to the signing table, followed by the delegates of the British Dominions. The Italians came next and finally the Japanese.

It was 1:15 when the signing was done. It had lasted fourteen minutes.

After the signing M. Briand in a nicely balanced speech presented to Mr. MacDonald the gold pen used for the signing. Mr. MacDonald, said M. Briand, had been in patience and skill all that a chairman should be. When the conference was born, said M. Briand, many thought the baby would die quickly, but there were two good fairies who protected it, the British Prime Minister and Sir Maurice Hankey, the experienced secretary general. There had been ups and downs, said M. Briand, but he thought Mr. MacDonald had brought the conference to a worth-while achievement. Turning a little joke on Mr. MacDonald's socialism, M. Briand said:

"All the delegates have signed the treaty with a beautiful gold pen which has been given to the conference as the collective property of the conference. I hope this will not lead you into trouble, for I would like to turn this collective property into the private one of your own and, I ask the permission of the conference to make you a present of this, with which the Treaty of London of 1930 has been signed."

Mr. MacDonald evened up things with M. Briand by observing he had thought the French Foreign Minister, who once was a Socialist, to have the same ideas as he about property. Mr. MacDonald thanked his colleagues for the pen and said that when an agreement was reached with France and Italy he hoped they would all come back to sign the completed five-power limitation with the same nib.

After thanks to Sir Maurice Hankey by Ambassador Bordonaro of Italy the conference was declared adjourned. The delegates filed out to finish packing their grips and the Treaty of London became a part of history.

Texts of Speeches Closing the London Naval Conference

Following are the addresses by the principal delegates in bringing the naval arms conference to a close in London yesterday, transmitted by The Associated Press:

PRIME MINISTER MacDONALD.

Gentlemen, we have now gone as far as we can at present and we have met together this morning to gather our points of agreement and embody them in a treaty.

Compared with Washington or Geneva we have progressed very far; compared with our desires we are still short. This is but another stage and the work will have to be continued.

We must go on attacking problems which have baffled us. Upon one thing we can congratulate ourselves. Every one who has taken part in this conference knows how again a mistaken word or awkward handling could have created troubled situations which would not have been allayed speedily.

Yet we part today in a spirit of active good-will, determined to make this a beginning and to use every means which offers itself to make a five-power treaty a reality.

Sees Much Accomplished.

The conference has done a great work. We have secured a three-power agreement on a building program, no mean or unimportant achievement, with other points embodied in the treaty which repeatedly have defied solution and have brought conference after conference to naught.

On the apparently simple matter of settling the method by which relative strength of neighbors may be agreed there have been insoluble differences of opinion.

That is gone. We have stopped the replacement of battleships and have reduced their number. We have limited the tonnage of auxiliary craft. We have shown how equipment building and replacement fleets can be brought within the realm of international order. We have proved how, when the world likes, the menace of arms can be removed by regulating their development.

True, the work has been but partially done, but all great advances of this kind must be in stages and we have gone much further than has as yet been possible. Figures have been published already showing the reductions in building and savings in cost which resulted from our negotiations, but I doubt if the public have appreciated how much in this respect has been effected.

There are definite programs arranged to be built as well as ships actually built and reductions in these programs are almost as valuable as a scrapping of ships. We find the world's navies at a point of serious and dangerous expansion. Competition had begun and nations were at the fatal moment of once again, by a process of mental delusion, reducing their security against war by increasing their armament.

So long as that will-of-the-wisp is followed conferences like this must fail, or at any rate can but partially succeed. We must be content to go on strengthening the new mentality of peace and applying it step by step in further and further reductions. This treaty carries us to 1936, when further progress in the same direction ought to be possible.

The British Government place a very high value on the Paris pacts and the treaties for peaceful settlements of disputes and they therefore made an offer to come to an agreement upon all-round reduction in naval strength from battleships to submarines in such a way as not to entail loss of security upon any nation.

European Situation Harder.

Such an agreement has been come to between the United States, Japan and ourselves, but the European situation was harder to resolve. Until it is resolved and an agreement is come to regarding it every bond in its limited scope must have the protection of a safeguarding clause such as that in the treaty which we sign today.

But I wish to say this about that clause. It is not put in as an easy way to get around the treaty. I hope it will never be used, but if it has to be that will only happen after every effort has been made to avoid it. Only when it is apparent that, owing to ships built, building, or definitely authorized by any power or powers, our naval position is so affected that it is impossible for this country to rest in peace of mind upon the figures embodied in part three of this treaty—only then shall this protection clause be thought about.

The British Government are ready now and always will be to strive with might and main to prevent this arising and we have every hope that as a result of the conversations after adjournment of this conference an understanding will be arrived at that will make any use of it absolutely unnecessary.

I will appeal to public opinion of Europe to range itself behind those who are to conduct these further negotiations so that with as little delay as possible they may terminate in agreements on limitation and reduction which can be fitted into the treaty now opened for our signature.

It cannot be said too often that no one nation can take the way to disarmament, for that can be done only by international agreement. The way to disarmament is not easy. To pass resolutions about it is good, but sooner or later we must face numbers of tons, classes of vessels, sizes of fleets and somebody must undergo the tiresome drudgery of settling complicated technical details. It has been our lot for many weeks now to be engaged upon that essential but somewhat uninspiring task. That is the only work that will bring us to the end desired.

We must be patient with each other so long as the quest of an agreement is being pursued. During these days we have come to understand each other's difficulties, and in this matter understanding is the first stage of success.

We have also become far more than fellow-negotiators; we have become friends, and I believe that now, for the time being, go our several ways feeling that the business that has brought us together is of the highest international import and relates to a cause which we wish to continue to serve.

I have to thank you all for both forbearance and helpfulness. You have all, experts and delegates alike, conspired to make my work easy and to overlook and overcome my faults.

The Americans, headed by Mr. Stimson, with their enthusiasms have been delightful colleagues and have helped us over many a difficulty.

Japanese Efforts Lauded.

The Japanese, led by Mr. Wakatsuki, have been stout defenders of their natonal needs and yet loyal colleagues in the common cause which we have been trying to promote.

The French, with M. Tardieu and M. Briand at their head, in the midst of political distractions which for a time unfortunately deprived us of their presence, have given us unstinted assistance, and even though their circumstances have forbidden them to come to complete agreement as yet they have displayed the very best evidence that they are heart and soul as ever enlisted in the cause of peace and that they go from here only to continue negotiations determined to bring them to a successful ending.

The Italians, whose chief spokesman, Signor Grandi, is unfortunately unable to be with us owing to illness, have had a difficult part to play, and though they were unable to engage in discussions upon actual figures they have helped us in every other way and they, too, singing not a little of what has been done, go away determined to find ways which will ultimately produce an agreement between us all and join in the march forward toward European disarmament.

Around the British Government has been ranged a body of independent representatives of the dominions and India, who, while guarding with jealous care their independent position, have shown a sleepless anxiety to maintain that unity and counsel which was necessary for general agreement.

Nor must I omit to thank that fine body of experts and secretaries whose knowledge and experience have been at our disposal and who at all hours have been at our service.

To one and all, as chairman of the conference, I tender my most grateful thanks.

Gentlemen, I believe we have done a work that will follow us. I believe that the London conference of 1930 has laid foundation stones upon which others will build with thankful hearts, and that we can suspend our labors for the present and bid each other good-by, carrying away with us not only a signed treaty but the most precious of all factors in international peace—sterling good-will and mutual friendly understanding and respect.

SECRETARY STIMSON.

Mr. Chairman, I wish to congratulate you on the successful conclusion of this naval conference and to take occasion at the same time to thank you for the sterling qualities of your leadership which have contributed so effectively to that end.

I do not propose to elaborate on this subject, but I cannot refrain from a personal word to tell you how deeply we appreciate the unwearying patience, skill and tact with which you have led us through these difficult weeks. We are also very grateful for the considerate hospitality of your government, particularly since it has been clear throughout that it was no perfunctory hospitality but an expression of your genuine and friendly desire to make us feel at home.

We sign this treaty with the realization that it fixes our naval relationship with the British Commonwealth of Nations upon a fair and lasting basis and that it is equally advantageous to us all. It also establishes our naval relationship with our good neighbors across the Pacific and insures continuous growth of our friendship with that great nation toward whom we have drawn to look for stability and progress in the Far East.

We are happy to have participated with France and Italy in the solution of some of the important general problems and to have had the pleasure and benefit of constant association with their delegations. We are glad to know as we separate that it is their purpose to continue their discussions in the hope of soon completing a five-power agreement of naval restriction.

Good-Will Basic Purpose.

The fundamental purpose for which we of the American delegation came to London was to help in promotion of good relationship between the nations of the earth. It is our belief that the limitation of armament by mutual agreement is one of the most effective means of increasing the confidence of each nation in the pacific intentions of every other nation.

We believe that such limitation increases the ability of every nation to carry out its own pacific intentions. As we believe that limitation of itself increases security, we look forward in the future to a periodically recurring conference, confident that in that way we shall obtain an ever-increasing security with ever-decreasing armament.

We believe that naval limitation is one of the most accurate measures of the world's belief in the possibility of settlement of all international matters by pacific and rational means.

Our experience here has strengthened these beliefs. It has increased our hopes that civilization will be able to form a habit of settling peaceably questions and controversies which arise between nations and that limitation will in the future register this confidence and good-will.

We have found great encouragement in the sincerity and the spirit of fair dealing with which we have been met by our colleagues of the other delegations, and our belief in the possibility of future progress rests quite as much upon the spirit shown by the conference as upon its actual accomplishments.

We have tried in all our negotiations to be clear and frank and friendly toward all, and we have endeavored to achieve a sympathetic understanding of the problems of every other delegation. From all these delegations we have received the utmost conisderation of our own problems.

It has been a fruitful and pleasant experience. In taking our departure we pledge you for the future, as we pledged you upon our arival, our utmost cooperation toward the achievement of the great ends which brought us here.

FOREIGN MINISTER BRIAND.

When they accepted the invitation to participate in this conference, the Government of the French Republic fully understood the scope, interest and difficulty of the venture, which really meant a new step forward toward the organization of world peace.

The whole external policy of the French Government has been one of ceaseless effort toward that goal. Because of this they felt compelled to reiterate in very clear terms the conditions which must necessarily be fulfilled in order to reach a solution of such a vast problem—that is, the organization of international security.

The French memorandum of Dec. 20 stated "that the general technical agreement on armaments must be preceded by political agreement." Therefore it indicated the conditions under which the government of the French Republic should take a useful part in the work to be carried out in London.

Was not the fact of connecting reduction of naval armaments with reciprocal guarantees of security equivalent to bringing back the question to its essential basis?

Far from being prompted by selfish motives, was it not in very large measure acting for all in the interest of community of nations? France never asked, never sought, guarantees for herself alone. She always had in mind the security of all nations which are called upon to lend each other mutual assistance in order to prevent war or strive against it; she has always thought that such mutual guarantees would bring about simultaneous reduction of armaments, different from former military alliances or groups of alliances which had actually led to increase those armaments.

Thus she remained true to the ideas which had always guided her pacific action and to which other observations contained in the memorandum of Dec. 20 bear witness: In particular, those of connecting the work of the conference and that of the Geneva preparatory commission, and once more bringing to light the principle of interdependence of armaments.

Having been closely connected with all the peace work which brought about the covenant of the League of Nations, the Locarno agreements and the Paris pact as its first results, France wanted to show how much importance the progress made in the development of mutual confidence had for her.

Notwithstanding the temporary check in Geneva in rational organization of security and her heavy military responsibilities in several overseas territories, she did not hesitate, ahead of the conclusion of a general convention, to reduce her armaments as far as she thought compatible with her own security and the necessities of her own international obligations.

In particular, as far as the French navy is concerned, the French delegation has already during this conference had the opportunity of showing this clearly with the help of figures.

On the other hand, the French delegation has shown its keen desire in finding, by means of effective improvement of international security, all possibilities of wide agreement for the general reduction of naval armaments.

It is quite natural that the views of various countries represented here should have been such as to show that these countries were not equally ready to pursue such wide debate to its logical conclusions, and this could in no way justify a feeling of discouragement.

If on one hand, indeed, it is futile to ignore the limits of what is possible, we can at least, on the other hand, consider this limit as provisional.

We may have come against temporary difficulties which did not allow us immediately to reach as wide a solution as we might have wished it to be. At least, we have loyally collaborated in efforts toward partial settlements, the scope of which must not be underestimated. We feel fully justified in having persevered when we see the results of our deliberations as embodied in the treaty which we are signing today.

Divergence Disappears.

Fundamental disagreement between two delegations on naval questions had paralyzed the work of the Geneva preparatory commission. This divergence has now disappeared, and an agreement of principle reached on methods of limitation has already been put into practice in the most useful manner.

We now have machinery which, if manipulated with necessary elasticity, will enable a greater number of States to sign a convention for the limitation of naval armaments.

We can also congratulate ourselves on having reached agreement on various technical points: In particular, on rules governing the use of the submarine weapon and on the institution of a naval holiday for capital ships as from 1931.

Those of us whose countries are members of the League of Nations are particularly glad of such a balance sheet, since those agreements will facilitate execution of obligations imposed on them by the covenant.

Three powers have been able to do even more; within the sphere of political conditions in which they find themselves as a result of existing treaties, and after long preparation, they have been able to adjust their special needs and fix the tonnage of their respective fleets.

The French delegates will certainly not be backward in tendering the representatives of the British Commonwealth of Nations, the United States of America and Japan the cordial and hearty congratulations to which they are entitled.

However, as you know, these congratulations are mixed with deep regret at not having had more general agreement.

No one regrets the reason for which such extension is impossible more than the French Government, and they will make all possible efforts at least to reduce the duration of this relative impossibility.

The conference remains open and diplomatic efforts will continue in order to settle this last difficulty. The French Government can never believe that two great and friendly nations, moved with sincere desire in conciliating their respective preoccupations and loyally decided to make all their efforts in order to reach this goal, should not be able to achieve complete agreement, thanks to objective effort, with the help of a little reciprocal comprehension and mutual confidence which they owe each other.

The complementary agreement reached by the three of us is too precious a contribution to the general maintenance of peace for France and Italy not to have a very keen desire to extend it, their endeavors having always been associated with all this kind in the past.

In the meantime, the French Government will show all possible good-will in order to facilitate the putting into force of this agreement. We have no doubt that the Italian Government is similarly disposed.

Thus will once more be reaffirmed between the nations here represented an enduring moral solidarity, the maintenance of which will perhaps appear as a capital fact arising from this conference. It is this solidarity, reinforced by the test to which it has been put, which shows us what henceforward will be our common duty.

Standing before the nations of the earth, we declare our faith in it as a promise and token. We realize the full strength of it as well as the obligation it lays upon us. Never was a covenant signed and sealed more freely, more sincerely, since it means the carrying out under the eyes of attentive nations the most sacred of all enterprises; the common pursuit, for maintenance of peace, of all cal duty of each of us. cal duty of each of us."

ADMIRAL SIRIANNI.

On behalf of Signor Grandi, the head of my delegation, who, much to his regret, has been unable to attend this ceremony, I have the honor to express the satisfaction of the Italian delegation for the agreements arrived at by the conference.

We consider these agreements and the negotiations leading thereto not only from the point of view of results actually achieved but likewise from that of future results, namely, of the more extensive reduction which should follow—not alone in the domain of naval armaments such as decided upon by us today.

The negotiations of the last three months brought to light many difficulties which beset the realization of a plan of veritable disarmament. They have at the same time proved the necessity to pursue our efforts toward that goal. Public opinion the world over, or at any rate its best exponents, have given us unmistakable evidence of their decided will and confident expectation of a satisfactory solution of the problem of disarmament.

It appears clearer every day that if we do not wish to jeopardize the work of peace and reconstruction, both national and international, so laboriously proceeded with since the war, armaments should be reduced in an ever-increasing measure until disarmament has become a concrete reality.

In the present occasion our wishes are more than ever father of our thoughts. This, however, should not blind us to the extent of ignoring the task yet to be achieved. Nevertheless, we may note with sincere satisfaction, as I said at the beginning, the progress realized in this direction by the agreement reached between the delegations of the United States of America, the British Commonwealth of Nations and Japan. Hence we heartily echo the expressions of satisfaction voiced with such authority by preceding speeches.

Congratulations to Colleagues.

On behalf of the Italian delegation I wish to congratulate our distinguished colleagues on the results obtained. On behalf of my government I also tender sincere congratulations to the governments of those great nations.

At the same time I anticipate with pleasure the day in which negotiations between Italy and her great and friendly neighbor, resumed with a firm will to succeed, will likewise bring about an agreement completing the one now concluded between the United States, the British Empire and Japan.

I would also like to refer to another part of the agreement which we are presently to sign—to the provision concerning the naval holiday in the replacement of capital ships. May I be permitted to recall here that a proposal for such a naval holiday was put forward as far back as 1928 by the head of the Italian Government?

We are happy to note that the idea has today materialized: we shall be happier still if the holiday which is to last until 1936 be prolonged and rendered permanent so as to lead to the gradual abolition of capital ships. This might pave the way, we sincerely hope, to further reduction, covering also other classes of vessels.

After statements made before and in the course of the present conference and after what I have just said, there is no need for me to emphasize the spirit with which my government and my country consider the question of disarmament.

The Fascist conception of this problem has always moved in the same definite line. We favor reduction of armaments to the lowest possible level; we desire armaments to be purely defensive. Any initiative toward such an end will meet in my country with a sincere and cordial response.

Before concluding I have yet a pleasant task; I wish to assure you also, on behalf of the head and the other members of my delegation, that we carry away with us a most agreeable recollection of the relations entertained with our colleagues of all the other delegations in the course of the past three months. I wish further to tender our thanks once more to the city of London and the entire British nation for their hospitality.

Let me finally express to the Prime Minister, the distinguished chairman of our conference, our grateful acknowledgment and sincere admiration for his sagacious and indefatigable activity for the promotion and success of our labors.

REIJIRO WAKATSUKI.

On behalf of the Japanese delegation I wish first of all to thank the chairman most heartily for his splendid statesmanship, kindliness and the forbearance with which he always steered the deliberations of the conference and which has been most essential in bringing about successful solution of so many complicated questions.

I thank our foreign colleagues for their earnest, loyal cooperation and for their true friendship. Our thanks further are due to the people of London, of whose hospitality we have been fortunate recipients during our stay, and last but not least, to his Brittanic Majesty's Government for its initiative in calling this conference and for its many courtesies which have so greatly facilitated our labors.

At this juncture I am happy to say that, eager to carry out the noble spirit embodied in the Pact of Paris, which has established for all time the principle of doing away with war, and of realizing the surpassing importance of consolidating peaceful and friendly relationships among nations by concluding an agreement on limitation and reduction of naval armaments, Japan has done, and been only too glad to do, all within her power at this conference.

Needless to say it is important that in an agreement on disarmament the matter of national safety should be taken fully into consideration. As I had several opportunities to state in and out of the conference it always has been the policy of the Japanese Government to maintain a minimum of naval strength sufficient for defensive purposes and for fulfilling her obligations in maintenance of general peace in the Far East—a strength that would in no sense arouse apprehensions in the minds of other nations.

Such has been and will always be our national attitude. If, therefore, the present treaty were to regulate the situation for too many years to come the Japanese people might entertain feelings of insecurity as to their national defence.

But in view of the fact that the present agreement is binding upon the powers concerned for only limited duration, until the end of 1936, and the naval strengths to be held by the powers thereafter are to be reconsidered at the next conference, Japan, from her ardent desire to see the cause of peace promoted, and from her conviction that the conclusion of a treaty like the present will naturally strengthen the sense of national safety, and in a spirit of accommodation and harmony, has gladly agreed to the present treaty.

Reservation for Next Policy.

The Japanese Government, therefore, considers it important that while the naval strength of Japan as now agreed upon, especially in cruisers carrying 8-inch guns, and in total tonnage, in case the right of option is exercised, is not limited beyond the life of the present teraty, it is explicitly understood among the signatory powers that its stipulations will be entirely without prejudice to our attitude at the conference to follow.

A great and unprecedented thing has been accomplished, in that for the first time in human history all important fighting vessels have been placed under restriction. What was sown at Washington has been reaped at London.

There is no doubt that that the present treaty will prove to be a historic and lasting monument on the path of peace and human progress. Embodying, as it does, the spirit of frank and friendly cooperation so admirably demonstrated by the participating powers it will put an end to damaging competition and suspicion, and by reinforcing international accord and comradeship will, I am convinced, create a favorable atmosphere in which hereafter all the powers may meet to promote further the tremendous task of disarmament.

HOOVER WILL SEND PACT TO SENATE

By RICHARD V. OULAHAN.

regarded as inclined to favor ratification.

The attitude of Senator Borah toward the London agreement is construed as favorable to ratification for the reason that while the treaty does not meet his views as to the actual reduction of naval armaments in all categories of warships, it is a step in the direction of disarmament as well as toward the preservation of world peace. He has indicated this position, but coupled his statement with the comment that he would prefer to read the treaty and study its provisions carefully before giving a final appraisement of it.

It is expected that Senator Borah, who has been aware in advance of the chief provisions of the London agreement, will endorse the treaty as containing the best terms possible at this time and will lead to contest for its ratification. If this expectation proves to be correct, Senator Borah's leadership will be a tower of strength to the cause of ratification, according to opinion here.

Possible Points of Attack.

Two points of attack by those Senators known as big navy men are seen from what is known as the position of this group. One point is found in Article XVIII of the London agreement. This provides that of the eighteen 10,000-ton 8-inch-gun cruisers which the United States may maintain to fifteen of this class for Great Britain, the sixteenth, seventeenth and eighteenth may not be laid down in time for completion during the life of the treaty, or until 1936.

Article XVIII provides that the sixteenth vessel shall not be laid down before 1933 and will not be completed before 1936; the seventeenth will not be laid down until 1934 and will not be completed before 1937, and the eighteenth will not be laid down before 1935 and will not be completed before 1938. This, it is contended by critics of the treaty, means that the parity between the United States and Britain in cruisers, which is to be attained on an equivalent basis, by giving the United States eighteen and Britain fifteen of the heaviest type of cruisers permitted, and granting Britain the right to build a larger tonnage in small 6-inch-gun cruisers than the United States, will not be attained during the life of the treaty.

Put in another way, it is contended that until 1936 Britain and the United States will each have fifteen of the largest cruisers permitted and not eighteen for the United States and fifteen for Britain, as the parity agreement contemplated.

The other principal basis for criticism on the part of some Senators is found in the provision that the United States shall be permitted to build 143,500 tons of 6-inch gun cruisers, designated in the treaty as vessels carrying guns of 6.1 inches calibre or less. It is contended by Senator Hale and others that vessels of that type are not suitable for the defense and police purposes of the United States, and that the construction of them was definitely abandoned in our recent naval building policy in favor of constructing cruisers of 10,000 tons carrying 8-inch guns in their main batteries.

There seems to be no complaint here that the treaty permits Britain to build 192,200 tons of 6-inch gun ships, 48,700 tons more than the United States, but merely that the United States should not be required to build ships which are suitable for British needs but not for those of the United States.

Some Senators expressed the opinion today that if consideration of the treaty were begun in the Senate in May the discussion might drag on into midsummer, delaying the projected date of adjournment for a considerable period. Senator Fess of Ohio was inclined to take that view, while Senator Norris of Nebraska, leader of the independent and insurgent Republican group, whose course is generally hostile to the Hoover Administration, expressed the opinion that the entire Summer might be consumed in discussing the treaty if it were brought up for consideration at the current session.

OFFICIALS IN TOKIO LAUD LONDON PACT

Statements Regarded as Bid for Support Against Big Navy Group.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

TOKIO, April 22.—Premier Hamaguchi and Baron Shidehara, the Foreign Minister, joined in public statements today praising the work done at the London Naval Arms Conference. The statements were designed largely for home consumption, and to strengthen the government's position by pointing to an achievement just as the Diet is starting work.

The statements are regarded as a bid for public support in the face of certain opposition to the London treaty, which will be staged in the Diet by supporters of the navy element.

It is learned that Admiral Takarabe, who is scheduled to leave London tomorrow by way of Siberia, is planning to stop over at Seoul for a few days, where he will visit Governor General Saito of Korea, a former Admiral and former Minister of the Navy, who is extremely influential in government circles here.

The Japanese press attaches particular importance to Admiral Takarabe's meeting with Governor General Saito, because of the rift here between the navy leaders and the government over the London treaty, which is likely to flare up when Admiral Takarabe reaches Japan. It is thought Governor General Saito's advice may play a part in smoothing the situation.

Premier Hamaguchi, in his statement, declared he felt certain the results of the London conference "will contribute enormously to the peace of the world by turning the minds of all nations toward the betterment of international relations." Baron Shidehara declared "we must rest satisfied with such gradual progress as improved relations between nations of the world may render possible. The world is happily moving in the right direction. What Washington and Geneva left undone has now been realized at London.

He expressed confidence that the new treaty would "greatly increase the sense of security among nations."

PARIS PRESS SPLITS ON LONDON TREATY

Le Temps Criticizes Britain and America, but Others Foresee Progress in Peace.

By P. J. PHILIP.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, April 22.—French newspaper comment on the London naval treaty signed today shows the extent to which the idea of security has taken possession of the French nation.

Thus Le Temps, reviewing the history of the conference, says: "In reality, Great Britain and the United States desired to assure their domination of the seas at the least expense to themselves, thanks to the sacrifices to be consented to by the others. On that basis, the negotiations could with difficulty arrive at a five-power agreement, which would have implied, notably for France, a pure and simple abandonment of security."

Later the same writer adds: "It was not because of lack of good-will on the part of France that an all-round solution was not found. The French delegation went to the extreme limit of possible concessions without dangerously compromising our security."

Some of the other papers assert that the way to advancement toward disarmament at Geneva has been found at London. Emphasis is placed on the acceptance by England of parity with the United States, and Auguste Gauvain, among others, finds that England has paid dearly by abandonment of the naval supremacy which she exercised for more than a century for her deliverance from the nightmare of an armament race with the United States.

Majority See Progress.

PARIS, April 22 (AP).—The opinion expressed by a majority of the French press is that signature of the naval accord in London, while admittedly not fulfilling all the hopes that flourished when the conference began, nevertheless marks a real step forward.

Léon Bailby, editor of L'Intransigeant, agreeing with Senator Joseph T. Robinson of the American delegation that important progress has been made, today stressed with approval the Senator's broadcast words that disarmament must result from the voluntary action of nations and cannot be imposed on any nation without the assumption of some responsibility for the security of that nation.

Jules Sauerwein, foreign editor of Le Matin, has expressed the opinion that the accord has "great value" in that the possibility of a great war in the Pacific and Far East seems to have been excluded from this time on. Another far-reaching result, in his opinion, will be the "end of the hegemony of the British Empire on the seas" and the consequent elimination of the possibility of war between the United States and Great Britain.

KIPLING'S NAME MENTIONED.

Noyes, de la Mare, Newbolt and Watson Urged as Poet Laureate.

LONDON, April 22 (AP).—Rudyard Kipling, one of the most widely known and read British writers alive today, was widely mentioned tonight for the post of Poet Laureate of England, vacant since the death of Robert Bridges yesterday.

Poets Laureate are chosen by Prime Ministers, and so far Pime Minister Ramsay MacDonald has made no announcement. He will probably make none until after the funeral of Mr. Bridges, who had been Poet Laureate since before the war.

The London press indulged in much speculation about Mr. Bridges' successor. In addition to Mr. Kipling, Alfred Noyes, Walter de la Mare, Sir William Watson and Sir Henry Newbolt were considered possibilities.

SUCCESS IS OBVIOUS IN CANADIAN'S VIEW

Signer for Dominion Holds That Greatest Step Is in Aid to Peace Opinion.

LONDON, April 22 (Canadian Press).—"That this conference succeeded there can be no doubt," declared Phillippe Roy, the Canadian Minister to France, when he signed the historic naval treaty today as the representative of Canada.

Mr. Roy in opening his remarks at the plenary session expressed deep regret that Colonel J. L. Ralston, the Canadian Minister of National Defense and leader of the Canadian naval delegation, had been forced to return to the Dominion before the signature of the treaty.

"I trust that in my words you find an echo of Colonel Ralston's forceful voice," Mr. Roy declared. "In some cases I have used not only the substance of his ideas but also the form in which he clothed them during the conversations he had before he left.

"I wish to express what I know to be in the minds of all of us—profound admiration and esteem for the statesman who took the initiative of convening this conference and who, amid the many cares of his high office in this country, has carried the burden and responsibilities of chairman of this great mission. In the many difficulties he has faced he has set for us an example of tact, of patience and understanding.

"That this conference has succeeded there can be no doubt. Its success may be demonstrated not only in figures of dollars and of ships but also in the encouragement given to the praiseworthy habit of consultation between nations. But perhaps the most far-reaching result is the awakening of the world to the fact that an informed and active public opinion is necessary to achieve disarmament. I am glad to say such an opinion is growing steadily in Canada, where it has been fostered and strengthened because it has been found possible not only to forswear war but to set up with our friends to the south effective machinery to take its place.

"Arms reduction will receive a tremendous impetus when countries in estimating security will reckon agreements as effective substitutes for force, and will reduce tonnage because they have adopted devices for settling differences by discussion and reasoning. The experience of Canada with such methods has been reassuring. She believes that the hope for peace lies in extending the principle of consultation and arbitration, and she offers her experience of a joint international tribunal as evidence that such agencies are practical and effective.

"I need hardly say that the friendly and complete agreement reached by the powers which happened to be our nearest neighbors gives the highest satisfaction to Canada. We shall follow with deep interest the conversations which are to ensue with the Continental nations; our people are deeply concerned about a favorable solution.

"Gentlemen, it is with this expression of good will and of faith that we shall sign the treaty. The results which have been obtained are great and the future will show that our optimism is fully justified."

TAKARABE HONORS BRITON.

Gives A. V. Alexander a Silver Bowl Symbolic of Navy's Peaceful Aim.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, April 22.—A silver flower bowl was presented today to Albert V. Alexander, British First Lord of the Admiralty, by Admiral Hyo Takarabe of the apanese delegation in recognition of his "unfailing courtesy and tact and his vigorous effort" as chairman of the first committee of the London Naval Arms Conference. The bowl has five handles, symbolic of the five powers, and is decorated with their national ensigns and flowers. The Japanese character "BU," appearing in relief on the bowl, is compounded of two words, one meaning "spear" and the other "to stop."

Explaining this symbolism, Admiral Takarabe wrote: "The original sense of 'Bu' being 'to stay the spear,' it pleases me to think of it as epitomizing the fundamental aim and function of the Japanese Navy—that of guardian of the peace."

Mr. Alexander told the Japanese Admiral his gift would "become a treasured family heirloom, to be handed down for generations."

BRAZILIANS HOLD BRITON.

Charge Former Captain Took Aerial Views of Forts.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

SAO PAULO, Brazil, April 22.—Charged with taking aerial pictures of army fortifications and strategic points in and about Rio de Janeiro, Captain H. Holland, former British Army officer, was arrested there today, according to reports received here.

Captain Holland has been in Brazil for the past year heading an aerial photography company and doing considerable survey work here. He carried on a brisk trade in skywriting advertising for politicians in the recent elections.

The Rio de Janeiro police, informed that Captain Holland was taking pictures of forbidden strategic points, raided his offices and imprisoned him and two English colleagues, at the same time confiscating a large amount of aerial photographs which the Captain said were harmless panoramic views to be sold abroad. It is understood the action of the police has been brought to the attention of the British Embassy, which is conducting an inquiry before instituting diplomatic procedure.

PART I.

Article I.

The high contracting parties agree not to exercise their rights to lay down the keels of capital ship replacement tonnage during the years 1931-1936, inclusive, as provided in Chapter II, Part 3, of the Treaty for the Limitation of Naval Armament signed between them at Washington on the sixth of February, 1922, and referred to in the present treaty as the Washington Treaty.

This provision is without prejudice to the disposition relating to the replacement of ships accidentally lost or destroyed contained in Chapter II, Part 3, Section I, Paragraph (c) of the said treaty.

France and Italy may, however, build the replacement tonnage which they were entitled to lay down in 1927 and 1929 in accordance with the provisions of the said treaty.

Article II.

1. The United States, the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Northern Ireland, and Japan shall dispose of the following capital ships as provided in this article:

United States: FLORIDA, UTAH, ARKANSAS or WYOMING;

United Kingdom: BENBOW, IRON DUKE, MARLBOROUGH, EMPEROR OF INDIA, TIGER;

Japan: HIYEI.

(a) Subject to the provisions of sub-paragraph (b), the above ships, unless converted to target use exclusively in accordance with Chapter II, Part 2, Paragraph II (c) of the Washington Treaty, shall be scrapped in the following manner:

One of the ships to be scrapped by the United States, and two of those to be scrapped by the United Kingdom, shall be rendered unfit for warlike service, in accordance with Chapter II, Part 2, Paragraph III (b) of the Washington Treaty, within twelve months from the coming into force of the present treaty. These ships shall be finally scrapped, in accordance with Paragraph II (a) or (b) of the said Part 2, within twenty-four months of the said coming into force. In the case of the second of the ships to be scrapped by the United States and of the third and fourth of the ships to be scrapped by the United Kingdom, the said periods shall be eighteen and thirty months respectively from the coming into force of the present treaty.

(b) Of the ships to be disposed of under this article, the following may be retained for training purposes:

By the United States: ARKANSAS or WYOMING.

By the United Kingdom: IRON DUKE.

By Japan: HIYEI.

These ships shall be reduced to the condition prescribed in Section V of Annex II to Part 2 of the present treaty. The work of reducing these vessels to the required condition shall begin in the case of the United States and the United Kingdom within twelve months, and in the case of Japan within eight months from the coming into force of the present treaty; the work shall be completed within six months of the expiration of the above-mentioned periods.

Any of these ships which are not retained for training purposes shall be rendered unfit for warlike service within eighteen months, and finally scrapped within thirty months, of the coming into force of the present treaty.

2. Subject to any disposal of capital ships which might be necessitated, in accordance with the Washington Treaty, by building by France or Italy of the replacement tonnage referred to in Article I of the present treaty, all existing capital ships mentioned in Chapter II, Part 3, Section II of the Washington Treaty and not designated above to be disposed of may be retained during the term of the present treaty.

3. The right of replacement is not lost by delay in laying down replacement tonnage, and the old vessel may be retained until replaced, even though due for scrapping under Chapter II, Part 3, Section II of the Washington Treaty.

Article III.

1. For the purpose of the Washington Treaty, the definition of an aircraft carrier given in Chapter 2, Part 4, of the said treaty is hereby replaced by the following definition:

The expression "aircraft carrier" includes any surface vessel of war, whatever its displacement, designed for the specific and exclusive purpose of carrying aircraft and so constructed that aircraft can be launched therefrom and landed thereon.

2. The fitting of a landing-on or flying-off platform or deck on a capital ship, cruiser or destroyer, provided such vessel was not designed or adapted exclusively as an aircraft carrier, shall not cause any vessel so fitted to be charged to or classified in the category of aircraft carriers.

3. No existing capital ship shall be fitted with a landing-on platform or deck.

Article IV.

1. No aircraft carrier of 10,000 tons (10,160 metric tons) or less standard displacement mounting a gun above 6.1 inches (155 mm.) calibre shall be acquired by, or constructed by or for, any of the high contracting parties.

2. As from the coming into force of the present treaty in respect of all the high contracting parties, no aircraft carrier of 10,000 tons 10,160 metric tons) or less standard displacement mounting a gun in excess of 6.1 inches (155 mm.) shall be constructed within the jurisdiction of any of the high contracting parties.

Article V.

An aircraft carrier must not be designed and constructed for carrying a more powerful armament than that authorized by Article IX or Article X of the Washington Treaty, or by Article IV of the present treaty, as the case may be. Wherever in the said Articles IX and X of the Washington Treaty the calibre of 6.0 inches (152 mm.) is mentioned, the calibre of 6.1 inches (155 mm.) is substituted therefor.

PART 2.

Article VI.

1. The rules for determining standard displacement prescribed in Chapter 2, Part 4 of the Washington Treaty shall apply to all surface vessels of war of each of the high contracting parties.

2. The standard displacement of a submarine is the surface displacement of the vessel complete (exclusive of the water in non-water-tight structure) fully manned, engined and equipped ready for sea, including all armament and ammunition, equipment, outfit, provisions for crew, miscellaneous stores and implements of every description that are intended to be carried in war, but without fuel, lubricating oil, fresh water or ballast water of any kind on board.

3. Each naval combatant vessel shall be rated at its displacement tonnage when in the standard condition. The word "ton," except in the expression "metric tons," shall be understood to be the ton of 2,240 pounds (1,016 kilos).

Article VII.

1. No submarine the standard displacement of which exceeds 2,000 tons (2,032 metric tons) or with a gun above 5.1 inches (130 mm.) calibre shall be acquired by or constructed by or for any of the high contracting parties.

2. The high contracting parties may, however, retain, build or acquire a maximum number of three submarines of a standard displacement not exceeding 2,800 tons (2,845 metric tons); these submarines may carry guns not above 6.1 inches (155 mm.) calibre. Within this number, France may retain one unit, already launched, of 2,880 tons (2,926 metric tons), with guns the calibre of which is 8 inches (203 mm.).

3. The high contracting parties may retain the submarines which they possessed on April 1, 1930, having a standard displacement not in excess of 2,000 tons (2,032 metric tons) and armed with guns above 5.1 inches (130 mm.) calibre.

4. As from the coming into force of the present treaty in respect of all the high contracting parties, no submarine the standard displacement of which exceeds 2,000 tons (2,032 metric tons) or with a gun above 5.1 inches (130 mm.) calibre shall be constructed within the jurisdiction of any of the high contracting parties, except as provided in Paragraph 2 of this article.

Article VIII.

Subject to any special agreements which may submit them to limitation, the following vessels are exempt from limitation:

(a) Naval surface combatant vessels of 600 tons (610 metric tons) standard displacement and under.

(b) Naval surface combatant vessels exceeding 600 tons (610 metric tons), but not exceeding 2,000 tons (2,032 metric tons) standard displacement, provided they have none of the following characteristics:

(1) Mount a gun above 6.1 inches (155 mm.) calibre.

(2) Mount more than four guns above 3 inches (76 mm.) calibre.

(3) Are designed or fitted to launch torpedoes.

(4) Are designed for a speed greater than twenty knots.

(c) Naval surface vessels not specifically built as fighting ships which are employed on fleet duties or as troop transports or in some other way than as fighting ships, provided they have none of the following characteristics:

(1) Mount a gun above 6.1 inches (155 mm.) calibre.

(2) Mount more than four guns above 3 inch (76 mm.) calibre.

(3) Are designed or fitted to launch torpedoes.

(4) Are designed for a speed greater than twenty knots.

(5) Are protected by armor plate.

(6) Are designed or fitted to launch mines.

(7) Are fitted to receive airplanes on board from the air.

(8) Mount more than one airplane-launching apparatus on the centre line; or two, one on each broadside.

(9) If fitted with any means of launching airplanes into the air, are designed or adapted to operate at sea more than three airplanes.

Article IX.

The rules as to replacement contained in Annex I to the Part 2 are applicable to vessels of war not exceeding 10,000 tons (10,160 metric tons) standard displacement with the exception of aircraft carriers, whose replacement is governed by the provisions of the Washington treaty.

Article X.

Within one month after the date of laying down and the date of completion respectively of each vessel of war, other than capital ships, aircraft carriers and the vessels exempt from limitation under Article VIII, laid down or completed by or for them after the coming into force of the present treaty, the high contracting parties shall communicate to each of the other high contracting parties the information detailed below:

(a) The date of laying the keel and the following particulars:

The classification of the vessel;

Standard displacement in tons and metric tons;

The principal dimensions, namely, length at water line, extreme beam at or below waterline;

Mean draft at standard displacements;

The calibre of the largest gun.

(b) The date of completion together with the foregoing particulars relating to the vessel at that date.

The information to be given in the case of capital ships and aircraft carriers is governed by the Washington treaty.

Article XI.

Subject to the provisions of Article II of the present treaty, the rules for disposal contained in Annex II to this Part 2 shall be applied to all vessels of war to be disposed of under the treaty, and to aircraft carriers as defined in Article III.

Article XII.

1. Subject to any supplementary agreements which may modify as between the high contracting parties concerned the lists in Annex III of this Part 2, the special vessels shown therein may be retained and their tonnage shall not be included in the tonnage subject to limitation.

2. Any other vessel constructed, adapted or acquired to serve the purposes for which these special vessels are retained shall be charged against the tonnage of the appropriate combatant category, according to the characteristics of the vessel, unless such vessel conforms to the characteristics of vessels exempt from limitation under Article VIII.

3. Japan may, however, replace the minelayers Aso and Tokiwa by two new minelayers before Dec. 31, 1936. The standard displacement of each of the new vessels shall not exceed 5,000 tons (5,080 metric tons); their speed shall not exceed twenty knots, and their other characteristics shall conform to the provisions of paragraph (b) of Article VIII. The new vessels shall be regarded as special vessels and their tonnage shall not be chargeable to the tonnage of any combatant category. The Aso and Tokiwa shall be disposed of in accordance with Section 1 or 2 of Annex II to this Part 2 on completion of the replacement vessels.

4. The Asama, Yakumo, Idzumo, Iwate and Kasuga shall be disposed of as stated in Section 1 or 2 of Annex II to this Part 2 when the first three vessels of the Kuma class have been replaced by new vessels. These three vessels of the Kuma class shall be reduced to the condition prescribed in Section 5, sub-paragraph (b) 2 of Annex II to this Part 2, and are to be used for training ships, and their tonnage shall not thereafter be included in the tonnage subject to limitation.

Article XIII.

Existing ships of various types which, prior to the 1st of April, 1930, have been used as stationary training establishments or hulks, may be retained in a non-seagoing condition.

ANNEX 1.

RULES FOR REPLACEMENT.

Section I.

Except as provided in Section 3 of this annex and Annex III of the present treaty, a vessel shall not be replaced before it becomes "over age." A vessel shall be deemed to be "over age" when the following number of years have elapsed since the date of its completion:

(a) For a surface vessel exceeding 3,000 tons (3,048 metric tons), but not exceeding 10,000 tons (10,160 metric tons) standard displacement:

(1) If laid down before the 1st of January, 1920, sixteen years.

(2) If laid down after the 31st of December, 1919, twenty years.

(b) For a surface vessel not exceeding 3,000 tons (3,048 metric tons) standard displacement:

(1) If laid down before the 1st of January, 1921, twelve years.

(2) If laid down after the 31st of December, 1920, 16 years.

(c) For a submarine: thirteen years.

The keels of replacement tonnage shall not be laid down more than three years before the year in which a vessel to be replaced becomes "over age," but this period is reduced to two years in the case of any replacement surface vessel not exceeding 3,000 tons (3,048 metric tons) standard displacement.

The right of replacement is not lost by delay in laying down replacement tonnage.

Section II.

Except as otherwise provided in the present treaty, the vessel or vessels whose retention would cause the maximum tonnage permitted in the category to be exceeded shall, on the completion or acquisition of the replacement tonnage, be disposed of in accordance with Annex II to this Part 2.

Section III.

In the event of loss or accidental destruction a vessel may be immediately replaced.

ANNEX 2.

RULES FOR DISPOSAL OF VESSELS OF WAR.

The present treaty provides for the disposal of vessels of war in the following ways:

(1) By scrapping (sinking or breaking up).

(2) By converting the vessel to a hulk.

(3) By converting the vessel to target use exclusively.

(4) By retaining the vessel exclusively for experimental purposes.

(5) By retaining the vessel exclusively for training purposes. Any vessel of war to be disposed of, other than a capital ship, may either be scrapped or converted to a hulk at the option of the high contracting party concerned.

Vessels, other than capital ships, which have been retained for target usages, experimental or training purposes shall finally be scrapped or converted to hulks.

Section I.

Vessels to Be Scrapped.

(a) A vessel to be disposed of by scrapping, by reason of its replacement, must be rendered incapable of warlike service within six months of the date of the completion of its successor, or of the first of its successors if there are more than one. If, however, the completion of the new vessel or vessels be delayed, the work of rendering the old vessel incapable of warlike service shall, nevertheless, be completed within four and a half years from the date of laying the keel of the new vessel, or of the first of the new vessels; but should the new vessel, or any of the new vessels be a surface vessel not exceeding 3,000 tons (3,048 metric tons) standard displacement, this period is reduced to three and a half years.

(b) A vessel to be scrapped shall be considered incapable of warlike service when there shall have been removed and landed or else destroyed in the ship:

(1) All guns and essential parts of guns, fire control tops and revolving parts of all barbettes and turrets;

(2) All hydro-electric machinery for operating turrets;

(3) All fire control instruments and range finders;

(4) All ammunition, explosives, mines and mine rails;

(5) All torpedoes, warheads, torpedo tubes and training racks;

(6) All wireless telegraphy installations;

(7) All main propelling machinery or alternatively the armored conning tower and all side armor plate;

(8) All aircraft cranes, derricks, lifts and launching apparatus. All landing-on or flying-off platforms or alternatively all main propelling machinery;

(9) In addition, in the case of submarines, all main storage batteries, air compressor plants and baler pumps.

(c) Scrapping shall be finally effected in either of the following ways within twelve months of the date on which the work of rendering the vessel incapable of warlike service is due for completion:

(1) Permanent sinking of the vessel;

(2) Breaking the vessel up; this shall always include the destruction or removal of all machinery, boilers and armor, and all deck, side and bottom plating.

Section II.

Vessels to Be Converted to Hulks.

A vessel to be disposed of by conversion to a hulk shall be considered finally disposed of when the conditions prescribed in Section I, Paragraph (b) have been complied with, omitting sub-paragraphs (6), (7) and (8), and when the following have been effected:

(1) Mutilation beyond repair of all polishing shafts, thrust blocks, turbine gearing or main propelling motors, and turbines or cylinders of main engines.

(2) Removal of propeller boxes.

(3) Removal and breaking up of all aircraft lifts, and the removal of all aircraft cranes, derricks and launching apparatus.

The vessels must be put into the above condition within the same limits of time as provided in Section I for rendering a vessel incapable of warlike service.

(a) A vessel to be disposed of by conversion to target use exclusively shall be considered incapable of warlike service when there have been removed and landed, or rendered unserviceable only, the following:

(1) All guns.

(2) All fire control tops and instruments and main fire control communication wiring.

(3) All machinery for operating gun mountings or turrets.

(4) All ammunition, explosives, mines, torpedoes and torpedo tubes.

(5) All aviation facilities and accessories.

The vessel must be put into the above condition within the same limits of time as provided in Section I for rendering a vessel incapable of warlike service.

(b) In addition to the rights already possessed by each high contracting party under the Washington treaty, each high contracting party is permitted to retain, for target use exclusively, at any one time:

(1) Not more than three vessels (cruisers or destroyers), but of these three vessels only one may exceed 3,000 tons (3,048 metric tons) standard displacement.

(2) One submarine.

(c) On retaining a vessel for target use, the high contracting party undertakes not to recondition it for warlike service.

Section IV.

Vessels Retained for Experimental Purposes.

(a) A vessel to be disposed of by conversion to experimental purposes exclusively shall be dealt with in accordance with the provisions of Section III (a), this annex.

(b) Without prejudice to the general rules, and provided that due notice be given to the other high contracting parties, reasonable variation from the conditions prescribed in Section III (a), this annex, in so far as may be necessary for the purposes of a special experiment, may be permitted as a temporary measure.

Any high contracting party taking advantage of this provision is required to furnish full details of any such variation and the period for which they will be required.

(c) Each high contracting party is permitted to retain for experimental purposes, exclusively, at any time:

(1) Not more than two vessels (cruisers or destroyers), but of these two vessels only one may exceed 3,000 tons (3,048 metric tons) standard displacement.

(2) One submarine.

(d) The United Kingdom is allowed to retain, in their present conditions the monitor Roberts, the main armament guns and mountings of which have been mutilated, and the seaplane carrier Ark Royal, until no longer required for experimental purposes. The retention of these two vessels is without prejudice to the retention of vessels permitted under (c) above.

On retaining a vessel for experimental purposes the high contracting party undertakes not to recondition it for warlike service.

Section V.

Vessels Retained for Training Purposes.

(a) In addition to the rights already possessed by each high contracting party under the Washington Treaty, each high contracting party is permitted to retain for training purposes exclusively the following vessels:

United Kingdom: One capital ship (IRON DUKE);

Italy: Two surface vessels, one of which may exceed 3,000 tons (3,048 metric tons) standard displacement;

Japan: One capital ship (HIYEI), three cruisers (KUMA CLASS).

(b) Vessels retained for training purposes under the provision of Paragraph (a) shall, within six months of the date on which they are required to be disposed of, be dealt with as follows:

Capital Ships.

The following is to be carried out:

(1) Removal of main armament guns, revolving parts of all barbettes and turrets; machinery for operating turrets; but three turrets with their armament may be retained in each ship;

(2) Removal of all ammunition and explosives in excess of the quantity required for target practice training for the guns remaining on board;

(3) Removal of conning tower and the side armor belt between the foremost and aftermost barbettes;

PART 3.

The President of the United States of America, his Majesty the King of Great Britain, Ireland and the British Dominions Beyond the Seas, Emperor of India, and his Majesty the Emperor of Japan, have agreed as between themselves to the provisions of this Part 3:

Article XIV.

The naval combatant vessels of the United States, the British Commonwealth of Nations and Japan, other than capital ships, aircraft carriers and all vessels exempt from limitation under Article VIII, shall be limited during the term of the present treaty as provided in this Part 3, and in the case of special vessels, as provided in Article XII.

Article XV.

For the purpose of this Part 3 the definition of the cruiser and destroyer categories shall be as follows:

Cruisers.

Surface vessels of war, other than capital ships or aircraft carriers, the standard displacement of which exceeds 1,850 tons (1,880 metric tons), or with a gun above 5.1 inches (130 mm.) calibre.

The cruiser category is divided into the following sub-categories:

(a) Cruisers carrying a gun above 6.1 inches (155 mm.) calibre;

(b) Cruisers carrying a gun not above 6.1 inches (155 mm.) calibre.

Destroyers.

Surface vessels of war the standard displacement of which does not exceed 1,850 tons (1,880 metric tons), and with a gun not above 5.1 inches (130 mm.) calibre.

Article XVI.

1. The completed tonnage in the cruiser, destroyer and submarine categories which is not to be exceeded on the 31st of December, 1936, is given in the following table:

Categories.	United States.	Uni. Kingdom.	Japan.
Cruisers:
(a) With guns of more than 6.1 inches (155 mm.) calibre.	180,000 tons (182,880 metric tons)	146,800 tons (149,149 metric tons)	108,400 tons (110,134 metric tons)
(b) With guns of 6.1 inches (155 mm.) calibre or less....	143,500 tons (145,796 metric tons)	192,200 tons (195,275 metric tons)	100,450 tons (102,057 metric tons)
Destroyers	150,000 tons (152,400 metric tons)	150,000 tons (152,400 metric tons)	105,450 tons (107,188 metric tons)
Submarines	52,700 tons (53,543 metric tons)	52,700 tons (53,543 metric tons)	52,700 tons (53,543 metric tons)

2. Vessels which cause the total tonnage in any category to exceed the figures given in the foregoing table shall be disposed of gradually during the period ending on Dec. 31, 1936.

3. The maximum number of cruisers of sub-categories (a) shall be as follows:

For the United States, eighteen; for the United Kingdom, fifteen; for Japan, twelve.

4. In the destroyer category not more than 16 per cent of the allowed total tonnage shall be employed in vessels of over 1,500 tons (1,524 metric tons) standard displacement. Destroyers completed or under construction on April 1, 1930, in excess of this project may be retained, but no other destroyers exceeding 1,500 tons (1,524 metric tons) standard displacement shall be constructed or acquired until a reduction of such 16 per cent has been effected.

5. Not more than 25 per cent of the allowed total tonnage in the cruiser category may be fitted with a landing-on platform or deck for aircraft.

6. It is understood that the submarines referred to in paragraphs 2 and 3 of Article VII will be counted as part of the total submarine tonnage of the high contracting parties concerned.

7. The tonnage of any vessels retained under Article XIII or in accordance with Annex II to Part 2 of the present treaty shall not be included in the tonnage subject to limitation.

Article XVII.

A transfer not exceeding 10 per cent of the allowed total tonnage of the category or subcategory into which the transfer is to be made shall be permitted between cruisers of the subcategory (b) and destroyers.

Article XVIII.

The United States contemplates the completion by 1935 of fifteen cruisers of subcategory (a) of an aggregate tonnage of 150,000 tons (152,400 metric tons). For each of the remaining three cruisers of subcategory (a) which it is entitled to construct the United States may elect to substitute 15,166 tons (15,409 metric tons) of cruisers of subcategory (b).

Subject to this option the sixteenth unit will not be laid down before 1933 and will not be completed before 1936; the seventeenth will not be laid down before 1934 and will not be completed before 1937; the eighteenth will not be laid down before 1935 and will not be completed before 1938.

Article XIX.

Except as provided in Article XX, the tonnage laid down in any category subject to limitation in accordance with Article XVI shall not exceed the amount necessary to reach the maximum allowed tonnage of the category, or to replace vessels that become "over age" before Dec. 31, 1936. Nevertheless, replacement tonnage may be laid down for cruisers and submarines that become "over age" in 1937, 1938 and 1939, and for destroyers that become "over age" in 1937 and 1938.

Article XX.

Notwithstanding the rules for replacement contained in Annex I to Part 2:

(a) The Frobisher and Effingham (United Kingdom) may be disposed of during the year 1936. Apart from the cruisers now under construction, the total replacement tonnage of cruisers to be completed, in the case of the United Kingdom, prior to Dec. 31, 1936, shall not exceed 91,000 tons (92,456 metric tons).

(b) Japan may replace the Tama by new construction to be completed during the year 1936.

(c) In addition to replacing destroyers becoming "over age" before Dec. 31, 1936, Japan may lay down in each of the years 1935 and 1936 not more than 5,200 tons (5,283 metric tons) to replace part of the vessels that become "over age" in 1938 and 1939.

(d) Japan may anticipate replacement during the term of the present treaty by laying down not more than 19,200 tons (19,507 metric tons) of submarine tonnage, of which not more than 12,000 tons (12,192 metric tons) shall be completed by Dec. 31, 1936.

Article XXI.

If, during the term of the present treaty, the requirements of the national security of any high contracting party in respect of vessels of war limited by Part 3 of the present treaty are, in the opinion of that party, materially affected by new construction of any power other than those who have joined in Part 3 of this treaty, that high contracting party will notify the other parties to Part 3 as to the increase required to be made in its own tonnages within one or more of the categories of such vessels of war, specifying particularly the proposed increases and the reasons therefor, and shall be entitled to make such increase. Thereupon the other parties to Part 3 of this treaty shall be entitled to make a proportionate increase in the category or categories specified; and the said other parties shall promptly advise with each other through diplomatic channels as to the situation thus presented.

PART 4.

Article XXII.

The following are accepted as established rules of international law:

(1) In their action with regard to merchant ships, submarines must conform to the rules of international law to which surface vessels are subject.

(2) In particular, except in case of persistent refusal to stop on being duly summoned, or of active resistance to visit or search a warship, whether surface vessel or submarine boat, may not sink or render incapable of navigation a merchant vessel without having first placed passengers, crew and ship's papers in a place of safety. For this purpose the ship's boats are not regarded as a place of safety unless the safety of the passengers and crew is assured, in the existing sea and weather conditions, by the proximity of land, or the presence of another vessel which is in a position to take them on board.

The high contracting parties invite all other powers to express their assent to the above rules.

PART 5.

Article XXIII.

The present treaty shall remain in force until Dec. 31, 1936, subject to the following exceptions:

(1) Part 4 shall remain in force without any limit of duration;

(2) The provisions of Articles III, IV, and V and Article II, so far as may relate to aircraft carriers, shall remain in force for the same period as the Washington Treaty.

Unless the high contracting parties should agree otherwise by reason of a more generally known agreement limiting naval armaments, to which they all become parties, they shall meet in conference in 1935 to frame a new treaty to replace and to carry out the purposes of the present treaty, it being understood that none of the provisions of the present treaty shall prejudice the attitude of any of the high contracting parties at the conference agreed to.

Article XXIV.

1. The present treaty shall be ratified by the high contracting parties in accordance with their respective constitutional methods and the ratification shall be deposited at London as soon as possible. Certified copies of all the process verbaux of the deposit of ratification will be transmitted to all the high contracting parties.

2. As soon as the ratifications of the United States of America, of his Majesty the King of Great Britain, Ireland and the British Dominions Beyond the Seas, Emperor of India, in respect of each and all of the members of the British Commonwealth of Nations as enumerated in the preamble of the present treaty, and of his Majesty the Emperor of Japan, have been deposited, the treaty shall come into force in respect of the said high contracting parties.

3. On the date of the coming into force referred to in the preceding paragraphs, Parts 1, 2, 4 and 5 of the present treaty will come into force in respect to the French Republic and the Kingdom of Italy if their ratifications have been deposited at that date; otherwise these parts will come into force in respect of each of these powers on the deposit of their ratifications.

4. The rights and obligations resulting from Part 3 of the present treaty are limited to the high contracting parties mentioned in Paragraph 2 of this article.

The high contracting parties will agree as to the date on which and the conditions under which the obligations assumed under the said Part 3 by the high contracting parties mentioned in Paragraph 2 of this article will bind them in relation to France and Italy. Such agreement will determine at the same time the obligations of France and Italy in relation to the other high contracting parties.

Article XXV.

After the deposit of the ratifications of all the high contracting parties, his Britannic Majesty's Government in the United Kingdom, Great Britain and Northern Ireland will communicate, on their behalf, the provisions inserted in Part 4 of the present treaty to all governments, inviting them to accede thereto definitely and without limit of time.

Such accession shall be effected by a declaration addressed to his Britannic Majesty's Government in the United Kingdom, Great Britain and Northern Ireland.

Article XXVI.

The present treaty, of which the French and English texts are both authentic, shall remain deposited in the archives of his Britannic Majesty's Government in the United Kingdom. Duly certified copies thereof shall be transmitted to the governments of all the high contracting parties. In faith whereof the above named plenipotentiaries have signed the present treaty and have affixed thereto their seals.

LEAGUE TO CONTINUE TASK LONDON BEGAN

Will Take Up Arms Problems Beyond the Sphere of the Five-Power Conference.

HAIL ACCORD ON METHODS

Statesmen Regard "Agreement in Principle" in Global-Category Question as Most Hopeful.

By CLARENCE K. STREIT.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, April 22.—Where London left off today until 1935, Geneva will continue tomorrow—and tomorrow and tomorrow. All the problems of world-wide naval limitation and reduction which the five powers were perforce unable to settle, and all the far more complicated problems of world-wide aviation and army limitation and reduction which London has not even touched, must be wrestled with year in and year out by that permanent conference which is the League of Nations.

The League will wrestle with them now with new hope, in the opinion expressed today by such statesmen as M. Briand and Premier MacDonald and in other conference circles most cognizant of the difficulties which have been delaying Geneva. It will continue now with some hope even of making the 1935 five-power conference unnecessary by holding beforehand the League's world conference for sea, land and air disarmament.

Important, If Inconspicuous.

This hope is due largely to one of the least conspicuous achievements of the London conference—its report on the methods of limitation in the so-called global-category question, which does not figure in the treaty, a report which the conference, due chiefly to the Italian attitude, was unable even to adopt, but only to "note." That question is the main one which has been preventing the League's preparatory disarmament commission from finishing its work and allowing a world conference to be convoked.

The report which the conference "noted" records the compromise on that question reached here by the champions of the two opposing methods, Great Britain and France. That major fact, and not the Italian reservation, was the point emphasized this morning by Mr. MacDonald in asking and obtaining the authority of all the five powers to transmit it formally to the League with an explanatory letter of his own.

To emphasize the importance of a Franco-British agreement on this "apparently simple matter," on which "hitherto there have been insoluble differences of opinion," Mr. MacDonald formally stated in the opening plenary session that it had been originally intended to make this "agreement" Part II of the treaty, but, "on further consideration" (he did not mention Italy's refusal to do this), it had been felt the best way would be for him as chairman to send it to the League secretariat and ask them "to draw the special attention of the preparatory commission to the finding on that point that has been reached here."

Briand Stresses Same Point.

A faithful friend of the League, M. Briand, who was the only delegate to mention the Geneva institution in the closing speeches today, referred to the same point in these words:

"The fundamental disagreement between the two delegations on the naval question had paralyzed the work of the Geneva preparatory commission. This divergence has now disappeared, and an agreement in principle reached on the methods of limitation already has been put in practice in the most useful manner. We now have machinery which, if manipulated with the necessary elasticity, will enable a greater number of States to sign a convention for the limitation of naval armaments."

The Italian difficulty, of course, remains and, though it is not likely that it will be completely removed until there is a final settlement of the Anglo-Franco-Italian naval figures, the conciliatory attitude shown on all sides today indicates that even the lack of a full agreement is not likely to prevent a preparatory commission meeting this Autumn at the latest.

The hope of Geneva was that the London conference might reach a full formal accord on the question of method so the preparatory commission could meet this Summer, allowing the League Assembly in September to convoke a disarmament conference next year. It is just possible this program may still be realized, but even if the preparatory conference is delayed until after the Assembly, thus delaying a world conference another year, the London conference seems to have broken the backbone of the category-global question.

Credit Due to Our Initiative.

The credit for the first step in this direction goes to a non-member of the League, the United States. Precisely a year ago today Ambassador Gibson, in his speech to the preparatory commission at Geneva, opened the way not only for the present conference but for the above result by accepting in behalf of the United States a compromise which the French offered and which the British, too, now have accepted.

In the settlement of the major Anglo-Franco-Italian naval problem, the figures of Geneva also play a part for the next contact of the Foreign Ministers of all three powers will be at the Council session May 12, and it is already known they intend to use this occasion for private talks. The same session of the Council will have other kindred work to do for important jurists report on how to put all the League machinery behind the peace pact—a report which figured in the political formula by which the British and French hoped and still hope to compose their naval differences—comes up then for approval. And even before the Council meets, the League will be working toward the same end, for on April 28 its permanent commission on arbitration and security—words so frequently heard at the naval conference—starts its session, bringing together again after a six-day interval a number of members of the delegations of the League powers here. London may not see some of them again for years. Geneva will see many of them at least once every three months. The work goes on.

REDUCTION WAS URGED BY GIBSON A YEAR AGO

Treaty Emphasizing Limitation Signed on Very Day He Made Appeal at Geneva.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, April 22.—The naval treaty was signed in London today precisely one year after the declaration the United States Government made through Hugh S. Gibson, Ambassador to Belgium, before the League of Nations Preparatory Disarmament Commission at Geneva, which broke a deadlock and led directly to the London conference.

It was in this much-quoted speech that Mr. Gibson declared that "agreement on the basis of existing world armaments (or at higher levels) can never be justified before enlightened public opinion as a positive achievement," and urged the powers to "take a bold course and begin by scrapping the term 'limitation' in order to concentrate upon the general reduction of armaments."

Contrast was added to the coincidence by the fact that the word "reduction," which Mr. Gibson throughout his speech a year ago stressed as the American aim, was not once mentioned in the speech made today by Secretary Stimson, who instead proclaimed faith again and again in the term "limitation."

REED IS SURE NATION WILL APPROVE PACT

American Delegate in Speech on the Radio Hails 'Red Letter Day' for Peace.

SEES VICTORY FOR NO ONE

Britain and United States Stand Equal, He Says, and Good-Will Toward Japan Is Proved.

In the last radio address on the London naval conference by a member of the American delegation, Senator David A. Reed of Pennsylvania, speaking from London yesterday, told the American people that the American delegates were starting for the United States with the firm conviction that "their countrymen will approve what has been done in America's name" at the conference.

Senator Reed's address began at 5 o'clock, New York time, and lasted for nearly half an hour. The address was rebroadcast throughout the United States by a coast-to-coast network of National Broadcasting Company stations. Officials of the company hailed the broadcast as "quite successful." Senator Reed's words were heard clearly. At the start of his speech there was some interference from static, but this interference disappeared as the speech progressed.

The Senator was introduced by De Witt McKenzie, manager of the London Bureau of The Associated Press.

Senator Draws Contrast.

Mr. Reed, whose speech was made public in Washington, began by describing St. James's Palace, where the naval negotiations were conducted, and its history. He said it was the seat of royalty of Great Britain in the days when "might was right" and the philosophy of international affairs resembled the "instincts of the wild animals." Then he continued:

It has been in marked contrast to all that that the naval conference has gone on within this dingy old palace since the middle of January. Formalities and ceremony were forgotten and the delegates looked much the same as the busy men that you find in any great commercial town, intent on the accomplishment of the business before them.

The conference at Washington in 1922 had pointed the way, but this London conference was called to accomplish those things in which the Washington conference had failed. The conference had no tasks that were not hard tasks; the difficult programs of the earlier conferences were the only problems that this conference had to try to solve. It could not have succeeded had it not been for the good-will and the sincerity of the delegates that were sent here. Just how well it did succeed I want now to try to tell you. I assure you that there is nothing abstruse or mysterious about it.

Let me begin by giving the situation that confronted the United States at the opening of this year.

You will remember that at Washington there was an agreement limiting the fleets of the five countries in some kinds of warships, but not all. The tonnage of battleships and aircraft carriers that each power might have was limited, but there was no limit put on cruisers or destroyers or submarines. At Washington it was arranged that no one should begin to build new battleships until the year 1931, but then a very elaborate schedule of new construction was provided for. The United States was therefore confronted with the building of ten huge battleships within the next six years, costing about $40,000,000 each, and had an enormous program of construction in cruisers and destroyers and submarines to undertake in order to try to catch up with the other countries, whose fleets were larger or newer than our own. Both Great Britain and Japan had a far larger tonnage of cruisers than we had, because we had practically ceased to build such ships during the last fifteen years and while we were trying to catch up with them it was only reasonable to expect that their building would continue and that it would perhaps even be increased when they saw our own programs being speeded up.

In destroyers, it is true, we had a lot of wartime vessels still afloat, but they were rapidly approaching the end of their useful life and the destroyer fleets of the other countries were newer and would outlive ours. The same was true of submarines. Altogether it looked as if the United States would have to spend about $250,000,000 a year in new construction for an indefinite time or else fall hopelessly behind in relative strength to these other powers.

It was not only from a money standpoint that this would have been disastrous. Inevitably these friendly nations would have been stirred by apprehension if they had seen us embark on any such colossal building program, and the good relations and friendly attitude that we are all anxious to preserve would inevitably have been disturbed.

I have been giving the picture only as it appeared to us Americans, but there was a similarly dismal outlook confronting each of the other countries. It is not necessary to specify the details, but some of these countries were gravely troubled by the expense involved in this naval competition, and some of them thought they had already reached the limits of taxation that their people could reasonably be expected to bear.

It is enough to say that for one reason or another every one of us was anxious to avoid this spectre of a naval race. Every one of us realized that although the Washington Treaty had to a certain extent stopped competition in battleships, it had merely transferred the competition to those other categories that were unlimited. We Americans, although better able to afford new construction than any other nation, felt greatly handicapped by our present marked inferiority in cruiser fleets and by the certainty that in 1936 we would be equally inferior in modern destroyers and submarines.

Reviews Parley's Achievements.

What, then, has been accomplished? To begin with, we have all agreed to keep our present battleships, which are perfectly seaworthy and effective, and to take a holiday in new battleship construction to Jan. 1, 1937. In that one stroke we have saved an outlay by the United States of about $400,000,000. When we think of the number of miles of improved roads, or the number of bridges, or the number of public buildings, that can be had for that sum of money, I for one am convinced that civilization is the gainer by this agreement.

Then in cruisers, although our present fleets are pitifully small compared with the cruiser fleets of Great Britain and Japan, our building power has been recognized and Great Britain has readily agreed parity and Japan has agreed to a satisfactory relationship between the fleets, with the result that while we build at moderate speed during these seven years, the British and Japanese fleets are either reduced or will remain at about today's level, to the great relief of the taxpayers of all three countries.

The same is true of destroyers. We will scrap a considerable number of our wartime vessels, Great Britain scraps some and Japan scraps some, and the resultant fleets, which will be large enough for each of us and for all the normal police work that such vessels are called upon to conduct, will nevertheless represent parity with Great Britain and a satisfactory relation with Japan.

Urged Submarine Abolition.

In submarines our problems have been different because while we are encouraged by the agreement of the five powers to use the submarines in a humane way, nevertheless the temptation to sink merchant ships without warning is very great, and we felt that the world would be better insured against such a murderous submarine campaign as occurred in the last war if the submarine as an instrument of warfare were altogether abolished.

Some of the other nations were not ready to go so far, however, and the best we could do was to agree to a parity in such vessels at a low figure between Great Britain and Japan and ourselves, a figure that requires the destruction of a considerable number of these vessels in the British, the Japanese and the American fleets and to that extent removes the menace to innocent life that results from the very existence of these rattlesnakes of the sea.

So there is substance in our agreement. I have not undertaken to burden you with a lot of statistics on tonnage, but have tried to give you in fair outline the substance of the treaty that has been made.

The benefits to all concerned are very obvious. Please bear in mind that none of us considers that we have won a diplomatic victory. The treaty represents a victory for no one nation, but rather an honorable and reasonable agreement which is fair to every one. A great deal of rubbish has been talked about international relations and the friendliness of one nation for another, but I think it is not rubbish to claim that the accomplishment of this treaty means much for the preservation of friendly and peaceful relationships between these three great naval powers.

Cites Benefits of Parity.

Take Great Britain, for example. In the future she will know and we will know that in naval strength we stand upon an equality, that neither of us is likely to be surprised by a sudden outbreak of building on the part of the other. We go on about our affairs respecting one another, understanding one another better and without the apprehension that sometimes has characterized our thought of one another's naval power.

Then, on the other hand, take Japan. We know that her intentions toward us are friendly, for otherwise she would never agree to stand still in cruiser building while we go on and build a cruiser fleet that is stronger than hers. And Japan must know, and I am sure that she does know, that our intentions toward her are friendly in the extreme or we would not willingly scrap a great number of our destroyers and cheerfully consent to a parity with her in submarines.

Japan and America have today given tangible evidences of friendliness which far exceed in value all of the oratory that was ever uttered. We have not merely said that we desire friendly relations between the two countries, but we both have proved it in a way so substantial that no skeptic can doubt it.

All in all, today has been a red-letter day in the cause of world peace. The members of the American delegation are starting home with the firm conviction that their countrymen will approve what has been done in America's name at the London Naval Conference.

M'DONALD ASSAYS PARLEY ON RADIO

British Premier Sees Another War Sure as Sunrise Unless Scotched.

NOTES DANGER IN DETAILS

Arms Limitation Is Becoming More and More Technical, He Asserts in British Broadcast.

LONDON, April 22 (AP)—Broadcasting a last message on the closing day of the naval conference he had piloted through so many perils, Premier MacDonald declared tonight that "another war will be as certain as tomorrow's sunrise if an active peace mind, not only of the pious but of the practical kind, does not intervene."

Speaking from No. 10 Downing Street, where he said good-bye today to Secretary Stimson, he said:

"I am under no delusions as to how far we have gone. We have just made a beginning. Disarmament is beset with pitfalls and difficulties of all kinds. What looks fair on the face of it, turns out on examination to be forbidding and dangerous.

"My experience during the past three months has been that the peace movement has everything to give it heart in its work, but that its work must more and more be the study of details and of the means of overcoming them.

"Now that the conference is over I can say with the firmest conviction that if what has been done is immediately used to prepare the public mind to do more, the London conference will be one of the great landmarks showing forever how near the nations have approached to abiding peace."

Noting that "war has followed war," the Prime Minister commented on the fact that every one properly informed had been disquieted in recent years by the way in which the nations had been returning to their old ways of pursuing their old ideas of security.

He explained that competitive building of ships had already begun.

"Conference after conference to try to regulate that building has failed, and a year ago we looked across the dreary, forbidding prospect of building and counter-building, bounded only by the blackest of threatening clouds. We have been trying to change that prospect."

Mr. MacDonald said he believed that the nations who had thought for generations that by spending huge sums of money on armaments they could insure themselves against war had been taught the folly of that faith.

In 1927 the United States and Great Britain had parted company at the Geneva conference very angry with each other, said Mr. MacDonald, and since then the naval strength of the world had mounted in a very ominous way.

When the London Naval Conference met, he continued, it was soon found that, although the nations met as a single five-power group, they were really divided into two groups, in each of which Great Britain had a foot. Great Britain, the United States and Japan, he described as the "high seas group," and Great Britain, France and Italy as the "European group."

"You can, therefore, imagine the sleight of hand required to keep business going!" he exclaimed.

But, he went on, although sometimes they had been skating over thin ice, a five-power treaty had been evolved, with the United States, Great Britain and Japan signing one section and all five powers signing other portions that contained valuable provisions.

In this, the Prime Minister declared, all five delegations had found their harvest of achievements "richer than ever we believed it could have been.

"We have been like pioneers making roads and cutting down thickets of briars that have hitherto prevented passage."

Part of Speech Heard Here.

Radio listeners of the United States and Canada heard the closing minutes of Premier MacDonald's address to the English people yesterday, immediately after five world powers had signed the naval treaty in London.

Although the National Broadcasting Company had no advance plans to broadcast this talk, the daily experimental pick-up from abroad became so clear that it was immediately sent out to the networks.

Phillips Carlin interrupted the studio program going out to National Broadcasting Company associate stations just before 3 o'clock, and explained that the voice of Mr. MacDonald would be rebroadcast from England. Less than ten minutes later Mr. MacDonald finished speaking.

WEAF in New York headed the National Broadcasting Company network for this feature, which included CKGW in Toronto.

BRITISH PRESS SEES TREATY AS A SPUR

Considers Pact Stage on Long Road Toward Disarmament, Admitting Inadequacy.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, April 22.—The naval treaty, as the British press sees it, is only a stage, though an important stage, on the long road toward disarmament. It is felt that the danger of competitive increasing and accelerated shipbuilding has been averted, but this on all sides is held an inadequate achievement, the general view being that it must be a spur to greater efforts in the future.

Great prominence is given in all the editorials to the part played in the negotiations by the improvement in Anglo-American relations.

"This improvement, for which Prime Minister MacDonald and Mr. Baldwin before him have striven so earnestly on this side of the Atlantic and President Hoover and Secretary Stimson on the other, has contributed more than any other to the success of the conference," The London Times will say tomorrow. "Not the least of the benefits to be expected from the treaty is that it promises to deepen and perpetuate the frank and intimate friendship already existing between the two great English-speaking peoples."

While the negotiation of a complete three-power agreement will remain the outstanding success of the conference, in The Times's opinion, it would be a mistake to underrate the importance of the agreements signed by all five of the powers.

"The other agreements, though largely technical, will be of real use to future conferences in facilitating their labors, and the compromise on the method of limiting fleets by global tonnage and by categories, which is not included in the treaty, will be of the greatest value to the Preparatory Disarmament Commission at Geneva, removing from its path a controversy which has hitherto been its most formidable stumbling block," The Times concludes.

The Daily Herald, organ of the MacDonald Government, will say that the treaty must not be a goal but a new starting point.

"It is limitation and not reduction of armaments," the paper holds. "Still less is it in any sense of the word disarmament. Satisfaction at a limited success must be tempered and chastened by a consciousness of wider failure—of the fact that even now the task to which the great powers pledged themselves eleven years ago is not begun."

There was throughout the conference, The Herald adds, a hesitation to take such risks for the sake of peace as men take easily for the sake of victory in war.

One of the milestones marked by the treaty, in the opinion of the Liberal Star, is that the great powers actually agree to tell each other particulars as to what ships they are building.

"When it is remembered how recently the powers were willing to spend enormous sums to spy out these very facts, that clause at least may be regarded as an advance toward common sense," The Star asserts.

Lord Beaverbrook's Daily Express will describe the treaty as "a success compared with previous failures and a failure compared with some of the hopes it had inspired."

"The instinctive feeling of Britain and America that nothing would atone for such a crime against international sanity as fierce Anglo-American rivalry in shipbuilding, The Express adds, has at last found expression in a formal agreement.

"Otherwise the conference has formulated certain regulations for the conduct of submarine warfare which are not worth the paper they are written on and it has left unaltered the relative positions of France and Italy at sea," The Express says.

The Conservative Daily Telegraph holds that with the disappearance of competition in naval building between Britain and America "a friendship of incalculable importance to the world's peace has been set upon a new durable basis. The mutual honorable arrangement to which Japan is a party has smoothed as nothing else could the approach to an amicable adjustment of the problems affecting herself and the United States in the Pacific."

The Tory Morning Post warns France and Italy that their troubles will crop up at Geneva, "where all the powers save the United States, which is happy to be out of it, will fight their battles over again.

"In the meantime we may say that London has improved upon Washington," The Morning Post declares. "If we accept—and we cannot go back upon—the principles laid down in 1922, then we have no reason to quarrel with the conclusions of 1930. The battleship holiday in particular means a substantial saving. As for the three-power pact, it is of service since it reduces the tyranny of the 10,000-ton cruiser.

faint in his farewell message, however, and he had to repeat it for the insistent camera men. He said:

"Mr. Prime Minister, since the President of the United States initiated the movement for this conference last Spring and since your memorable visit to him when we discussed naval limitation at the camp on the Rapidan, we have all looked forward to this moment. Our hopes have been realized. The agreement discussed in principle on the Rapidan has been translated into a definite treaty in London. In saying good-bye to you, I wish to express to you my thanks of the President as well as our deep appreciation of your devotion to the cause of friendship between our two nations and to the cause of good relations among all nations of the world."

MacDonald Speaks.

Mr. MacDonald told Mr. Stimson it was "really very hard" to say good-bye.

"Although we are in the garden at 10 Downing Street," he said, "in spirit at this moment I am back by the rushing waters and the sighing trees of the Rapidan."

Admitting that his realizations had fallen short of his hopes, the Premier declared that the treaty marked "a very solid contribution to the cause of peace."

"Other people will come after us and finish our work," he continued, "but meantime one of the most splendid and heartening experiences we have had has been the good feeling and close cooperation between you and your friends on the one hand and my friends and myself on the other. Right through we have stood shoulder to shoulder to advance the cause of peace, not merely between America and ourselves but all over the whole world.

"It is sad to bid you good-bye, because you have become as one of ourselves. I hope you will have a pleasant voyage and take my hearty and personal respects with you to Mr. Hoover. Give my kindest regards to all the friends I left behind in Washington."

M. Briand and J. L. Dumesnil left for Paris by the afternoon train. Mr. MacDonald intends to fly to Lossiemouth tomorrow to resume his interrupted Easter holiday.

"I've heard you speak of it, sir"

"Hamilton, you'll have to take that Buffalo trip for me."
"Lackawanna, I suppose?"
"By all means, if you like your comfort as well as I do. I always go Lackawanna, you know."
"I've noticed that, Sir."
"Well, when you get back, you'll know why."

Pages could be written about these famous Lackawanna trains... the superb dining-car service... smoothness of the rock-ballast roadbed... the gorgeous scenery along the way. But, after all, it's the experienced traveler with the happy faculty of summing it all up in a few words who has made the popularity of Lackawanna.

LINDSAY SEES END OF BRITISH RIVALRY

Ambassador Tells Pilgrims That Parity Wipes Out Anglo-American Comeptition.

KELLOGG HAILS NEW PACT

Calls It Another Step on the Road to Disarmament—J. W. Davies Says Ex-Secretary Shares Credit.

Three hundred members of The Pilgrims of the United States at a dinner last night at the Hotel Biltmore to welcome Sir Ronald Lindsay, recently appointed British Ambassador to the United States, heard him and Frank B. Kellogg, former Secretary of State, discuss the naval arms treaty signed yesterday in London by representatives of five great powers.

Both speakers saw in the treaty a great triumph of "common sense" and "another step forward" on the road to disarmament and international peace. In introducing the speakers, John W. Davis, vice president of the society, said that full credit for making possible the latest move toward reduction in armament should go to Mr. Kellogg, for without the Kellogg-Briand treaty it might not have been possible.

In giving the dinner for Sir Ronald, The Pilgrims, an organization for the promotion of cordial relations among English-speaking nations, was following an old tradition. For many years it has been the custom for arriving and departing representatives of Great Britain to deliver their first and last public addresses before its members. Sir Ronald, who served as Chargé d'Affaires at Washington from 1919 to 1920, has been made an honorary member of The Pilgrims since his arrival.

Lindsay Pledges Aid to Amity.

In his address the new Ambassador pledged himself to serve the cause of Anglo-American friendship.

"I do not purpose to take up your time with a disquisition on Anglo-American friendship, the identity of British and American ideals, or the importance of the good relations between the English-speaking nations," he said. "Many speeches far more eloquent than any effort of mine have been made on this subject and I will not attempt one now. But I think I may make a few remarks about the London conference which is just closing its labors over on the other side.

"This conference has not been engaged in chasing the will-o'-the-wisp or constructing the new Utopia. It has had the definite and limited objective before it of diminishing the great burden of naval armaments. We have recognized frankly that each government, while reducing its armaments, must look also after its own safety. Let us be quite frank about the matter and admit that the United States and the British Empire have not always seen eye to eye with each other as to how they can achieve that object which they have so sincerely desired to accomplish.

"But at London during the last three months, though your press has printed hundreds of columns of news about the proceedings, there has been hardly a suggestion that any serious difference of views existed between the British and American delegations. I think there seldom has been any greater triumph of common sense.

"The two governments have accepted a broad principle—that of parity. Their statesmen have prepared the ground. Their delegations have got down to brass tacks and worked out the details, and the result is an agreement in which there is no question of superiority or inferiority, and which will eliminate permanently the whole element of rivalry between us. This is a great accomplishment of which we may well feel proud. I think that I have come to America at a moment when all the omens are auspicious."

Kellogg Recalls First Arms Pact.

Mr. Kellogg in his address pointed out that the first disarmament treaty was signed many years ago by England and the United States when they agreed that the waters of the Great Lakes need not support ships of war. Since then, he said there has been a growing appreciation among the nations that the cause of peace is not fostered by competition in armament, and that friendship is not promoted at the point of bayonets.

The treaty of Washington, the discussions at Geneva and the London conference, he said, all were steps toward a goal which cannot be achieved with one stroke.

"I regret," he said, "that all five nations at London could not make a complete treaty. It is, perhaps too bad that even more was not accomplished. I am convinced, however, that all are impressed with the necessity and desire of each other to make secure the peace of the world, and I make no exception of those who were not able to go as far as it had been hoped they might.

"Yet while I regret that they were unable to make greater progress, I consider it a great step forward that they have drawn a line beyond which they will not go in competitive building of armament. And I believe that the treaty they have signed should have and will have the approval of the United States Senate, as it has the overwhelming support of the people.

"It behooves us to carry on. There will be other conferences—more treaties—more progress. We must remember that we cannot abolish a century old evil such as war with one conference or one treaty."

Dr. John H. Finley delivered the address of welcome.

Sir Ronald will be the guest of honor today at a luncheon meeting of the British Empire Chamber of Commerce in the United States of America at the Bankers Club, 120 Broadway. Robert R. Appleby will preside at the luncheon and Justin H. Moore of the Irving Trust Company will speak.

BLAME KELLOGG PACT FOR SLOW NAVAL CUTS

Speakers at Catholic Peace Meeting Say It Fails to Give Nations Security.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 22. — The London naval conference could go no further than it has because the Kellogg pact, lacking provisions for consultation in time of trouble and lacking sanctions of any kind, did not inspire the several nations with a sufficient sense of security, Dr. Charles G. Fenwick, Professor of International Law at Bryn Mawr, told the fourth annual meeting of the Catholic Association for International Peace at its opening session here tonight.

Declaring that "security is a prerequisite of disarmament, and that cooperative defense is an essential condition of security," Dr. Fenwick said that so long as the isolated system of each State for itself continues, it must prove impossible to reduce armaments to any great extent and that controversies over global tonnages, as opposed to classes and types of ships, disputes as to ratios and attempts to regulate warfare, cannot be brought to a satisfactory conclusion until some system of cooperative defense is worked out.

Dr. Fenwick's address, one of three dealing with the London naval pact, came at the end of a day in which Latin America, Haiti and the economic causes of war were discussed. The three speakers agreed that the chief value of the pact would be psychological and educational.

Charging that "the American dictatorship extends to every part of Haiti and becomes unbearable," William F. Montavon of the legal department of the National Catholic Welfare Conference and a writer accompanying the recent Forbes committee to Haiti, said that "in simple language the American High Commissioner is the military dictator in Haiti, acting through a President and a Council of State, neither of whom represents the people of Haiti."

INCREASE IN INCOME DENIED MRS. SNOW

Son's Interest in Estate Would Suffer, Surrogate O'Brien Rules on Petition.

Despite the protest of Mrs. Fanny Joyce Snow, former newspaper correspondent, of St. Augustine, Fla., that she cannot live in the style to which she became accustomed during the life of her husband, Elbridge Gerry Snow, president of the Home Insurance Comany, on the annual income of $8,700 provided in his will, Surrogate O'Brien denied her petition yesterday for an additional $17,000 a year.

Mr. Snow's will stipulated that she receive half the income from his residuary estate and that the principal go to his son by a former marriage at her death. The son, Elbridge Gerry Snow 3d, who received the other half of the residue outright, would suffer if the additional $17,000 were deducted from the principal of the widow's fund, the surrogate held. Mr. Snow also left her a Winter home in Florida, $25,000 and the furnishings of his New York and St. Augustine residences.

"If the testator ever gave due thought," said Surrogate O'Brien, "to the subject of making proper provision for his wife and son—and doubtless he did—he must have realized and known that with his small estate it would be impossible for her to continue to live in the mode and style to which they had become accustomed."

ASKS SAFEGUARDS FOR BROADCASTERS

N. B. C. Counsel Wants Radio Law Tightened to End the 'Pirating' of Programs.

CRITICIZES COPYRIGHT ACT

The Right of Stations to Keep Their Air Lanes Should Also Be Clarified, Ashby Asserts at N. Y. U.

Changes in the radio act which governs broadcasting in this country and other laws which directly or indirectly have a bearing on radio entertainment were urged last night by A. L. Ashby, vice president and general attorney of the National Broadcasting Company, in an address on "Law and Radio Broadcasting," given at the New York University Law School auditorium, 37 West Fourth Street. Mr. Ashby cited as a defect in the radio act the limited right of appeal on the part of a broadcasting organization from the decisions rendered by the Federal Radio Commission. He also contended that the law dealing with so-called "pirating" of programs, or the unauthorized use of broadcast material for profit, is insufficient. The address was one of a series of weekly talks on radio.

"There has been considerable discussion as to whether or not a broadcasting station has a property right in the channel which it is using," said Mr. Ashby, "which cannot be taken away without due process of law. Although it may well be that a station has no property right in any particular channel as against the regulatory powers of the United States, I am of the opinion that that station has some right—the right of a prior user. This right of the prior user cannot be taken away by a subsequent user or a new applicant, provided the prior user continues to serve public convenience, interest or necessity.

"Another novel situation which radio lawyers have to deal with," Mr. Ashby continued, "is the pirating of programs. The radio act prohibits the rebroadcasting of a radio program without the consent of the originating station. This does not cover the situation where an organization picks up a program originated by some other organization and by means of a selective radio receiving set and by means of amplifiers and wires retransmits that program to the homes of listeners who are furnished with a loud-speaker for a toll charge of a few dollars per month."

The radio law does not forbid the reception, amplification and distribution of broadcast programs in a hotel or theatre, he added, despite that at the latter, admission may be charged and a profit made. He characterized the use of broadcast programs received at theatres and presented to patrons as an "unauthorized use of the broadcasting organization's property."

He said the copyright law, now more than twenty years old, is far behind the state of the art of broadcasting. He declared that broadcasting organizations are frequently confronted with claims of infringement concerning titles of programs, characters in programs and ideas originated by another person, but that a more serious case occurs where an author is engaged to write dramatic sketches for radio presentation and then is discharged, leaving the right of usage in doubt.

NO WONDER YOU FEEL SICK

When Constipation Gets Its Grip You Can't Keep Well. What You Need Is Kellogg's ALL-BRAN

That tired feeling, that persistent headache, that bad breath are often symptoms of constipation.

There is only one thing to do—clean out your system. Do it now or you may be seriously sick. Your intestines are clogged because you have not eaten enough roughage. And there is no better roughage than that healthful, appetizing cereal—Kellogg's ALL-BRAN.

ALL-BRAN is a natural food that brings natural results regularly. Its fiber content sweeps the intestines clean of poisonous wastes. Much better than habit-forming pills which become useless unless their dose is increased.

In addition, Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is rich in iron. Scientific research has proved that practically all of this iron goes into the blood—bringing the glowing color of health to the complexion and strengthening the entire body. A wonderful way to enjoy keeping well!

You will like the nut-sweet flavor of ALL-BRAN. Ready-to-eat with milk or cream—fruits or honey. By letting ALL-BRAN soak a few moments in milk or cream, its rich flavor is brought out.

Use Kellogg's ALL-BRAN in making muffins and hot breads. Recipes on the package. Sprinkle it into soups, on salads. Mix it in scrambled eggs or meat loaf, add it to every diet.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is guaranteed. Just eat two tablespoonfuls daily—recurrent cases, with every meal. Sold by all grocers. Served in hotels, restaurants, on dining-cars. It is the original ALL-BRAN in the red-and-green package. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN

"Marie, How Do You Keep Your Skin so Lovely?"

"THAT'S easy. I just use Resinol Soap as my regular toilet soap every day, and if I have a blemish or any suggestion of a rash or roughness, I put on a little Resinol Ointment and it clears it right up."

Many women whose complexions you admire are using just this treatment. They find that Resinol Soap not only helps to overcome irritations, oiliness, etc., but its daily use tends to prevent those conditions. Its clean tonic odor is delightful and its action is so gentle it is agreeable to the most sensitive skins

They use Resinol Ointment too because it so quickly heals those minor skin irritations which everyone has sometimes, and they find it a soothing dressing for burns, sore corns, chafing, blisters, etc. At all druggists.

LONDON, April 22 (Canadian Press).—Miss Doris Jack, daughter of Richard Jack, artist, and the only girl in the world who ever wore Queen Mary's pearls, was married to Victor Whitehead, commodore of the Royal St. Lawrence Yacht Club, at St. Margaret's Church, Westminster, today.

The artist was dissatisfied with the light on the pearls, after the Queen had given the last sitting, and he obtained the Queen's permission for Doris to wear the jewels at a special sitting.

Dinners Are Given by H. LeR. Finches, J. E. Fishers, J. R. Busks and J. L. Huttons.

The main ballroom suite of the Ritz-Carlton was thronged by members of society last night for the annual Butterfly Ball in aid of the House of Rest for Consumptives at Sprain Ridge, near Yonkers. The ball was one of the largest of the Spring dances and was featured by Springtime decorations and a midnight cabaret. Many dinners were given in advance of it.

The dance drew many of the younger set who are at home from schools for the Easter holidays. Others were members of several committees that had been active for weeks in preparation for the party.

The ballroom was decorated with Spring blossoms and smilax and other greens. Elaborate butterfly patterns and designs also were featured in the decorations.

At the supper hour there was a special entertainment, for which Douglas Wood of the cast of "The Old Rascal" acted as master of ceremonies. The guests watched the divertissements from many tables around the ballroom floor. The opening number was a solo tap dance by Miss Gwendolyn Lewis, a member of the Junior League, who has had feature dance rôles in several league theatrical productions. She was followed by Miss Madeleine Northway and Charles Sabin in two dance specialties. Miss Della Archer next appeared in a cakewalk and buck and wing, executed entirely on her toes. The next performers, Winona and Gomez of the Club St. Regis, danced to the accompaniment of their own Spanish orchestra. Broker Fined for Speeding Horse in Central Park

George H. Eddy, a securities broker of 111 Broadway, paid a fine of $10 in the Yorkville Court yesterday after Magistrate Simpson had found him guilty of the unusual offense of recklessly speeding on horseback. Two policemen testified that Mr. Eddy's horse had sped along the east bridle path of Central Park at Ninety-fourth Street Sunday afternoon.

They said that they thought at first the horse had bolted with its rider, but after they had stopped it Eddy had informed them that he was "as good as anybody else" and didn't want any one to tell him how to ride. Eddy testified that the horse was 14 years old, and could not have run at the speed of thirty miles an hour estimated by the policemen, but he admitted that the steed had been galloping.

MEYER URGES JEWS TO HELP WORLD PEACE

Rabbi Addresses Convention of State Federation of Temple Sisterhoods.

Rabbi Max M. Meyer of Free Synagogue, Flushing, L. I., addressing more than 1,000 women yesterday, the closing day of the convention of the State Federation of Temple Sisterhoods at Temple Emanu-El, urged Jews to rally to the cause of world peace.

The convention held a morning and afternoon session and a luncheon. The afternoon session was devoted to a discussion of how Jewish women might further the ideals of peace throughout the world. It was led by Theresa Mayer Durlach and Rabbi Meyer.

"We are told often that pacifism is anti-religious and anti-patriotic," Rabbi Meyer said, "but that can be proved false by the fact that the God of the Christians, Jesus of Nazareth, was a pacifist, and by comparing many of the leaders of the peace movement during the last war with some of those who advocated our participation.

"Jews should not be afraid to enter any movement because it is unpopular, for we have been unpopular many centuries," the rabbi declared. "Certainly the somewhat unpopular cause of peace should be worthy of our efforts."

The convention was presided over by Mrs. David E. Goldfarb, president. Among speakers were Mrs. J. Lester Lewine, Mrs. Samuel Kubie, Mrs. Albert J. May, Mrs. Jerome Trier, Mrs. Leopold Goldsmith, Mrs. Bernard E. Frank, Miss Belle Sulzberger, Mrs. Le Roy S. Blatner, Mrs. Marian Kates and Mrs. Henry Epstein. The convention was ended with a prayer by Rabbi Sidney A. Tedesche of Union Temple, Brooklyn.

JEWISH TEACHERS ACT.

Appoint Committees to Study Insurance and Pensions.

A two-day convention to discuss the economic status of the Jewish teacher, under the auspices of the joint committee of Teachers' and Principals' Organizations of New York City, hel dat the Society for the Advancement of Judaism, 15 West Eighty-sixth Street, ended yesterday. Addresses were made by Lee K. Frankel, vice president of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company; Morris Shiffman of the Hebrew Teachers' Union and Israel S. Chipkin, educational director of the Jewish Education Association.

Mr. Frankel urged the adoption of a joint pension-insurance plan whereby employer and employe would share the financial responsibility of the employe's retirement. He said that though the attitude of industry toward its responsibilities to employes in accident and death benefits had improved greatly in recent years, salaried workers still must realize that economy dictates the earning of pensions as well as insurance premiums on a prepayment basis.

The convention appointed a committee to study insurance and pensions and another to deal with salary schedules. Steps also were taken to organize a general placement bureau for teachers of Jewish schools.

DR. OLAYA IS GUEST OF BANK OFFICIALS

President-Elect of Colombia Honored at Luncheon Given by Federal Reserve Men.

DAUGHTER GIVES INTERVIEW

Says Her Father Has Fought for Years to Obtain Social Rights for Women.

Dr. Enrique Olaya Herrera, President-elect of Colombia, was the guest yesterday of the officers of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York at a private luncheon held in the bank at Liberty and Nassau Streets. In addition to Dr. Olaya, H. Freeman Matthews, representing the Secretary of State, John L. Merrill, president of All America Cables, and Howard M. Jefferson of the First National Bank of Boston were guests at the luncheon. George L. Harrison, governor of the Reserve Bank, was unable to attend. Mr. Harrison has been in Washington for two days conferring with Secretary Mellon and Federal Reserve Board officials.

Following the luncheon Dr. Olaya inspected the Federal Reserve Bank building. He expressed himself as deeply intersted in the facilities established there for the handling of the central banking operations in New York. Dr. Olaya's visit to the bank was purely informal, it was said, and of no official significance.

Maria Olaya, older daughter of the President-elect of Colombia, a tall, slender and extremely pretty girl of 16, gave her first interview to the press, in the Fifth Avenue Hotel, yesterday afternoon.

"My father has fought for years to obtain social rights for our women," she said. "To me, who knows only American standards, it is inconceivable that women should have no property and social rights whatsoever."

Miss Olaya is very fond of dancing and swimming, but her studies are chosen to further her ambitions for public speaking and writing. She attended the Notre Dame School in Maryland and lately has transferred to the Western High School in Washington.

MEDALS TO IDENTIFY GOLD STAR PILGRIMS

Badges Are Expected to Call Forth Special Courtesy to Women Going to France.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 22.—In recognition of the Gold Star mothers and widows who will make pilgrimages to the cemeteries in Europe, the Army Quartermaster General, Major Gen. John L. Dewitt, has mailed to each who will make the trip a symbolic badge, the design of which has been approved by the Secretary of War.

It is expected that the badges will be of particular value to the travelers in receiving consideration from those with whom they come in contact.

On the gold medallion is a gold star within a circle, around which is inscribed the legend, "Pilgrimage of Mothers and Widows." Beneath the circle and on either side is a spray of oak and laurel leaves. Above the circle are crossed flags upon which rests the shield of the United States.

The medallion is suspended by a red, white and blue ribbon from a bar, upon which is etched the name of the wearer and the State from which she will make the pilgrimage.

OLD LEGAL DOCUMENTS PRESENTED TO N. Y. U.

Moses Grossman Is Donor of Papers to Be Known as the Frederick Brown Collection.

A collection of more than 400 old English legal documents relating to the transfer of property was presented to the Law School of New York University last night by Moses H. Grossman, who was graduated from the school in 1894, at a special ceremony at the university's Washington Square centre.

The documents, which are to be known as the Frederick Brown collection, were turned over to Chancellor Elmer Ellsworth Brown in the presence of Frank H. Somer, dean of the Law School; Frederick Brown, the realtor, who is a benefactor of the university, and other distinguished guests.

In a brief acceptance address, Chancellor Brown said in part:

"There are certain aspects of this gift which render it gratifying and interesting. It is a token of Judge Grossman's devotion to the school from which he received his degree of law. It is a token also of his personal devotion to his long-time friend, Frederick Brown. It signalizes in a new form Mr. Brown's valued relationships with New York University."

Mr. Brown in his response told of the "double honor" his friend, Judge Grossman, had bestowed upon him, "first, in being made by courtesy one of the donors of this collection," he said, "and second, in being able to do something of benefit for New York University. Love and respect for learning and its institutions will never die out of the heart of civilized men. It is a privilege to help keep the flame of education burning brightly upon the altar in the temple of knowledge."

The collection, accumulated by the Furness family during two generations, may be used as the basis of a special Shakespearean department, the will provided, or merely as an addition to the university library.

Along with the collection, which contains many folio first editions of plays and poems, Dr. Furness, a Harvard graduate and Shakespearean scholar, bequeathed $100,000 to the university.

Other bequests included $40,000 to the Visiting Nurse Society of Philadelphia, $35,000 to the Franklin Inn Club and $10,000 to Jefferson Medical College. The residue of the estate, valued at about $1,000,000, is to be distributed among relatives.

AMERICAN SALON EXHIBITS.

Modernist and Conservative Artists Vie in Display Here.

Such assorted subjects as trial marriage, the lagoons of Venice, cats, Indian chiefs, the occult, and unemployment have occupied the several hundred artists, professional and amateur, who are showing their work in the eighth annual exhibition of the Salons of America, which opened last night at the American Art Association-Anderson Galleries, Inc., and will continue daily to May 10.

This organization, like the Society of Independent Artists, offers no prizes and exhibits without the censorship of a jury of selection the works of art submitted by painters and sculptors from various parts of the country. The works of conservatives and radicals, of well-known artists and amateurs, hang side by side.

This year the salons have tried the experiment of arranging one room with modern furnishings, in order that visitors may appraise the effect of modern paintings and sculpture in home surroundings.

'HOLD EVERYTHING' OPENS NEW THEATRE

Walker and Mayor Mackey of Philadelphia Speak at Ceremonies in the Hollywood.

NEW FILM IS COLORFUL

Based on Musical Comedy of Same Name—Old and New Pictures Show Screen Progress.

HOLD EVERYTHING, with Joe E. Brown, Winnie Lightner, Sally O'Neil, Dorothy Revier, Georges Carpentier, Bert Roach, Edmund Breese, Jack Curtis, Tony Stabenau, Lew Harvey and Jimmie Quinn, based on the musical comedy of the same name, directed by Roy Del Ruth, with music and lyrics by Ray Henderson and Lew Brown. At the Hollywood Theatre.

By MORDAUNT HALL.

With brief addresses from Mayor Walker of this city and Mayor Mackey of Philadelphia, the Warner Brothers' ornamental and wonderfully comfortable new Hollywood Theatre, at Broadway and Fifty-first Street, was opened last night.

There were a number of notables in the orchestra seats and they received an opportunity to study the great strides made in the motion picture business since the film "The Kiss" was produced some thirty years ago and also flashes of other old-time films, such as "The Great Train Robbery." It was tremendously interesting to observe the steady improvement in these shadow offerings, particularly when Giovanni Martinelli appeared eventually on the screen with other singers rendering in an inspiring fashion an aria from "Aida."

The feature of the evening was the audible pictorial version of "Hold Everything," which aroused many a wave of laughter. The principals in this ludicrous turns of events are the ever-amusing Joe E. Brown, whose willingness to take punishment helped in affording no little merriment; Winnie Lightner, who did so well in the picture "Gold Diggers of Broadway"; Sally O'Neil; Bert Roach, who does not get quite the opportunity he deserves; the fair Dorothy Revier, and Georges Carpentier, who, after seeing Maurice Chevalier, appears to have been fortunate in making the screen his second vocation, for as a performer he is at his best when he is in the prize ring and not when he is discussing sweet nothings with pretty girls.

It is a gusty affair, this "Hold Everything," with a funny pugilistic encounter in which Mr. Brown is one of the fighters. The Technicolor effects in these scenes are especially good, most of them being in focus.

Mr. Brown figures as Gink Schiner, who does not object to being mistaken for a champion pugilist. He is, however, wary enough to avoid imbibing the drugged drink!

Mr. Brown as Gink Schiner has his periods of pain, which, of course, afford pleasure to those in the plush seats. At one juncture he finds himself in a reducing cabinet and apparently is in great distress when the lever of the cabinet is jammed. Schiner seems at first to be trying to expire cheerfully, but subsequently the heat of the cabinet is too much for him and he becomes exhausted and is unable to keep his head above the aperture.

Gink's mouth is likened to a cavern and one is constrained to believe that this is an apt description. This capacious mouth gives him an opportunity to express his mirth, his fear and his confidence in the ring. M. Carpentier may be the real fighter of this production, but Mr. Brown keeps the fun going to such extent that one would perhaps sooner see him trying to make the best of a bad bargain in a pugilistic encounter than gaze upon M. Carpentier's more serious fistic prowess.

The Frenchman has to take on the champion, Bob Morgan, who is credited with dismissing his opponents in one or two rounds, according to his wont. Georges Carpentier, to afford suspense, has to permit Morgan to have the best of the fight for a few minutes, but finally Carpentier turns the tables on his adversary and rains blows upon him until the erstwhile champion is groggy.

Dorothy Revier acts the placid and graceful Norine Lloyd, who is in love with Georges La Verne (M. Carpentier). She wants to give Georges a present, and as he happens to be the Beau Brummel of prizefighters, she can't think of anything more appropriate than a beautiful bathrobe. Norine does not know that Georges is much interested in the brunette, Sue Burke, whom he has known since he was a little boy. Miss Burke is played by Sally O'Neill.

So long as Mr. Brown occupies the screen this picture is funny, but when it delves into romance the interest wanes. There are some pleasing songs and Miss Lightner does her share in her own way to enliven the episodes in which she appears.

ALFRED O'SHEA IN RECITAL.

Australian Tenor Gives Second Program of Songs This Season.

Alfred O'Shea, Australian tenor of Melba's farewell tour, and more recently heard by millions in the Puccini operas with Alda over the radio, gave his second song recital this season in Carnegie Hall last night, assisted by Alderson Mowbray at the piano.

Besides Italian, French and German classics, he sang some of the finest old English airs, ranging from Handel's "Where'er You Walk" to Balfe's setting of "The Bard's Legacy," by the poet Moore, and Irish folksongs arranged by Sir Hamilton Harty and Milligan Fox. There was an audience of friendly cordiality. One box was occupied by the Rev. Francis P. Duffy and a group of World War veterans.

Sittig Trio Gives Musicale.

The Sittig Trio appeared yesterday afternoon at Steinway Hall in the second of their season's "intimate musicales," greeted by a congenial house. Aside from Bach's E-major concerto for violin, played by Margaret Sittig, the program comprised three trios, that of Beethoven in C-minor, an early classic by Leclair and a concluding modern set of "Miniatures" by Paul Juon. Edgar Sittig was the 'cellist and Frederick Sittig the pianist of the ensemble.

"STEPPING SISTERS" ANTICIPATES SUMMER

Reunion and Antics of Retired Burlesque Queens at Waldorf Seems Hot Weather Play.

STEPPING SISTERS, a farce in three acts, by Howard Warren Comstock. Staged by Albert Bannister; settings by Cleon Throckmorton; produced by Mr. Bannister and George Staten. At the Waldorf Theatre.

Herbert Ramsey	William Corrett
Cecelia Ramsey	Theresa Maxwell Conover
Norma Ramsey	Gertrude Moran
Lucile Dawson	Roselyn Harvey
Regina Chetworth-Lynde	Helen Raymond
Rose La Marr	Grace Huff
Jack Carleton	Frederic Tozere
Rev. Henry Chambers	George McEntee
Mrs. Henry Chambers	Margery Dalton
Mrs. Donaldson	Lorna Elliott
Teddy Donaldson	William Lynn
Mrs. Tremaine	Hope Landin
Jepson	Vernon G. Williams

Though it was, as it turned out, a chilly evening at the Waldorf last night, the wayfaring drama put on its foolish face, paraded to Long Island and came back with, peculiarly enough, a Summerish Long Island comedy. This time it is "Stepping Sisters," by Howard Warren Comstock, and Mr. Comstock is to be charged with rushing the season. Farces like "Stepping Sisters" are supposed to stop at Jamaica until July 1, when the bounty is removed and notice is served publicly that anything goes.

Since "Stepping Sisters" did finally arrive, however, bringing its own humidity with it, it is to be reported that Mr. Comstock tells a back-slapping epic of three ex-burlesque queens who meet twenty years or perhaps thirty years later. As Queenie Lynde, Rosie La Marr and Cissie Blake, the one-time darlings of the runway, they convene by accident on the estate of the last. Cissie is now Mrs. Herbert Ramsey to you and, until early in the first act, she is residing in suburban peace with her apoplectic husband and not so very bright daughter.

As quickly as possible, Mrs. Ramsey and the guests assigned to stay at her house during the Long Island Strawberry Festival benefit are brought together amid a siege of jocular reminiscence. With one sledge-hammer quip and another concerning their changed estate (Queenie Lynde, for instance, is now Regina Chetworth-Lynde, the first tragedienne of her time), they entertain themselves vastly, the while the young Miss Ramsey is wooed offstage by a Broadway songbird, Jack Carleton, late hero of "The Spring Girl." It is the somewhat extraneous duty of Mr. Carleton to utter his song hit to the accompaniment of Miss Ramsey, a disillusioning effort soon lost in a reprise of conversation.

Whatever the Summer may bring, it is not likely to hear such a barrage of chatter as Queenie and Rosie and Cissie submit to each other. Throughout a second act it becomes louder but no funnier, resolving itself into a tumultuous rehearsal for the benefit, in which Mr. Carleton sings yet another song, Mrs. Chetworth-Lynde staggers through a parody of the heath scene in "King Lear," and Rosie La Marr marches down stairs, bearing a spear, in time to confront Mr. Ramsey, whom she has known informally under another name.

A literal report of the occasion must say that the audience found all this to be increasingly funny; and that when, their controversies settled, the three women toasted each other in lager and swore eternal friendship, the spectators clapped hands in approbation and gave their cheerful vote to burlesque.

Joining Theresa Maxwell Conover in the title rôles are Helen Raymond and Grace Huff. The always informative program notes aver that Miss Raymond's most recent appearance here was in "Twin Beds," and that Miss Huff adorned the cast of "Back Seat Drivers." They attacked this play with the rough and ready methods born of such thorough farce training as that history would suggest.

VANDA NOMICOS STIRS RECITAL AUDIENCE

Russian Soprano, in New York Debut, Reveals Notable Vocal Qualities.

Vanda Nomicos, Russian lyric coloratura soprano, made her New York début last night at Town Hall. She had already appeared in recital in Paris.

Miss Nomicos's skill in selecting an unusually interesting and varied program and the manner in which she met the taxing linguistic and stylistic demands of groups in English, German, French and Russian held the interest from the start of an audience that included many leaders in society and music.

The recitalist's voice has range, marked lyric quality and great potentialities. In addition, she invested the text of each song she interpreted with an atmosphere of genuine emotion and created the illusion of singing to each auditor personally.

As heard last night, a slight self-consciousness militated somewhat against a full revelation of her gifts, especially in the matetr of fullness of texture, though the singer proved on more than one occasion that her voice possesses the requisite body. The present superior quality of her high notes is notable.

Miss Nomicos's musicianship and artistry are no doubt partly natural, though study under such teachers as Mmes. Renard, Sassard and Sembrich and Paul Reiners also must have done much toward producing the results heard last night.

The program included four Brahms Mädchenlieder Paladilhe's "Lamento Provencal.," Saint-Saëns's "Guitares et Mandolines," Ravel's "L'Enfant et les Sortilèges," the Toutain-Grün "I 'Oiseau bleu"; a delightful group of Russian lyrics by Moussorgsky, Gretchaninoff and Rimsky-Korsakoff; Kurt Schindler's arrangement of the folksong "The Three Cavaliers"; Griffes's "The Dark Eyes to Mine," and three songs by Roger Quilter.

After the second group, flowers sent by admirers covered the grand piano completely to form a background for the charming soloist, who played the leading part in "Rose-Marie" a few seasons ago.

Walter Golde was the accompanist.

CALLS AUDIENCE CENSOR.

Clergyman, at Shakespeare Memorial, Decries Legal Method.

Censorship in the theatre should be brought about only by the intelligent discernment of its audience, and not by legal procedure, according to the Rev. Cranston Brenton, Sacrist of the Cathedral of St. John the Divine and formerly president of the New York Drama League. He spoke at the memorial service of the National Shakespeare Federation yesterday in the Chapel of St. Ansgarius at the cathedral.

Services also will be held today at the Shakespeare monument in Central Park. A dinner of the federation will take place tonight at the Ambassador Hotel.

By OLIN DOWNES.

Whatever the ultimate value of the works presented and whatever the qualities of the performances as regarded complete fidelity to purposes of the composers, it is certain that two of the most interesting events of the New York musical season of 1929-30 took place last night in the Metropolitan Opera House. These were the productions by the League of Composers and the Philadelphia Orchestral Association, under the leadership of Leopold Stokowski, of Arnold Schoenberg's twenty-minute "opera" or macabre melodrama, "Die Glückliche Hand," and Igor Stravinsky's "Sacre du Printemps," given in its original form, which is that of the ballet.

The Opera House had been bought out by the public, at special prices, days in advance. Philadelphia, which saw the spectacles before they reached New York, had given them enthusiastic attention and appreciation. There was long applause last night, and Mr. Stokowski made a speech before the curtain in which he thanked the audience for its support, and observed that he and a certain number of his colleagues were working in artistic directions which the compositions of Schoenberg and Stravinsky typified. These directions were the synthesis in the theatre, on the basis of a rhythmical polyphony, of all its resources of drama, music, lighting, the dance, &c., in new ways that accorded with modern thinking and that were to eventuate, it was hoped, in an American form of art. Mr. Stokowski solicited further public support for experiments of this kind. He had reason to be encouraged by the curious and tolerant attitude of last night's brilliant audience, as by the prevailing characteristics of the performances. The same program will be repeated tonight in the same place as the final "concert" of the Philadelphia Orchestra's New York season.

The works performed had indeed the character of original and fruitful experiment. Nor could two modern compositions have been more significantly contrasted. The composition of Schoenberg's, which appears to be musically meager, but which is undeniably atmospheric and original in its combination of music, color and other theatrical ingredients, is highly decadent in a very interesting meaning of that word, and an extreme of pessimism, looking, in fact, toward death.

In this it seems to us the antithesis of anything "American." At least we hope so. On the other hand, the music of Stravinsky is certainly that of life, on however primitive or brutal a plane, and last night, after the murky, Poesque creation of Schoenberg, it fell upon mind and senses as a rejuvenation, indeed a rebirth, from a fertile soil, of new force and new horizons of power. How magnificent the primitivism of this music, its stark, hidden, explosive strength and its profound growth from the soil! "Sacre du Printemps" is more than a title, it is truly the essence of the music. It may be added here that Stokowski appeared last night as the conductor of conductors to unleash its elements.

But let us take the program in its order. One by one, as we hear the representative compositions of Schoenberg, a lonely and singular figure in modern music, he documents himself the more completely. There are two important elements, for artists and psychologists in the work performed last night. The first is its technic, the second its psychological basis. The least important feature is the hollow asthmatic, despairing music.

The drama is simple. A Man is seen, emerging from darkness, an evil creature astride of him—a chimera, its talons in his neck. The Man is deluded by the apparition of Woman, symbol of his dream and desire. She forsakes him for a rich lord. The Man, for a moment, draws himself up to the height of his powers, turns, by a single blow of his arm, a piece of metal into a diadem, flings it contemptuously from him, and then, once more cozened by the Woman, falls for the last time, the prey of his fate.

The technical significance of the work, the practical methods by which phantasmagoria of the mind and soul are indicated are found in the very subtle and pliant combinations of sounds and colors—at least in the original intention of the composer not fully realized last night—also in various nuances and mergings of speech and song, in pantomime and drama, line and rhythm, and symbolic representation. These things, very carefully synthesized, are certain to affect the future evolution of opera, which will have to find a point of departure from the antiquated fashions of others days or lose its hold upon the public, as unquestionably it is doing. For these features alone "Die Glückliche Hand" is a significant study.

But there is something far more interesting, and of significance in its bearing upon the position in art of Schoenberg, the man and the musician. It appears as more than a casual coincidence that "Glückliche Hand," in the person of Schoenberg (though he now lives in Berlin) emanates from that same Vienna which is the home of Freud.

For we believe that Freud could find no more interesting and provocative subject for his studies than his fellow citizen of former days, and we believe that the Freudian standpoint is necessary to explain Schoenberg's music. It is certainly music of "suppressions," of highly involved and egocentric impulse and none the less poignant, even impressive, for that reason.

It is decadent music, not merely of a man, but of a period, which bears within itself the seeds of its disintegration. And the correlation of man and period might well be sought in the psychoanalytic examination of Schoenberg himself, his neuroticism, his pessimism, his exasperated passion which is without force or evocative power, his consciousness of oppression, his vain and extremely involved ways of attempting to make his music potent and articulate, while every day its "complexes" multiply and its potency declines.

This from a man who commenced in music as a poet, a romanticist, a Wagnerian, and who appears today more than ever as an aftermath in essential elements of a past period, not the harbinger of a new one. Indeed, the impression one gets of this dying art is akin to the thought of some struggling creature left by a receding tide, perishing on strange sands.

When Schoenberg composed "Die Gluckliche Hand," his second dramatic work, in four years from 1909 to 1913, he was active in many ways, and especially as a painter. In this opera he is for us everything but a creative musician. His sincerity is unquestionable; his workmanship, on paper, is of a ghastly complication and meticulousness, not only in thematic treatment, but in the most careful and somewhat indirect methods of orchestration. He has very interesting scenic conceptions. He has compiled his own very brief text and left to orchestra, actors and stage the carrying out of its implications. Perhaps, after repeated hearings, the last pages of choral lament might affect the listener strongly, as musical expression of tragedy and despair. And here and there a detail would be noted, in the orchestral commentary, blending with a striking ingenuity with gesture or vocal inflection.

Schoenberg directs a great many changes of light in his score, and many more colors than were turned on the stage last night. Mr. Stokowski has remarked publicly that theatres at his disposal in New York and Philadelphia had not sufficient lighting facilities to illustrate adequately the composer's ideas. Robert Edmund Jones, however, whose business these matters were, has stated personally that he has employed lighting for Schoenberg's drama exactly as he wished, and has not been conscious of limitations imposed by theatre equipment.

There was also different action. Much was done by means of shadows cast by the principal participants, especially by the malignant and sinister figure of the Chimera. That monster was in truth hideous, if less mysterious and fortuitous in action and more like a horrible insect, than we had pictured from reading the directions in the score. But the setting and the shadows, with the six masks staring from the darkness at the beginning and end of the play, and the employment of simple dimensional scenery, did measurably achieve the implied effect. Doris Humphrey was as admirable in her pantomime as the Woman as she was successful in quite another way as the Elect in the following performance of "Sacre du Printemps." Ivan Ivantzoff's intelligent and highly dramatic use of voice and gesture as the Man bore adequately the principal burden of the dramatic representation—and a most thankless and difficult task. Olin Howland's Chimera, according to the action agreed upon, fulfilled excellently its purpose. Charles Weidman's Stranger was equally in place.

Of the performance of 'Sacre du Printemps," with a truly imaginative setting of Roerich and a new choreography, on the whole appropriate if not invariably interpretive from the musician's standpoint, it is not time to speak now. As a musical listener, the writer prefers Stravinsky's music without any spectacle. But if dancing there must be, it can be said that much was accomplished last night, especially in movements when the dancers wove a kind of polyphony and choral movement, and when the black-vestured participants entered the scene to watch with frantic sollicitude the fatal dance of The Elect, to approximate the character of the score. Stravinsky wrote it for a ballet, but that does not lessen the difficulty of its choreographic interpretation. The scenery, particularly memorable for the iron twilight of the beginning of the second part, and the orchestra, conducted by Mr. Stokowski with thrilling incisiveness and nervous power, made, for some, the real essence of the occasion. But students and critics of choreography might have it otherwise.

According to an author's note in the program, all the characters presented in "Room 349," which was acted at the National last evening, are purely fictitious. Without that bit of reassurance it would be natural for an untutored theatregoer to associate it vaguely with the alleged Rothstein case. For what Mark Linder, the author, has "etched from life," to use his own fanciful phrase, is the story of the killing of a boss of professional gamblers during a game for high stakes in a hotel room, and Inez Norton appears in it as "the greatest little pal" the gambler ever had.

If the program were less specific in denying adventitious resemblances to fact, "Room 349" might seem like an infraction of the theatre's usual sense of decorum in matters of personality. As it is, "Room 349" is only a bad play draped loosely around a dull court room scene. In the introductory act you see first the outside and then the inside of Room 349, where a gambler has just been fatally wounded. Just as he is about to die he intimates, while the death throes are annoying him immeasurably, that he wants to leave all his fortune to his distraught charmer—a natural thing to do in the circumstances. Act two is the regulation court scene with the usual comic relief of the Irish chambermaid. But act three, which has a somewhat complicated artistic design following the principles of the dynamic theatre, discloses the rhapsodic domestic life of a prince of gamblers and discovers him proposing honorable marriage to the young lady whose abiding affection he returns. The scene at the gambling table, which chronicles the details of the fatal stud poker game, is genuinely exciting.

The cast includes gamblers tough and gamblers gentlemanly, court officials, detectives, officers and a notable assembly of variegated benchers in the jury. Miss Norton, whose engagement in this drama practically marks her return to the stage after an absence of six years, plays with blonde ductility—assertive in the moments of fortitude, comely in the interludes of affection. As the gambler, Roy D'Arcy is debonair and manly. On the whole, "Room 349" is pitilessly realistic, though pretty arty for a mugg.

NEW FOX FILM SUIT.

Minority Renews Attack on Plan—Company Discounts Move.

Minority stockholders of the Fox Film Corporation filed a new suit yesterday attacking the financing plan proposed under Harley L. Clarke of General Theatres Equipment, Inc. The suit is similar in content and purpose to that filed on Monday by Stanley M. Lazarus for minority stockholders, but brings in as defendants General Theatres Equipment, Inc.; Halsey, Stuart & Co.; Loew, Inc., and the Chase Securities Corporation. Mr. Lazarus had attacked the plan as bookkeeping jugglery and an abrogation of the rights of class A stockholders.

Mr. Clarke, through his attorneys, said yesterday:

"It has been stated by counsel for Mr. Clarke that they regard this suit as of no importance. It was pointed out that the suit was brought on behalf of a committee of three, the chairman of which has resigned and has refused to participate in this suit, as also is the case of the former counsel for the committee, who have refused to have anything to do with the matter."

HIGH PRICES SCORED AS PERIL TO THEATRE

Speakers Tell Friends of Drama Patrons Are Being Driven to Movies—Agencies Assailed.

CRITICS ARE ALSO BLAMED

Too Often Influenced by Personal Considerations, Says Club Leader —Subscription Plans Made.

High theatre prices, the Leblang cut-rate ticket agency, and dramatic critics were condemned at a meeting yesterday noon in the Park Central Hotel of the newly organized Friends of the Drama, composed of club women united to stimulate attendance at worthy plays.

The organization received further assurance of sympathy in its purpose and, in some cases, active support from producers and their representatives who were present. Mrs. Edgar Cecil Melledge, president of the society, announced that its plans would be put into effect immediately to enlist the 100,000 city club women in 405 clubs as members of a theatre ticket subscription group.

The Friends of the Drama will seek to arrange for tickets at either a $2 top price or at one-third off the box office listing and in return will guarantee a minimum attendance in the early critical days of such plays as are endorsed beforehand.

Assails High Prices.

The high price of tickets was condemned first by Mrs. G. Reginald Crossley, president of the Century Theatre Club, who protested particularly against the ticket agencies.

"They are ruining the theatre," she said. "There are too many theatres with abominable prices. People will simply not pay the prices that are asked today. They are being driven to the moving pictures."

"The present charge could be borne by one person, but he certainly could not take his family to the theatre," added Baroness Katherine von Klenner, president of the National Opera Club. Lionel Hyman, a producer, agreed that prices should be much lower.

"The theatres can pay for themselves with much less than they are getting today at their box office prices," he said. "Theatres can survive on a ticket price of $1.50, but, of course, they must be substantially patronized."

Charles Coburn, actor, felt that $1.50 was too low a price, but indicated that producers would be glad to fix a low scale if good plays could be underwritten for a period of six weeks.

"The greatest menace to the theatre today is not the ticket speculator, but Joe Leblang," Mr. Coburn asserted. "He has taken the people away from the box office. We must bring them back and establish a box-office clientele."

Hopeful of League.

Warren P. Munsell, representing the Theatre Guild, declared that the New York Theatre League was likely to have the speculators soon under control through the cooperative arrangements for a 75-cent surcharge limit.

Several voices were raised against dramatic critics, the assertion being made that they were sometimes neglectful of their duties and often swayed by too personal considerations, with the result that good plays were injured.

"They are killers of plays," Mrs. Crossley said, "and they don't even sit through the performance they are criticizing."

"One critic I know of saw three plays in one night and wrote a review of each," said Mrs. Frank J. Shuler, president of the New York City Federation of Women's Clubs. "He saw the first act of one, the second act of another and the third act of a third. Another got his information from another critic and wrote his review at second hand."

Others present included Thomas Kilpatrick, general manager for Patterson McNutt, and representatives of the Erlanger, Shubert and other theatre interests. John Golden and L. Lawrence Weber, producers, had previously offered cooperation with the organization.

Through a women's committee of judges the organization will endorse five plays to place upon a guaranteed subscription list and will give approval to others. Members of the organization are all officers of other women's clubs allied in the work.

Permanent officers were announced as follows:

President—Mrs. Edgar Cecil Melledge.
Vice Presidents—Mrs. William Roger Chapman, Mrs. Leonard L. Hill, Mrs. John E. King, Miss Lillie Selig and Mrs. Robert Gerard Williams.
Recording Secretary—Miss Minnie B. Wade.
Corresponding Secretary—Miss Marjory Welledge.
Treasurer—Mrs. Frederick Morgan Delano.

7 PRODUCERS ASSAIL THEATRE TICKET PLAN

White, Harris, Connolly and Woods, Among Those Holding League's Project 'Unworkable.'

Seven theatrical producers or their representatives met last night in the office of George White on West Forty-second Street and went on record as being opposed to the plan for the curbing of ticket speculation that has been evolved by the New York Theatre League. They were Mr. White, Jed Harris, A. H. Woods, Harry Klein, Bobby Connolly, Herman Shumlin and A. H. Holle.

The protest said the league "is advocating a plan for the curbing of ticketspeculation which we deem as not only impractical and unworkable, but not an honest and sincere effort to control ticket speculation." It said also that "We have agreed that there is but one honest and decent plan and that is by placing all seats on sale at the box office, thus eliminating at once not only the ticket speculator, but the cut-rate agency which sells tickets for 50 per cent of their face value."

"We believe implicitly in the judgment of theatregoers with respect to our theatrical wares," the statement said. "With all the seats in the box office, each and every show will have an equal opportunity of drawing patronage, public opinion as to a show's value being the deciding factor as to its ultimate success or failure."

In discussing the cut-rate agency, the protest demanded that the League "eradicate this cancer of the show business which destroys values." It said that the signers "deem it manifestly unfair for producers to demand full prices at their box offices from theatregoers for the same merchandise that can be purchased at the cut-rate agency for one-half the price."

Included in the protest were seven questions addressed to "several important members" of the League. One asked "by what right is the New York Theatre League endowed with the power to tell us how to dispose of our merchandise?"

FLAVIN MEDAL PRESENTED.

Theatre Club Makes Award for "The Criminal Code."

The medal awarded to Martin Flavin for "The Criminal Code," ranked by the 500 members of the Theatre Club, Inc., as the best written by an American during the season, was presented yesterday. On behalf of Mr. Flavin, who is now in California, the medal was accepted by Anita Block at a meeting held at the Hotel Astor.

Mrs. Wallace S. Stewart, chairman of the award committee, made the presentation. An entertainment program, under the direction of Mrs. James Stanley Royce, followed the awarding of the medal.

The plays selected in previous seasons by the club are "Craig's Wife," "Caponsacchi," "Coquette" and "Street Scene."

HELEN MENKEN IN NEW PLAY

She Is Rehearsing in "Color Blind," Due for Tryout in May.

Helen Menken, who will close her Broadway engagement in "The Infinite Shoeblack" on Saturday night, is now rehearsing in a play called "Color Blind," by S. John Park, author of "Philadelphia," which had a brief run here in September. The production is being made under the auspices of the Shuberts and is scheduled to begin a preliminary tour about May 12. In addition to Miss Menken, important rôles will be played by Melvyn Douglas and Reginald Barlow.

The author and Carl Hunt of the Shubert staff are directing the play, which, it is said, will have a cast of forty Negroes.

Wodehouse Here to Write Movies.

P. G. Wodehouse, English novelist and playwright, arrived yesterday on the White Star liner Majestic on his way to Hollywood under a three months' contract with the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Corporation. With him was his daughter, Miss Leonora Wodehouse. He said he had never written anything for the movies before and that the present contract had been arranged for him by Mrs. Wodehouse when she was here.

Plans Westchester Play Season.

Walter Tupper Jones, stage manager for the Civic Repertory Theatre, will open an eight-week Summer theatre season at the Westchester Playhouse, near Mount Kisco, on June 2. Two companies, which will be recruited in part from Eva Le Gallienne's Civic Repertory company, will present a weekly change of bill on a schedule that provides for two weeks of rehearsal for each play. The season will close on Saturday, July 26.

IRENE BORDONI ASKS COURT TO VACATE WRIT

Also Seeks to Sue Lawyer for $100,000 for Breach of Professional Ethics.

Irene Bordoni applied in the Supreme Court yesterday to vacate an attachment against her property obtained by Richard J. Mackey, a lawyer, in a suit for $1,500 for legal services, by which $1,800 of her salary at the Palace Theatre last week has been held up. She also asked permission to sue the lawyer for $100,000 for alleged breach of professional ethics in making public statements alleged to have been made by her, which she says would have been confidential if she had made them, but which she repudiates.

Mr. Mackey was suing on the ground that in February he was retained for the actress in a divorce suit brought against her by E. Ray Goetz, and that he suggested the course that she adopted through another lawyer, in suing to restrain Mr. Goetz from prosecuting the divorce action on the ground that she had obtained an annulment of her marriage in Chicago. He said she was a resident of that city and on that ground got the attachment.

Miss Bardoni declares that she has lived for six years at 108 East Seventy-eighth Street, which property she owns, and that it contains furnishings belonging to her worth $113,000. She denies that she retained Mr. Mackey and says that she was sent to him by her Chicago attorney, Philip R. Davis, who was to have paid Mr. Mackey $500 for any services he rendered in the case.

In asking permission to file a counterclaim for $100,000 Miss Bordoni says that the lawyer has "betrayed the trust and confidence imposed on him and has made false, malicious and wicked statements" in an affidavit seeking the attachment.

"Ada Beats the Drum" Due May 8.

The next play at the John Golden Theatre, succeeding "Those We Love," will be a comedy entitled, "Ada Beats the Drum," formerly called "When In Rome," by John Kirkpatrick. It is scheduled to open on May 8, with Mary Boland heading the cast. Besides Miss Boland the company will include Nydia Westman, George W. Barbier, Edgar Stehli and Jules Epailly. The play, which will be presented in Great Neck on May 3 for a try-out performance, is being directed by Geoffrey Kerr.

Evelyn Laye Sails for London.

Miss Evelyn Laye, who has been playing the leading rôle in "Bitter Sweet" for the past five months, sailed last night for London on the Cunarder Berengaria. She said she intended to return to America about June 15 to make a talking picture under the direction of Samuel Goldwyn, who is now negotiating for the vehicle for Miss Laye's début in talking pictures.

FOR EARLY RATIFICATION.

President HOOVER is evidently going to put all the force of his Administration behind the naval treaty. He is to submit it to the Senate as soon as an official copy reaches his hands. This represents a change of policy, as earlier announced. It was said in London, and it was intimated at Washington, that our Government would wait until Japan and Great Britain had ratified the three-Power treaty. Then it was stated that the President would delay sending it to the Senate until after he had conferred with Secretary STIMSON and the other delegates, especially the two Senators. But apparently he has now been informed the Senate, in its anxiety to adjourn, will have no superfluity of time to deal with the treaty at this session. By submitting it at the earliest date possible he may save a week or ten days. Doubtless more than that period will be required for the Senate Foreign Relations Committee to consider it, and to take the testimony of our naval experts and of Secretary STIMSON, who will undoubtedly be summoned as witnesses. Senator HALE has announced that the Committee on Naval Affairs will also hold hearings. This would ostensibly be in preparation for the naval appropriation bill, but might easily result in delay and a certain clash of Senate committees.

Senator HALE, in the statement which he made on Friday last, spoke mainly of time for proper study of the treaty, but did suggest a kind of latent hostility. He stated that the President has no Constitutional power over "the provision and main-"tenance of the Navy other than "the right of veto of any legislation "pertaining thereto." Of course, the Executive has the right to make treaties affecting the Navy, but on them the Senate has the last word. So that, according to Senator HALE, "on Congress rests the full respon-"sibility of determining the strength "and make-up of the American "Navy." The Senator also pointed to the fact that the "general pol-icy" of Congress in relation to cruisers had evidently been "set aside" by the treaty. The advisability of this, he declared, must be "demonstrated" to the satisfaction of the Senate.

All this implies a purpose to deliberate fully, and perhaps to delay. But the President is plainly desirous of final action before this session of Congress ends. There is no convincing reason why it should not be had. No one wishes to rush the treaty through with indecent haste, but to press it to early ratification would give the United States the credit and prestige of taking a lead in an international transaction of the kind which the Senate has too often, in recent years, mulled over unconscionably long, or postponed to the Greek Calends.

OHIO'S PRISON PYRE.

In the able hands of Attorney General BETTMAN an investigation is proceeding into the causes for the shocking loss of life in the State Penitentiary fire at Columbus. He will permit no political or personal considerations to obscure the truth or soften responsibility. Proof may come of the contention of prison officials that the fires were started by convicts preparatory to a jail-break. It may also be that testimony will show whether the warden and his guards were guilty of operating a lax fire-emergency system, of panic in the face of disaster and of carelessness in keeping the keys to the upper tiers.

Perhaps it is true that the flames traveled so swiftly over the tarred roofs to the cell-blocks where scores of men were suffocated that even adequate fire-fighting equipment and swifter unlocking of the cells could not have saved many more than escaped the horrors of death under such conditions. The warden, on the stand, testified that no system could have met the emergency. But apparently nothing can absolve Ohio from dual responsibility for these things: Permitting unsafe fire conditions to exist in its obsolete prison; and crowding 4,300 men into cell-blocks built for 1,500.

Warden LAWES assures the public that no such ghastly experience can come to those lodged in Sing Sing. There risks from fire have been foreseen and provided against. Why, even with the fearful overcrowding, could this not have been partly true at Columbus? An Ohio newspaper grimly observes that Columbus citizens, long apprehensive of tragedy, have petitioned the Legislature in vain for appropriations to insure safety. If this is so, the long rows of sheeted bodies are victims of the politicians of the Nation's fourth State. In 1922 the Census Bureau estimated the total wealth of Ohio as $18,498,552,000. Its annual budget is $40,138,182, and its net debt is but $10,000,000. It has a very small funded debt—$12,500,000, which was incurred for the purpose of paying a soldiers' bonus. Perhaps that was good politics, and very few concern themselves with the conditions of men in prison. But if the great and financially prosperous State of Ohio, with a population of over six millions, had added to its funded debt the few more millions necessary to safeguard the inmates at Columbus, it would not be making such heart-breaking news today.

MAGISTRATES' COURTS.

On another page is printed today a letter from the Bar Association to Mayor WALKER, again calling his attention to the plan for centralizing the Magistrates' Courts in the Borough of Manhattan. This is a project already submitted to the Board of Estimate with powerful support. Both the Lawyers' Associations, as well as the Association of Grand Jurors and the District Attorney of New York County, have given it their approval, as have several of the important societies devoted to the public interests of this city, together with the City Club, the Women's City Club and other civic organizations. The Commissioner of Police and the Commissioner of Correction have advocated the plan, and the Grand Jury of New York County, after a prolonged investigation of the Magistrates' Courts, endorsed it heartily. A committee was appointed by the Board of Estimate to study the proposal, but as yet no report has been made. The matter is so important that the Bar Association does well to bring it again to the attention of the city authorities.

The inherent advantages of this centralization are many. Some of them were set forth in the report submitted to the Bar Association on April 8 and unanimously approved by it. Both the efficiency and the dignity of the Magistrates' Courts would be enhanced if they could all be brought together for better co-operation of the judges under the direction of the Chief Magistrate. It is believed that a centralized Magistrate's Court would avoid the many prolonged adjournments now granted in felony and other cases, would save a great deal of the time of the police at present wasted, and would in general so bring the working of the Magistrates' Courts under constant public notice that the judges would be on their good behavior, knowing that those among them who were found to be negligent or incompetent would be considered out of place on such a bench. There is also reason to think that appointments of Magistrates would tend to be of a higher quality if there were set up such a centralized tribunal always under public observation. It is strongly to be hoped that the Mayor and the other members of the Board of Estimate will not allow this plan for an urgent judicial reform to lapse.

THE TAXICAB VETO.

Mayor WALKER'S veto of the taxicab ordinance was amply justified. It had been adopted by the Board of Alderman without adequate study. The clause increasing the charge for waiting time would have imposed a heavy burden on the community, which would at the same time have been deprived of the potential benefit of the lower rates offered by independents. The public had come to distrust the plan because it did not know what was behind it. The Police Commissioner's intentions were of the best, but might it not be possible that they were being exploited by private interests?

Fortunately, the Mayor was not content merely to disapprove a questionable measure. He coupled his veto with the announcement of the appointment of a representative committee to make a study of the entire situation. The taxicab business has grown into a great public utility. Yet it is subject only to police regulation. The police may be competent to handle the routine traffic aspects of the problem, but it obviously has economic and engineering and social aspects far beyond them. Are the drivers able to make a living under present competitive conditions? Would a minimum rate of fare, if legal, improve matters, or, by attracting more cars, intensify competition and still further congest the streets? Would smaller cars and lower rates be a help or a hindrance? What form of regulation would be to the best interest of the drivers, of the industry, of the public?

These and many other questions the Mayor's committee will have a chance to answer. There are sporadic reports from other cities—from Cincinnati, for example, which has constituted the cabs a public utility; or Philadelphia, where the Public Service Commission regulates what is virtually a monopoly. There are brief references to the problem in various traffic studies, like the one directed by MILLER MCCLINTOCK in Boston. The Regional Plan Committee has worked out some elaborate formulae about taxicab operations in New York City streets, and the Mayor's advisers will find much pertinent information in the Day & Zimmerman report. But nowhere has all this information been correlated and analyzed, and apparently no official body has undertaken an independent and comprehensive investigation of the subject.

"My sympathies are with the "taxicab driver, my desires for im-"provement in service, but my chief "concern must be with the public "that pays the fare," Mayor WALKER remarked. That sentiment might well serve as the motto for the work of the committee.

THE UTILITY BILLS.

The amendments to the public service law dealing with valuation and contracts which the Knight commission recommended to the Legislature never did suit the minority. Where the Republicans were content with teeth the Democrats wanted tusks. It now appears that the bills as they finally emerged from the legislative mill were even milder than had been anticipated. At the hearing before the Governor, Senator KNIGHT admitted, "somewhat ruefully," that the State-wide valuation plan had to be altered at the last minute to provide for a valuation only when a rate case was pending, and that Colonel DONOVAN'S widely heralded contract bill, with its strict limitation of allowable returns, had undergone considerable modification. The teeth turned out to be milk teeth.

Whether Governor ROOSEVELT signs or vetoes all of these measures, regulation is certain to be an issue in the coming campaign, with the Democrats calling for prudent investment as the rate base, at least in future construction, and the Republicans either opposing that device outright or else doing their best to explain that, much as they fancy it, the Supreme Court of the United States will never accept it. In the long run, critics of the existing régime might make more headway by directing their fire at the rate of return, as Mr. JULIUS HENRY COHEN and others have suggested. Present value may be the law of the land, but 8 per cent over all is not, although the utilities, not without support from the record of the commission, have sometimes sought to create the impression that it is. The rate varies with circumstances. The Supreme Court, having been more concerned lately with railroad, water company, street railway and telephone cases, has not said the last word about the other electric utilities. Of course they would fight, tooth and nail, as they did at Albany, any effort to curtail their return, even on bonds and preferred stock.

The rest of the majority program—the Governor has more than thirty of these bills to pass on—is not to be regarded lightly. Many of the measures were adopted without legislative opposition. Some of them deal with the staff of the Public Service Commission, which needs enlarging. Others meet a vital defect in present regulation by giving the commission wider control over holding companies. Still others seek to discourage the utilities from rushing into the Federal courts. Such proposals, designed to strengthen the regulatory process, should have the Governor's sympathetic consideration despite his veto of the "People's Counsel" bill, disowned even by the municipalities of whose rights that volatile gentleman was to be the champion and defender.

INSURANCE AND DOLE.

Heavily though the burden of unemployment relief may bear down on the British budget, it is not the immediate financial strain which constitutes the most serious aspect of the problem. With respect both to Great Britain and to Germany the word "dole" is largely a misnomer. Sums distributed in unemployment relief come only in part out of the taxpayers' pockets. In both countries unemployment insurance is contributory. In Great Britain the weekly contributions to the insurance fund are 8 pence by the employer, 7 pence by the wage-earner and 6 pence by the government. In the seven years from the end of 1920 to the end of 1927 there had been distributed in unemployment relief a total of £356,000,000, of which the government's share was £81,000,000.

If one adds the loans that have recently been raised to make up deficits in the fund, the annual contribution might rise another $10,000,000. This is something less than 2 per cent of the average annual British budget since the war. In Germany they are also under the need of bolstering up the unemployment fund with government subsidies. It is one of the problems with which the present Ministry is struggling. For the budget year 1929-30, according to last Summer's report by S. PARKER GILBERT, the government's subsidies to the various social services—unemployment, health and accident insurance and old-age pensions—were estimated at 860,000,000 marks, or about 8 per cent of the total budget expenditures.

When unemployment insurance was first set up in Great Britain in 1911 the rates were adjusted in accordance with an actuarial estimate of 4 to 5 per cent as the normal rate of unemployment. Since the war British unemployment virtually has never fallen below 10 per cent, and has attained the staggering height of 23 per cent—in May, 1921. The original weekly contribution of roughly 2 pence a week by employer, wage-earner and government has been increased, as we have seen, fourfold in the case of the employer, three and a half times in the case of the wage-earner, and three times in the case of the government. Few serious observers really regard as a dole, in the sense of misdirected charity, a form of relief of which five-sevenths is borne by industry itself, and toward which the national contribution is made in the face of an extraordinary though prolonged emergency. But though the British unemployed in the mass should not be considered as charity patients or as anything but the victims of the post-war economic depression, it is undeniable that in the case of thousands of individual English workers unemployment relief is exercising a demoralizing effect. In their case it is indeed a dole as the years pass and the habit of idle semi-subsistence becomes ingrained.

PLANS FOR THE RESERVOIR SITE.

In receiving the plan for the development of the lower reservoir site in Central Park from the New York Chapter of the American Society of Landscape Architects, Commissioner HERRICK suggested that intensive study might indicate the desirability of a few changes in it. But that he will give it thorough attention may be judged from the fact that his own assistant speaks well of it, and that it has the prestige of being presented by disinterested citizens eminent in their profession.

It calls for the creation of an oval sunken meadow or lawn about 1,300 feet long and 800 feet wide. This is to be available for play and is to have at the north end two small secluded playgrounds for young children. Several paths—including an unobtrusive winding walk between the American Museum of Natural History and the Metropolitan Museum of Art—are proposed, together with suitable planting so as to make the area fit in with the rest of the park. The walls of the old reservoir will disappear, and except for the fact that most of the area will be depressed and level, nothing will remain to suggest that it was once a reservoir.

The plan has several obvious merits. It is free from excessive formalization and omits elaborate malls and memorials. It should be pleasant to look at from various approaches. Mr. J. MONROE HEWLETT, president of the Municipal Art Society, has questioned the advisability of extensive playground facilities. On this point there will be as much difference of opinion as on past occasions when proposals have been made to use more of the park for play. Objectors may raise the question of supervising and restricting play, so that it does not become a nuisance and does not result in turning the sunken meadow into a hard-packed ball ground.

It is to be hoped that Commissioner HERRICK will act quickly. Already the reservoir is being filled up. In behalf of his contract with the excavators, Mr. HERRICK has urged the fact that the park will be saved $90,000 for tearing down the wall. Certainly the filling and grading can be most economically carried out in accordance with a definite plan of ultimate landscaping. Under any circumstances, the time is at hand when a final decision must be made. The gentlemen who have devoted so much time and thought to preparing this plan deserve the thanks of all friends of the park.

ROBERT BRIDGES.

There can be no sadness at the passing of the Poet Laureate except in the hearts of those who were near to him. The English-speaking world must be glad that he lived to complete the "Testament of Beauty," which lifts English literature to a parity with that of its Golden Age. Complaints of critics who would have had him break forth into verse on every occasion are quieted by the rare beauty and sublimity of the crowning series in which late in his long journey, when he "had clomb "to where the path was narrowing "and the company few," he looks out as enthralled as a child upon a landscape mapped at his feet but estranged by the new light upon it.

From this "summit of his years" he brings into a unity the whole history of man in his striving toward beauty, which is "the prime motive "of all his excellence, his aim and "peaceful purpose." Through many hundred pages "Self-hood" and "Breed," as the steeds in PLATO'S familiar figure, course under the rein of "Reason" and reach an Ethic of happiness in "earthly comradeships" which have that in them which provokes desire to surmount their humanity in super-humanity and ultimate perfection. This is a poetic version of an earlier prose essay which found in such desire itself the only assurance and evidence of unseen things and of conscious immortality.

Beauty has not written her testimony in more persuasive philosophy or in more enticing phrase. Science has made its contributions of fact that have furnished new languages in which to present the movements and moods of human life; and Nature ever teaches man by beauty, though he often wonders why Nature, being so "inexhaustible of beauty," should not be "all beauteous." Only a poet with such severe scientific training could have brought so much wisdom out of plant and bird, of bee and bear, of atom, nerve and sense, to build his philosophy and adorn its lines. Even the machines of great factories become "amicable monsters."

It is the poet's familiarity with all lands and all times and their gifts to the unity and beauty of the epic story which most astound and hold one. Here Persia, China and Babylon "put forth their bloom," the Nile guides "its ribbon oases" through the Libyan sands. The "languorous isles" of Hawaii and Samoa are also in his geography, along with flowery Carmel and "far Pasadena's roseland." And even the hangars of modern airships have furnished "dream-sheds" for Shakespeare's golden sonnets that "swim like gondolas in the wake of his drama."

Of Dr. BRIDGES'S long life one need not speak, except again to express gratitude that it was not shorter, and that he found at the end of it such a sunset as that which he himself described for the Almighty's "hour of beauty":

when the setting sun
Squandereth his cloudy bed with rosy hues, to flood
His loved works as in turn he bid-
deth them good-night,
And all the towers and temples and mansions of men Face him in bright farewell, ere they creep from their pomp
Naked beneath the darkness.

He made glorious his laureateship in taking leave of it and set a stately standard for his successors.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

The Whitestone Branch. This Summer's experience of Long Island Railroad commuters from Whitestone Landing will demonstrate what hardships, if any, are to follow the approval by the Interstate Commerce Commission of the railroad's request to abandon that branch line. "Adequate" bus service, to be furnished by the railroad, presumably to its station on the west bank of Flushing Creek, is ordered by the commission. Presumably the railroad is also expected at the bus junction point to provide ample facilities to carry the commuters into New York City and Brooklyn. While this will not lull the fears of commuters whose journey to the city has been thus complicated, it is the best they can get under the circumstances. Should they require further relief, doubtless the Transit and Interstate Commerce Commissions will be available to petition.

It was decidedly a two-pointed question. The expense to which the Long Island would have been put to eliminate grade crossings on a branch line with a permanent deficit in operation manifestly worked an injustice. The commission's view that abandonment of the branch would automatically bring extension of city rapid transit was sustained by testimony. Meanwhile, the public will hope that the Long Island will construe the word "adequately" in a liberal and even generous sense. That policy would seem necessary, if it hopes to advance further in its efforts to get rid of its short intraurban hauls.

They Cry for Vitamins. All children are not in the broccoli class. So much is heard about the youngsters who grumble at spinach and stamp their feet at carrots that one might imagine they are all like that. But now it seems that those who stubbornly refuse their greens are merely more articulate than the great majority who submit in silence.

A part of the latter group has come out into the open with a preference for what is good for them. Their sweet pleas for more vitamins are published in The Red Cross Courier, in which Miss ANNETTE MCCLAREN of the disaster relief staff gives an account of the follow-up program in the Southeastern States after the floods. Pellagra was prevalent and had been aggravated by the loss of home gardens in the overflow. Nutritionists working through the schools gave instruction to every class, with special concentration on underweight children and in homes where there were outstanding cases of malnutrition.

Now the work is concluded in all but two or three counties in Alabama and Florida. But the children are not forgetting what they learned. Teachers report that they are bringing fruits, fresh vegetables and other formerly unknown items for their lunches, and sandwiches are made of whole wheat bread. The most startling information of all comes from the persons in charge of the underweight children, who asked as a privilege to be permitted to continue taking cod liver oil. The "Red Cross lady" said it would build them up, and they want to "grow big."

A Folk Migration in Manhattan. New York City has been for many years aware of "Harlem," first as describing a population group and its problems, and subsequently as a hunting ground for the more primitive esthetic thrills. Far less attention has been directed to the growth of another exotic colony in close proximity to the Negro district. This is the Latin-American colony, impressive in numbers, between Central Park and 120th Street and between Eighth Avenue and Third Avenue.

In that section, it is unofficially reported, the new census figures reveal a population shift apparently more marked than any which this city of migrant elements has witnessed in the last half century. The virtually solid Jewish population of ten years ago has changed "almost entirely" to Latin-American. If the change is indeed so far-reaching as stated, it can be compared only with what happened in the 1880's, when Jewish immigration began to supplant the earlier Irish and German elements on the lower east side.

Immigrant alien arrivals from Latin America in this country, not counting Mexicans, have averaged about 10,000 annually in recent years. But the growth of New York City's Spanish-speaking population has been mainly due, according to common report, to a large influx from Porto Rico.

Fewer Marines in Nicaragua. It is part of the irony of international relations that while there is bitter denunciation whenever United States Marines are reinforced anywhere in Central America or the Caribbean, scant attention is paid to their withdrawal or cutting down in number.

In spite of this, it is encouraging to learn from Brig. Gen. WILLIAMS that the total number of marines in Nicaragua is to be reduced this month from 1,000 to about 500. It is more than likely that as President MONCADA'S government continues to maintain order by itself the force will be made still smaller.

Incidentally, President MONCADA has the unique record of being the only Central American President who has not hesitated to say complimentary things about the marines and to express the belief that their mere presence has often facilitated the task of maintaining order. Americans of all shades of opinion will welcome the gradual withdrawal of the marines. This is no reflection on them, but rather a recognition of the fact that it is to the best interest of all concerned when nations, no matter how small, are able to shoulder their responsibilities by themselves.

President Green Explains.

By Telegraph to the Editor of THE NEW YORK TIMES.

In your editorial of today on "Judge Parker and Negroes" you state, referring to the American Federation of Labor's opposition to the confirmation of Judge Parker's appointment to the Supreme Court, that when Attorney General Mitchell brought out the fact that no less a person than Judge Brandeis had upheld the challenged labor contract, just as Judge Parker did later, that particular argument had all the stuffing knocked out of it. This statement is misleading, for it leaves the impression that Judge Brandeis concurred in the opinion of the majority of the Supreme Court in the "yellow dog" Hitchman case, which it is alleged Judge Parker followed in his decision in the Red Jacket "yellow dog" case. The facts are that Judge Brandeis dissented in the Hitchman case and rendered a vigorous dissenting opinion, in which Justice Holmes concurred. If there had been three other members of the Supreme Court like Justice Brandeis and Justice Holmes, we would not have a Hitchman decision sustaining "yellow dog" contract procedure. In addition, you have offered argument in support of Judge Parker's "yellow dog" decision. In my opinion this is unfair and unjust to labor.

WILLIAM GREEN,
President American Federation of Labor.

A CHILD PROTESTS.

(To Some Modern Educators.)

You've kept me on the most insipid water.
Instead of Nill's Adventures, I must read
How Kate the Cow was Milked by Jones's Daughter,
How Bill, the Boy Scout, did his Daily Deed.
You let me have the Jokes of Uncle
Remus,
But, fearful for my childish years,
withhold
The intrigues of the one-eyed Poly-
phemus,
The naughty tale of Tristan and Isolde.

You've starved me for the beautiful and brave.
I should learn of things I meet with every day.
But fairy tales and fables—so you rave—
Will ultimately lead a child astray.

And if I see a goddess, brightly clad,
Smile down from Heaven—Alas! the child is mad!

PLANS FOR CENTRAL PARK.

Need of Maintaining and Beautifying the Original and Essential Landscape Features.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

This plan for the Inter-Museum Promenade comes from one who is devoted to the Central Park of Olmsted and Vaux, its ideal and its achievement, "the one unified work of landscape architecture in America." It utilizes already existing paths and resources. It is concerned in detail with the south bank of the reservoir now under immediate consideration, and all without invasion or mutilation of the park terrain.

I would propose an Inter-Museum Promenade which shall utilize the straightaway foot-path which takes its start from the hillock that rises gently from the little valley at the Obelisk and goes across to the opposite terrace of the Belvedere. This path affords the one direct physical way across the park and between the Museum of Art and the Museum of Natural History. The hillock forms the natural approach from all directions on the eastern side of the park. On the western axis of the path the Belvedere is the dominant note in the landscape, and so designed in the scheme of the park by Olmsted and Vaux. As a part of this promenade, I would include the broad green level margin of the reservoir embankment which runs parallel with this path and also the green slope from this reservoir embankment to the level of the path below.

From the Belvedere I propose an overhead footway, "Museum Bridge," to carry the promenade directly over the valley below, over its driveways, bridle-paths and foot-paths, to Central Park West and the high lying land which is opposite the Museum of Natural History, thus overcoming the difficulties presented in the traffic-obstructed, circuitous footways to the Museum of Natural History via Seventy-seventh Street and via Eighty-first Street at Manhattan Square.

The hillock rises in symmetrical form, extends to and overlooks the east driveway, sloping southward to the ramble and its parking place. Under this passes the cut of the Seventy-ninth Street sunken road. There is considerable elevated area with much planting to hide the jutting corner of the reservoir, pathways and driveway; also the wide margin with numerous trees and planting to hide the cut of the Seventy-ninth Street transverse road. At the end of this foot-path the bluff of rock of the Belvedere is masked by rough, neglected thicket, brush and gullied earth. The way out by the steps is also hidden, so that the walk is masked at both ends. This whole scene has been one of neglect, disregard of intrinsic charm, disregard of its place in the design and usage of the park, and only now undergoing rehabilitation.

The level margin which lies between the walk and the edge of the sunken road is to be incorporated into the promenade. This so widened path is to be bounded by a wall placed back on the edge of the sunken road. This wall of formal, appropriate architecture, "garden-like," may receive such mural embellishment, panels, wall-fountains, as the scheme within the park might warrant; also a background for planting, and with a few new groups of trees would merge into the scene of the ramble. The wall from the point where this path turns to the right at the hillock is to continue to the top of the cut of the transverse road, following the cut of the road to the building on the ramble.

This whole margin is now of no real park service. The slope of green with its numerous fine trees should be brought into harmonious relation with the upper level of the high terrace of the promenade by planting, and with steps. The marginal reservoir embankment on its eastern axis could be opened to give access to the hillock, by steps to give access to the lower promenade—the hillock to have the simple remodeling, planting, &c., to receive the pathways of the promenade; its bluff overlooking the east driveway to be especially embellished with an attractive outlook upon this interesting and important park scene; the now widened path to be carried straight on its axis up the abrupt rugged face of rock rising to the terrace of the Belvedere, a striking dominant salient on the promenade—an opportunity for the landscape architect.

At the top of the promenade, paths led west and south to the "wild," beautiful region of the park, the woods, rhododendrons, waterways and ravines to the lake. This, for years also a scene of neglect, eroded paths, gullied banks, unkempt, is now being reclaimed and transformed. From this point the way of the walk takes across the terrace of the Belvedere to the approach to the proposed "museum bridge." Here the high terrace commands a wide overlook on the park scene, and over the great reservoir area and city's skyline.

In the immediate foreground lies a second natural terrace, a lower wide plateau which extends from the cut of the Seventy-ninth Street road across to the level of the reservoir embankment. At this plateau the park paths extend in all directions. A great outcropping of rock forms the shoulder of the plateau. Here the land falls sharply to the narrow valley with foot-paths, driveway, and again foot-paths and bridle-path, bordered by the high land which rises in shapely slopes to a hill of considerable area, extending close to and overlooking Central Park West. Utilizing the picturesque, natural features of the dominant bluff, the structure should be keyed right into the rock itself. The axis of the "museum bridge" would come on the path which leads across the plateau, and by formal stairways from the terrace of the Belvedere. On the opposite side of the park the natural contour of the land, with the large trees, open spaces, affords an ideal landing, and requires no more than slight treatment. It will of itself form a new park resource, agreeable, sightly, readily accessible by near-by paths. From the further margin of this high land a second short section of "museum bridge" would carry over the cut of the sunken road to the high land on the border of Central Park West. Formal exit here could be on the axis of the "Roosevelt Memorial" entrance."

For this "museum bridge," the lay of the land, the modeling of the rock, the place of this promontory in the landscape, its elevation, the distance to be traversed, all are most fortunate, with an admirable balance in the topographical relation to the Belvedere. The situation at each axis for the "museum bridge" is such that a point from the Belvedere may be readily chosen which will be desirably above the opposite landing; this will give a flowing line, rising easily to the Belvedere and in a "livable," "usable" way tying up to its landscape. The structure would go just to the north of the log house close to the group of evergreen and other trees, which place would serve to receive a pier and mask it; another pier just beyond the driveway where the paths converge; thus the lodgment of the "museum bridge" would be masked completely by trees and merged into the environing landscape. The footbridge may be of a light, graceful, esthetic character. It would not obstruct but rather enhance and emphasize the charm of scene. The existing surface paths from the Belvedere to the Museum of Natural History via Seventy-seventh Street and Eighty-first Street cannot be altered in course, cannot be shortened. These are paths all tributary to the "museum bridge." It would open up areas on the Central Park West side now mostly disregarded.

So we have between these natural high points a promenade with an upper level terrace some eighteen feet wide, a sloping green of some twelve feet, the lower level promenade of some twenty feet in width. The garden-like wall will give a definition to the promenade in unique, esthetic contrast to the parallel high terrace. It will be a promenade with an outlook upon the newly acquired area, its varied scene; with the picturesque projection of the Belvedere and the massif of rock upon which it rises; a promenade of inviting vistas, salients of adequate mass and contrasting character at either axis; and with the elements of surprise and pleasure in the picture which greets the eye and reveals the objective. It will be a promenade within the park, of the park, fortunately admitting and inviting that simple embellishment which suggests itself.

In the various plans proposing both promenade and surface park roads across this (to be acquired) reservoir area, the neglect and desuetude of this existing path and its scene have been stressed. But its availability, immediate and potential, has gone without recognition.

The mountain of the Belvedere and the hillock, between which the reservoir embankment and the park paths are tied up, became in the design of Olmsted and Vaux the salients in the working out of the problem of the cross-park footway, sunken road and reservoir setting; and in this design the southern embankment of the reservoir is inseparably bound to the park terrain and its utilities. In the new area acquired this promenade becomes the more essential, and the availability of the existing resources affords a new evidence of the forsight of the creators of the park.

The park terrain opposite the new east wing of the museum is now shut off from public service. It lies between the cut of the Seventy-ninth Street road, near Eighty-first Street, and the overhead of the Seventy-seventh Street entrance. At the northern end the terrain is high and rocky, and southerly falls away sharply from the park wall. It is encircled by the cut of the Seventy-ninth Street road and bridle-path which comes under the cut of the Seventy-seventh Street surface road. This particular section may be still more defined by a coping on the cut of the sunken road and an attractive border for the bridle-path. This terrain may be brought into suitable contours, modeled, terraced to make an appropriate foreground for the museum façade, and a highly attractive sector of the park, accessible from the "museum bridge."

BENJAMIN T. FAIRCHILD.
New York, April 21, 1930.

"Peaceful Revolution."

To the Editor of The New York Times:

How are we going to prove the policy of prohibition unless we defy the law?

Having deprived us of all effective legal process, having turned what was intended to be a shield into a sword, Mr. Wickersham and others ask us to resign our only remaining weapon, although they do graciously concede our right to continue the fight! With what?

How many law-abiding wets do these men concede us? Not one, although if the average wet had not observed the law from the beginning, prohibition would long ago have perished—perhaps in red rebellion.

The plain truth is that our patriotic self-denial is eagerly counted as approval of the law and as a complete demonstration of its "success." We are forced into "peaceful revolution"; nothing else is left us.

Mr. Wickersham allows his legalistic enthusiasm to lead him into confusion. The Bill of Rights does not enumerate the "unalienable rights." Nevertheless, until the adoption of the Eighteenth Amendment, all courts recognized them and held them to be inherent, transcending, indeed, all constitutions.

SCRIBNER FUNERAL ATTENDED BY 1,500

PRINCETON PAYS TRIBUTE

Sends Wreath of Ivy From Nassau Hall, Its Highest Honor—Dr. Hibben Is Present.

Funeral services for Charles Scribner, the publisher, who died last Saturday at the age of 76, were held yesterday morning at St. Bartholomew's Protestant Episcopal Church, Park Avenue and Fifty-first Street. The Right Rev. John I. Blair Larned, Suffragan Bishop of Long Island, officiated, assisted by the Rev. Dr. Robert Norwood, rector of St. Bartholomew's, which Mr. Scribner attended when he was in the city, and the Rev. Victor Mori, rector of Grace Church, Madison, N. J., where he worshiped when staying at his country home at Morristown, N. J.

Honored by Princeton.

Mr. Scribner, a graduate of Princeton and for many years a trustee of the university, was honored in death by his alma mater. Beside the coffin, which was covered with lilies of the valley and roses, was a wreath of ivy bearing a ribbon of orange and black, a mark of the highest honor Princeton bestows upon her alumni. Only at the passing of the most distinguished graduates does the president of the university direct that ivy be cut from the walls of Nassau Hall to be made into a funeral wreath. This honor, it was stated yesterday, is seldom bestowed more than once in a decade.

Among the more than 1,500 persons at the funeral were President John Grier Hibben of Princeton, who had cut short a vacation in Nova Scotia to attend; Dr. Christian Gauss, dean of Princeton College, and Professor Paul van Dyke. A delegation of the university's trustees included Gordon S. Rentschler, president of the National City Bank; Franklin D'Olier, Edward Duffield, William Church Osborn; Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Walter E. Hope, Henry B. Thompson, Edward W. Sheldon, Matthew C. Fleming, Percy R. Pyne, Albert Milbank and Wilson Farrand. Also present were two of Mr. Scribner's Princeton classmates of the class of 1875, Dr. Thomas H. Harvey of East Orange, N. J., and Charles Botsford.

Professor Pupin Attends.

Others who attended were Professor Michael I. Pupin of Columbia University, Cass Gilbert, architect; George Doran and Nelson Doubleday, publishers; Dr. Henry T. Moore, president of Skidmore College, and a delegation from that institution; Charles W. McAlpin, George Brett Jr., Professor and Mrs. Henry Fairfield Osborn, Mrs. Corinne Roosevelt Robinson, sister of the late President Roosevelt, and her son, Monroe Douglas Robinson.

Also George Vondermuhl, vice president of the Princeton Club, of which Arthur H. Scribner, the late Mr. Scribner's brother, is president; Major Francis G. Landon, Frederick G. Melcher, editor of The Publishers' Weekly; Royal Cortissoz, Willard Huntington Wright, author; Paul Reynolds, S. G. Etherington, Phillip Rollins and William H. Edwards.

After the main ceremony, there was a short service for members of the family. Burial took place in Woodlawn Cemetery.

Up-State College Pays Tribute to Mr. Scribner, a Trustee.

Special to The New York Times.

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y., April 22.—A simple but impressive service in memory of Charles Scribner was held here this morning at Skidmore College. Mr. Scribner, brother-in-law of Mrs. Lucy Skidmore Scribner, was a trustee of the college almost from the beginning, becoming a member of the board in 1912.

The memorial service took place at the same time as Mr. Scribner's funeral services in New York City and was attended by the faculty and student body of the college.

URGES CHANGE IN TEACHING

Mrs. F. D. Roosevelt Commends Plan of Bennington College.

A plea for a change in the educational system of academic colleges was urged yesterday by Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt at a meeting under the auspices of the trustees of Bennington College held in the home of Mrs. Edward F. Hutton at 2 East Ninety-second Street.

Mrs. Roosevelt asserted that as a result of ever-changing living conditions the old academic system did not equip the child of today for the world of tomorrow. "Nobody," she went on, "can say what the world of thirty years hence will be like. There are many who cannot finish the careers of their choice because there is no college where they can be trained as they wish."

Mrs. Roosevelt said she believed that the progressive educational plan as proposed by Bennington College authorities would help to solve the problem.

Miss Winifred Lenihan, head of the Theatre Guild School, and Robert D. Leigh, president of the college, also spoke.

Mrs. Linzee Blagden presided.

GEORGE B. SUTTON DIES; EX-BILLIARD CHAMPION

Chicago Friends Find Him Lifeless When They Go to Tell Him of His Wife's Death.

CHICAGO, April 22 (AP).—Friends called at the home of George B. Sutton, billiard champion of the world twenty-two years ago, today to tell him that his devoted wife, Margaret, had died in a hospital.

There was no response. Sutton was dead.

This double tragedy in the death of the noted billiard star, whose playing a quarter of a century ago brought him international fame, unfolded itself when neighbors forced the door, after hospital attachés had attempted to reach him by telephone.

Just inside the door was the kneeling figure of the former champion, slumped against a chair, as if in prayer. Physicians said he had died of heart disease. Grief and worry over his wife's hopeless battle for life contributed to bring on his death. Pneumonia and heart disease combined to take her life. She was 65 years old and he was 66.

Sutton won the 18.2 balk line title in 1906, held it until 1908 and was a contender until November, 1921, the year of his last championship competition.

The veteran tried desperately later to enter tournaments, but each time his entry was rejected with the notation: "Outclassed, too old."

A few months ago he made a successful comeback. He qualified by defeating Percy N. Collins of Chicago, national amateur 18.2 champion, and was about to meet George Slosson of Boston, another old-time billiard star, for the national veterans' championship.

He was born in Waverly, N. Y., in 1864. In the early '90s he won his first national fame by defeating Joseph Capron, famous in his day, for the Canadian billiard championship, Sutton having moved to Canada a few years before this match.

Petition Seeks Union of Mohawk With Niagara Hudson System.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, April 22.—The Public Service Commission has before it for consideration a petition for the merging of the Mohawk Hudson Power Corporation with the Niagara Hudson Power System.

By the proposed merger the Niagara Hudson corporation would take over stock control of the utilities named. The Niagara Hudson now owns 98 per cent of the common stock of the Mohawk Hudson.

"No change in the financial structure of any operating company is involved," the petition says.

Spanish Papers Seek Pay for 'News'

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MADRID, April 22.—Taking literally the government's offer to allow those who suffered monetarily under the dictatorship to claim redress, the Newspaper Association of the Northern Provinces today appointed a lawyer to claim regular linear advertising rates for all articles of "obligatory insertion" printed under the dictatorship. As these sometimes ran 1,000 words a day and dictatorship lasted six years, it is doubtful if the government will honor the claim.

L. I. WATER COMPANY IS BOUGHT BY CITY

$2,000,000 Deal to Get Supply for Rockaways Is Completed by Controller Berry.

ENDS LONG CONTROVERSY

Rates to Be Cut in Half—Board Defers Action on Offer for Gerrittsen Beach System.

The accomplishment of the long-delayed plan of the city to acquire the property of the Long Island Water Corporation in the Rockaways as a preliminary to relieving 10,000 residents there of heavy water charges was announced yesterday by Controller Charles W. Berry to the committee of the whole of the Board of Estimate. He said he had signed the contract on Monday at a price of $2,000,000.

Under the present system of private water service residents of the Rockaways pay twice as much for their water as persons living in other parts of the city. The city undertook to acquire the company in response to protests over the injustice of the high water charges. Controller Berry was asked some months ago to appraise the company's property and he reported to the Board of Estimate that it was worth $1,600,000. The company, however, would not compromise on its own price of $2,000,000. For a time the advisability of acquiring it through condemnation proceedings was considered, but the Mayor decided against this course because of the delays and expensive litigation that it would entail.

Then the controller found it impossible to negotiate with the water company at its own price, a circumstance that provoked Mayor Walker to threaten paralleling the private water mains with city mains. Soon after that threat was made the water company officials conferred with Controller Berry. The last few weeks have been spent in reconciling varying estimates of the value of certain parts of the company's property.

Chief Engineer William W. Brush of the Department of Water Supply, Gas and Electricity said yesterday that the company's plant consisted of its mains, pumping stations, buildings and its right of way through the Rockaways. He said some final details of the transaction still remained to be cleared up by Corporation Counsel Arthur J. W. Hilly, but said that city water at city rates would be furnished to the Rockaways in the near future.

The committee of the whole deferred action for one month yesterday on the offer of Gerrittsen Park, Inc., of Brooklyn to sell its water system at Gerrittsen Beach to the city for $130,000. Commissioner John Dietz of the Water Department and other department heads are to confer with Borough President Henry Hesterberg of Brooklyn. The committee approved a preliminary expenditure of $2,000 for blueprints of four projects of the Water Department. They are the purchase of electrical pumping equipment at the Ridgewood pumping station, repairs at headquarters buildings in Queens and Richmond and additional trunk mains for Queens.

ENDS LIFE OVER CHECKS, THEN THEY ARE FOUND

Trusted Brooklyn Bank Employe Would Not Have Lost Job in Any Case, Officials Say.

The loss of three checks totaling $419.70, which he feared would result in his being discharged, caused Sigmund Schulbaum, 66 years old, employed for the last five years as a messenger for the Montauk branch of the Public National Bank at 2,553 Pitkin Avenue, Brooklyn, to commit suicide in a waiting room in the rear of the bank by firing a bullet through his brain. Officials of the bank declared afterward that the checks had been found and that Schulbaum, a faithful and trusted employe, was never in any danger of losing his job.

The three checks were lost by Schulbaum last Monday afternoon. He reported the loss immediately to Abraham Frumkin, manager of the Montauk branch, who advised him to explain to A. S. Bernstein, a vice president. Schulbaum followed Frumkin's advice, but though nothing censorious was said to him, he apparently felt that his discharge was imminent. Yesterday after closing hours, he wrote two notes, then committed suicide. One note asked that his son, George, employed in the travel department of a Manhattan bank, be notified of his death. The second note said: "My ambition was to work till I died. By losing this position I will lose everything. It is no use."

Schulbaum, who lived with his wife at 1,380 St. John's Place, Brooklyn, was one of the founders of the St. John's (Place) Board of Trade. He had five sons, four of whom are married.

A fortunate purchase of the famous Savage . . . the washer-dryer that operates with almost human intelligence. This is the full size six-sheet model, with copper, nickel-lined tub, white enamel table-top and Westinghouse motor. The aluminum spinner basket, built with "scrubbers" and perforated paddles, tilts at the proper angle to make clothes move up and down, helping cleanse themselves.

Each tubful can be washed, blued, spin-rinsed and spin-dried, ready for the line, in about 10 minues. And not once during the whole time does the operator need to put her hands in water. If it is a rainy day, no matter. A few extra turns of the spin-drying, and clothes are dry enough to iron.

An automatic pump ejector gets rid of the water.

That's all.

The whole wash is done with less effort and time than it takes to give oneself a bath.

BALDWIN DEMANDS WALSH BE OUSTED

Republican Alderman Offers Resolution Requesting Mayor to Dismiss Standards Head.

COURT DECISIONS CITED

Frequent Overruling of Board Quoted to Support Charge of Grave Derelictions.

INVESTIGATION IS ASKED

Minority Leader Says He Will Try to Force an Inquiry If Walker Declines to Order One.

Dismissal of William E. Walsh as chairman of the Board of Standards and Appeals was urged yesterday upon Mayor Walker by a resolution introduced in the Board of Aldermen by Joseph Clark Baldwin 3d, minority leader of the board. The resolution was read and referred without debate to the committee on rules.

Introduction of the resolution by Mr. Baldwin was the latest of a series of moves by Republicans against Mr. Walsh and the board, investigation of which was one of the main objects sought by the bill for investigation of the New York City administration by a Governor's commission, which was vetoed by Governor Roosevelt. Immediately after the Governor's veto, it was reported that Alderman Baldwin was ready to introduce a resolution for an Aldermanic investigation of the Board of Standards and Appeals but withheld it because of the possibility of a legislative investigation.

Mr. Baldwin's present resolution calls upon the Mayor to remove Mr. Walsh. In a statement explaining the purpose of the resolution, he declared that the Mayor should order an investigation of the board by the Commissioner of Accounts and added that, if no such an investigation was made, he would call for an Aldermanic investigation.

Serious Derelictions Charged.

The Baldwin resolution charges the board with favoritism, usurpation of authority, "serious derelictions," setting aside zoning regulations to permit garages, gas stations and laundries in residential districts and nullification of the provisions of the State labor law. The board's actions, the resolution adds, have been overruled and criticized frequently by the courts.

"Enough has been shown to prove that the actions of the chairman have been sufficient to disqualify him," Mr. Baldwin said. "The smoldering resentment against the board has been evident for years. The Mayor has the power to dismiss the head. Certainly this should be the first step in clearing up a situation which no one can deny is not only unhealthy but against the public welfare.

"I am hoping that the Mayor will take this action promptly. In the event that he does not, I shall certainly feel called upon to take further steps as minority leader to protect the public welfare. It is evident that an investigation into the activities of the board is needed. Only today the Court of Appeals upheld a writ of mandamus prohibiting the board from reconsidering an application for a variation which it had previously turned down.

"The Commissioner of Accounts is in a position to investigate this situation. He should have made an investigation long ago. The Mayor is in a position to request such an investigation. He should have requested it long ago. If neither the Commissioner of Accounts nor the Mayor acts on his own initiative, it is my intention to call for an Aldermanic investigation."

Neither Mayor Walker nor Mr. Walsh would comment upon the Baldwin resolution. It was explained on behalf of Mr. Walsh that he would be willing to reply to the charges at the proper place and time and would appear to answer them at any hearing that might be held by the rules committee.

Members of the Board of Aldermen took the view that the resolution probably would be buried in the rules committee, as both the committee and the board have an overwhelming majority of Democrats.

Writ to Be Appealed.

Pending a final court determination of the writ granted on Monday to Miss Ella Heyman of 129 West Seventy-fifth Street to prevent the Board of Standards and Appeals from reopening an application of the Wheelwright Corporation to use its building at 162 West Seventy-fifth Street for business purposes, the matter was laid over for one week at the board's regular weekly meeting yesterday.

The petition of the Wheelwright Company was once denied by the board. The corporation now seeks to reopen the matter on the ground that it has new evidence. In granting the restraining writ Supreme Court Justice Frankenthaler said the new evidence was identical with the original evidence with one slight exception. It is expected that Corporation Counsel Arthur J. W. Hilly will appeal the writ, and that the matter will lay over on the board's calendar until the Court of Appeals has made a final decision. Yesterday's postponement was granted by the board upon the application of attorneys for the objectors to the reopening.

Aircraft Makes First Flight Over Sarre Region Since the War.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

FRIEDRICHSHAFEN, April 22.—The Graf Zeppelin returned this evening from a day's flight over the Rhineland to Bonn and return, in the course of which she crossed the occupied territories, the Sarre region and Luxembourg, it being the first time a Zeppelin has been seen in these districts since the war.

A halt of nearly two hours was made at Bonn, where more than 150,000 Rhinelanders inspected the airship. The return flight was in a bee line to Friedrichshafen, over Coblenz and Bingen.

It was announced here the Graf Zeppelin will fly to England Saturday, landing at Cardington Airdrome, where it is planned to pick up Dr. Hugo Eckener, who is returning from New York.

THREAT OF ACTION AIDS CENSUS TASK

Hundreds Heed Warning to Furnish Information or Face Prosecution.

SUTTON PLACE RESPONDS

Enumerator Reports Discovery of Family With Four Children in Dire Need.

The announcement that persons refusing to comply with the provisions of the census act relative to giving information to enumerators would be prosecuted in the Federal courts brought unexpected results yesterday, according to the district supervisors.

The supervisors reported that by mail, over the telephone and in person, many delinquents stated they are ready to furnish the necessary information. All but eight or nine of the Sutton Place residents whose names were to be furnished to United States Attorney Tuttle today in the event they persisted in withholding census information, informed Supervisor Edward F. Corsi yesterday that they are ready to fill out the blanks.

Mr. Corsi said the names of the remaining eight or nine are being checked carefully to determine if they are out of the city. He said it is not his desire or the desire of the Federal authorities to proceed against any one except those wilfully refusing to cooperate with the enumerators in furnishing information.

Bruno P. Saloschin, supervisor of another district, said of the twenty-five in his district who refused information, all but four responded yesterday. Many explained that they had mislaid the census slips and promised to fill them out immediately on receipt of additional blanks.

Mr. Saloschin also explained that there were some sections in his district which the enumerators have not yet reached. He said persons who do not receive the slips should not anticipate prosecution, adding that slips will be furnished to them during the week. He expressed the hope that the work in his district would be completed by the end of the week.

George N. Jesse, another supervisor, reported that he received letters, telephone calls and visits in which explanations for failure to fill in the blanks were offered.

One enumerator reported that he had found a family near Ninety-ninth Street and Third Avenue in dire need. He said he found the apartment in darkness when he called, the head of the family explaining he had been out of work for sixteen months and did not have money for light or food. There are four children in the family.

ZEPPELIN SAILING DELAYED.

Date Now Put at May 18 to Set Up Fueling Stations.

A change of eight days, from May 10 to May 18, was announced yesterday in the sailing plans of the Graf Zeppelin by F. W. Von Meister, American representative of the Luftschiffbau Zeppelin Corporation and the Maybach Motor Company. Dr. Eckener announced some months ago his plans for a round trip on a triangular course from Germany to Rio de Janeiro and Pernambuco, and thence north to Lakehurst and back to Germany.

The postponement, Mr. von Meister said, was made necessary by delays in setting up refueling equipment.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

HAVANA, April 22.—Official authorization of the Cuban Government for the Graf Zeppelin to fly over Cuban territory and moor at the international airport General Machado was requested of the Department of State today by German Minister Zitelmann. The communication sets the date of departure of the dirigible from Germany as May 18, but no definite date is made for its arrival in Havana. The request was sent to the Secretary of War for approval.

INVITES ZEPPELIN MAIL.

Postoffice Department Tells Philatelists How to Reach Ship in Brazil.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 22.—During the Pan-American flight of the Graf Zeppelin opportunity will be afforded to philatelists in the United States to dispatch special covers from Rio de Janeiro to Pernambuco, Brazil, by airplane and thence by the airship to Lakehurst, Friedrichshafen and Seville, the Postoffice Department announced today.

Such covers will be provided with a special cachet at Rio de Janeiro. Brazilian stamps will be affixed to these envelopes in the same manner as those taken aboard the Zeppelin at Rio de Janeiro, but the fees amount to the equivalent of $1.50 on covers from Rio de Janeiro to Lakehurst; $2.70 to Seville, and $3.30 to Friedrichshafen.

Plainly addressed envelopes, the department said, should be sent with the fees to the special representative of the Graf Zeppelin, F. W. von Meister, 578 Madison Avenue, New York City, not later than April 26. He will forward them to Brazil in order to make the proper connection.

LINDBERGH TO OPEN 7,000-MILE AIR LINE

Leaves Tomorrow Morning on Trip to Panama to Start Fast Mail Schedule.

FOURTH HOP TO BLAZE TRAIL

Plans to Change Planes at Miami, Then Fly to Havana and Head Out Over Caribbean Sea.

Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh will take off tomorrow morning from Roosevelt Field for a trip that will carry him as far as Panama by Sunday night. The Lockheed Sirius monoplane in which he, with Mrs. Lindbergh, established a new speed record between Los Angeles and New York on Easter Sunday was being checked and inspected by mechanics at the Air Associates hangar at Roosevelt Field yesterday, whence it was moved from the temporary quarters in which it was housed Sunday night.

Special attention was paid to the 450-horsepower Wasp motor and other parts of the plane were gone over carefully.

At Miami Colonel Lindbergh will abandon his new plane for the time being and take over the controls of the Sikorsky amphibian of Pan-American Airways. With the first mail to be carried on the new seven-day schedule from the United States to Buenos Aires, he will fly to Havana and early Sunday morning will take off on a trip across the Caribbean for Panama, 1,200 miles from Havana.

Mail Leaves Here Friday.

New York mail will leave the Newark Metropolitan Airport Friday evening at 9:10 and reach Miami the next morning in time for the Havana plane. The following Friday the letters will reach Montevideo and Buenos Aires.

From Havana the amphibian will head out across the Caribbean for 600 miles and the first land the fliers will sight will be Cape Gracias a Dios on the coast of Honduras. They will skirt the coastline for fifty miles and come down at Byrd Field at Puerto Cabezas for refueling. Thence the flight will be continued for another 600 miles over the water to Cristobal, Canal Zone.

A schedule of 1,000 miles a day will have to be maintained to put the mail through on time and, according to J. T. Trippe, president and general manager of Pan American, the same schedule will be held in both directions, the northbound mail leaving Buenos Aires and Montevideo each Friday.

"Inauguration of the world's fastest scheduled air-mail service for 7,000 miles," Mr. Trippe said, "is a milestone in the progressive development and expansion of the United States air mail services to Central and South America."

Besides the mail, the plane will carry a co-pilot, who was not named by Mr. Trippe, and the regular radio operator. No other passengers will be carried, it was announced. It was indicated that Mrs. Lindbergh would not accompany her husband. The Colonel was not present when the announcement was made, although during the day he had been in communication with Mr. Trippe.

Radio to Aid Flight.

Radio communication will be maintained constantly between the plane and Pan American shore stations and the fliers will be receiving at all times the latest weather reports on conditions ahead of them.

In addition to the regular mail load, the plane will carry a quantity of air mail bearing the first cachet, together with letters of congratulation from governmental and diplomatic officials in Washington. Eventually, it is expected that passengers will be carried, but for several months, following the policy of the line, mail alone will be taken on the new service.

This flight of Colonel Lindbergh is the fourth he has made to open new services for Pan American Airways in his capacity as technical adviser to the system. He flew the first passenger plane on the Brownsville-Mexico City division, the first air mail between Miami and Panama and the first air mail and passenger plane between Miami and Paramaribo, Dutch Guiana, on the east coast of South America.

At Panama the planes of Pan American Grace Airways will pick up Colonel Lindbergh's mail load for the journey down the west coast of South America to Santiago, Chile, and thence over the mountains to Buenos Aires and Montevideo.

LINDBERGH STIRS GERMANS.

Lufthansa Director Has High Praise for Transcontinental Flight.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, April 22.—German aviation circles were astounded by the news of Colonel Lindbergh's transcontinental flight, coming as it did atop his long list of other triumphs.

"Lindbergh's most recent flight from Los Angeles to New York is a deed over which we Germans heartily rejoice," declared Director Erhard Milch of the Lufthansa. "With it he has raised our interest in rapid transit flights at great heights. It was a piece of pioneering which was undertaken without consideration of its daring and the tremendous risks involved.

"Not merely does sportsmanship live in 'the father of ocean fliers,' for Lindbergh carries forward the concept of peaceful air traffic with his record, just as he did by his flights to Mexico and Central and South America. We rejoice heartily over his great success and send him the best wishes of the Lufthansa."

FUMES ROUT BROKER.

Four Made Ill by Escaping Ammonia in Park Avenue Home.

Peter Maloney Jr., stock broker, his wife, one-year old daughter and a governess were made ill last night and were forced to leave their home by ammonia fumes in the Maloney apartment on the seventh floor of 812 Park Avenue.

They were revived by apartment house employes and did not require medical attention. It was reported to the police that the ammonia came from a break in the apartment refrigerating plant.

The Maloneys were asleep when the fumes began to seep through the rooms, but the governess was awake. She warned the family and notified the elevator boy, who turned in a fire alarm. Battalion Chief Ruddy reached the building a few minutes later and sent in a call for Fire Rescue Squad 1. The leak was quickly repaired.

City Bar Favors Central Magistrates' Court As Efficiency Aid and to End 'Abuses'

The movement to centralize the magistrates' courts of Manhattan has been officially endorsed by the Bar Association of the City of New York. In a letter addressed to Mayor Walker, Charles H. Strong, writing in behalf of that organization, said:

"At a stated meeting of this association held on April 8, 1930, at which President Charles C. Burlingham presided and at which there was a large attendance, Kenneth M. Spence, chairman of the committee on criminal courts, law and procedure, offered the following resolution which was seconded and unanimously adopted:

"'Resolved, That this association favors the early formulation and carrying out of the proposal now pending before the Board of Estimate and Apportionment of the city of New York for the centralization of the magistrates' courts in the Borough of Manhattan, in the interests of public justice and the efficient administration of the criminal law and for the elimination of abuses found to exist in those courts.'"

BOARD ESTABLISHES BROOKLYN COLLEGE

New Institution Will Have Same Status as Hunter and the City College.

BOYLAN MADE PRESIDENT

Associate Superintendent of Schools Takes Office May 15—Deal for Site Under Way.

The long-discussed independent public college for Brooklyn was established last night by the Board of Higher Education and William A. Boyland, associate superintendent of schools, was chosen to head the new institution at an adjourned meeting of the board last night at 500 Park Avenue. The new college will rank in facilities and powers with the College of the City of New York and Hunter College, thus adding a third collegiate institution to the city-supported facilities for higher education.

The new college will be organized soon under the direction of President-elect Boylan, with the title "Brooklyn College of the College of the City of New York." The present Brooklyn units of City College and Hunter College, with a total registration of about 2,800 students, will be incorporated in the new institution.

Mr. Boylan comes to the presidency of the Brooklyn College with a wide experience and background as a teacher, principal, district superintendent and associate superintendent in the school system. As associate superintendent he has been in charge of the city's tremendous school building program in the last few years. In addition to the supervisional and general administrative tasks of a member of the Board of Superintendents, Mr. Boylan has helped to select sites for 180 schools and has superintended construction of buildings for which the city has spent upward of $135,000,000.

The new institution will be controlled by the board of higher education. Negotiations for a site for a group of new buildings for the college are under way. Dr. Boylan's term will begin on May 15. Dr. Boylan was nominated for the post by Dr. Harry P. Swift, and the election was unanimous. After the board's vote, Mr. Boylan appeared before the board and accepted the position, expressing hopes of the board's cooperation and the future progress of the Brooklyn facilities.

The action of the board follows efforts of the city administration to bring about a closer coordination and control of collegiate activities by city officials. A bill was introduced at the last session of the Legislature creating a college for Brooklyn and making the Mayor other officials members of a projected "City University Board." The bill died in committee.

In his address to the board Mr. Boylan said he expected Brooklyn to get as "noble a group of buildings" as has City College and as Hunter College is building in the Bronx. He emphasized that "educational ideals must be restrained by practical considerations" and said he would strive for "intellectual mastery" in the new institution.

Moses J. Stroock, president of the board, welcomed Mr. Boylan to the post and pledged the earnest cooperation of the governing body. Mr. Boylan will resign his associate superintendency before May 15. He is a close friend of Mayor Walker, whose teacher he was in the public school.

463 TRAFFIC CASES NET $2,394 IN FINES

Three Magistrates Have Busy Day—240 Arraigned for Illegal Parking.

LICENSE FRAUD SUSPECTED

Motorist Says He Paid $25 for One —Truck Driver Gets 30 Days on Intoxication Charge.

Police Commissioner Whalen's "safety drive" brought 463 motorists to traffic court, 301 Mott Street, yesterday to answer traffic violation tickets passed out since Friday. The three magistrates assigned to traffic cases, in anticipation of a heavy calendar, passed a strenuous morning fining those who pleaded guilty and hearing the testimony of the few who did not.

The curt phrase "case dismissed" was heard but seldom during the day, most of the accused violators accepting the $5 fines imposed simultaneously on groups of a dozen or more. When the last case had been heard yesterday afternoon and the fines tabulated, the clerks found they had collected $2,394.

Illegal parking was the most popular offense, 240 of the summonses having been served for that violation; 172 were accused of passing a red light; six were charged with reckless driving and the remaining fifty-five were for a variety of minor offenses. Parking violations drew $5 penalties, while light jumping brought fines of from $5 to $10.

Acting on information brought out in the testimony of Jack Raie, 20 years old, of 420 East Eleventh Street, accused of passing a signal light and driving without a license, officials of the Probation and Motor Vehicle Bureaus are investigating the possible renewal of the "fake" driving license scheme that was believed to have been wiped out a few years ago.

When accused of driving without a license, Raie told Magistrate August Dreyer that he had lost it. Examination of the records of the Motor Vehicle Bureau revealed that no license had been issued to him. Raie said he had obtained it for $25 from a man in an alley on Ninth Avenue.

Magistrate Dreyer paroled Raie, adjourning the hearing until next Tuesday. The investigators were told to try to find the man who sold the license.

Nathan Boyaren, 530 Rockaway Parkway, Brooklyn, won the sympathy of the court when he explained how he had received a ticket on Easter morning charging him with "stopping suddenly in the middle of the street" at Norfolk and Delancey Streets.

"I was going along," said Mr. Boyaren, "when the red light flashed. The taxi ahead of me stopped, and so did I. There was a crash. I looked around and it was a police patrol wagon. I got out and said to the driver, 'Officer, look what you have done.' He told me to move on. I wanted to pick up the parts he had knocked off. He had crumpled my rear fender and mudguard and broken my tail light. So he gave me a ticket."

The case was dismissed.

George Riley, 31 years old, of 1 East 134th Street, a Negro truck driver, was sentenced to thirty days in the workhouse by Chief Magistrate McAdoo despite his plea of not guilty to a charge of driving while intoxicated. Mrs. Georgetta Schwarz and the Misses Anne and Frieda Goldman of 165 East 113th Street said Riley hit them with his touring car at Lexington Avenue and 116th Street on Friday night.

Riley was tried before Chief Magistrate McAdoo on Monday but his case was continued pending the testimony of Sergeant Mark Horrigan, acting lieutenant at the East 126th Street station, who would testify, Riley said, that the driver was not intoxicated at the time of the accident. The officer failed to testify as the prisoner predicted.

I. C. C. ORDER ENDS WHITESTONE LINE

Board Directs Long Island Rail-Road to Provide Bus and Freight Truck Service.

CROSSING PROTEST UPHELD

Aitchison, Dissenting, Insists That Issue Is Local—State and City Interests Plan High Court Appeal.

WASHINGTON, April 22 (AP).—Abandonment of the Long Island Railroad of part of its Whitestone branch between the west bank of the Flushing River and Whitestone Landing was authorized today by the Interstate Commerce Commission, on the condition that the railroad company establish bus service at all stations except that at Bridge Street.

The Long Island asked permission to abandon the line after the New York State Transit Commission had ordered it to eliminate four grade crossings in Flushing. Contending that traffic on the line had steadily decreased, the Long Island said that elimination of the grade crossings would prove too great a burden. Abandonment of the line was fought bitterly before the commission by citizens in the vicinity, by the Association of Long Island Commuters and the State and city.

The order of the commission said that coincident with the abandonment, which may not take effect for thirty days, the Long Island shall establish adequate bus service and also truck service for less than carload freight at College Point and Whitestone, both to continue in operation until the area served shall have obtained adequate service by other means.

In opposing the abandonment, the New York interests asserted that the commission would have no authority to force continuance of the bus operation over a period of years and that the section eventually might be left without transportation facilities.

Rapid Transit Cited as Rival.

That the Long Island cannot compete with the rapid transit system and bus lines was clearly demonstrated, the commission said, by the effect on the branch of the extension of the rapid transit service to Flushing.

"Nor can it be doubted from the facts of record that the transportation facilities in the area served by the branch are now in a state of transition from the service furnished by the applicant to service by those instrumentalities," the commission continued.

"In the light of these facts the expenditure of approximately $2,000,000, or about $500,000 per mile, for the elimination of grade-crossings, in addition to operating losses sustained plus the interest charges on the cost of elimination, would constitute a waste of money which could not do otherwise than impose burdens upon commerce, both interstate and intrastate.

"The establishment of adequate bus and truck service, as proposed by the applicant, would furnish transportation facilities to the area until such a time as the rapid transit system may be extended or regular bus lines may be enfranchised."

Commissioner Aitchison, sitting with Commissioners Woodlock and Meyer in the case, dissented on the ground that the termination of the question should be left to the Transit Commission.

He contended that since it had not been shown that continued operation of the line would create any burden to interstate commerce or cause a loss to the entire system, the application should not be approved. He pointed out that if the Long Island concluded after the tracks had been torn up to discontinue the motor service that the question would arise as to the remedy and recourse.

Will Appeal to Supreme Court.

The Transit Commission, in all probability, will appeal to the United States Supreme Court in an effort to reverse the Interstate Commerce Commission's order authorizing the Long Island Railroad to abandon its Whitestone branch provided adequate bus service is substituted. Although Chairman William G. Fullen would not comment on the decision yesterday, it is known that the commission and George H. Stover, its counsel, believe that the dissenting opinion of Commissioner Aitchison warrants a final test of the legal questions involved.

Comment on the decision was also withheld by A. A. Gardner, counsel for the Long Island Railroad, and Maurice Hotchner, counsel for the Association of Long Island Commuters. It is believed, however, that the commuters' group will join with the city and the Transit Commission in an appeal.

In the hearing before the Interstate Commerce Commission they supported the Transit Commission's contention that the matter was entirely within the jurisdiction of the State body and that Federal intervention on the ground that grade crossing orders made the cost of maintaining the line prohibitive, was unwarranted interference with the State function of safeguarding life and property. This was the view taken by Commissioner Aitchison.

SHOT CAUSED ROOF DEATH.

Autopsy Reveals Bullet in Neck of Man Repairing Aerial.

An autopsy performed yesterday by Dr. Manuel E. Marten, Deputy Chief Medical Examiner in charge of Brooklyn and Queens, on the body of Arthur Smith, 31 years old, of 1 Sullivan Street, Brooklyn, who died suddenly last Monday night while erecting a radio aerial for a friend on the roof of 54 King Street, showed that Smith had been killed by a small calibre bullet which entered the right side of his neck.

Vincent Seavers, 13 years old, who lives at the King Street address, was the only one with Smith while he was working on the aerial. Vincent went downstairs for a few minutes and when he returned to the roof found Smith sprawled on his face. Residents in the house who heard the boy's cries for help telephoned for an ambulance and notified the police. Dr. Gardiner of Long Island College Hospital arrived in the ambulance and said that Smith was dead. He expressed the opinion that Smith had died of heart disease.

The police advanced the theory that Smith was shot either by some person who fired at pigeons or by some one who objected to the aerial and fired to frighten him off the roof.

Detectives learned that on Monday night a group of boys had been shooting at a street light which was in direct line with the penthouse on which Smith was standing.

Will Rogers Enjoys Himself At Oklahoma Celebration

To the Editor of The New York Times:

PONCA CITY, Okla., April 22.—Well, Oklahoma had a great day here today. Mr. Hoover opened our ceremonies from Washington, in repayment for the State going Republican the last election, then Pat Hurley, our unanimously most popular Oklahoman and Secretary or War, from a sick bed in Washington made a radio talk to us that would have done credit to a Democrat.

It was a wonderful gathering, all our present and impeached Governors were there, there was a tremendous crowd. Ah, folks, you can act, and talk, and do stunts, all over the world, but the applause of a home audience is sweeter to your ears than anything in the world. Now if I only had Anne Lindbergh to fly me back.

Yours,
WILL ROGERS.

TIMES SQUARE SEES POLICE MAKE FILMS

Rescue Squads Perform for the Talkies Before Eager Audience of 5,000.

TRAFFIC HALTS TO WATCH

Union Square 'Riot' Is Recorded—Whalen Reviews New Branch of Department.

Five thousand persons made an eager audience along both sides of Broadway and the intersections of Forty-third and Forty-fourth Streets yesterday afternoon to watch members of the Police Department's emergency squadrons perform for the benefit of talkie-movie cameramen. Everybody struggled for front-row "seats" to such an extent that fifty patrolmen, members of the squadron, had to be detailed to keep the crowds in order and keep traffic moving.

Yesterday was inspection day for the recently installed branch of the department, and in the morning Commissioner Whalen had reviewed the members and their wagons at Police Headquarters. Then eight cars, all under the command of Inspector Daniel A. Karr, made a round trip of the Brooklyn Bridge, so that the cameramen, riding aboard the wagons, might make some skyline shots. The cars then continued up Broadway to Times Square, where their sirens and bells soon caused a crowd to collect. The crowd grew to such proportions that traffic was practically at a standstill. Automobile drivers and trolley car motormen were reluctant to proceed, and several were heard to murmur, "We want to watch, too."

Sewer Rescue Is Performed.

The first exhibition was that of a rescue from a sewer. Patrolman Henry Krantz of Squad 7 was the "victim." He went down the manhole in the triangle at Times Square. Some one shouted "Camera," and the clicking started. Patrolmen Frank Pipolo and Thomas Reilly of the same squadron hastily donned their masks and rushed to their comrade's rescue. They went down into the sewer, and came up again suddenly, minus the victim. It appeared that somebody got in the line of the camera, and they had to do their work again.

The next time they were successful, and Krantz was placed on a blanket. One member of the troop gave him oxygen, while others tried various methods of resuscitation.

Patrolman James Light then was placed under a truck. In less than three minutes the truck was jacked up and he was removed and bandaged. Then the camera men wanted to see the riot squad in action.

The eight trucks, sirens and bells sounding, proceeded down Seventh Avenue, dodging traffic, to Seventeenth Street. Then they turned east to Union Square, where the riot was supposed to be in progress, and the rioters were reported in possession of "The Old Cottage." Here another crowd collected, but it was not as large as that which had witnessed the Times Square display.

The run to Union Square was not a record breaker, it was observed, as the wagons required 7 minutes 45 seconds to reach Seventeenth Street and Eighth Avenue. "But," as one of the members explained, "this isn't the real thing."

Cottage Is Taken Speedily.

Real speed was witnessed, however, in the attack on the cottage, the police being in possession of it in less than ten seconds after the last wagon had come to a standstill. The men then lined up alongside the cars and were photographed.

Three minutes later the excitement was forgotten. The emergency squads had departed for their respective garages and the show was over. One youngster sitting on the curb seemed disappointed, and said to a bareheaded buddy, "Gee, is that all? I thought we were going to see something!"

SWINDLER GETS 18 MONTHS

Monroe Hein Pleaded Guilty of Defrauding a Boyhood Friend.

Monroe Hein, 30 years old, who said his address was 711 West 171st Street and is a former associate of Wilan E. Easterday, stock swindler, who served a term in Leavenworth prison in connection with the $5,000,000 Wall Street bond conspiracy of ten years ago, was sentenced to eighteen months to three years in Sing Sing yesterday by Judge Donnellan in General Sessions.

He had pleaded guilty of defrauding a boyhood friend, Harry E. Pincus, of 115 East 169th Street, the Bronx, of $8,200 in 1927. Hein was in the butter and egg business at 7 Harrison Street at the time. He induced Pincus to give the money to him under promise of obtaining large returns through investment, it was charged.

In March, 1929, Hein became identified with Norman & Co., a so-called stock brokerage house at 42 Broadway, which went into the hands of a Federal receiver in January. In October, 1928, Hein and Easterday had been enjoined by the Federal Court from selling securities.

ACCUSES ARCHDUKE IN SALE OF NECKLACE

Grand Jury Names Leopold of Austria for Inclusion in Indictment Due Today.

BELIEVED TO BE PRECEDENT

Action Taken Against Nobleman Who Is Said to Admit Part in Napoleon Gem Deal.

TWO OTHERS MENTIONED

C. L. Townsend, Ex-Agent of Owner of Jewels, Who Sold Them, Faces Charges With Wife.

Archduke Leopold of Austria was one of three persons named by the grand jury yesterday for inclusion in a grand larceny indictment ordered drawn in connection with the alleged unauthorized sale of the $400,000 diamond Napoleon necklace last February to David L. Michel, a jeweler at 2 West Forty-seventh Street. Assistant District Attorney Harold W. Hastings, who presented the evidence to the grand jurors, was requested to draw up the indictment, which, it was expected, would be handed up to Judge Donnellan in General Sessions today.

Others to be named in the bill, it was learned, are Charles L. Townsend, who at the time he sold the necklace to the jeweler for $60,000 represented himself as a former colonel in the British Secret Service in Egypt, and his wife, Gernez Baronti Townsend, a writer on Egyptian subjects, who was known to acquaintances in this country as a princess, and was reported to be the daughter of a one-time Italian diplomat in Egypt.

It was the first time in the recollection of old attachés of the Criminal Courts Building that a nobleman of such high rank had been indicted here. Detectives sent in quest of the Archduke reported that he was no longer at 151 West Fifty-sixth Street, where he had been stopping with friends, but later Ferdinand Pecora, former Chief Assistant District Attorney and of counsel for the Archduke, telephoned to Mr. Hastings he would have his client in General Sessions today for pleading to the bill.

Witnessed Sale of Necklace.

The Archduke, who is to be named in the indictment as Leopold Hapsburg, is a nephew of the Archduchess Marie Therese of Austria, former owner of the necklace. He was said to have admitted to Mr. Hastings in the preliminary investigation which led to the grand jury action that he not alone witnessed the sale of the necklace but also accepted $20,000 from Townsend as commission on the sale.

The Townsends disappeared soon after the sale of the necklace, which was the gift of Napoleon Bonaparte to his second wife, Marie Louise, in 1811, on the birth of their son, L'Aiglon. Assistant District Attorney Hastings was understood to have received word that Townsend last month sent a letter to a friend in this city from Vancouver, B. C., announcing that he and his wife were about to start for India. It was said that Assistant Chief Inspector Mulrooney, head of the Detective Bureau, had been requested to assign detectives to follow up this lead, with a view to arresting the Townsends.

The indictment is based on the testimony of seven witnesses, including the Baroness Anna Eisenmenger of Austria, a close friend of the Archduchess Marie Therese, who brought about the District Attorney's investigation. Accompanied by the Austrian Consul General in this city, she called on District Attorney Crain several weeks ago and said she had been requested by the Archduchess to ask that a grand jury investigation of the sale of the necklace be started.

Said to Have Asked $200,000.

The Baroness added that the Archduchess had informed her by cablegram that she had sent the necklace to Townsend in this country in the latter part of 1929 to dispose of here. It was said that the Archduchess set the price in this authorization at not less than $200,000. Townsend had previously taken the necklace to the Khedive of Egypt in an unsuccessful effort to sell it, he told friends here.

When the Archduchess was informed that Townsend had been negotiating to sell the necklace, the forty-seven diamonds of which had been gathered from the abandoned Golconda mines in India, for less than the amount she stipulated she revoked Townsend's power of attorney, according to the Baroness. Townsend was alleged to have been in receipt of the messages of revocation before he sold the necklace.

Other witnesses before the grand jury were Sidney Struble, lawyer for Townsend in the sale; Herman S. Bachrach, an appraiser, frequently employed by the government in judging the value of jewels; May Mott Smith, who was reported to have acted as the broker in the sale; Conrad Milliken, said to have acted as legal adviser for the Archduke, and Mr. Michel, the jeweler.

Archduke Leopold had been invited to testify before the grand jury by Assistant District Attorney Hastings, but he failed to appear. Friends of Archduchess Marie Therese at the beginning of the District Attorney's investigation obtained a Supreme Court injunction staying the jeweler from disposing of the necklace pending the outcome of the prosecutor's action.

DECRIES VOTE BILL VETOES.

Citizens Union Finds Roosevelt 'Dishearteningly Indifferent.'

Governor Roosevelt's veto of two bills proposing amendments to the election law, introduced by Senator Samuel H. Hofstadter and backed by the Citizens Union, was criticized yesterday by R. E. McGahen, secretary of the union, as indicating "a disheartening indifference" on the part of the Governor to election conditions.

One of the bills required that two copies of the register in each election district should be in the custody of the police between registration day and election day. The other bill would have conferred upon candidates for election the right to examine ballots or voting machines.

Ruth's Fly Is Almost a Homer—Combs Out Trying to Score From Second on Play.

YANK ATTACK ROUTS GROVE

Obscure Rookies Then Help Set Back Shawkeymen—Gehrig Connects for the Circuit.

By WILLIAM E. BRANDT.

Opening day at the Yankee Stadium yesterday was an eventful, swift-moving story with an unhappy ending for the Yankees and Yankee fans. Philadelphia won, 7 to 6, on Bing Miller's homer in the ninth after the Yankees had held a 6-to-5 lead from the third inning almost to the finish.

Until the unhappy ending came the story suited mightily the tastes of the 66,000 beholders, the biggest opening-day crowd in the Stadium's history. It had all the colorful ceremony of a great opening, with Mayor Walker tossing the first ball, the parade of the teams to the flagpole in deep centre field, the flag-raising, the presentation of a floral horseshoe to Bob Shawkey, who made his local début as Yankee manager in a championship game, and band music for the bright hours of anticipation that preluded the actual curtain-raising.

The circling stands with their terraced thousands saw the Yankees assume the all-conquering air of other years in the opening innings. They knocked Lefty Grove, Philadelphia's southpaw ace, from the box in the third inning, and gained a 6-to-5 lead. But in the eighth the Athletics tied the score on two singles and a sacrifice fly.

Then in the ninth Bing Miller crashed the ball into the left-field grand stand and the Yankees lost their first game at home, their fifth defeat in five games played so far this season.

Fans Get a Final Thrill.

The crowd, filling all the available sitting room except the far corners of the bleachers, had one last dramatic thrill after Miller's homer put the Mackmen in front. Leading off the ninth for the Yankees, Combs drew a pass. Koenig sacrificed him to second.

This put it squarely up to Babe Ruth, the $80,000 wage-earner, whose home runs used to blaze trails to pennants and world's championships for the Yankees. No better spot could have been picked for his first homer of 1930, and so gallantly did he respond to the challenge of the situation that by less than a yard he missed making his mark and winning the game with one mighty stroke.

His bat caught a Walberg shoot fairly. The ball soared toward the bleachers in right centre, far out. The 66,000 as one fan set up the roar that harmonized with such a drive at such a moment.

But as the ball drifted down the wind toward the bleachers Mule Haas backed up slowly, a step at a time, face upward. Haas backed until his shoulders pushed against the screen. Then up went his hands and the ball, just a yard short of clearing the playing field's limits, became just a fly that was caught.

Combs Makes Dash in Vain.

Combs, holding second until the catch, sprinted to third, then turned and sped homeward—a daring move, attempting two bases on a sacrifice fly. But it was a Ruth fly, and the relay, Haas to Bishop to Cochrane, had to be fast and perfectly managed to stop Combs from scoring the tying run.

The relay was fast and it was perfect. The game ended when Cochrane tagged Combs. The cheering for Ruth's mighty drive became applause for the fielding that turned it into a double play.

Until the A's began reaching Roy Sherid's twisters in the seventh, the Yankees bade fair to begin winning with their home opening.

Gehrig's homer into the right-field bleachers, his second of the season, was the feature number of the eight hits the Yankees made off Grove before Lefty was relieved with one out in the third.

The Yankees earned their six runs, two an inning in each of the first three innings, by hard hammering of the ball. The Athletics had Yankee mistakes to help them in their early scoring. In the first, with one out, Sherid hit Haas. Cochrane's single put Haas on third. Sherid pitched strongly to Simmons, who popped an infield fly.

Sherid had two strikes on Foxx and was on the verge of getting the side out scoreless when Cochrane dashed for second with Sherid holding the ball. Sherid, in surprise, threw wild to second. Haas scored. Foxx then singled and Miller doubled, each hit driving home a run.

Grove Leads With Double.

After the Yanks made two in the first on hits by Koenig and Lazzeri, Grove led in the second with a fly which became a fluke two-bagger because Ruth and Combs collided. Sherid then threw too late to third on Bishop's bunt, so that Haas scored Grove with a sacrifice to left.

Sherid himself, with a husky two-bagger to right centre, drove home the two runs that tied the score in the second. Two singles with an infield out between put the A's ahead, 5 to 4, in the third.

Gehrig, first up for the Yanks, tied it again with his homer. Lazzeri fanned, then a pass to Byrd and singles by Chapman and Hargrave made the score 6 to 5, and sent Grove to retirement.

But it also ended the Yankee power at the bat. Grove's relief was Glenn Liebhardt, a 19-year-old rookie right-hander from Des Moines, son of a famous Cleveland pitcher of twenty-five years ago, but with no major league laurels in his own right until yesterday.

Off this young man the Yankees totaled one hit in three innings. When a pinch hitter ousted Liebhardt in the seventh, another even more obscure rookie, Alfred Mahon, from the semi-pro ranks of Nebraska, held the Yankees hitless until relieved by Walberg after he walked Chapman to start the Yankee eighth.

Mayor Takes a Practice Toss.

The first-ball toss by the Mayor was no careless gesture. His Honor tried a practice pitch first, Eddie Bennett catching it knee-high. Then came the official throw-out. The play read, "Walker to Shawkey, unassisted," the new manager receiving the toss half-way between home plate and the Yankee bench.

Gehrig's second homer of the year was the 149th of his major league career. Ruth's list shows 516.

Bubbles Hargrave started his first league game for the Yankees. Replacing Dickey with Hargrave added one more right-hand hitter to the Yankee armament against Grove's southpaw firing.

SWEETLAND, PHILS, AGAIN STOPS ROBINS

Count Is 6-5 as Sacrifice Fly Scores Winning Run in 9th in Baker Bowl Opener.

3 HOMERS MARK CONTEST

Blows by Klein and Friberg Put Victors Ahead in First—Bissonette Also Connects.

By ROSCOE McGOWEN.
Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, April 22.—Opening day at Baker Bowl was a pronounced success for 10,000 fans, the Phillies and Pitcher Sweetland. The slender Philly southpaw, who shut out the Robins on their own season inaugural at Brooklyn, again triumphed over them today. The score was 6-5 and the Phils won by tying the count and knocking Jim Elliott out of the box in the eighth and pushing the winning run across in the ninth on a mere sacrifice fly by Barney Friberg.

Johnny Morrison, who relieved Elliott, filled the bases with none out in the final frame on singles by Fresco Thompson and Lefty O'Doul and an intentional pass to Chuck Klein. Then Eddie Moore, playing right field in place of Babe Herman, took Friberg's fly with his back against the wall, and, although he lined the ball straight to Picinich, the throw was too late to catch the fleet Thompson.

Phils Start Attack Early.

The Phils pounded Elliott in the first inning to take a three-run lead by virtue of O'Doul's double and home runs over the high right field wall by Klein and Friberg. Thereafter Elliott settled down and held them scoreless until the eighth, aided considerably by a pair of fast double plays, in which Gilbert, Wright and Flowers figured.

Meanwhile the Robins solved Sweetland's slants sufficiently to get two runs in the third on singles by Picinich, Frederick, Gilbert and Eddie Moore, and in the fifth tied the score when Gilbert, following his single and Moore's double, came home on Rube Bressler's sacrifice fly.

In the eighth it appeared that the Flatbush representatives were about to win their second ball game, for Del Bissonette, first up, slammed the ball high over the right field screen to untie the score and Glenn Wright promptly followed with a rousing double off the scoreboard. Flowers sacrificed Wright to third and Elliott himself contributed toward a possible victory with a long sacrifice fly to O'Doul to bring Wright home with the fifth run.

O'Doul Starts With a Walk.

But Elliott weakened in the eighth. O'Doul walked, Klein crashed a double against the top of the right field wall, and, although Jim fanned Friberg, the two runs came in on Don Hurst's smash against the same barrier assailed by Klein.

The intentional passing of Klein in the ninth followed a misplay charged to Glenn Wright. Thompson and O'Doul put on a double steal and Wright allowed Picinich's perfect throw to get through him.

GIANTS ARE CHECKED BY RAIN IN BOSTON

Undefeated McGrawmen, Out for Fifth Victory in a Row, Are Forced to Remain Idle.

PLAYERS IN FINE SPIRITS

Superb Work of Southpaws, Walker, Pruett and Hubbell, Inspiring Team in Its Drive.

By JOHN DREBINGER.
Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, April 22.—Eager to put as much distance between themselves and their pursuers as they possibly can before being forced down for refueling, the Giants arrived here today fully prepared to record their fifth consecutive triumph, but unfortunately ran into a fog.

Also, there was a little rain and head winds, of which this vicinity appears to have a never-ending supply, with the result that the scheduled encounter between the Giants and Braves had to be placed on the postponed calendar along with all the other games the McGrawmen have had washed out on them.

Of the eight games which the Giants have had listed so far, four have been rained out, causing John McGraw to view the future somewhat apprehensively. For, as every good baseball student knows, it is much easier to win games one at a time than to floor an enemy twice on a single afternoon when the postponed games come back as double-headers.

However, of the four games played so far the Giants have contrived to win them all, a circumstance which has served to put the McGraw forces in unusually fine spirits. In fact, the excellent work of the Giants' three lefthanders, Walker, Pruett and Hubbell, in sending the team away to a flying start seems to have inspired a wholesome respect for the Giants' pennant chances that threatens to become nation-wide.

McGraw himself, however, was not so elated when rain checked him today, for, with characteristic energetic impatience, he is more than anxious to find out what his righthanders can do besides playing a strong hand at bridge.

So far McGraw has seen a right-hander pitch only one inning for him. That was the day Hub Pruett made way for a pinch-hitter after holding the Phillies to one hit in eight innings. The righthanded Freddy Fitzsimmons pitched the ninth inning of that game.

Today either Larry Benton or Joe Genewich were to have gone to the mound for the Giants, and, weather permitting, one or the other is fairly certain to draw the assignment for tomorrow.

GIBSON BLANKS BEARS FOR TORONTO, 5 TO 0

Right-Hander Holds Newark to Eight Safeties and Drives Home Run in Third.

With Sam Gibson showing brilliant form on the mound, the Toronto Leafs blanked the Newark Bears yesterday by 5 to 0 in Newark, capturing the third game of the series. The right-hander held the losers to eight hits and did not issue a walk.

Four hits, including a home run by Gibson and a triple by Joe Rabbitt with two mates on the bases, produced four runs for Toronto in the third inning. The Leafs picked up their fifth run in the sixth. Harvin was the starting pitcher for Newark and was followed to the mound by Peery and Fallenstin.

SENATORS CONQUER RED SOX IN TWELFTH

Myer's Single Sends In Rice, Who Had Doubled, to Bring 4 to 3 Victory.

RUFFING GOES FULL ROUTE

Burke, Liska and Marberry Hurl in That Order for Winners—Losers Get Three-Run Lead.

WASHINGTON, April 22 (AP).—Playing snappy and errorless baseball, the Senators won a twelve-inning game today from the Red Sox by a score of 4-3. Boston piled up an early three-run lead by timely hitting against Burke, Washington's starting pitcher. Walter Johnson's club tied the count in the eighth and won in the twelfth when Buddy Myer singled to centre, scoring Rice, who had doubled.

Washington used three pitchers, Liska relieving Burke in the fifth and Marberry pitching the last two frames. It was a hard game for Charlie Ruffing to lose after going the route for the Red Sox.

Defeats Toronto as Hauser and Solters Hit for Circuit—Hollingsworth Hurt.

BALTIMORE, Md., April 22 (AP).—The Baltimore Orioles made it five in a row today when they defeated the Montreal Royals, 6 to 5.

Three homers were made during the game, Urbanski producing one for the visitors, while Hauser and Solters came through for the Orioles.

Beryl Richmond started for Baltimore, but retired in favor of Hollingsworth in the fifth. The latter was forced out of the game at the close of the sixth when a drive from Gulley's bat hit him on the arm. Classet and Buckalew worked for the Royals.

HACK WILSON GETS HOMER

Circuit Drive in Seventh After Two Bases on Balls Gives Losers All Their Runs.

CHICAGO, April 22 (AP).—Bill Hallahan of the St. Louis Cardinals spoiled the opening home game of the Cubs today by allowing them a scant five hits, while his mates pounded out an 8-to-3 victory. St. Louis now holds a 3-to-2 edge over the Cubs in games played this season.

For the second time this year Hallahan defeated the Cubs with ease. In the two games only seven hits have been made off him. But for Hack Wilson's homer in the seventh, after English and Cuyler had walked, it would have been another shut-out. About 40,000 fans saw the game.

Pare Meets Defeat in Mason and Dixon Tennis Tourney as Mercur Stages Rally

MERCUR BEATS PARE BY GREAT NET RALLY

Trailing by One Set and One Game to Five, He Comes From Behind to Win, 4-6, 10-8, 6-2.

ALL EIGHT FAVORITES WIN

Each Triumphs to Reach Quarter-Finals of Mason and Dixon Tennis Championship.

By ALLISON DANZIG.

Special to The New York Times.

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va., April 22.—Trailing one set down and one game to five in the second chapter, Fritz Mercur of Bethlehem, Pa., staged a remarkable rally today that carried him to victory after he had three times been within a stroke of defeat in the Mason and Dixon tennis championship at the Greenbier Golf and Tennis Club.

Emmett Pare of Chicago, the young Georgetown graduate who vanquished Wilmer Allison of Austin, Texas, last week at Pinehurst, was the player at whose expense this comeback was made, and his defeat came about under largely the same circumstances that attended his downfall at the hands of Gregory Mangin in the North Carolina tournament after winning the first two sets.

The same mistake that Pare made on that occasion of softening his game after apparently having victory within his crasp cost him today's match also. Mercur took over the attack as the sting went out of his opponent's low drives and took five games in a row and finally won the set at 10—8, then went on to capture the deciding set and match, 4—6, 10—8, 6—2.

All Favorites Come Through.

The victory of Mercur kept the ranks of eight of the top ten players in the championship intact as the play came down to the quarter-finals, in striking contrast with the inroads made upon the favorites at Pinehurst. Every one of them survived the two rounds of competition completed today under the direction of Beals Wright, the referee, and S. Howard Voshell.

It was not an ideal day for tennis, for a piercing wind was blowing, but in spite of this fact the tennis was of a high order. G. Martin Lott 2d of Chicago and John Doeg of Santa Monica, Cal., were in particularly fine form. Lott, for the first time since he came south, had his strokes tuned to concert pitch and he disposed of J. Gilbert Hall, victor over Frank Hunter last week, at 6—3, 6—2.

Marcel Rainville of Canada found Doeg a merciless opponent against whose unfailing control and sharpshooting accuracy all efforts were unavailing, and he yielded at 6—0, 6—3. Frank Hunter of New Rochelle, the top seeded player in the tournament, met with stubborn opposition from Donald Cram of Nashville, Tenn., but the Davis Cup veteran was always in control of the situation, winning at 6—4, 6—3.

Van Ryn Defeats Blauer.

John Van Ryn of East Orange dropped the opening set of his first match to Harold Blauer of New York, then went on to win, and in the next round he was an entirely different player, and Thomas J. Mangan of Washington, D. C., did not get a game.

Allison faced a dangerous opponent in Arnold W. Jones of Providence, R. I. Jones hit with all his old daring and sting, but his control was lacking after his long lay-off from tennis. Twice he was within a stroke of the second set, in which he led at 5—3 and vantage point. Allison, taking four games in a row, won at 6—4, 7—5.

Berkeley Bell of Austin, Texas, gave a particularly good account of himself in eliminating Ted Burwell of Charlotte, N. C., 6—0, 6—2. Mangin, runner-up at Pinehurst, came up against an old opponent of metropolitan play in Herbert L. Bowman of New York, Bermuda champion, and after a hard-fought first set came through at 6—4, 6—2.

The pairings for tomorrow find Hunter bracketed with Bell and Van Ryn opposed to Mangin in the upper half. In the lower section Doeg will face Allison and Lott will play Mercur.

Smith to Return British Cup; Hagen Hopes He'll Bring It Back

JOPLIN, Mo., April 22 (AP).—Horton Smith is to return the British Open cup to England, and Walter Hagen, who entrusted it to Smith's keeping, is depending upon young Horton to bring it back to America.

Hagen, who is "barnstorming" through Australia, cabled Smith here today, saying:

"Am entrusting British Open cup to you to return to England, as I will not compete. Depend on you to bring it back."

Smith, acknowledging the trust, replied:

"Glad to return cup for you. Sorry you will not be entered. I can promise to take it to England, but can not promise to bring it back."

Smith left today for Cragson, N. Y., where he is professional, and will sail Friday for England.

DUNLAP AND WILSON REACH GOLF FINAL

College Stars Win at Pinehurst and Will Meet for First Honors Today.

PHILLIPS IS ELIMINATED

Loses to Dunlap by 3 and 1, While Wilson Defeats Buckminster by 6 and 5.

PINEHURST, N. C., April 22.—George T. Dunlap Jr. of New York, Princeton links' ace, and Richard Wilson of Southern Pines, N. C., Georgetown University star, will meet in the final of the twentieth annual mid-April tournament on the No. 2 course tomorrow.

Dunlap today eliminated Howard G. Phillips of New York by 3 and 1, while Wilson conquered H. C. Buckminster of Boston by 6 and 5 in the semi-finals. Dunlap, usually a brilliant performer on the links, was not in his best form today and Phillips had him one down going to the fourteenth, the same margin he had at the turn. Wilson also was mediocre going out, using 41 strokes just as Dunlap did. Pitted against each other the two young stars are expected to play far better golf tomorrow.

Wilson took the lead at the second against Buckminster with a 5 after he had taken three putts. The latter was trapped on his second and needed 6. Wilson's birdie 4 on the sixth put him four holes in the lead with Buckminster either short or over with his second shots. Three putts cost the Bostonian the eighth but he won the ninth when Wilson's long drive found a trap guarding the green. Buckminster three-putted the tenth and was over with his second on the twelfth to lose both holes. They halved the eleventh and thirteenth with 5s.

The cards:

Out—
Wilson	5	5	4	4	5	4	4	5	5	—41
Buckminster	5	6	5	5	5	5	4	6	4	—45
In—
Wilson	4	5	4	5
Buckminster	5	5	5	5

Dunlap's 5 won the first hole when Phillips was trapped and took 6. Dunlap drove out of bounds on the second and lost with his 6. He won the third but Phillips with a birdie squared the match on the sixth. Phillips's par 4 at the ninth put him one up, Dunlap being trapped.

Phillips lost the tenth after being trapped, but went one up again on the eleventh when Dunlap took three putts. Off-line with his second, Dunlap lost the thirteenth to become one down, but he reeled off three pars and a birdie 4 on the sixteenth to take the remaining holes to give him a 2 and 1 advantage.

The cards:

Out—
Dunlap	5	6	4	3	4	5	3	6	5	—41
Phillips	6	5	5	3	4	4	4	5	4	—40
In—

WOMEN GOLFERS SAIL ON INVASION

19, Comprising Team That Will Play in England and France, Depart on Berengaria.

U.S.G.A. SENDS BEST WISHES

Mrs. Moody Leaves on Same Steamer to Defend Championships in Tennis Tournaments.

By LINCOLN A. WERDEN.

The first of the important golfing caravans crossing the seas this year to battle for a British trophy sailed last night. There were nineteen women players in the group that left on the Berengaria with a threefold program: to capture, if possible, the elusive women's British championship title, and to oppose teams of British and French women in specially arranged matches.

Not one of the nineteen, however, stated that she expected to return with the trophy that went to Miss Joyce Wethered last year after the historic match with Miss Glenna Collett, but all left with high hopes that one of their number would gain the distinction that thus far has not gone to an American-born woman golfer. Miss Collett, the national champion, sailed "hoping for the best" on her fifth quest for the title.

The formidable group of stars who will begin their activities soon after landing by opposing the British team headed by Miss Molly Gourlay at Sunningdale on May 1 and later compete against the French players at St. Germain on May 27, went with the best wishes of the officers of the United States Golf Association.

Ramsay Extends Best Wishes.

H. H. Ramsay, the vice president, in a letter to Mrs. Stewart Hanley, who is acting as manager, extended the felicitations of the officers of golf's ruling body to Miss Collett and the members of her team.

"You are embarking upon an interesting trip," the letter stated, "and it may be that the experience gained this year from this informal team match will eventually result in annual international team matches. I hope also that it is going to fall to the lot of one of your team to win the championship and thus establish another new record for American golf."

Mrs. Hanley in a statement pointed out that on the days preceding the British women's championship it is the custom for English, Irish, Scot and Welsh teams to take part in international matches, during which time the links are closed to outside players. While competing at Hunstanton two years ago, Miss Collett suggested to Mrs. Hanley that it would be an excellent idea to have American and French players take part in such a competition, and subsequently Miss Collett carried out her thoughts and invited a number of the leading players to join her this season.

Tells of Plans for Next Year.

"Next year," added Mrs. Hanley, "we hope the Curtis Cup matches will become a realization, and an American team similar to the Walker Cup team will be sent by the United States Golf Association to represent us in England. Miss Margaret Curtis of Boston, former national champion, has presented a cup to be competed for by English, French, Canadian and American teams, and plans have been made and arrangements are now in the hands of the chairman of the subcommittee of the women's committee of the United States Golf Association, Mrs. Charles J. S. Fraser."

There was in all the golfing atmosphere a renowned tennis champion, for Mrs. Helen Wills Moody, who was a shipmate of Miss Collett last Spring when they sailed for foreign tournaments, also was a passenger on the Berengaria. Mrs. Moody departed to defend her English and French titles and to play as a member of the Wightman Cup team.

In the party of golfers were Miss Virginia Van Wie, Miss Helen Hicks, Miss Edith Quier, Miss Louise Fordyce, Mrs. Leo Federman, Miss Peggy Wattles, Miss Fritzi Stifel, Miss Bernice Wall, Mrs. O. S. Hill, Miss Virginia Holzderber, Mrs. Lee Mida, Miss Marian Bennett, Miss Rosalie Knapp, Mrs. H. A. Martelle, Mrs. Burch Foraker, Mrs. I. J. Morris and Mrs. Earl Ross.

17 PONIES OBTAINED BY U. S. POLO BODY

Purchase of String for Use in International Matches This Summer Is Announced.

COOLEY TEAM MANAGER

Fitton Selected as Trainer of American Cup Defense Team at Meeting Here.

Building for the defense of the coveted International Cup against the challenging English team this Summer, the American polo team has acquired seventeen polo ponies which are to be trained and tested for the campaign and may possibly form the nucleus of the string upon which the American riders will be mounted when the battle is staged on International Field at Meadow Brook this year. Announcement of the purchase by the United States Polo Association of this string was made yesterday at the first meeting of the defense committee at the office of Thomas Hitchcock Jr., captain of the American team and one of the committee.

The meeting was called for the purpose of considering the purchase of the string of ponies and also for the purpose of selecting a manager for the team. D. Stewart Iglehart, George Mead, A. Charles Schwartz, John Hay Whitney, and Mr. Hitchcock were the only members of the committee in attendance. They named J. C. Cooley, long prominent in polo circles in this country, as the manager.

His selection was not a complete surprise for he has been a member of the handicap committee for a long time and is chairman of the tournament committee of the United States Polo Association. His name had been mentioned for some time in connection with the post he now is to fill.

Joseph B. Fitton, who has trained American defense teams in the past, again was selected to act in that capacity for the 1930 combination.

16 Mounts in California.

The committee was very much interested in the acquisition of the seventeen polo mounts. All but one of the mounts now is in California where Mr. Hitchcock recently saw most of them in action. The sixteen ponies will be kept in California for a short time and then shipped here.

One of the ponies, an Irish mare named Ellen, was acquired in England and already is on the ground here. When the ponies are shipped here it is planned to stable them at the Sands Point Club, Port Washington, L. I.

All of the mounts are from the Argentine with the exception of Ellen. Eight of them were purchased in the Argentine by C. T. Land, while seven were purchased here from the Argentine team and recently were used by that team in California. Most of the Argentine horses are seasoned campaigners. Of the seven which were purchased from the Argentine team Andes is the most seasoned. This gelding is 10 years old and has been played for six seasons by Carlos Uranga.

In the string of eight which were purchased in the Argentine one is Katrina, a gray mare, which was played two seasons by Mr. Land, and Katrilo, a gray gelding and half brother to Katrina. Zanga, another of this string, was played by John Miles in the open cup tournament at Hurlingham. Bajador, another in the lot, has been played three seasons. The others in this Argentine string are reported as fast and sturdy.

Nine of Ponies Are Mares.

In addition to Andes, the horses purchased from the Argentine polo team include Capricho, which is by Charming and has been played for two seasons, and Celia, another two-season pony. Nine of the seventeen acquired are mares.

In the string which Mr. Land purchased, besides those already mentioned, are Ramona, a gray mare; Maravilla, a chestnut mare; Famula, a brown mare, and Turco, a dark brown pony.

Cacique, a mare; Sauce Co, Milonga, a mare, and Rio Curato, are the remaining members of the string purchased from the Argentine team. Menilick, a new Argentine mare now in California, rounds out the string of seventeen.

SHARKEY TO TRAIN AT WILSON'S CAMP

Selects Orangeburg, N. Y., as Site to Prepare for Title Bout With Schmeling.

TICKET DEMAND GROWING

Genaro, Recognized by the N. B. A. as Flyweight Champion, Arrives for Wolgast Fight.

The task of arranging for training quarters for the principals in the world's heavyweight championship ring battle to be waged in the Yankee Stadium on June 12 for the Milk Fund was completed yesterday when Jack Sharkey, Boston ex-sailor, definitely selected Gus Wilson's camp at Orangeburg, N. Y., as the scene of his preparatory work. His opponent, Max Schmeling of Germany, previously had decided upon Endicott, N. Y.

Sharkey's selection of Wilson's quarters was revealed by Damon Runyon, in charge of arrangements for the bout on behalf of the Milk Fund. Runyon announced that Wilson intends to renovate his outdoor boxing site to accommodate 1,500 fans. Sharkey plans to start his training on May 12, at which time Schmeling will be installed in his quarters at Endicott. The latter is to sail from Germany on Friday.

Meanwhile brisk business is reported in the advance ticket reservations. So great is the demand from the Boston sector that the advisability of opening a ticket distribution point in the Boston Garden is under consideration.

An echo of the difficulty which has overtaken Primo Carnera on the Coast was heard here yesterday when the State Athletic Commission announced it would request a transcript of the California Commission's records of its investigation into Carnert's recent bout with Leon Chevalier. This is the contest which resulted in the announcement Monday that Carnera, his manager, Leon See, and others associated with the match were barred from boxing in California and their licenses revoked.

Frankie Genaro, veteran west side flyweight, who holds the National Boxing Association title, returned to this country yesterday from a successful tour of Europe. Genaro is matched to fight Midget Wolgast, Philadelphian who is recognized here as the champion, in a title match in Madison Square Garden on May 28.

GOVERNOR APPROVES BILL ON FAKE BOUTS

State Athletic Commission Empowered to Levy Penalties Up to $5,000 for 'Fixing.'

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, N. Y., April 22.—Penalties up to $5,000 for violation of any rule or order issued by the State Athletic Commission are provided for in a bill introduced by Senator Burchill of New York City, which received the approval of Governor Roosevelt today.

The bill is aimed at fake boxing and wrestling matches, and the fine is provided so that the commission may discipline any clubs which permit bouts which have been "fixed."

The penalty imposed by the commission will be in addition to any other penalty prescribed by law for the action involved. The bill provides that the Attorney General shall bring suit in the name of the State to recover the amount levied whenever directed to do so by the commission, the money to be paid into the State treasury.

Under a provision in the bill the commission may extend the time for payment or compromise on a penalty less than the amount imposed.

Another bill sponsored by Senator Burchill and approved by the Governor today provides for the payment of all fines and penalties imposed and collected by the State Athletic Commission into the State treasury within thirty days after they have been received by the commission.

FICUCELLO IN DRAW WITH LEO WILLIAMS

Heavyweights Clash in Dull Six-Round Feature at Broadway Arena.

WATERS STOPPED IN 2D

Cherin Wins Semi-Final When Referee Halts Bout—Roth Outpoints Rausch.

By JAMES P. DAWSON.

Six rounds of pressing the attack and doing most of the fighting brought little reward to Ralph Ficucello, rugged Italian heavyweight, last night in his six-round battle against Leo Williams, Harlem, in the main event at the Broadway Arena, Brooklyn.

At the final bell, when practically every one in the crowd of 3,000 awaited a decision in Ficucello's favor, it was announced that Referee Jack Denning and Judges Jimmy Gearns and Izzy Cohen had voted the bout a draw. The crowd, though surprised with the decision, was not unduly excited, because the bout had been an ordinary affair.

There could be no doubting, however, that Ficucello was entitled to the decision. He leaped to the attack with the opening bell, carried the pace and forced matters throughout, and in the awkward manner of the professional ring youngster did most of the fighting. Ficucello won the first, second, third and fifth rounds by pressing the attack tirelessly and forcing his foe to retreat or hold at close quarters.

Williams Wins Two Rounds.

Williams fought at his best in the fourth and sixth rounds and was entitled only to these sessions.

Ficucello weighed 184½ pounds and Williams 178.

Sammy Cherin, Harlem, knocked out Herman Waters, Brownsville welterweight, in the second round of their scheduled six-round semi-final. The finish came after 1 minute 17 seconds of the second session, when Referee Jack Denning halted hostilities after Waters had gone down twice under Cherin's sharp, powerful drives to the jaw.

After a calm first round, Cherin caught his foe with a solid left hook to the jaw soon after the second session began and Waters went down in the centre of the ring for a count of nine. A right to the jaw floored Waters again, this time for a count of six, and when he came erect Referee Denning stopped the bout. Cherin weighed 138 pounds and Waters 139½.

Roth's Work Consistent.

Marty Roth, east side welterweight, hammered out a victory over Charley Rausch of Glendale, L. I., in a fast six-round battle. The crowd condemned the decision, but the criticism was unjustified, because Roth won four of the six rounds. Rausch started well and finished with a strong recovery, but his early work and belated rally failed to overcome the consistent fighting of Roth in the second, third, fourth and fifth rounds. Roth weighed 146¾ pounds and Rausch 147½.

Eddie Berle, Jacksonville, Fla., featherweight, scored an impressive victory over Al Peters, east side, in their six-round bout. Berle received the decision after outboxing and outfighting Peters. Berle weighed 124 pounds and Peters 121¼.

The four-round bouts provided a variety of action. Marco Apicello, Brooklyn middleweight, won the decision from Mike Collins of the Bronx and in another battle over this distance, Ernie Galiano, east side featherweight, outpointed Billy Tisdale, Brooklyn.

Joe Mack, Flatbush middleweight, knocked out Charlie Krikorian, Bath Beach, in 2 minutes 59 seconds of the first round in their scheduled four-round tilt.

In the opening four, Mike Farber, East New York lightweight, knocked out Roger Blas of Seattle in 1 minute 53 seconds of the second round.

Wallace and Goodman Draw.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, April 22 (AP).—The veteran Billy Wallace, Philadelphia lightweight, fought a ten-round draw tonight with Joey Goodman of Cleveland. The decision was given by Jack Dempsey, former heavyweight champion, who refereed the bout.

Andrucci Outpoints Sacco.

Jamaica Feature Captured Easily by Black Watch, 12 to 1

BLACK WATCH, 12-1, VICTOR AT JAMAICA

Scores Surprising Triumph in the Spinalong in Another Day of Upsets.

DEPLOY MAKES FINE START

Wins Second Race by 5 Lengths in Season's Debut—Wheatley Stable Entrants One, Two in Third.

By BRYAN FIELD.

The upsets which defeated five of the six favorites on opening day continued to prevail at Jamaica yesterday, with the feature race, the Spinalong Purse, the greatest surprise of all when Black Watch, 12-to-1 outsider, galloped down in front in easy fashion.

There were six horses in the race and four of them were heavily played, but Black Watch had no trouble at all in staying in front of everything and winning by five lengths from Justinian, which beat Bud Broom, the favorite, by a length. Tetrarchal was fourth, Martis fifth and Holiday last.

W. E. Martin owns and trains Black Watch and was a very pleased observer of the race, as his St. James gelding was only a mediocre success at Miami and St. John's and apparently had no business in a field some members of which make stake pretensions. But Black Watch soon proved that he needs no apology made for him. George Cassidy sent the field away to a moving start and Black Watch went to the front immediately.

Justinian was in close quarters before the far turn was reached, and going on to the bend Holiday was badly knocked about and never again could get going. But Bud Broom and Tetrarchal were running well within themselves and either appeared able to go to the leader.

Tetrarchal in Best Position.

Tetrarchal was in the best position, but he did not stride out when the stretch was reached and was permitted to drop back. Bud Broom made a move, and a good one, which looked as if it would land the place until Justinian came along the fence and dropped into the second notch. Black Watch meanwhile was going along calmly by himself and won unextended. The time was 1:13 2/5 over a slow track.

Walter S. Vosburgh, handicapper and steward of the Jockey Club, watched Gifford A. Cochran's Deploy run and win in the second race and later said: "He outlooked his field," and every observer at the track, expert or novice, agreed, for there was nothing complicated about understanding that this three-year-old son of Under Fire and Broadcast was a good horse.

Cochran has a good many three-year-olds, not the least of which is Polygamous, which on Monday won the first race of the season, but he and Trainer Henry McDaniel decided to send only one horse after the great Belmont Stakes. That horse was Deploy. The start was his first of the season.

He has grown and filled since his juvenile year to a substantial extent and easily whipped a field of eight others, the nearest at the finish being Brown Trap, five lengths away. Romany Baw got up to be third, while Gowan, the favorite, finished fifth. Deploy was the second choice and paid 2 to 1.

Deploy Gets Away Fast.

Deploy was away well, but several others had scant chance with the start, one of them being the Belair Stud's Sir Ruley, which was making his first racing start, even though he is a 3-year-old. Sir Ruley was practically left, but closed a little ground to be seventh. Deploy ran the six furlongs in 1:14 2/5, but he was eased at the finish and could have gone much faster.

While Trainer Jim Fitzsimmons had no luck with Sir Ruley, he sent out a pair of Wheatley Stable color-bearers in the third race which were so good that they ran one, two, despite the fact that they had to come from far back. Brusher was the winner, and she is a fine-looking filly, quite the smartest in a field of nine juveniles which were good looking from the poorest up. She beat her stable companion, Harum Scarum, a length and a half, and the latter just got up to take the place away from Tea Rose by a head.

Nadia K. dashed out smartly to take the lead, but did not last long, giving way to Tea Rose. Brusher and Harum Scarum were not well up at the start, but when they found their stride there was no stopping them. Brusher got the best break of the two, and she ran down Tea Rose at the furlong pole.

Harum Scarum could not catch Tea Rose until a jump or two from the wire. The winner is by Whiskbroom II out of Petrol, and Harum Scarum is by Mad Hatter out of Yashmuk. All the starters were making their début.

MRS. FOSTER TAKES LEXINGTON FEATURE

Worthington Filly Home First by Three Lengths, Covering Futurity Course in 1:10 2-5.

LEXINGTON, Ky., April 22 (AP).—The program offered for competition here today consisted of six claiming events and a maiden 3-year-old and upward allowance affair. It was a well-balanced card, however, and the races finished in a spectacular fashion in more than one instance. The weather was threatening and the track fast.

The featured number, fifth on the program, a claiming affair for 3-year-olds and upward, over the futurity course, drew a field of eight starters and was captured by C. T. Worthington's Mrs. Foster, a 3-year-old chestnut filly. Mrs. W. Gordon's Sporting Lady was next best with G. Collins's Shasta Lad taking the small end of the purse.

Mrs. Foster, away well, was taken into the lead right after the break and was never seriously threatened, winning, with much in reserve by three lengths. Sporting Lady, nearest in pursuit of the winner, was passed by Shasta Lad in the stretch run but came strong in a final effort and was up to take the place by a neck. Shasta Lad was well up throughout to take third money by two lengths. Mrs. Foster negotiated the distance in 1:10 2-5.

Neglected in the wagering, Mrs. Foster rewarded her backers at $20.92 for a $2 mutuel.

U. S. ARMY MOUNTS STAR IN BROOKLYN

Diplomat First and Muskogee Second in Opening Jumping Event of Horse Show.

SEATON PIPPIN TRIUMPHS

Noted Veteran Victor in First Harness Class—Lawler Entries Score Heavily.

By HENRY R. ILSLEY.

The United States Army horse show team had the honor of winning the first jumping event of the thirty-eighth annual Brooklyn Horse Show, which opened last night in the Brooklyn Riding and Driving Club to continue through Saturday night. Not only did the army score first money, but for good measure took second, the first two horses placed being the veteran jumpers, the brown gelding Diplomat and the bay gelding Muskogee.

Lieutenant J. W. Wofford, who joined the Army team just before the National Horse Show last Autumn, showed great improvement in his horsemanship over his earlier work and gave two sterling performances, having the mounts on both of the first two money winners. Third money went to Thompson Ross's old chestnut gelding Rocket and the fourth ribbon to Charles Russhon's bay mare Girl Friend.

A capacity attendance, probably the largest crowd that ever attended the first night of this important horse show fixture, witnessed a brilliant series of performances in the big ring. The opening jumping class was for novices and it carried the top-heavy entry of forty-four.

Fine Performances by Novices.

It was necessary to start the class at 7:30, but faultless performances came so early that subsequent faults quickly eliminated the contenders. There were seven to jump off and then three more battled for first money over the four-foot jumps. Lieutenant Wofford had six clean scores and easily carried off the money. It was a remarkable class of novices.

A new combination carried away the blue in the class for pairs of harness ponies not over 14.2 hands. Mrs. John Gerken selecting the Linger Long Farm's brown mare Saint and brown gelding Sinner, a splendidly matched pair, finely handled by Mrs. Marvin Y. Bell. Paddy O'Connell drove P. J. Lawler's bay geldings Orlando and Killgarry Pride to the red ribbon and Miss Rose Lawler was third with her father's bay mare Clarinda and bay gelding Olinda.

Seaton Pippin, most famous of American hackney mares and giving no indication of her 9 years, opened the Spring horse show season hereabouts by scoring handsomely in the first of the harness classes for horses over 14.2 and not over 15.1 hands. Seaton Pippin showed all of her old-time dash and her victory was as popular as ever. Second money went to Mr. Lawler's brown gelding Knight Bachelor, which appeared at the top of his form.

Mickey Best Model Hunter.

There was a very nice class of twenty-three model hunters shown in hand, the winner being the big chestnut gelding Mickey, owned by the Boston sportsman, H. Hollon Crowell, who scored so heavily at the National with his great string of hunters.

Kilgarry Pride came into his own when the little bay gelding, with Paddy O'Connell handling the ribbons, carried off the honors in the class for harness ponies of 13 and not over 14.2 hands for P. J. Lawley of Bala, Pa. Mr. and Mrs. William C. Cox of Cohasset, Mass., were second with their brown mare Danethrope Carnation.

My Love, the bay mare owned by Mrs. John Tupper Cole of Fort Riley, Kan., and a great favorite, had to take the red ribbon in the class for saddle horses over 14.2 and not over 15 hands, the winner being the Bell-Ho Stable's flashy black mare Sally Lou, third going to Howard Eric's chestnut mare Peggy Perkins and fourth to Lisbeth Higgins's bay mare Lady Diana.

Scratched—Maximum, Foolhardy, Fuss Budget and My Sweets.

Zinn, under strong handling, moved up very fast around the turn, but had to be ridden hard to get up and win. Intractable displayed good speed and stood a long drive gamely. One Grand, in close quarters going to the first turn, got clear in the stretch and finished fast. Saki broke well, but was crowded out and bumped and the boy had to take up at the three -furlong pole. She finished very fast at the end. Janie G. ran a good race after a long rest. Sister Adele showed early speed.

FOUR HORSES SCORE FOR G. D. WIDENER

Three Win in Succession—Eaby Rides All 4 Mounts at Havre de Grace.

TORRENTIAL SCORES FIRST

St. Prisca Second to Triumph—Finita Then Captures Feature and Gerard Also Wins.

HAVRE DE GRACE, Md., April 22 (AP).—The stable of George D. Widener was very much in the limelight today at the Harford course when no less than three winners in succession came from this establishment. All the glory, however, did not fall entirely to the metropolitan stable, as Jockey J. Eaby took up some of the spot light when he was astride each of those that triumphed.

Those to score under the light and dark blue colors were, in consecutive order, Torrential, which scored a front running victory in the second race; St. Prisca, which came from third position to annex the third number, and Finita, who led throughout the Admiration Purse, three-quarters mile dash, to round out the triple in the feature event.

A fourth victory for the Widener stable was recorded when his speedy sprinter, Gerard, also ridden by Eaby, won the sixth event. Gerard, the odds-on choice, led home Black Patricia, Guide Right, Frumper and Chatterwood.

Finita led home a promising field of 3-year-old fillies, and her triumph came about after a spirited drive in which her margin of victory over Flossine, from the barn of P. Hyams, was only a length and one-half. In this race third fell to Panda, the heavily backed choice, while Enid led the others of the field of nine.

Bradley Steals Home and Columbia Defeats Holy Cross, 6-5

COLUMBIA CONQUERS HOLY CROSS, 6 TO 5

Bradley Steals Home With the Winning Run in Ninth Inning After Two Are Out.

WILKENS ALLOWS 7 HITS

Visitors Twice Overcome Lead of Lions as 1,000 Watch Game at Baker Field.

In a dramatic finish the Columbia baseball team defeated Holy Cross at Baker Field yesterday by a score of 6 to 5.

With two out in the ninth inning and the score tied at 5—5, John Bradley stole home to provide a fictional ending of a hard-fought game for the 1,000 Columbia fans who watched the contest.

Columbia went into the lead twice during the game, only to have its hopes seemingly shattered when the highly reputed Worcester nine came along to temporarily assume the leadership or to deadlock the count. It was a contest marked by brilliant fielding, clever base running and timely hitting on the part of both teams.

Bill Wilkens, the Lions' sophomore pitcher, held Holy Cross at bay until the sixth inning, when the visitors pushed across four runs in a deluge of two-base hits. Until the sixth the Worcester aggregation went hitless and only one man reached second.

Wilkens Allows Seven Hits.

Wilkens allowed seven hits in all, three coming in the sixth, three more in the eighth and one in the ninth.

Columbia took a one-run lead in the fourth inning. With two out Ralph Hewitt walked, stole second and scored on Tom McLaughlin's single. Hewitt's speed enabled him to barely beat Fisher's throw to the plate.

The Morningside attack, which had been weak in its two previous games, became evident in the fifth and accounted for three hits off Bobby Friederich. These hits meant two runs and placed the Lions further in front, 3—0. With two out Jimmy Morrison doubled. Blondey Ryan, visiting shortstop, threw widly to first in an attempt to retire Bradley and Morrison scored, Bradley stopping at second. Hewitt poled a nice hit over shortstop and Bradley raced home with another run.

Holy Cross gained the lead in the sixth. Friederich walked, but was tossed out at second a moment later on a fielder's choice, Andy Fisher being safe at first. Joe Dougherty was walked and Captain Jimmy Shevlin then rose to the occasion by hammering a two-base hit to centre field, Fisher and Dougherty scoring. Ryan was out, Morris to Stelljes.

Holy Cross Takes Lead.

Henry Lawrence then doubled to the right field fence and Shevlin crossed the plate, tying the score. Another double, this time by Jerry Shanahan, brought in Shevlin, and Holy Cross took the lead, 4 to 3. Marshall was tossed out by Wilkens to close the inning.

The Blue and White came right back in its half of the sixth and gained a 5-4 lead by tallying two runs, one of them the result of a double steal. Lew Bender walked. Herman Swettman flied to Fisher. Wilkens walked but was out at second, while Balquist took first on a fielder's choice, Bender going to third. Then came the double steal, with Bender crossing the plate. Morrison's long single to left scored Balquist and Columbia was again out in front.

Holy Cross tied it up in the eighth, when Dougherty was walked, advanced to third on Shevlin's single to centre and scored on Ryan's single to left.

Threaten in Ninth.

Holy Cross nearly bagged the game in the ninth, but excellent playing by the Lions checked the visitors' challenge. Gene Hebert, who had replaced Friederich on the mound for Holy Cross, hit the first ball pitched for a double. Farrell was safe at first on Wilkens's error, Hebert going to third. Fisher rolled out to Stelljes, but Dougherty was walked, filling the bases, with only one out. Shevlin flied to Hewitt, who made a great throw in to hold Hebert on third. Ryan flied to Balquist, and the Holy Cross threat ended.

Bradley singled to start Columbia off in the ninth. Hewitt was out on a foul fly to Dougherty. McLaughlin smashed a double to right field and Bradley went to third. Stelljes lined out to Shanahan.

Bender was at bat and the count was 2 and 2, when Hebert's long windup enabled Bradley to take a long lead. The Columbian came speeding down the baseline and slid across the plate with the winning run.

PRINCETON RALLIES TO BEAT VIRGINIA

Scores Four Runs in Seventh and Two in Ninth to Take the Series Opener, 9 to 4.

HOWSON SLAMS HOME RUN

Features Attack of Winning Team, Which Plays Errorless Ball—Muldaur Makes Fine Catch.

Special to The New York Times.

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va., April 22.—A four-run rally in the seventh and a two-run attack in the ninth enabled Princeton to defeat Virginia here today, 9 to 4, in the first of a two-game series.

The Tigers played errorless ball afield and garnered eleven hits off two Cavalier twirlers, four for extra bases.

Each team put over two runs in the fourth. For Princeton, Austen singled, Swift tripled and scored on Miles's drive to left field. For Virginia, Pinder singled, Steinberg doubled, and the latter counted on Weaver's sacrifice fly. The Cavaliers forged ahead in the fifth when Pinder's single sent Bryan home, but errors by Pinder and Ellis allowed Princeton to knot the count.

In the seventh the Tigers drove Ellis from the mound. Howson drove out a long homer to score Wittmer ahead of him. Then two additional tallies were made off Costello before the side was retired.

Princeton added a pair of runs in the ninth for good measure. The Tigers nipped a Virginia rally in the ninth when Austen completed a double play unassisted. The fielding feature was a running catch in deep centre by Muldaur, robbing Weaver of a home run.

Drives Burton From Mound in Third Inning—Slaughter Drives for Circuit in Second.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, April 22.—The University of Pennsylvania nine overwhelmed Swarthmore on Franklin Field today, 17 to 3, driving Burton from the box in the third inning and batting his successor, Cookenbach, hard.

Pitchers Walt Masters and Drewes combined to hold the Garnet to five hits. Masters also contributed two hits, both two-baggers, his double in the third clearing the bases. Barney Slaughter's homer in the second scored two men ahead of him.

Catcher Gus Caniglia of New York injured his hand in the fifth inning and was forced to withdraw from the game.

Oxford-Cambridge Lacrosse Team Defeats Harvard by 9-5

Special to The New York Times.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., April 22.—Before 5,000 spectators, the largest crowd ever to witness a lacrosse game at Harvard, a combined Oxford-Cambridge team defeated the Crimson, 9 to 5, today.

The triumph gives the Englishmen a 72-point lead for the Flannery Cup, and unless the team at Brown turns back the combined English team by that number of points when they meet at Providence tomorrow, the English players are certain to take the lacrosse trophy across the water with them when they return home.

Rains, playing the second attack position for the English team was the star performer today, accounting for six goals.

Gulick Stars at Goal.

Luther Gulick, the Harvard goal tender displayed a fine brand of goal tending in the Harvard net, but he was not able to withstand the attack all afternoon, although he turned back the Oxford-Cambridge men time and again when he was the only player barring the way for a score.

The English invaders literally played rings around the Harvard men during the first half of the contest, but due to their brisk schedule of thirteen games played during the last month in almost every State in the East, the foreigners were not in their best condition.

Rains put the English team in the lead early in the first half when he ran through the Harvard zone defense twice. Tommy Nido, playing the centre position on the Crimson twelve, caged a goal later in the same period. Rains retaliated with two more goals before the half ended.

Each Registers Four Times.

In the second half, the Crimson team, although not playing on a par with the Englishmen, was able to keep up with them in scoring, each team caging four goals. In this period Astle and Rains each tallied two goals, while Glenn, Keck, Sanders and Cochrane scored for the Harvard outfit.

The English team was without the services of Captain A. E. Grault and M. A. MacIntyre, former Yale lacrosse captain, who are laid up with injuries.

Atlanta Bids Jones Farewell And Gives Him New Luck Piece

ATLANTA, April 22 (AP).—Bobby Jones tucked a new good-luck piece from Atlanta friends across his waistcoat today and gave his favorite golf clubs a final polish for the British trip that will inaugurate one of the most ambitious tournament programs he has ever undertaken.

Some 200 admirers of the golf champion gathered at a farewell dinner last night. Eugene R. Block, governor of the Federal Reserve Bank, who was toastmaster, presented Bobby with a watch chain to which was attached a representation of a four-leaf clover.

Jones will leave Atlanta Thursday night and sail from New York April 30 to participate in the Walker Cup matches, the British open and the British amateur championships.

COLUMBIA OARSMEN ROW AT LOW BEAT

Lions Return to Single Drill Plan, but Get 12-Mile Workout on the Harlem.

CHANGE MADE IN JAYVEES

Farwell Goes to 2 From 6 in the Third Varsity, Exchanging Places With McDuffee.

Columbia's rowing squad returned yesterday to its one-workout-a-day program, but the practice was far from easy. It was the longest single drill the Blue and White oarsmen have had all season, the eights rowing twelve miles on the choppy waters of the Harlem River.

From indications there will be no rest for the Morningside fleet during the next two weeks, as its next objective is the Blackwell Cup regatta with Yale and Pennsylvania at Derby, Conn., one week from Saturday.

Coach Richard J. Glendon gave the main part of his attention to the husky freshman crew, which meets Kent School at Kent, Conn., on Saturday in the annual race between these rivals.

A freshman four-oared aggregation also was seated, but it practiced over a five-mile course. The four goes to Pomfret, Conn., on Saturday to oppose the Pomfret School four.

At the close of the session, Coach Glendon announced that George Farwell, who had been rowing at 6 in the third varsity crew, would replace Bill McDuffee at 2 in the junior varsity when the boats take to the water this afternoon. McDuffee will take Farwell's place in the third varsity.

Sam Abrams, 7 in the second freshman boat, will move into the bow seat of the first-year boat, taking the place of Whitey Von Plonski.

Crews Use Low Beat.

With the exception of the last two miles of the row the crews went through their paces at a low beat. This is in accordance with Glendon's system of permitting the crews to row themselves into powerful and speedy outfits. Glendon believes that it will take many days of thorough rehearsing to put the Blue and White in trim for the defense of the Blackwell Cup, which came into Columbia's possession a year ago by virtue of its victory over the Elis and the Philadelphia crew.

Columbia officials are not hesitant in stating that Yale will be the most serious obstacle to the Blue and White's ambitions of keeping their string of victories intact.

Several racing starts were practiced during the course of the workout. The rough water, the tide and heavy winds interfered somewhat with the crews, but Columbia boats have become accustomed to working out in such conditions, and in some respects it is believed that heavy seas give them opportunities to improve their oarsmanship as well as their watermanship.

Third Varsity Trails Fleet.

The last two miles of the workout saw all crews come slashing up the river at a fairly high clip. The varsity eight showed well in this sprint and led the jayvees home by nearly three lengths. The freshmen came along two lengths behind the junior varsity, and then came the third varsity, half a length behind the freshmen.

The freshman and the '150-pound crew worked out after the heavyweight boats came in. Coach Hubert Glendon was not satisfied with the way in which the 150-pounders rowed at Annapolis last Saturday and he is contemplating some heavy work for his charges.

M. I. T. STROKE SHIFTED.

Cook Changes Places With Richardson, No. 6 in Varsity.

Special to The New York Times.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., April 22.—Coach Bill Haines shifted Howard Richardson from No. 6 to the stroke seat in the M. I. T. varsity crew for today's workout.

Richardson replaced Phil Cook, the sophomore who stroked the Tech varsity in the race with Navy and Columbia last Saturday. Cook took Richardson's seat at No. 6. The change has not been listed as permanent, but Richardson will be tried tomorrow and Friday, with Haines announcing on Friday night the definite standing of both Cook and Richardson.

There is still a possibility that Bill Otis, last year's varsity stroke, who is on the junior varsity crew, may be called to stroke the shell on Saturday against Harvard.

St. John's College will seek its fifth victory in seven starts on the diamond this year when it plays the Brooklyn City College nine this afternoon at 3:15 o'clock at Dexter Park. Captain Johnny Manning, right-hinded ace, is expected to pitch for the Indians.

Sports of the Times

Reg. U. S. Pat. Off.

By JOHN KIERAN.

THEY say that John McGraw has the best memory in baseball, but Babe Ruth can go back more than a week and remember trifling incidents. The Babe and Bubbles Hargrave were holding forth in the Yankee dugout, and the home-run hitter found occasion to refer to Bubbles as "Grandpa."

"Grandpa, hey?" retorted Bubbles. "And maybe you ain't old enough to vote? Say, old-timer, you can't fool me. I know you from away back. I played ball against you in 1914 when I was with the Cubs. You were pitchin' for Providence, and we played you an exhibition game. Remember that?"

"Sure, I do," said Ruth. "We played in that town outside Providence. It was Sunday, and you couldn't play ball in Providence. I hit one that day. Remember that?"

"Yeah, you hit one. You hit a curve, and it landed on the rocks out in right field."

"Rocks, nothing!" roared Ruth. "It landed in the ocean, and it was a high hard one I hit."

"It was a curve," insisted Hargrave, "and it landed on the rocks. It bounced into the water."

"Well, now we all know how old you are," said the Babe. "You're memory's gone. That ball hit in the water. I can still hear the splash."

Inspecting the Equipment.

The debate was brought to a close by the appearance of Mark Koenig, with whom the eminent G. H. Ruth had business.

"That's the second grounder that stuck in your glove," said Ruth. "Lemme see that glove. Are you using a wide web?"

"No," said Koenig, giving up the glove for inspection. "Look at it yourself. The ball got caught right in that corner there."

"Pretty wide," muttered the Babe. "I'd have a shoemaker put a stitch in there and pull it up."

All the players are keen on inspection of equipment. If a player bobs up with anything different in the way of a glove, a bat, a pair of shoes or even a toe cleat, every other player has to look it over and test it if possible.

If Earle Combs hauls out a new bat and hits two or three solid blows in his turn at batting practice, it's safe to say that Koenig, Ruth, Gehrig and Lazzeri will handle it, one after the other, and remark:

"There's good wood in that stick."

One of them may ask to borrow it. Earle Combs isn't finicky. He might lend it. Some players wouldn't think of letting any alien hands touch a valuable bat. Some players will never lend a glove. They fear the glove will lose its shape on a strange hand. They think that there are only a certain definite number of base hits in a bat, and it would be foolish to let some other player deplete the supply. Furthermore, another player might break the bat. If a man breaks his own bat, it's an accident. If he breaks some other player's bat, it's a crime.

What's in a Name?

It's well known that, in bats, there are almost as many models as there are major league ball players. The models are named after the players who are supposed to use them and, as a general thing, do use them. The names are "autographed" in the bat at the factory.

But it happens from time to time that a hitter tries a bat belonging to some other player, has luck with it, and switches his choice without notifying the manufacturers. There are several hitters with the Phillies, for instance, who use the "Jimmy Foxx" bat. Eddie Bennett, the Yankee mascot, has had to make more than a few trips to enemy bat piles at the Yankee Stadium to recover Yankee bats that were purloined by visiting athletes. Once in a while a Yankee player may try a little purloining himself if he sees a visiting player pounding out hit after hit with a valuable bit of lumber.

Babe Ruth isn't particular, as a rule. He will borrow and lend with friend or enemy. But let Ruth hit three or four homers with a certain stick and that stick becomes important.

"Not that one!" he will yell as Lazzeri reaches for the sacred club, "Take one of those others." There are usually from four to six "Babe Ruth" bats on the rack.

Tony the Iconoclast.

Lazzeri delights in attacking these superstitions. If a player thinks it's bad luck to lend a glove, Tony always manages to mistake it for his own as he goes out to practice. If a player is cherishing a valuable bat, Tony is caught with it half way to the plate in batting practice.

The odd thing about lending gloves is that any player will lend a new glove, but only a few will lend an old glove. A new glove must be "broken in," and the more it is used the quicker it is "broken in." But an old glove has formed itself to fit the hand and the habits of a particular player. There's a great difference in the gloves and the way they are worn, as even the most casual inspection will discover.

Some gloves have plenty of padding. Others have little. Some infielders take all the padding out of the gloves. Some outfielders carry gloves that are almost as plump and firm as a catcher's mitt. Most infielders use a limp glove, and some carry them so loosely that the glove always seems on the point of dropping off.

More Than Superstition.

So there's more than superstition in the point about not lending an old glove. An outfielder with a well-cushioned glove would be foolish to lend it to an infielder with a liking for a limp bit of leather and no padding. Inside a minute the infielder would be caught rumpling the glove between his hands and trying to push the padding out of the way. Such an act would naturally lead to homicide and justifiable homicide.

Tony Lazzeri once did worse than that, however. It was during the 1929 campaign when Mark Koenig was having his troubles picking up grounders. The Stadium was crowded this day, and Tony asked Mark to let him see his glove. Mark tossed it out to Tony, who was standing in front of the dugout.

"How could anybody catch a ball with that bundle of old rags wrapped around his fingers?" demanded Tony indignantly. Thereupon and without further ado he took the glove and scaled it far up into the crowd, where the fans fought for it as a souvenir.

"Aw. I was going to throw it away, anyway," said Mark, and then added as an afterthought, "Why didn't you throw your bat after it? You haven't hit anything in a week."

4 PRINCETON CREWS ROW SIXTEEN MILES

Varsity, Jayvee, Freshmen and 150-Pounders in Double Drill on Carnegie Lake.

Special to The New York Times.

PRINCETON, N. J., April 22.—With the same boatings which Coach Chuck Logg sent out on Carnegie Lake yesterday, four Princeton crews went through two stiff workouts here today in preparation for the M. I. T. regatta at Princeton on May 3.

Emphasis on fast starts featured the morning session, while in the afternoon the eights engaged in a lengthy drill on a snap recovery, which Logg always has stressed.

Rowing sixteen miles during the entire day, the boats did all of their sprinting in the morning. Lining the varsity and jayvees up at the dam, Logg sent them down the lake in a series of short spurts. As usual, the first-string boat showed up well, and at the last brush beat the junior shell by two lengths.

The afternoon workout found all four crews going out at 24. They picked it up as they approached the dam and finished the outgoing trip at 34. On the returning four miles the stroke was kept at 28, with Logg pointing out individual faults in the oarsmen in the various shells and cautioning against a slow pick-up.

PENN EIGHT DEFEATS J. V. BY FIVE LENGTHS

Wins Two-Mile Race Over Rough Schuylkill Course—Varsity Boatings Unchanged.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, April 22.—Penn's varsity crew defeated the junior varsity by five lengths over a rough two-mile course on the Schuylkill River today. A stiff gale from the northwest kicked up white caps during the contest.

It had been planned to row on the Delaware River, but when the high wind continued Coach Rusty Callow decided to keep the crews on the Schuylkill, and rowed about six miles.

The junior varsity did not show its customary snap against the first varsity and, after the morning race, Ed Jordan replaced Schwartz at 7 and Teaf went in at 3 in place of Wilson. There were no changes in the first varsity, Johnny Martin continuing at stroke and the rest of the crew following the pace nicely.

Coach Callow was in receipt of a letter today from Ed Erickson, a former University of Washington oarsman and now a member of the faculty at Minnesota, who said he is trying to have the Gophers take up college rowing.

While Callow was coaching at Washington his crews stopped off at Minnesota on their way to Poughkeepsie some years ago and staged a practice race with the Minnesota boat club. The Gophers have an ideal course, according to Callow.

BOATINGS AT YALE REMAIN UNCHANGED

Leader Not to Fix Personnel Until After Columbia-Penn Regatta on May 3.

GARNSEY IN FIRST SHELL

Goodbody Also Transferred From Second Eight in Latest Shifts in Squad.

Special to The New York Times.

DERBY, Conn., April 22.—For the first time in several weeks Head Coach Ed Leader retained today the same order of crews for the first and second varsity Yale eights, which have been boated two consecutive days.

The coach said tonight he was uncertain that the present make-up of the crews would be maintained and would not decide till after the triangular regatta with Columbia and Penn on the Housatonic a week from Saturday.

Because of the limited time left before the annual derby day it is believed likely that changes will not be again ordered. The latest shift has taken Goodbody and Garnsey from the second varsity crew to the first, where Garnsey rowed last year.

Mosle and Palmer, who rowed at stroke and bow in last year's varsity shell had been in the second boat for several weeks, and will probably remain in that shell. Stroke Woodruff Tappen of the varsity stroked the second boat last year. Captain Gus Blagden, Garnsey and McCalmont, who have tentatively been selected for the first eight, were members of the second crew last year. Ladd and Tappen rowed as first-eight members two seasons ago. Indications are that the four Yale crews will be boated against Columbia and Pennsylvania in the regatta as follows:

Varsity.

Bow, Anthony; 2, Goodbody; 3, McCalmont; 4, Garnsey; 5, Ladd; 6, Rogers; 7, G. D. Blagden; stroke, Tappan; coxswain, W. Gillespie.

KASHDAN TIES AT CHESS.

Defeats Steiner to Deadlock Match at Manhattan Club.

I. Kashdan, champion of the Manhattan Chess Club, by defeating Lajos Steiner of Budapest in the third game of their match at the rooms of the club yesterday, succeeded in evening the score so that they are once more on even terms.

Kashdan, having the white pieces, selected the queen's pawn opening. Honors were even throughout the opening and middle game until they reached the ending with two rooks apiece and Kashdan having a knight against a bishop.

The Hungarian made one slight slip, which gave Kashdan an opportunity of sacrificing a pawn and gaining the upper hand. After thirty-four moves Steiner resigned. The score to date:

Kashdan, 1; Steiner, 1; drawn, 1. The fourth game is scheduled for tomorrow.

SYRACUSE VARSITY ROWS IN FINE FORM

All the Men, Except Captain Deming at No. 5, Were in the Champion '29 Freshman Crew.

MUCH MILEAGE IS COVERED

Coach Ten Eyck, in 27th Season, Supervises Long Workouts From a Coxswain's Seat.

This is the eighth article of a series on rowing at the nine colleges in the East which have crews.

By ROBERT F. KELLEY.

Special to The New York Times.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., April 22.—In his twenty-seventh year as the head coach of Syracuse crews, Jim Ten Eyck, the oldest rowing coach of the country, has been spending the cold evenings of early Spring on the Seneca River and Onondaga Lake sitting in the stern of a shell in the coxswain's seat. The crews here have been out on the water since early March, and during these weeks the veteran of more than a quarter century of rowing has devoted most of his time to his new freshman crew.

Not that he has been neglecting his varsity, but last year he did a job with this boat that brought it victory at Poughkeepsie and high praise from the rowing world at large. That was one of the best freshman crews of recent years on the Hudson, and the old man has let that job carry on along the regular course of things this Spring, for this year's varsity, with the exception of one man, is the freshman boat that Ten Eyck made into a championship combination in 1929.

From the start of this season's rowing it was apparent that this would be this year's varsity crew. This year's varsity was put together earlier than any other varsity crew in the history of Syracuse rowing, and there is a more settled, definite air about rowing here this Spring than has been the case in a good many years.

Blomquist Gave Up Seat.

The one man in the present varsity who was not in the freshman boat of the past year in its winning ride over the Highland-Poughkeepsie course is the captain of crew, Harold Deming, who is at No. 5. He rowed at No. 7 in the junior boat in 1929. He is in the present crew because Peter Blomquist transferrd to Michigan, leaving his seat at No. 5 vacant.

Blomquist was the one loss to the eight as the men became sophomores, a very unusual ratio of loss. It is not often that a freshman team of any sort in college continues through its second year in such unbroken form.

The attempt to hold winning freshman boats together as varsity crews has been tried quite often in the history of the sport, but it has not always met with success. The most recent case is that of the Columbia 1926 freshmen, who became the 1927 varsity, the first Poughkeepsie winner that Glendon gave to the New York institution.

But even that crew had fewer of its freshmen members as varsity oarsmen than has this present Syracuse boat. In the Syracuse varsity of today every man is sitting in the same seat he occupied in the 1929 freshman boat.

Spirit of Men Keen.

It is a pretty big boat, that knows itself better than the majority of crews. The men row beautifully together and there is the keenest sort of spirit. This spirit has permeated all of the Syracuse navy. Syracuse wants to win this year, not merely to row.

There is not visible any feeling of overconfidence. The men are working hard, and Ten Eyck, always a great believer in mileage, is giving them their full share of it. Though Syracuse has a good many handicaps not encountered by other colleges, it has the advantage of missing very few, practically no, rowing sessions.

When it is too windy to get out on the lake the crews stay on the river, and there they can row mile after mile without stopping. The oarsmen have to travel fifteen miles from college to get to the water, and the boathouse is little more than a shed for the shells. It is still very cold and wintry here, but the men are getting rowing. In all of Ten Eyck's season here there have been only two days when the crews were unable to get out.

Webster Keefe, the No. 4, has been kept out of the varsity recovering from an operation for appendicitis, but he will be back for the racing, which starts on May 11 at Annapolis.

Sixteen in Varsity Squad.

The junior varsity is not quite up to the varsity and is formed of eight of the men from the varsity squad of 1929. Those sixteen oarsmen are the entire varsity squad, but if there are no accidents there is every reason to expect that Syracuse will have a better crew than any it has had in recent years.

The freshmen this year are very big and strong looking and have been absorbing a great deal of rowing knowledge from the 77-year-old veteran, who, unlike most coaches, gets the feel of his own boats by riding the coxswain's seat. The boat is paced by a big 200-pounder named Johnson. Despite his size, Johnson has plenty of life and gives every impression of being a fast, fighting type of stroke bar. There are twenty men in this year's freshman squad, all of them good-looking athletic material.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

Movement of Stocks Confused, Advances and Declines Intermingled—Call Money 3½%.

The two markets on which interest converged yesterday were wheat and stocks. Prices for stocks moved with great irregularity, with net advances and net declines about evenly distributed in the final result. Wheat declined again. It recovered nearly half of its early loss before the closing, but the striking fact of the day's market was that the price for next month's delivery went below even the lowest price reached on the February break. In that month, which saw the nearest delivery fall below the dollar-mark (for the first time since last May and, with that exception, for the first time since September, 1923), the low price for March wheat was 98¾ cents a bushel, on Feb. 25.

On the same day, May wheat touched bottom at $1.02¾; yesterday the May delivery went to $1.02⅜. It is still above the low price for the same delivery last year, which was 93¼ cents on May 31; but it is more than 14 cents under the best price quoted earlier in the present month and nearly 36 cents under the highest of last January. It is not easy to measure separately all the influences at work on this staple product; the whole world's grain market is at the moment in a confused condition. Germany's wheat market, for instance, has recently been rising; but that is because of governmental action largely excluding imports from America. Government intervention in the wheat trade of any nation is bound to complicate the international market, and the more a producing market employs unusual expedients to force up the price, the more a consuming market adopts kindred measures to prevent the rise. We are now approaching the end of this grain-crop season and recent weekly exports of wheat have been larger than they were a month or so ago. But there is as yet no sign of the heavy outpour from our accumulated surplus which was lately predicted as an inevitable consequence of Europe's long curtailment of its orders in North America.

In the day's irregular and purposeless movement on the Stock Exchange, some of the extreme advances ranged from 9 points to as much as 29, and some of the declines from 5 to 9. No group of stocks moved uniformly or consistently; it was impossible to draw conclusions from the separate variations, except as to the success of one or the other speculative objective. The bond market was almost as devoid of uniformity as the market for stocks; most other financial markets merely drifted. Call money was easy, bankers' acceptances quotably lower and sterling firmer, but none of these movements seemed to lead anywhere. At the Bank of England, $10,000,000 more gold was received from a far-distant continent.

As in other recent weeks, the report of credits outstanding at member banks in the Federal Reserve was interesting. Loans of these institutions on Stock Exchange collateral are uninterruptedly increasing; their loans of other sorts, covering merchants' borrowings, are as regularly being reduced. These "other loans" decreased $59,000,000 in the week reported on, making $186,000,000 reduction in a month. In the same week last year they hardly changed; in the same month they increased $175,000,000. At this date in 1929 they were $188,000,000 greater than a year before; the present figures show $471,000,000 decrease for the year.

CHANGES ANNOUNCED BY CORPORATIONS

Pierce-Arrow Motor Car Enlarges Board—Phillips Petroleum Elects 3 New Vice Presidents.

The Pierce-Arrow Motor Car Company's directorate was increased from nine to twelve members at the meeting yesterday. Edward N. Burley, Paul G. Hoffman and J. F. Schollkopf Jr., were elected as the three additional members.

At the annual meeting of the Phillips Petroleum Company, three new vice presidents were elected after the retiring directors had been re-elected. The new vice presidents are F. E. Rice, in charge of the natural gasoline division; C. R. Musgrove, in charge of traffic, and H. A. Trower, in charge of retail marketing. Other officers were re-elected.

C. W. Wohlers, formerly president of the Empire State Dairies, Inc., was elected a director of Stahl-Meyer, Inc., filling the vacancy caused by the death of Newman E. Drake.

At the meeting of the New York Dock Company, Neal Dow Becker, president of the Intertype Corporation, and John N. Ruston, president of the Brooklyn Chamber of Commerce, were elected directors. Robert W. Dowling and David L. Tilly were re-elected.

C. M. Robertson has been elected treasurer and a director of the Kroger Grocery and Baking Company, succeeding B. H. Kroger Jr., who resigned. Mr. Robertson was formerly treasurer of the Baldwin Company, piano manufacturers.

Erle V. Daveler, general manager of the Butte and Superior Mining Company, has been promoted to the business office of the Nevada Consolidated and Utah Copper Company in New York. He will continue to act as general manager of Butte and Superior and has appointed H. D. Cooley as resident manager at Butte.

John G. Byler, formerly assistant treasurer, was elected treasurer, and R. W. Story was elected secretary and controller of the W. T. Grant Company. It was also announced that the directors had approved the continuation of the expansion plan which includes the opening of fifty-five new stores in 1930. Sites for forty-four stores have been leased or are in process of negotiation

The Maryland Coal Company yesterday elected J. S. Williams of Wendel, W. Va., a director to succeed George Paull of Pittsburgh, resigned. It also re-elected its president, J. W. Galloway, and the other directors.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

News, Comment and Incident, On the Stock Exchange and In the Financial Markets.

Pressure against so-called pivotal stocks was lifted around midday yesterday and the advance was resumed in some parts of the Stock Exchange list. Simultaneously the feeling in Wall Street became more cheerful and important professional interests were reported to have altered their market position. The rise was not by any means general, however, and a considerable number of stocks continued to move heavily throughout the day. The main body of stocks showed weakness in the morning and there were sizable reactions in many of the issues which were sold aggressively on Monday. The partial recovery yesterday afternoon was led by the oils, among the more active of which were Standard of New Jersey, Houston Oil, Texas Pacific Land Trust, Atlantic Refining, Pan-American B, Standard of California and Sinclair. Stocks in other departments which exhibited strength included American Water Works, A. M. Byers, Illinois Central, Eastman Kodak, Diamond Match, Radio and Worthington Pump.

Foreign Buying Resumed.

Following a lull during the last fortnight in foreign buying of securities in this market, there is evidence this week that buying from this quarter, particularly from the Continent, has been resumed on a moderately large scale. How long this will last is a matter for conjecture, but in view of the large foreign balances carried here which have shown little diminution in the last few weeks, the potentialities of the foreign factor in the market are being emphasized. The demand for foreign dollar bonds is somewhat less insistent than it was a few weeks ago, in view of the fact that the price levels of foreign issues have been much firmer than those of domestic bonds.

"Depression-Proof" Companies.

With the issuance of many quarterly reports of earnings in the last week, Wall Street has been able to form a definite opinion concerning the trend of business during the first three months of the year. While many companies have shown a sharp reduction in earnings as a result of the recession in business, bankers have been agreeably surprised at the number of important corporations which actually have reported increased earnings. The list of "depression-proof" companies is larger than was at first thought. While the officers of these companies are receiving due credit for the showing which their organizations have made under difficult conditions, bankers generally believe that the strong basic conditions in many industries are largely responsible for the gratifying reports.

Dissension in the Ranks.

Bill dealers are by no means unanimous these days in their opinions on the correct yield for bankers' acceptances. Yesterday's reduction in rates, although made official by the American Acceptance Council, was concurred in by only four of the seven dealers in the city. Actually only three dealers changed their rates yesterday, one of the larger houses having failed to follow the advance made a week ago. Much less importance attaches to diversity in the rates on the longer bills than on the short-term paper, since comparatively little long-term paper is purchased by the Reserve.

Curb Money Post.

The creation of a money post for the Curb Exchange brings to a realization plans which were conceived some time ago. Last year, when money rates were high and security loans often difficult to obtain, there was much talk of establishing such an institution. Authorities of the Curb Exchange, acting in cooperation with leading banks, were known to have conducted an extensive investigation into the possibilities of a money post in that Exchange. It was extremely difficult, however, to obtain agreement on the subject, and several bankers were unwilling to go ahead with the plan until complete inquiry had disclosed its practicality. Under existing conditions the new system, it is believed, should have a favorable inauguration. There is less distrust of the price level of stocks and much more money is lying in the banks waiting to be lent.

Bank for International Settlements.

The meeting in Basle yesterday of the directors of the Bank for International Settlements and the election of Gates W. McGarrah as president and Pierre Quesnay as manager, is next to the final step in the establishment of that institution. There remains now only the subscription of the bank's capital before it can begin business. This latter is, of course, already guaranteed. Just when it will be called for remains, however, undecided. The plan under which the bank has been established still lacks the signatures of two powers, and before the actual subscription of capital can be called for, one of these two must sign. The delay is regarded as purely formal, since both the laggards, England and France, are known to be supporting the plan.

Diversification in Trusts.

A tendency on the part of some of those investment trusts which were formed with the intention of limiting their investments to stocks of companies within a certain industry, to extend their portfolios into general fields, has been noted. While this practice has not become common enough to be a trend, it indicates a new ramification in the investment trust field. Trusts that are doing this, however, point out that it is not because of any lack of confidence in the particular industries in which they specialize, but merely to give additional use to funds which are at present not employed in those fields.

Holding a Position.

By having the Missouri Pacific pay arrears on preferred stock with a new preferred stock, the Van Sweringen interests would be protecting the percentage of their control in the road, it was pointed out in financial circles yesterday. Should the management's plan of issuing common stock to defray the arrears go through, the Alleghany Corporation would have to subscribe to its proportion of the issue at a price above the market, in order to maintain exactly its ratio of common holdings. Some Wall Street observers see no reason why the Van Sweringens should do this if the problem can be solved by means of a new preferred issue.

United Corporation.

The importance of the United Corporation's new holdings of Consolidated Gas stock, as Wall Street views the situation, lies in the prospect of a merger between the latter company and Niagara Hudson Power, in which United also is heavily interested. If the history of past mergers is repeated United undoubtedly will emerge as one of the principal holders of stock in the unified New York State company, although as heretofore its policy of holding only minority interests is expected to be maintained.

MONEY.

Tuesday, April 22, 1930.

A drop of ⅛, in four to six months' acceptances, stood out as the most important development in the money market. The cut was made by four of the larger bill dealers, while a few others retained schedules put in effect a week ago. However, the market was only fair and business not great on either side. Stock Exchange call loans again started at 4, followed by a drop to 3½, with street funds at 3. There was not much demand for the abundant supply on offer. Time money was dull and unchanged from 4 to 4½ per cent.

AIR MAIL
. . . linking North America with South America

THE first air mail arrived in New York City in February, 1930, direct from Buenos Aires, inaugurating a weekly service spanning sixteen countries and colonies of the Western Hemisphere. Passengers can now go from the United States to Buenos Aires by air in nine days less than by the fastest steamship.

The millions of dollars invested in these air services are a tribute to the increasing commercial activity and importance of Argentina, Brazil, Chile and other South American Republics. Faster communication will expedite the transaction of business between North America and South America and accelerate the rising volume of commerce between the two continents.

Electric power is one of the most important factors responsible for the increasing industrial importance of the leading South American countries and is destined to play an even greater part in the further development of these great Southern Republics.

Plants of Intercontinents Power Company, located at points of great commercial activity, serve 102 cities and towns in Argentina, Brazil and Chile. An investment in the securities of Intercontinents Power Company is an investment in the steadily mounting prosperity of the principal South American Republics.

CALL MONEY DESK ON THE CURB TODAY

Accommodation Similar to That on Stock Exchange to Open at Noon.

BIG AID TO DEALINGS SEEN

Muller Urges Members to Cooperate With Banks—Arrangement Follows Year's Negotiations.

Through the cooperation of powerful banking interests, a separate call money market will be established today on the New York Curb Exchange to provide accommodations for members of that institution.

The new money desk, which will function similarly to that of the New York Stock Exchange, will be placed in operation at noon. Each morning thereafter, at about 11 o'clock, the suggested rate for renewals will be announced, as is done at the "big board" every morning except Saturday. The money desk, serving as a clearing house for call loans, will keep the membership of the Curb informed as to the amount of funds available at current interest rates.

William S. Muller, president of the Curb, announced the establishment of the new money market in a letter to members yesterday. He termed it one of the most important steps yet taken in the development of the Curb securities market, emphasizing particularly the confidence that leading bankers have shown in the quality and marketability of Curb securities through their action in making call money available on the floor of that Exchange. These bankers, it was pointed out, have thus recognized the financial stability and the business integrity of the Curb membership.

Muller Urges Cooperation.

"After many conferences, assisted by the vice president of the Exchange, Mr. Sykes, I have succeeded in obtaining the cooperation of a substantial number of New York banks and trust companies which have signified their willingness to place call money upon the floor of this Exchange at a differential above the current interest rates," said Mr. Muller's announcement. "This, as you will realize, marks an epoch in the development of the Exchange and is the last innovation to be inaugurated to complete the business process.

"My purpose in addressing you is to impress upon you the absolute necessity of cooperation. There is a large number of excellent securities listed on this Exchange; indeed, there are almost 1,400 in the dividend-paying class. They are not all, however, acceptable as collateral in loans because of the fact that a security must not only have intrinsic value but must also have liquidating value evidenced by a broad and substantial market.

"To you Curb members who are not members of the New York Stock Exchange and whose requirements are, at present, being taken care of by your own depositary banks, I would counsel a continuance of this policy. However, should you or any other Curb members who are members of the Clearing House and not members of the New York Stock Exchange desire to avail yourselves of this call money market, you will find it necessary to establish your credit standing among the various banks and trust companies and, to this end, will very likely be required to answer a proper questionnaire in view of the fact that, at the present time, the financial stability of the Curb Exchange membership is not generally and fully known. I believe this prerogative of the banks is well taken and justified in the circumstances.

"May I, therefore, repeat to you emphatically that the success of this plan depends upon the full cooperation of the entire membership with reference to the matter of acceptable collateral demanded by the various banks, and my earnest plea to you is that you continue to maintain our high standards of business principles and thus keep faith with those institutions which have placed their stamp of confidence and approval on this Exchange."

Conferences Under Way for Year.

Conferences looking to the establishment of the new call money market have been under way for about a year. The names of the institutions which have agreed to place call funds on the Curb were not disclosed, but the Curb authorities expect that the list will be gradually enlarged. Members of the Curb expressed the opinion yesterday that the opening of a money desk is of greater significance, as reflecting the evolution of the market, than was the action taken by banks and trust companies two years ago when they agreed to accept the guarantees of members of the Curb Clearing House on stock certificates. Theretofore only Stock Exchange firms and banks and trust companies were authorized to certify the genuineness of such certificates.

The establishment of a call money market on the floor of the Curb will greatly facilitate the financing of transactions in the securities of that Exchange, it is said. Heretofore loans on such securities as have been acceptable as collateral have been made through private arrangements between bankers and brokers. It is expected that the list of Curb securities acceptable as collateral will be substantially increased with the opening of the new money desk.

Board Also Recommends an Increase in Common Shares From 1,500,000 to 4,000,000.

CHANGE IN DIRECTORATE

Representatives of Guaranty and Bankers Trust Replaced by Those of Syndicate for Loan.

Retirement of the representatives of the Guaranty Trust Company and the Bankers Trust Company from the directorate of the B. F. Goodrich Company was announced yesterday. The directors elected to succeed them are representatives of a syndicate that will made an offer of a portion of a $30,000,000 issue of convertible debentures of the company, which are not taken in an offering which will be made to stockholders about May 2.

At the meeting of the directors yesterday the resignations of Albert R. Tilney, vice chairman of the Bankers Trust Company; Joseph R. Swan, president of the Guaranty Company, and W. A. Means, formerly treasurer of the B. F. Goodrich Company, were accepted and four new directors were selected, who are regarded as representatives of the syndicate which will offer the debentures, if the issue is approved at a special meeting of the stockholders called for May 12. Otis & Co., Goldman Sachs & Co. and the Chase Securities Corporation have made arrangements for the underwriting and will head the syndicate, which is planning a public offering.

Four New Directors.

The four new directors elected yesterday are Charles S. McCain, president of the Chase National Bank; Frank H. Hobson, vice president of the Cleveland Trust Company and a director of Continental Shares, Inc.; Arthur H. Marks, director of the Curtiss Aeroplane and Motor Company, Inc., and president of the Skinner Organ Company, and Albert A. Sprague, chairman of the board of Sprague, Warner & Co., director of the Chicago, Northwestern Railway and a director of the Continental-Illinois Trust Company.

The directors approved the issue of $30,000,000 of fifteen-year 6 per cent convertible debentures, subject to the approval of the stockholders, and recommended an increase in the number of the authorized no-par value common shares of the company from the present 1,500,000 to 4,000,000 shares. Part of the increased common shares would be necessary to care for the conversion feature of the debentures. The proceeds from the debentures will be used in liquidating current borrowings, a substantial amount of which was incurred in connection with the acquisition of the assets and business of the Hood Rubber Company and the Miller Rubber Company.

The announcement stated that the directors had no present plans for using any of the proposed increase in the capital stock except that part required for the conversion of the debentures, but it was the belief of the board that it was for the best interest of the company to have additional shares available for issuance by the board for such consideration as it might fix from time to time, so that advantage could be taken of such favorable opportunities as might arise.

The debentures as planned will be convertible at their principal amount into shares of common stock on the basis of $65 a share during the first two years from the date of the debentures; $70 a share during the next three years; $75 a share during the next five years; and then at $80 until maturity for the debentures. It is expected that the public offering of the debentures will be made in the early part of June. In the event of the approval by stockholders at the special meeting, the offering to the stockholders will be made immediately. The offering to stockholders is expected to be limited to the minimum period of twenty days allowed by the New York Stock Exchange with the public offering to be made immediately afterward.

Reports $400,000 Loss.

J. D. Tew, president of the company, announced yesterday after the directors' meeting, that the operations of the company for the first three months of this year, a season of normally low tire demand accentuated by abnormal business conditions existing during the past few months, resulted in a loss of approximately $400,000 after depreciation but before interest. The company charged to current operations all write-downs of raw material as of March 31. Mr. Tew also said that the company's business other than tires was in excess of that in the same period for 1929, and since April 1 there had been an improvement in the tire demand with every indication for its continuance.

The election of Mr. McCain, who represents Otis & Co. through his connection with Continental Shares, Inc., to the directorate of the Goodrich Company yesterday, revived rumors of mergers of Goodrich with the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company, control of which, it was recently disclosed, is held by Otis & Co. interests. It was said, however, in well informed quarters that the possible merger was not a consideration in the election of Mr. McCain.

British Ambassador to Speak.

Sir Ronald Lindsay, British Ambassador, will be the guest of honor at the last regular monthly luncheon of the season of the British Empire Chamber of Commerce in the United States of America, which will be held today at 12:45 P. M. at the Bankers Club. The Ambassador will make a short address. Justin H. Moore, counselor on economic conditions of the Irving Trust Company, will deliver a talk on "The Business Outlook."

THE CHASE NATIONAL BANK OF THE CITY OF NEW YORK, Trustee

The following information has been summarized by Mr. H. L. Clarke, President of General Theatres Equipment, Inc., from his letter dated April 21, 1930, copies of which may be obtained upon request, and is subject to the more complete information contained therein:

Organization and Business: General Theatres Equipment, Inc. was incorporated in 1929 under the laws of Delaware to acquire a number of the leading companies engaged in the manufacture and distribution of motion picture and theatrical equipment and supplies. The Company has now acquired the control of Fox Film Corporation and Fox Theatres Corporation, which together comprise a completely integrated unit and one of the largest and most successful motion picture groups in the United States.

Financing arrangements have been completed for Fox Film Corporation and Fox Theatres Corporation which have resulted in providing approximately $100,000,000 for current obligations and working capital, leaving both companies in strong financial condition. In this connection Fox Film Corporation has sold $55,000,000 Secured 6% Gold Notes (due April 15, 1931) and Fox Theatres Corporation has sold 1,600,000 shares of Class A Common Stock of Fox Film Corporation which it acquired as part consideration for the sale to Fox Film Corporation of 660,900 shares of the common stock of Loew's, Inc.

Fox Film Corporation has taken a leading position in the production of talking pictures, employing the Movietone system of recording sound. Through a wholly owned subsidiary it owns, controls, operates or leases approximately 450 theatres on the Pacific Coast and in the mid-West. Fox Film Corporation has a substantial stock interest in a British company which owns 65% of the ordinary stock of Gaumont British Pictures Corporation, operating over 300 theatres throughout the British Isles.

Fox Theatres Corporation owns, controls, operates or leases about 180 theatres in a circuit extending from coast to coast, including The Roxy in New York City and the well known Fox Theatres in Brooklyn, Detroit, St. Louis, Philadelphia and Washington, D. C.

General Theatres Equipment, Inc. owns 50% of the capital stock of Grandeur, Inc., and practically all of the outstanding stocks of International Projector Corporation and National Theatre Supply Company. International Projector Corporation manufactures over 75% of the motion picture projectors used in theatres throughout the world and controls important patents on sound projection equipment. National Theatre Supply maintains a nation wide distributing organization for all types of equipment used in theatres.

Capitalization: The capitalization of the Company upon completion of its present financing program, including the retirement of its Fifteen-Year 6% Convertible Gold Debentures, will consist of $30,000,000 Ten-Year 6% Convertible Gold Debentures, due 1940 (this issue), authorized and outstanding, and 2,847,955 shares of no par value Common Stock of an authorized issue of 5,000,000 shares. There will also be outstanding warrants for subscription to 300,000 shares of Common Stock, exercisable at $45 per share not later than May 1, 1933.

In case the Debentures are called for redemption prior to maturity, such conversion privilege may be exercised up to and including the tenth day prior to the redemption date. The Indenture will contain provisions designed to protect the conversion privilege in certain contingencies.

Sinking Fund: The Company will agree in the Indenture that, commencing in 1931 and continuing to and including 1939, it will provide an annual sinking fund equivalent to ten per cent. of its consolidated net earnings (as defined in the Indenture) for the preceding calendar year, the amount of such sinking fund not to exceed $1,500,000 in any year. Sinking fund payments will be made semi-annually, the first installment to be paid April 1, 1931.

Purpose of Issue: The proceeds of this issue of $30,000,000 Ten-Year 6% Convertible Gold Debentures will provide in part the funds required by the Company to cover its obligations in connection with the purchase of 50,101 shares of Class B Common Stock (a majority of such stock), and not less than 1,000,000 shares of Class A Common Stock, of Fox Film Corporation, and all of the outstanding shares of Class B Common Stock of Fox Theatres Corporation.

DURANT DENOUNCES FEDERAL RESERVE

Criticizes President for His Support of It and Predicts Era of Hard Times.

SAYS HE HAS REMEDIES

Advises Limiting Powers of Board and Stopping Publication of Brokers' Loans.

William C. Durant, who repeatedly attacked the Federal Reserve Board for increasing the rediscount rate and attempting to reduce brokers' loans last year, assailed the board again yesterday for "adopting a policy of inflation creating easy money, encouraging liberal credit, and by worse than useless conversation hoping to restore confidence which they so ruthlessly and needlessly destroyed." His attack was contained in a statement which he issued before he sailed last night on the Berengaria.

While the Reserve Board receives the brunt of Mr. Durant's attack, President Hoover is also roundly criticized by the market operator for supporting the board in its attempt to curtail speculation last year.

Mr. Durant, long known as one of Wall Street's stanchest bulls, forecasts hard times for next Winter. The recession in business, he asserts, may be ascribed directly to the Reserve Board's anti-speculation program of last year.

"With keen regret," his statement reads, "I make the prediction that we will next Winter see business conditions unimproved, longer bread lines, more soup kitchens, continued uneasiness and distress and a more pronounced tendency to socialism and communism. This, regardless of assurance that everything is all right.

Business to Improve Later.

"I am not a pessimist, nor do I wish to be classed as a pessimist. Business will improve in time, because we are naturally a progressive and optimistic people. Stocks will advance because sensible people know that our good stocks are worth more money. Brokers' loans will increase, because this is an age of big things, and it will only be a few years until the credit promised us under the Federal Reserve Bank act will be available for business of all kinds and our giant undertakings.

"I am a bull on this country, but we can expect no relief until we have a leadership that has the confidence of the people and until Congress enacts a law that will control the Federal Reserve Board.

"In my numerous criticisms of the Federal Reserve Board I have usually advanced a remedy. My suggestion at this time for a betterment of conditions is as follows: Let the people of this country demand of Congress the limitation of the Federal Reserve Board and discontinue the publication of brokers' loans."

Criticism of President.

In his attack on President Hoover Mr. Durant says:

"I used every effort known to me to have the Federal Reserve Board change its policy in order that a terrible catastrophe might be avoided. To the amazement or dismay of President Hoover's stanchest supporters, when our people were suffering as never before in recent years, there came from the White House these fateful words, uttered a few weeks after the board-made panic: 'The magnificent workings of the Federal Reserve System and the inherently sound condition of banks have already brought about a decrease in interest rates and an assurance of abundant capital.'"

After the recent stock market slump Mr. Durant revealed that he had gone secretly to Washington in April, last year, and in a night meeting at the White House had appealed directly to the President to block the Reserve Board's policy of reducing brokers' loans. Last Fall many stories were circulated of how Mr. Durant had fared in the slump, and unconfirmed reports were printed that he had lost heavily. During the stock market's rise since the beginning of the year his name has been connected with few operations in the market, although in previous rises he had been a prominent figure.

MONEY IN CIRCULATION DECREASED IN MARCH

Per Capita Figure Was $37.64, Compared to $39.75 in 1929, Despite Increase in Total.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 22.—The treasury is getting richer and the people poorer, judging from the government's circulation statement issued today.

During the year ending March 31 the volume of money in the country increased $110,000,000, that held by the treasury gained $229,000,000 and the amount held by the public dropped $179,000,000.

Total money stocks March 31 were $8,361,374,000, of which $3,950,958,000 was held by the treasury, $1,654,529,000 by the Reserve banks and $4,549,188,000 by the public.

Per capita circulation March 31 was $37.64, compared to $37.92 a month earlier; $39.75, March 31, 1929; $53.01 Oct. 31, 1920, and $34.92, June 30, 1914.

The decrease in the circulation may be explained by the reduction in industrial payrolls and the smaller requirement of commerce and industry for money because of the business recession.

The treasury estimated the population at 120,856,000 on March 31, a gain of 1,424,000 during the year. The population was expected to be about that shown by the 1930 census, according to Census Bureau estimates.

Total stocks of money included $4,422,795,000 in gold. The large volume of money in the country was attributable to the net import of gold, which during February and March amounted to about $130,000,000.

Of money in circulation, the bulk was in Federal Reserve notes amounting to $1,571,518,000. Gold certificates amounted to $873,366,000, silver certificates to $385,583,000, gold to $362,272,000, subsidiary silver to $280,364,000 and United States notes to $268,525,000. Circulation of national bank notes was given as $647,300,900.

Operations of Steel Mills Show a Slight Improvement

Operations of steel mills were slightly better in the last week, it was announced yesterday. The United States Steel Corporation mills operated at about 81 per cent of capacity compared with 79 per cent the previous week and around 83 per cent two weeks ago. Independent steel companies operated at an average of about 72 per cent, against 71 per cent the previous week and 69 per cent two weeks ago. The whole industry averaged almost 76½ per cent for the week, contrasted with 75 per cent a week ago and about 76 per cent two weeks ago.

At this time last year the Steel Corporation's mills were operating at full capacity and the independent mills were averaging about 96 per cent. During the last week in April of 1928 the Steel Corporation was operating at 89 per cent and independents at 81.

DECLINE IN EARNINGS OF GENERAL MOTORS

Net for First Quarter Is $44,968,587, Against $61,910,987 a Year Before.

64,000 FEWER DELIVERIES

Exports of Automobiles Curtailed Owing to Conditions Overseas, Sloan Reports.

The preliminary report of the General Motors Corporation for the quarter ended on March 31, including equities in undivided profits of subsidiaries and affiliated companies not consolidated with General Motors, shows net earnings of $44,968,587. After deducting dividends of $2,422,624 on preferred and debenture stocks there remained $42,545,963 for the 43,500,000 outstanding common shares. This is equivalent to 98 cents a share on the common stock. In the first quarter of 1929 net earnings were $61,910,987, equivalent after preferred and debenture charges to $1.37 a share on the common stock.

In his report Alfred P. Sloan Jr., president, said:

"For the three months ended March 31, General Motors dealers in the United States delivered to consumers 286,690 cars, compared with 351,079 cars in the corresponding period of 1929. Sales by General Motors manufacturing divisions to dealers in the United States amounted to 323,443 cars, compared with 413,173 cars in the corresponding three months of 1929.

"Total sales to dealers, including Canadian sales and overseas shipments, amounted to 368,635 cars, compared with 523,119 cars in the first quarter of 1929. Overseas shipments during the first three months of 1930 were considerably below shipments during the same period of 1929, due to a desire to adjust stocks in overseas countries in line with changed economic conditions.

"Cash and United States Government securities, at March 31, 1930, amounted to $125,814,939. Net working capital at March 31, 1930, amounted to $267,791,541, compared with $251,287,782 at Dec. 31, 1929.

"The following table shows sales to consumers of General Motors cars in continental United States, sales by the manufacturing divisions of General Motors to their dealers in continental United States, and total sales to dealers, including Canadian sales and overseas shipments:

EATON PUT ON BOARD OF YOUNGSTOWN CO.

Three Others of Group Also Are Elected Directors of Sheet and Tube.

MERGER NOT DISCUSSED

Purnell Remains President—Eaton Made Member of Enlarged Executive Committee.

Special to The New York Times.

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio, April 22.—Additional representation on the board of directors of the Youngstown Sheet and Tube Company was given to the Cyrus S. Eaton group today at the thirtieth annual stockholders' meeting. The number of directors was increased to twelve from eleven, of whom four represent the so-called Eaton-Otis-Wick interests. C. H. Booth of Youngstown and Harris Creech of Cleveland retired from the board. The Eaton representatives are Mr. Eaton, George C. Brainard, Hugh B. Wick and S. Livingston Mather. Mr. Brainard is president of the General Fireproofing Company. Mr. Wick is a member of the proxy committee opposed to the sale of the Youngstown company to the Bethlehem Steel Corporation. Of the 1,200,000 common shares, tellers reported that 949,730 shares were represented.

No reference was made to the proposed sale to Bethlehem, but in his opening remarks James A. Campbell, who presided as chairman, paid tribute to Elmer T. McCleary, president of the Republic Steel Corporation, who died this morning.

Directors were elected as follows: T. J. Bray, George C. Brainard, James A. Campbell, John W. Ford, Richard Garlick, Frank Purnell and John Tod of Youngstown, H. G. Dalton, C. S. Eaton, John L. Severance, Hugh B. Wick and S. Livingston Mather of Cleveland.

The officers of the company were re-elected by the directors this afternoon. Frank Purnell, named president last Fall, was re-elected. The executive committee was enlarged and the following were named as members: Mr. Campbell, Mr. Bray, Mr. Garlick, Mr. Dalton, Samuel Mather and Mr. Eaton.

This official recognition of Mr. Eaton is interpreted in some quarters as indicating that a compromise may be reached in the contest to merge with Bethlehem, which has been vigorously opposed by Mr. Eaton.

Mr. Eaton and T. M. Girdler, chairman of the Republic Steel Corporation, were in Youngstown, but did not attend the shareholders' meeting. However, Harold T. Clark of Cleveland, one of the attorneys for the Eaton group, was present, as was Newton D. Baker, co-counsel for the Sheet and Tube company.

Myron C. Wick Jr., secretary of the committee opposed to sale of Sheet and Tube to Bethlehem, today issued a statement to shareholders advising them that, under the law, a shareholder who has not voted for the merger has the right to demand cash for his holdings, but must file claim within twenty days after the vote is taken.

"If the corporation and the shareholder cannot agree, the courts, upon application through the appointment of appraisers, shall determine such cash value," the letter reads. "In the opinion of certain large shareholders, this value is $250 a share."

EXPORTS TO MEXICO GROW.

Commercial Agent Gives Figures for 1929—Hopeful for 1930.

Imports into Mexico from the United States in 1929 totaled $133,981,973, according to compilations made public by José Miguel Bejarano, commercial agent of the Mexican Government. This compares with $115,638,436 in 1928 and $109,148,365 in 1927.

Imports from Mexico into the United States in 1929 were $7,000,000 less than in 1928. Petroleum imports declined more than $8,000,000, but there was an increase of $8,577,796 in refined copper.

Mr. Bejarano says 1929 was a bad year for Mexico because of the Escobar revolt, and also because of the excitement attendant upon the Presidential election, but that 1930 is looming as a banner year. He adds that he does not think it far-fetched to predict that trade between the United States and Mexico will reach $300,000,000 this year.

WESTERN UNION MOVES TO DISSOLVE A UNIT

Purchase of American Telegraph and Cable Company Results in Plea to Supreme Court.

Details of the purchase by the Western Union Telegraph Company of the property of its subsidiary, the American Telegraph and Cable Company, were filed in the Supreme Court yesterday, when Supreme Court Justice Gavegan signed an order directing all persons interested to show cause on June 10 why the cable company should not be dissolved.

The court acted on a petition by Newcomb Carlton, John C. Willever, E. Y. Gallagher and George M. Yorke, a majority of the directors of the cable company, stating that it owned land and cable wires from New York City to Cape Breton, and thence to England, Ireland and Spain, and that it had $14,000,000 of stock outstanding. The company in 1882 leased its property to the Western Union for fifty years.

The directors said that on April 11 the Western Union bought all the property for $2,030,000 in cash, the lease was canceled and the Western Union assumed the liability for Federal taxes of $81,411 now claimed to be due, and for 1930 taxes, and also released an indebtedness of the cable company of $734,647 for advances.

"Now that it has parted with all its property to the Western Union Telegraph Company by the contract of April 11, there is no further reason for continuing its corporate existence, and for that reason your petitioners deem it beneficial to the interest of the stockholders that the corporation should be dissolved," said the directors.

Paul du Pont will continue as president of du Pont Motors and has been elected a director and chairman of the executive committee of Indian Motocycle. Francis I. du Pont has also been elected a director of Indian Motocycle. The du Pont company, which manufactures automobiles in Wilmington, Del., has authorized capitalization of 250,000 no par common shares.

Dealers Affected by Uncertainty About New Taxes—Depression Wide on German Boerse.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, April 22.—Aviation, automobile and brewery shares stood out today in quiet but irregular trading on the Stock Exchange. Gilt-edge securities were depressed, the Funding Loan sagging to £90⅞ and the 5 per cent War Loan to £103 5-16.

International stocks generally were weak. General Electric closed 1s down at 48s 5d, while Hydroelectric declined ¼ to $52¾. International Nickel took a sharp plunge of 2¼ to $39¾ with International Holding off ¼ at $7⅝. Brazilian Traction defied the downward trend, closing a point higher at £53¾.

Columbia Graphophone weakened 5-32 to £6 3-16, and his Master's Voice Gramophone also was a shade lower at £4 9-16. Oils were dull, with Royal Dutch ⅜ lower at £34, and Mexican Eagle 4½d off at 14s 4½d. Rhodesian coppers were flat, notably Bwana M'Kubwa at 18s and Roan Antelope at £1⅝. De Beers fell ¼ to £9¼.

Money was plentiful in Lombard Street, the overnight loan rate falling below 2 per cent. Discount rates were harder, with 2 9-16 per cent the minimum for three-month bills. Sterling declined to $4.86 1-32. A shipment of £2,050,000 sovereigns arrived at the Bank of England from Australia.

French Stocks Tend Lower.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, April 22.—After being closed four days, the Bourse failed to exhibit the activity with which it ended last week. After the few orders that had accumulated over the holidays had been disposed of, the market declined under a selling movement started by professional agents.

Copper stocks were seriously affected by the decline in the price of the metal in the United States, Rio Tinto suffering a sharp drop and only partly recovering near the closing of the market. In domestic stocks the market was fairly steady, but the clientele was conservative owing to uncertainty over the action of Parliament concerning the tax reduction bill now before the Chamber and containing provisions for an important decrease in taxes on securities and transactions on the Paris market.

Rentes were quiet but firm and closed as follows: The 3 per cents, 89.05; 1918 4s, 99.80; 1920 amortizable 5s, 134.35; 1928 5s, 104.80; 1920 6s, 103.95; 1927 amortizable 6s, 104.50.

Market in Berlin Weak.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, April 22.—After an interruption of four days on account of the Easter holidays the Boerse was weak throughout the session today. Unfavorable reports from the coal district that owing to the reduced sales and overstocked pitheads the number of hauling shifts had been reduced and several thousand miners discharged depressed the market, which declined all along the line. Mansfield was the heaviest loser of the day, dropping 10 points. Siemens of the electrical group fell 6 points.

Among artificial silks A. K. U. shares dropped 8 and Bemberg 7 points. Ostwerke & Schultheis declined 5 points each. Shipping stocks also were weaker, but the potash group was steady.

GENERAL THEATRES OFFERS DEBENTURES

$30,000,000 Issue of 10-Year 6 Per Cent Convertibles Are Priced at 99½.

FIVE IN MARKETING GROUP

Financing Is First by Equipment Concern Since Obtaining Control of Fox Companies.

A new issue of $30,000,000 General Theatres Equipment, Inc., ten-year 6 per cent convertible debentures will be placed on the market today by a syndicate comprising the Chase Securities Corporation, Pynchon & Co., Halsey, Stuart & Co., Inc.; West & Co. and W. S. Hammons & Co., priced at 99½. This financing is the first to be arranged in connection with the acquisition by General Theatres Equipment of a controlling interest in the Fox Film Corporation and the Fox Theatres Corporation.

The debentures will be convertible after Jan. 1, 1931, into common stock, or, at the option of the company, into voting trust certificates, on the basis of twenty-one shares of such stock as now constituted for each $1,000 debenture. The company will provide an annual sinking fund equivalent to 10 per cent of its consolidated net earnings for the preceding calendar year, with the amount of such sinking fund not to exceed $1,500,000 in any year. The first instalment will be paid on April 1, 1931.

The voting trust certificates for common stock of the company are listed on the New York Stock Exchange and the company has agreed to make application to list the new debentures. In addition to its holdings in the Fox companies, General Theatres Equipment owns 50 per cent of the outstanding stocks of the International Projector Corporation and the National Theatre Supply Company.

The Fox Theatres Corporation, in turn, owns a nation-wide chain of 180 theatres, including the Roxy in New York. The Fox Film Corporation, through a subsidiary, owns, controls, operates or leases approximately 450 theatres on the Pacific Coast and in the Middle West, and has a substantial stock interest in Loew's, Inc., which has a chain of 180 theatres. In addition, the film company has a considerable interest in a British company that owns 65 per cent of the ordinary stock of Gaumont British Pictures Corporation, which operates more than 300 theatres in the British Isles.

Short-Term Notes Sold Here By New York and Baltimore

The city of New York awarded yesterday an issue of $12,000,000 3½ per cent notes to various banks in Wall Street. The notes will mature on various dates from June 30 to Sept. 15, 1930. The allotments were made to the banks at par.

The city of Baltimore also was in the market with an issue of $7,000,000 of 3½ per cent notes, due on July 10, 1930. Of the issue, $1,000,000 will be delivered immediately, $3,000,000 in May and a like amount in June.

It is not expected that public offering will be made of any of the notes of either city.

WARNER BROTHERS BUY INTO NAKKEN

Deal Points to Severance of Relations With Electrical Research Products Co.

VALUABLE RIGHTS OBTAINED

Royalty-Free License for Patents in Talking Movies Added in Second Deal Recently.

Warner Brothers Pictures, Inc., have acquired a substantial interest in the Nakken Patents Corporation, controller of inventions that are regarded by some persons as being the basic ones in the talking motion picture reproduction field, it was announced yesterday. This is the second acquisition by this company in the last ten days in the talking motion picture field. These activities have been accepted in some quarters as confirmation of reports that the company was preparing to end its relations with the Electrical Research Products Company, the talking motion picture subsidiary of the Western Electric Company.

In the Nakken purchase Warner acquired a royalty-free license to use all patents of the corporation in all fields. In addition, Nakken holds patents governing methods of electrical transmission of facsimile telegrams and pictures both by wire and by radio, as well as certain patents in the television field.

Most of these patents are concerned with the transformation of light impulses into an electric current. One patent covering a method of sound-on-film talking pictures, which is regarded as basic in this form of synchronizing sound with picture action, is in process of adjudication in the United States Patent Office, according to the announcement made yesterday. The company announced, however, that Theodore H. Nakken, president, recently completed patents which supersede this method, and by which it is contended that sound can be photographed with finer shadings of values than by any present method.

Patents now free for use by Warner Brothers number about fifty, covering a wide range of methods employed in radio broadcasting, talking motion pictures, television and wire and radio transmission of reproductions.

Warner Brothers Pictures, Inc., is the pioneer in the development of talking motion pictures, using the sound-on-disc method of Electrical Research Products, Inc. For the last year and a half, the original contracts between the picture company and the electrical company have been in arbitration with a view of settling several complaints raised by the picture company.

It has been reported in the last six months that the picture company was willing to withdraw from its arrangement with the electrical company, and the acquisition of an interest in Tobias Klangfilm, controlling expensive talking motion pictures patents in Germany and other parts of Europe, and the Nakken deal yesterday was accepted as confirmation of these reports in some quarters.

Delay on Definitive Dollar Bonds.

The definitive Series A gold dollar bonds dated Nov. 1, 1928, due Nov. 1, 1948, of the National Hungarian Industrial Mortgage Institute will not be ready for delivery in exchange for interim receipts on May 1, it was announced yesterday. The six months' interest due on that date will be paid, provided funds are received for that purpose, upon surrender on and after May 1 to the corporate trust department of the Guaranty Trust Company of New York of the outstanding interim receipts for proper endorsement.

For further information regarding the Company and this issue of bonds, reference is made to a letter dated April 22, 1930, from F. W. Leamy, Esq., Vice-President of The Delaware and Hudson Railroad Corporation, copies of which may be obtained from the undersigned, and from which the following is quoted:

"These bonds will be issued under the First and Refunding Mortgage of The Delaware and Hudson Company, dated May 1, 1908, and will be secured by a first lien on lines of railroad, leasehold interests and important trackage rights, together constituting a continuous line of railroad from Rouses Point, N. Y., on the Canadian border, to Plymouth, Pa. (opposite Wilkes-Barre, Pa.), with various branches, a total of about 898 miles; on valuable terminal properties in Albany, Mechanicville, Schenectady, Binghamton and Rouses Point, New York, and Carbondale, Scranton and Wilkes-Barre, Pennsylvania, and on equipment having a depreciated book value of $20,274,240.57, including 1500 cars subject to $1,327,000 Equipment Trust Certificates maturing in installments on or before January 15, 1935. Of the aforesaid mileage, about 330 miles is owned in fee, and on this mileage the First and Refunding Mortgage is a first lien, subject only to prior lien bonds of $1,000,000 on a branch line of 57 miles. Parts of the 511 miles, the leases of which are pledged under the First and Refunding Mortgage, are subject to $12,000,000 bonds of certain of the lessor companies, of which bonds $3,556,000 are owned by The Delaware and Hudson Company. The mileage covered by this mortgage serves such important cities as Troy, Albany, Schenectady and Binghamton, N. Y., and Scranton and Wilkes-Barre, Pa.

The proceeds of this issue will be applied to the payment of $10,000,000 principal amount, The Delaware and Hudson Company Ten-Year 7% Secured Gold Bonds, due June 1, 1930. Annual interest charges on these bonds are $300,000 less than annual interest charges on said Secured Gold Bonds.

The Delaware and Hudson Railroad Corporation, a New York corporation, all stock of which is owned by The Delaware and Hudson Company, acquired on April 1, 1930, the lines of railroad and certain leaseholds and securities of railroad subsidiaries formerly owned by The Delaware and Hudson Company (including all property subject to the First and Refunding Mortgage) and has assumed all outstanding funded debt of The Delaware and Hudson Company, including the First and Refunding Mortgage Bonds. Such assumption, however, will not terminate the liability of The Delaware and Hudson Company in respect of these bonds.

An annual sinking fund of 1% in cash of the par value of all bonds outstanding is provided for, which shall be invested either in the purchase and cancellation of First and Refunding Mortgage Bonds or in construction, additions or improvements, all of which shall come under the mortgage as additional security.

The total authorized amount of the First and Refunding Mortgage is limited to $50,000,000, of which there will be outstanding in the hands of the public, after the present issue, $49,000,000 bonds. The remaining $1,000,000 of bonds are reserved to retire a like face amount of prior lien bonds on a branch line due in 1942.

The Delaware and Hudson Company has paid dividends on its stock uninterruptedly since 1881, and since 1907 at the rate of 9% per annum. Its present outstanding capital stock amounts to $51,573,900 par value. The total income of The Delaware and Hudson Company for the year ended December 31, 1929, applicable to the payment of rentals and other fixed charges, amounted to $12,578,186.52, while such charges amounted to $4,769,473.64. Gross Income for the year 1929 from the properties acquired by The Delaware and Hudson Railroad Corporation, applicable to rentals, interest on funded debt and other fixed charges amounted to $8,348,236, while the annual rentals and interest on indebtedness assumed by the Railroad Corporation, after giving effect to this financing, will amount to $4,383,011.

Application will be made in due course to list these bonds on the New York Stock Exchange."

THE UNDERSIGNED OFFER THE ABOVE BONDS, SUBJECT TO PRIOR SALE, AT 93% AND ACCRUED INTEREST, TO YIELD ABOUT 4.73% TO MATURITY.

The above bonds are offered if, when and as issued and received by the undersigned and subject to the approval by the Interstate Commerce Commission of their sale to the undersigned and to the approval by their counsel of all legal proceedings in connection with the issue and sale thereof. Definitive bonds will be delivered against payment in New York funds for bonds allotted.

DELAWARE&HUDSON BONDS PRICED AT 93

$10,000,000 of 4 Per Cents of Refunding Issue Will Be Put Out Today to Yield 4.73.

WILL RETIRE 7 PER CENTS

Offering Will Leave Only $1,000,000 Unissued of $50,000,000 Authorization.

A new issue of $10,000,000 Delaware & Hudson Company first and refunding mortgage 4 per cent bonds, due May 1, 1943, will be offered today by Kuhn, Loeb & Co. and the First National Bank. The issue is subject to approval by the Interstate Commerce Commission. The bonds will be priced at 93, to yield 4.73 per cent.

The bonds will be issued under the first and refunding mortgage dated May 1, 1906, and on completion of this financing the total amount outstanding will be $49,000,000 of an authorized amount of $50,000,000. The remaining block of $1,000,000 is reserved to retire a like amount of prior lien bonds of a branch line, which mature in 1942.

Proceeds of this financing will be used to pay off $10,000,000 of the road's 10-year 7 per cent secured bonds due June 1, 1930. The Delaware & Hudson Railroad Company, all of whose stock is owned by the Delaware & Hudson Company, acquired on April 1, 1930, the lines of the railroad and certain leaseholds and securities of railroad subsidiaries formerly owned by the Delaware & Hudson Company, including all property subject to the first and refunding mortgage.

Although the Delaware & Hudson Railroad Company has assumed all outstanding funded debt of the Delaware & Hudson Company, such assumption does not terminate the liability of the latter company in respect to these bonds.

Formal announcement of the issue of $20,350,000 of bonds to be sold by the city of Detroit, Mich., on May 12 was made yesterday. The issue will comprise $11,000,000 sewer bonds, due May 15, 1960, and $1,750,000 water supply, $5,600,000 street railway, $1,000,000 lighting and $1,000,00 airport bonds, all maturing serially from May 15, 1931 to 1960. Bidders are asked to stipulate the rate of interest in multiples of ¼ of 1 per cent, at not to exceed 4½ per cent.

The assessed valuation of the city is reported as $3,681,781,130 and the net bonded debt as $213,277,044. The last sale of long-term bonds of the city was held on Dec. 15, 1929. Three major syndicates made bids for the issue, the award going to a group headed by the Bankers Company of New York, the National City Company and Harris, Forbes & Co. at their bid of 100.009 for the issues as 4¼s, 4½s, and 5s, equivalent to a 4.46 per cent basis.

Portland, Ore.

Award of an issue of $850,000 city of Portland (Ore.) 4½ per cent street-widening bonds, maturing serially from May 1, 1933 to 1960, was made yesterday to a syndicate composed of Lehman Brothers, Kountze Brothers, Kean, Taylor & Co., and Tucker, Hunter, Dulin & Co. of San Francisco. The price paid was 102.125. The second highest tender was that of 102.05 by a group headed by C. F. Childs & Co., Inc.

Los Angeles, Cal.

The city of Los Angeles, Cal., will open bids on April 28 on a new issue of $856,500 5 per cent bonds. The issue will consist of $588,500 Flood Control District bonds, due July 2, 1930; $165,000 Redondo Union High School District bonds, due April 1, 1931 to 1955; $93,000 hospital bonds, due July 1, 1930, and $10,000 Alhambra City School District bonds, due June 1, 1930. Thus the major portion of the loan is for a very short period.

New Bonds for $40,000,000 To Be Put on Market Today

New securities totaling $40,000,000 will be placed on the market today by New York banking houses and syndicates. The amount will consist entirely of bonds. They are classified as follows:

Industrial	$30,000,000
Railroad	10,000,000

RAIL BONDS ACTIVE AS OTHERS DECLINE

Utilities Generally Better—Losses Outnumber Gains in the Foreign List.

CONVERTIBLES UP AT FINISH

Liberty Issues Are Higher and Treasury Certificates Fluctuate to Mixed Closing.

Bond prices continued moderately lower on the average yesterday, although demand was good for some rail issues, while utilities as a whole were better. The turnover was again light and trading dull.

In the foreign list movements were mixed, but declines somewhat outweighed advances. Bank of Chile 6s, Brazil 6½s, Caldas 7½s, Cordoba 7s and Copenhagen Telephone 5s were off more than a point each. Costa Rica 7s, Prague 7½s and Queensland 6s made the best gains in the foreign group.

Convertible issues, following the vissitudes of the shares for which they may be exchanged, were lower a good part of the day, but finished at an advance in many instances. American phone and Telegraph 4½s, after dropping below 170, ended with a gain of better than 2 points.

The government list was firmer on the whole. Liberty bonds advanced and Treasury certificates fluctuated between a decline of 6-32 and an advance of 3-32.

The seldom-traded New Haven registered 6s of 1948 appeared at a decline of 9 points. Drops of a point or more were registered by Havana Electric 5½s, Illinois Central 4s of 1951, Pressed Steel Car 5s, Remington Arms 6s and White Sewing Machine 6s of 1936, selling ex warrants.

BOND FLOTATIONS.

Van Sweringen Corporation.

The Van Sweringen Corporation, recently formed in Delaware by O. P. and M. J. Van Sweringen, will soon offer about $25,000,000 of five-year notes carrying warrants to purchase common stock. Its assets consist of real estate in Cleveland and securities. Unlike the Alleghany Corporation, which was formed to buy railroad securities, the Van Sweringen Corporation will operate entirely outside the railroad field.

Duquesne Gas Corporation.

A new issue of $1,000,000 Duquesne Gas Corporation 6½ per cent convertible secured notes, due in 1935, will be offered soon by Furlaud & Co., Inc., and Cullen & Drew. Each $1,000 note will be convertible into eighty shares of common stock. On completion of this financing the capitalization of the company will consist of $4,000,000 of first mortgage 6 per cent bonds, $1,000,000 of 6½ per cent notes and 675,000 shares of no par common stock.

DEALERS CUT RATES ON LONG-TERM BILLS

Reduction of ⅛ of 1 Per Cent Made Here and in Boston on 120 to 180-Day Paper.

DIVERGENCE IN QUOTATIONS

Three of Seven New York Houses Hold to Old Figures, Effective Since April 16.

Yield rates on four, five and six-months' bankers' acceptances were reduced one-eighth of 1 per cent here and in Boston yesterday. The change, although concurred in by only four of the seven dealers in New York City, was made official by the American Acceptance Council.

The rates now quoted by the majority of dealers here and in Boston are 3⅛ per cent bid, 3 per cent asked, for all maturities up to 120 days; 3¼ per cent bid, 3⅛ per cent asked for five and six-months' bills.

Yesterday's readjustments in the bill market accentuated a divergence in dealers' quotations which has existed since the last official change in rates, an advance of one-eighth of 1 per cent, made effective on April 16, last. At that time one of the larger dealers failed to follow the increase in the longer maturities, although concurring in the advances on bills of ninety days' maturity or less.

The rates quoted by this house were also posted by the two Boston houses yesterday and three other dealers here joined the procession. Three houses continue to quote the old rate, however, and it was said they might not fall in line.

Uniformity of rates on the longer bills is not generally regarded as having the importance which attaches to agreement upon the yield on bills of ninety days' maturity or less. The reason for this lies in the fact that the Federal Reserve Bank's purchases of bills are almost all of short maturities. The Reserve Bank seldom buys bills having more than ninety days to run. On the present basis, therefore, there is said to be little likelihood of the Federal Reserve's 3 per cent buying rate being more advantageous to one dealer than to another.

Adopts $7,000,000 Group Insurance

The adoption of a $7,000,000 group life insurance program by the Checker Cab Company of Chicago was announced yesterday by Robert E. McLaughlin, president of the company. The plan will provide insurance for 3,500 employes of the company beginning on May 1. The program has been underwritten by the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company.

Rails-Industrials-Utilities.

The other contingency is in case the trustee concurs in the depositor's request to sell in the interest of the holders of trust shares for any cause deemed sufficient. In this case shares or securities of other companies are to be substituted in the units or the proceeds of the sale are to be distributed to the coupon holders.

Every stock should pass at least THREE TESTS —before you decide to buy it

There are at least three questions which we believe the prudent investor should ask himself today, before deciding to buy a stock or hold it.

First—At its current price and dividend rate does it give a satisfactory yield?

Second—If so, is it the stock of a company which will come through a period of business recession with its earning power substantially unimpaired and in the ensuing period of prosperity experience greater than average expansion?

Third—If it passes both of the above tests, what are the chances of buying it below the present price?

Facts are vitally important today

In this period of uncertainty in the security market, it is more than ever necessary to have correct answers to these questions. Adequate information is the only basis for certainty that the answers are as near correct as human judgment can provide. In order to secure this sound advice, the investor needs experienced counsel—counsel which has proved to be dependable. Standard Statistics Company has such a record.

1—Standard Statistics Company is the largest statistical and analytical organization in the world.

2—Standard Statistics Company has no other business than the collection, analysis and interpretation of investment and business information.

3—Standard Statistics Company spends each year millions of dollars in order that this job may be thoroughly and expertly done.

4—Standard Statistics Company already numbers among its clients all the largest banks and financial houses in North America and Europe.

5—Standard Statistics Company is prepared to place at your disposal sound advice on securities, resulting from ripe experience and a wide command of facts.

What is the Standard Supervisory Service?

The Standard Supervisory Service is not one of the published services which this company produces and distributes. It is, rather, a service built to order around your individual requirements. It comprises, among other things, the following services to you:

1—An intensive analysis of each security you are now holding, together with specific recommendations as to which securities should be held, which should be sold—and why.

2—Definite advice as to which securities should be bought to replace those which it may be advisable to eliminate.

3—Continuous observation of every security on your list, and prompt advice as to what action to take should anything occur to alter the status of any of them.

4—And, finally, the efforts of our entire staff of investment analysts and field investigators to discover and bring to your attention desirable issues which, in our judgment, should prove most profitable to you.

By keeping this type of supervisory work flexible and highly specialized, this company is in a position to render you an investment service de luxe—especially built for you—to dovetail with your plans and problems.

Naturally, therefore, we can accept only a very limited number of relatively large individual accounts. We will be glad to give you further particulars, if you will fill out and mail the coupon below. No obligation, of course.

GAIN OF $1,200,000 BY STANDARD GAS

Net Income Goes Up in Year as Assets of System Increase $36,500,000.

LARGE UNITS ARE ADDED

Standard Power Purchase Gives Holdings in Philadelphia Co. and Market Street Railway.

Total assets of the Standard Gas and Electric Company and subsidiary and affiliated companies amounted to $1,090,992,598 at the end of 1929, compared with $1,054,363,782 the year before, an increase of more than $36,500,000, the annual report, issued yesterday, shows. The balance for common shares was $10,298,053, equal to $7.01 a share on 1,467,904 average number of common shares outstanding during the year, and to $6.59 a share on 1,562,607 shares as of Dec. 31 last. This compared with $9,328,698, or $6.57 a share, earned on 1,418,946 shares in 1928. Net income was $14,387,834, against $13,154,260, a gain of more than $1,200,000.

Gross earnings totaled $172,762,748 in 1929, compared with $165,179,063 in 1928, while net earnings after expenses and taxes were $78,086,823, against $72,568,249. Gross income was $85,694,693, against $79,721,444. All figures for each period are for properties now composing the system, while net earnings of properties disposed of are included in other income.

Standard Power Acquired.

The company acquired on Jan. 7 all assets of the Standard Power and Light Corporation, including more than 94 per cent of the common stock of the Philadelphia Company, holdings in the stock of the Market Street Railway Company of San Francisco, and in bonds of the Sierra and San Francisco Power Company.

In exchange for these assets, Standard Gas assumed the payment of principal and interest on $24,000,000 of 6 per cent gold debentures of Standard Power, surrendered to Standard Power 2,997,014 shares of that company's participating preferred stock, and issued to Standard Power 220,000 shares of its prior preference $7 cumulative stock and 600,000 shares of its common stock. These changes, the report says, have simplified the capital structure of Standard Gas and have enabled the company to consolidate its position in the strategic Pittsburgh district.

John J. O'Brien, president, says in his report: "The subsidiary and affiliated companies made substantial progress during the year, efficient operating results being reflected in a greater proportionate increase in net earnings. The properties have been maintained in excellent physical condition and are operated at a high standard of efficiency. A number of rate reductions were made during the year, consistent with the policy of reducing the cost of service to the public wherever warranted by conditions of service and decreased operating costs."

Company Serves 1,588 Communities.

The company's system now serves 1,588 cities and towns, having an estimated combined population of 6,300,000, an increase of seventy-one communities during 1929.

Net construction expenditures of the operating companies in 1929 totaled $38,059,019, while electric-generating capacity increased 23,760 kilowatts to a total installed capacity of 1,390,214 kilowatts. The construction budget for 1930 is $60,127,000, of which $20,257,000 is for completion of work started before Jan. 1.

Victor Emanuel and L. H. Seagrave of New York were elected directors of the Philadelphia Company, subsidiary of Standard Gas, at the annual meeting yesterday, succeeding W. T. Rose and M. B. Starring, who resigned. The retiring directors were all re-elected. Mr. Seagrave is president of the United Founders Company and chairman of the United States Electric Power Corporation, of which Mr. Emanuel is president. They are chairman and president, respectively, of the Standard Power and Light Corporation.

Will Use Kettleman Hills Gas.

The Pacific Gas and Electric Company and the Milham Exploration Company have concluded arrangements whereby the former company will take delivery of about 18,000,000 cubic feet of natural gas daily from the Milham company's Kettleman Hills properties instead of from the Buttonwillow field. According to Claude C. Brown, State Gas Administrator, this will permit conservation of Buttonwillow gas and the utilization of natural gas now being produced and blown into the air in connection with oil production at Kettleman.

UNITED CORPORATION TO LIST MORE STOCK

500,000 Additional Common Shares to Go on New York Stock Exchange.

NEW HOLDINGS SET FORTH

Market Value of Securities in Portfolio Is $143,000,000 Above Their Cost Price.

Holdings of about 107,000 shares of common stock of the Consolidated Gas Company of New York and a market value of all holdings $143,000,000 in excess of book cost will be shown in the United Corporation's application to the New York Stock Exchange to list 500,000 additional shares of its common stock, it was learned yesterday. The Consolidated Gas holdings amount to .93 per cent, or less than 1 per cent, of the 11,457,000 shares outstanding on Dec. 31, last.

As United Corporation holds 1,673,249 shares of common stock in the Niagara Hudson Power Corporation, its acquisition of a large block of Consolidated Gas stock lends further color to reports that a merger of the two New York companies is likely to be negotiated some time this year. If the merger is accomplished, United Corporation will have a minority interest in the new combination, in keeping with its policy of holding substantial minority interests in important utility systems.

United Corporation was formed early in January, 1929, by Morgan, Drexel and Bonbright interests, and as of March 31, 1930, had total investments of $325,850,539 and cash of $19,760,288, comparing with investments of $304,916,948 and cash of $18,390,229 at the close of 1929. The increase in investments thus totaled $20,933,590, while cash on hand increased $1,370,059 in the first three months this year.

The only other principal changes in investments occurred through the conversion of the company's Allied Power and Light holdings into Commonwealth and Southern stock, which raised the total of Commonwealth and Southern holdings from 948,269 to 1,798,269 common shares. The 340,000 Allied Power and Light shares were exchanged for 850,000 Commonwealth and Southern shares.

Holdings in Lehigh Coal and Navigation were increased to 33,105 shares as a result of that corporation's three-for-one split-up. Ownership of 87,464 shares of the Electric Bond and Share Company is also shown. Holdings in United Gas Improvement remain at 4,151,846 common shares and in Public Service Corporation of New Jersey at 959,921 common shares.

The United Corporation estimates its income from dividends and interest for 1930 at $11,760,566, comparing with total income from these sources of $7,764,640 from Jan. 7 to Dec. 31, 1929. Total income in 1929 was $9,037,058, including profit on securities sold and underwriting commissions.

The profit and loss statement for the first three months of 1930 was as follows:

CREDITS.
P. & L. surplus, Dec. 31, 1929	$3,555,676
Dividends received	2,694,734
Interest received	197,104
Profit on securities sold	1,038,380
Total	$7,485,894
DEBITS.
Dividends paid	$1,334,525
Current expenses	22,466
Federal tax reserve	145,500
P. & L. surplus, March 31, 1930	$5,983,404

After allowing for the payment of first quarter dividends on the $3 preference stock outstanding, the first quarter produced earnings equal to 32 cents a share on 7,252,515 shares of common stock.

The purpose of the issuance of 500,000 additional shares of common stock is not specifically revealed in the listing application.

TO BUY CHARLESTOWN GAS.

The offer by the Eastern Gas and Fuel Associates to purchase stock of the Charlestown Gas and Electric Company is open until May 1. Eastern Gas and Fuel is affiliated with the Koppers-Mellon interests of Pittsburgh, and acquired control last year of the Massachusetts Lighting Companies and other gas utilities on the Atlantic Seaboard.

The Eastern group has agreed to purchase and the voting trustees of Charlestown Gas have agreed to sell at $175 a share all the stock held or which may be deposited with them on or before May 1. The May 1 dividend of $1.50 on Charlestown stock, now held by the voting trustees, is to be received by registered holders of stock trust certificates on April 21.

UTILITY EARNINGS.

Statements for Various Periods Issued by Public Service Corporations.

Interborough Rapid Transit.

The Interborough Rapid Transit Company in March failed by $199,385 to earn the full 5 per cent Manhattan Railway modified guaranteed dividend rental, bringing the deficit for the nine months ended March 31, 1930, to $1,630,350, after computing the full Manhattan 5 per cent rental. Dividend rental has been paid during the current year to Manhattan 5 per cent stockholders assenting to the plan of readjustment on Jan. 2, 1930, in the amount of 40 cents a share, and on April 1, 1930, of 40 cents a share, aggregating $445,192.

The balance of earnings before Manhattan 5 per cent rental was $32,485 for March and $456,488 for the nine months. Gross revenue for March was $6,436,421, and for the nine months was $54,351,905. Expenses were $3,902,136 and $33,813,718, respectively, and taxes $262,623 and $1,877,425, leaving net earnings of $2,271,662 for the month and of $18,660,762 for the nine months.

For the nine months' period $166,362 is the amount of the expenses in connection with the fare litigation charged to the subway division, and included in the total operating expenses above. If it is finally determined that this amount is not a deduction from the revenue under Contract 3, it will have the effect of diminishing the balance before deducting Manhattan 5 per cent rental.

St. Louis Public Service.

The report of the St. Louis Public Service Company and subsidiaries for 1929 shows a net income of $1,037,628 after depreciation, taxes and charges, equal after preferred dividends to $1.58 a share earned on 343,620 no par shares of common stock, against $972,195 in 1928, or $1.39 a share. Gross earnings and other income totaled $19,788,027, against $19,862,058 in 1928.

Brooklyn-Manhattan Transit.

A net income of $5,164,018 is reported for the nine months ended March 31, 1930, by the Brooklyn-Manhattan Transit Corporation, after taxes and charges, equal after preferred dividend requirements to $5.24 a share earned on 769,911 no par shares of common stock. The report of the Brooklyn and Queens Transit Corporation for the nine months showed a net income of $1,800,071, after taxes and charges, equivalent after preferred dividend requirements to $1.19 a share earned on 800,000 shares of no par common stock, against $1,140,789, or 36 cents a share, earned in the previous like period.

STOREY FORESEES I. C. C. SHIFT PLANS

Criticizes Santa Fe's Allocation in Consolidation of Railroads as Outlined.

ROAD HAS LARGE BUDGET

Much New Rolling Stock and 552 Miles of New Line Included in Projects.

A considerable part of the Interstate Commerce Commission's consolidation plan might be altered in respect to the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe Railway, according to the annual report issued yesterday by W. B. Storey, president. Discussing the plan, Mr. Storey said:

"The Interstate Commerce Commission has finally adopted a plan for the consolidation of railroad properties, which is as Commissioner Eastman says 'little more than a procedural step,' this being required by the Transportation act. Consolidations to be in the public interest should produce economies and promote efficiency in operation, with a due preservation of competition as required by law. To accomplish this the properties which are joined in consolidation should integrate well.

"This does not seem to be the case in a considerable part of what is tentatively allocated to your company. However, as the commission itself says, there have been many differences of opinion in that body as to component parts of the plan. It is, therefore, probable that in the end every consolidation will conform to the practical requirements of public interest, and where the present plan of the commission proves not to accord therewith it will be modified. The attitude taken by your company has been that no combination should be made which will entail a burden upon the present stockholders."

Farm Prospects Reported Good.

Agricultural prospects in Santa Fé territory are good, according to the report. It said that, although there will be a smaller citrus fruit crop than last year, conditions so far have been highly favorable for Winter wheat.

Total assets of the company on Dec. 31 were $1,262,491,000, against $1,186,048,000 a year previously. Investment in road and equipment increased from $1,018,475,000 to $1,061,145,000. Profit and loss surplus rose from $372,173,000 to $402,754,000. As announced previously, net income was $61,071,000, against $49,930,000.

Discussing expenditures for equipment and improvement, the report says:

"Request has been made by President Hoover upon all lines of industry to cooperate in maintaining industrial and business activity and national prosperity. The program of capital expenditures by your company for the current year will contribute substantially toward this end. It includes new equipment consisting of 5,854 freight cars, 49 passenger cars, 2 gas-electric cars and 1 new type freight locomotive for trial purposes preparatory to equipping portions of the railroad with this improved power.

Large Extensions in Texas.

"In addition to completing 172 miles of new lines in Texas now under construction, request has been made upon the Interstate Commerce Commission for authority to build 380 miles additional to round out lines north from Amarillo, Texas, to Las Animas, Col., and from Felt, Okla., to Colmor, N. M. These proposed lines will open up territory now largely without railroad facilities and thus serve as valuable feeders to existing lines; they will also offer new and shorter through routes both north and south and east and west for a substantial volume of traffic.

"About the usual program of additions and betterments will be carried out. The total program contemplates, roughly, $85,000,000 of capital additions, on which approximately $50,000,000 will be spent during this year. In the regular course of maintenance and operation there will also be spent about $100,000,000 for wages and $70,000,000 for materials."

P. R. R. VOTES TO ADD $170,000,000 STOCK

Annual Meeting Approves an Increase of 3,400,000 Shares, Making Total $870,000,000.

NONE TO BE ISSUED NOW

$18,000,000 Intended for Offering to Employes—999-Year Leases of Two Roads Authorized.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, April 22.—An increase of $170,000,000 in the capital stock of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company was voted by stockholders at the annual meeting here today, bringing the total authorized common stock to $870,000,000. The increase represents 3,400,000 shares.

The company, according to its officials, has no intention of issuing any of the new stock at present, but inasmuch as only about $30,000,000 of unissued stock remained available the directors considered it advisable to have more on hand for emergency purposes. Under terms of the resolution adopted today the directors are empowered to issue the stock at a price not less than par and on such terms as the board may prescribe.

Of the total, $18,000,000 worth will be offered for subscription by employes at the par value of $50, under terms of another resolution approved by the stockholders.

Leases of the West Jersey & Seashore Railroad and the Western New York & Pennsylvania Railway to the Pennsylvania Railroad for terms of 999 years, dating from July 1, 1930, also were approved. The rental, in the case of the West Jersey & Seashore Railroad, will be an annual sum equivalent to fixed charges, organization expenses and 6 per cent on the capital stock. In the case of the Western New York & Pennsylvania Railway the rental will be fixed charges, organization expenses and 5 per cent on the preferred stock and 6 per cent on the common stock.

Effingham B. Morris, Jay Cooke, Levi L. Rue and Arthur W. Thompson, whose terms as directors expired, were re-elected.

SEEK SIERRA PACIFIC STOCK.

Stone & Webster Offer $79.50 a Share for Common.

Stockholders of Sierra Pacific Electric Company have received an offer of $79.50 a share for their common stock from Stone & Webster, Inc., which already owns more than 48 per cent of the Sierra Pacific company. The offer is contained in a letter sent yesterday by Stone & Webster to the Sierra Pacific stockholders.

Stock of Sierra Pacific offered for exchange must be delivered on or before May 15. Common stockholders of Sierra Pacific of record at the close of business on April 18 will also receive on May 1 the quarterly dividend of 50 cents a share. The purchase offer, it was announced, was made with the approval of the directors of Sierra Pacific. The latter company has total assets of more than $16,700,000.

$1,012,000 DEBT IS PAID.

The report of the Southern Pacific Company for 1929 shows that a twenty-two-year-old claim against the government had been paid. The company brought suit under an act of Congress to enforce its claim for $1,113,000 for expenditures incurred at the instance of President Roosevelt in closing a break in the Colorado River to protect the Imperial Valley and got judgment for $1,012,000. The amount was included in the deficiency appropriation bill recently passed by Congress and on April 1 the company received a check.

Gross revenue of the Southern Pacific Company and the Transportation System in 1929 was $310,969,000, against $300,104,000 in 1928, and net income was $47,434,000 against $39,028,000. Addition of net income from affiliated companies brought net to $48,360,000 against $39,876,000. Henry W. DeForest, chairman of the board, said the increase of $3,968,000 in dividend income resulted chiefly from dividends received from stock of Pacific Transportation Securities, Inc., and from the Southern Pacific Golden Gate Company, acquired in 1929, and from increased dividends from the Pacific Fruit Express Company. These increases were in part offset by lower dividends from the Standard Oil Company of California.

The record operating revenues resulted from an increase of 5.03 per cent in freight traffic and from the inclusion of $2,096,000 back mail pay. These gains were partly offset by a decrease in all other transportation revenue of 19.72 per cent.

Total assets were $2,277,770,000 on Dec. 31 against $2,243,378,000 a year previously. Profit and loss surplus was $451,337,000 against $409,650,000. The changed conditions in the money markets resulted in a decrease in loans and deposits from $10,617,000 to $3,138. An item for $500,000 drafts and deposits appears in the 1929 list.

OPPOSES C. & O. MERGER.

Minority's Committee Re-states Position at Richmond Meeting.

Special to The New York Times.

RICHMOND, Va., April 22.—Opposition to the proposed consolidation of the Erie and other railroads with the Chesapeake & Ohio Railway was reaffirmed by the minority stockholders' committee at the annual meeting here today of C. & O. stockholders.

Having opposed the unification plan before the Virginia State Corporation Commission a year ago, Thomas B. Scott and George Kemp of Richmond stated their position would be inconsistent if they voted to approve all acts of the board of directors since last year.

The minority stockholders joined with the majority in re-electing the board of directors.

Members are O. P. Van Sweringen, Cleveland, chairman; John J. Bernet, Cleveland; W. J. Harahan, George Cole Scott and Joseph A. Dart, Richmond; Alva Bradley, Cleveland; John C. Myers, Ashland; Frank H. Ginn and Otto Miller, Cleveland; H. B. Erminger Jr., Chicago, and George T. Bishop, Cleveland.

Vice President Harahan declared after the meeting that the purpose of the $38,000,000 stock issue proposed before the Interstate Commerce Commission is for capital investments. More than $5,000,000 of this amount will be spent in Eastern Virginia, the plans including a new pier and docks at Newport News.

COTTON BELT MINORITY IN DRIVE FOR PROXIES

Members of Committee Announced—Control of 64,000 Shares for Next Meeting Claimed.

Membership of the minority stockholders' committee of the St. Louis Southwestern Railway, headed by Walter E. Meyer, was published yesterday. It comprises William N. Cohen, former Supreme Court justice; Arthur M. Hess of Hess & Hess, Alan Fox, lawyer, and Leo Wallerstein of the Wallerstein Laboratories. The committee is asking for proxies at the St. Louis Southwestern annual meeting on April 30.

Mr. Meyer recently said that the committee had proxies for 64,000 shares. In a letter to stockholders Mr. Meyer's committee asserted that the St. Louis Southwestern's books "indicate that of the management's seven directors but two have held any common stock during the past year and their aggregate holdings were but 305 shares, except that within the last thirty days the name of Mr. Greve (William M. Greve) has appeared on the books as having bought some 3,000 shares.

"How long he may hold this stock after the coming meeting we do not know. With our group holding and having held for some years over 40,000 shares of common stock and the management group having held virtually no common stock, it seems obvious which group has had the greatest real interest in the success and prosperity of the road."

Monroe (N. C.) Bank Is Closed.

MONROE, N. C., April 22 (AP).—The Bank of Union, with deposits of around $775,000 and resources of more than a million dollars, failed to open its doors here this morning. Closing of the bank was decided upon by the directors yesterday afternoon for "the protection of depositors," a statement said.

STABILIZING BOARD IS BIG WHEAT BUYER

Purchase of 6,000,000 Bushels Gives Corporation a Third of Visible Supply.

PRICES IN CHICAGO LOWER

Corn Is Firm, Ending Higher—Liquidation Weakens Oats—Rye Off an Eighth.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, April 22.—Control of the wheat surplus of the United States is rapidly passing to the Grain Stabilization Corporation, which took 6,000,000 bushels of cash wheat at Kansas City today in exchange for the May delivery. It is understood it has been figuring on taking grain at other markets in the last few days.

The price paid for the Kansas City grain was not announced, although the corporation denied that the No. 2 hard brought 3 to 5 cents over the future. The purchase was made to have plenty of cash grain on hand to take care of the milling demand. A local handler sold today 200,000 bushels of No. 2 hard Winter to go to Toledo.

Despite rumors of the immense cash transaction in the Southwest, May wheat sold at a new low on the crop, touching $1.02⅜, or 2⅜ cents under yesterday's finish. Short covering developed on the break, with all futures taken, but the close was at net losses of ⅞ to 1¼ cents.

Winnipeg was credited with buying here against sales in its market, July there going to around 5 cents over Chicago, the widest difference in some time. A leading professional was reported as a free seller of futures here early, but he turned to the buying side on the decline.

Heavy Holdings by Government.

It is estimated that, including the quantities of wheat that will be obtained through the refusal of farmers to repay their loans, the Stabilization Corporation is now in control of 25,000,000 bushels of cash wheat and probably has futures bought calling for a delivery of nearly as much more. This is equal to more than one-third of the total visible supply of the country.

Official estimates indicate little prospect of wheat in the United States at the end of the crop year being much smaller than the 245,000,000 bushels on hand July 1, 1929. The world's total, however, probably will be around 120,000,000 bushels under the 600,000,000 bushels estimated.

Rains fell in the dry areas of Kansas and Oklahoma, and the forecast was for more. Aside from short covering, most commission houses can see little to bring about more than a temprary rally. Open interest in the May delivery, though being rapidly reduced, is still almost 80,000,000 bushels. Hedgers have started to change over their contracts into the July, taking the May today around 2 cents under the July.

Export sales of 400,000 to 500,000 bushels were estimated, mainly Manitobas, but including some durums and hard Winters. No. 2 hard at the Gulf was 2¾ cents over Chicago May bid with little offered. A charter was made at the seaboard for 480,000 bushels of durums to the Mediterranean.

Primary receipts were 652,000 bushels, a week ago 457,000 and a year ago 630,000. Shipments were 590,000 bushels, a week ago 415,000 and a year ago 629,000.

Shorts Help Rise in Corn.

Corn was firm in undertone and closed ¼ to ½ cent higher. Liquidation by longs apparently had run its course yesterday and shorts found offerings light today. May showed the most strength.

Planting has made good progress in Kansas and some fields are already up in the Emporia district. Some buying resulted from the improvement in the Eastern shipment demand, sales being 251,000 bushels. The spot basis was ½ to 2 cents higher, while country offerings were small.

Primary receipts of corn were 619,000 bushels, a week ago 800,000 and a year ago 509,000. Shipments were 418,000 bushels, a week ago 666,000 and a year ago 491,000.

Scattered liquidation was on in oats, and while cash interests and commission houses were buyers the finish was ⅛ to ⅜ cent lower, with September showing the least loss, due to buying by houses with country connections.

Rye was lower early, but developed strength later and finished unchanged to ⅛ cent lower.

Prices for the principal grains were as follows:

Woolen Men Discuss Futures Market Here; Stress Practical Aspect of Such Trading

Revival of efforts to establish a wool futures market on the New York Cotton Exchange met with considerable interest in the local woolen goods trade yesterday. Discussion centred on the practicability of such trading, in view of the many varieties of wool, their varying prices depending on fleece and the use to which it is put, and the difficulty of establishing prices without visible examination of samples. In some quarters of the goods trade it was felt that if the plan is demonstrated practical it would have a needed stabilizing influence on fabric prices as well as on wool.

It was pointed out that the Boston market is the chief centre for raw wool trading. Attempts several years ago to launch futures trading in wool met with considerable opposition from the leading wool dealers in Boston, notable among them being Franklin W. Hobbs, president of the National Association of Wool Manufacturers, who expressed vigorous opposition to the plans then under way.

A well-known woolen manufacturer here in expressing doubt as to the practicability of trading in wool futures, pointed out a listing of over 1,100 different types of wool in a catalogue he had inspected.

"It is a very difficult matter," he said, "to quote prices on different grades of wool and have them mean anything without examination of the specific wools involved. Examination, sampling, shrinkage and use are outstanding details in transactions covering the physical transfer of wool. Examination cannot be dispensed with. At the London wool auctions, for example, a day or two are allowed for examination of samples prior to actual bidding. The situation is not comparable to either raw cotton or silk."

HEAVY LIQUIDATION SENDS COTTON DOWN

Sales on Exchange in Advance of May Notices on Friday Continue in Volume.

WHEAT'S DROP ALSO FELT

Inspectors Active at Many Points as Spot Interests Deliver Actual Staple.

Liquidation in advance of May notices on Friday caused a further decline on the Cotton Exchange yesterday, while a break in May wheat in Chicago into new low ground for the year was an additional depressing factor. The supply of May contracts carried that month to around 15.60c, more than a cent below high levels reached during the recovery, and increased the discount under July to 16 points. Both old crop deliveries lost some of their premiums over the new. Under a moderate volume of business the list closed unchanged to a loss of 13 points.

Trading in the near position influenced the course of the market throughout. As spot interests plan to deliver actual cotton in settlement of contract obligations, inspections have been hastened at all delivery points.

Certificated stock at six markets, including New York, aggregated 275,000 bales, compared with 250,000 last week and 200,000 recently. Reports from various Southern points indicate strict classification, government agents desiring to avoid a recurrence of the two reinspections of certificated stock in the last few years.

An unusually large quantity of short staple cotton was produced last year owing to the drought in Texas and Oklahoma, which rendered almost 3,000,000 bales undeliverable on contract as below the required ⅞-inch staple.

The Cotton Exchange Service estimates the total stock of cotton in the country on April 1 was 7,036,000 bales, or 1,296,000 more than last year. The larger supply is the result of a decrease of 350,000 bales in domestic consumption compared with last season and a decrease in exports, which were 975,000 behind last season during the first eight months. Stocks abroad, however, are smaller than for several years, end of February figures indicating 3,099,000 bales, against 3,893,000 the previous year.

MISSOURI PACIFIC STOCK.

Alleghany Corporation's Right to Vote New Holdings Questioned.

Special to The New York Times.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., April 22.—While the Alleghany Corporation has purchased 65.87 per cent of the common stock of the Missouri Pacific Railroad Company, according to the testimony of officials of the corporation before the Missouri Public Service Commission in Jefferson City yesterday, it is understood here that it may be unable to vote the stock at the annual meeting on May 13 unless it obtains the proxies of the persons from whom the stock was purchased.

The Missouri Pacific's by-laws provide that only stockholders of thirty days' record can vote at the annual meeting. Transfer of the stock acquired for the Alleghany Corporation to that company on the stock books of the Missouri Pacific was prevented, it is understood, because the holding company had not obtained the required permission of the Missouri Public Service Commisison for the transfer at least thirty days before the meeting.

Imports of petroleum, crude and refined oils at the principal United States ports for the week ended on April 19 totaled 1,791,000 barrels, a daily average of 255,857 barrels, compared with 1,401,000 barrels, a daily average of 200,143 barrels, for the week ended on April 12, and a daily average of 261,536 barrels for the four weeks ended on April 19.

Receipts of California oil, crude and refined, at Atlantic and Gulf Coast ports for the week ended on April 19 totaled 195,000 barrels, a daily average of 27,857 barrels, compared with 254,000 barrels, a daily average of 36,286 barrels, for the week ended on April 12, and a daily average of 45,214 barrels for the four weeks ended on April 19.

Pipe line and tank farm gross domestic crude oil stocks east of the Rocky Mountains increased 16,000 barrels in March. The net change shown by the reporting companies accounts for the increases and decreases in general crude oil stocks, including crude oil in transit, but not producers' stocks at the wells.

CALIFORNIA OIL OUTPUT OFF.

Decrease of 110,433 Barrels a Day in Crude Production Shown.

March crude oil production in California amounted to 19,699,979 barrels, or an average of 635,493 barrels a day, according to figures collected by the Pacific Coast office of the American Petroleum Institute. This is a decrease of 110,433 barrels a day from the daily average rate reported for February.

The report shows that the total stocks of crude and all products declined in the Pacific Coast territory by 728,345 barrels during the last month. Total stocks at the end of March amounted to 188,970,378 barrels. The total increase in stocks up to the end of March amounted to 4,206,645 barrels.

Gasoline Advanced in California.

Advices were received here yesterday that the Standard Oil Company of California had increased its posted price of gasoline to 21½ cents a gallon from 19½ cents, including the 3-cent State tax. However, the actual price to retailers remains at 15½ cents.

BISCUIT CONCERNS IN DEAL.

National Negotiating for Acquisition of Pacific Coast Company.

The National Biscuit Company is negotiating for the acquisition of the Pacific Coast Biscuit Company, according to reports received here yesterday from Seattle, where the home office of the latter company is located. Charles M. Thomsen, president of the National Biscuit Company, who has been conferring with Pacific Coast Biscuit officials at Seattle, yesterday confirmed reports of the negotiations. Later he was reported to have left for New York for a discussion of the merger.

"No details can be announced at the present time," Mr. Thomsen said, "and not until this time have we been in a position to say that transactions with the National Biscuit or any other company were really on."

The Pacific Coast Biscuit Company had total assets of more than $5,800,000 at the end of 1928. Its products are distributed throughout the Western States, the Orient, Hawaiian Islands and the Philippines. The company was incorporated in 1899 in New Jersey. It owns the entire capital stock of the Tacoma Biscuit and Candy Company and 94¼ per cent of the capital stock of the American Biscuit Company of San Francisco. Its factories are located in Seattle, Spokane, Tacoma and other Western cities.

CONFERENCE GROUP TO STABILIZE TRADE

Dr. Baker Declares Conference Provides Means to Level Peaks and Valleys.

PROGRAMS FOR INDUSTRIES

Associations to Develop Them—Spun Silk Plan to Be Staged by 1,126 Stores.

The Washington business survey conference was hailed yesterday as a means of creating a continuous inflow of accurate information as to business, which properly analyzed will level the peaks and valleys of trade, by Dr. Hugh P. Baker, head of the trade association division of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States. He spoke at a meeting of executives of twenty-four trade associations held under the auspices of the spun silk research committee at the Hotel Vanderbilt to explain promotional plans for "Sports Silk Week," to be staged by 1,126 stores from May 5 to June 14.

Thomas B. Hill, president of the Silk Association of America; D. M. Mosessohn, executive chairman of the Associated Dress Industries of America, and J. Ralph Corbett of the Spun Silk Committee were other speakers.

Facts Most Essential.

"The biggest thing a trade association can do," Dr. Baker said, "is to develop complete and accurate facts, and put them before business men to govern production and price so that a fair profit may be obtained. The surface has just been scratched in this direction. Current trends indicate the development of the trade association as an industry-wide corporation to carry on the common business activities of the group it represents.

"One result of this, not fully apparent as yet but which will become increasingly important, is the development of a program for an entire industry, just as progressive individual firms plan their activities. This reflects the growing recognition on the part of the business man of the need of becoming industry-conscious, with realization of his obligations to competitors, to his industry and to American business as a whole. Unified, coordinated action will put business on a sounder profit basis."

The four "dragons" confronting American business today, Dr. Baker said, are overproduction, price cutting, waste and harmful practices, and lack of appreciation of the importance of research.

Silk Industry May Use Plan.

Mr. Hill praised the spun silk promotional work as a constructive endeavor which is being watched closely by executives to determine its applicability to the silk industry at large. Mr. Mosessohn saw the movement as worthy of the support of all affiliated trades.

Ninety per cent of the 1,126 stores in as many towns will begin their silk week promotion during the week of May 12, Mr. Corbett said. "The event," he added, "has assumed greater importance because of the disappointing sales volume resulting from the lateness of Easter and poor weather conditions which have affected consumer shopping." He indicated the "silk week" will be store-wide, embracing fifteen types of merchandise.

BANKRUPTCY PROBLEM TOLD TO CREDIT MEN

Colonel Donovan Offers Survey on Frauds and Suggests Methods for Control.

At the annual dinner of the New York Credit Men's Association in the Commodore Hotel last night, Colonel William J. Donovan reviewed the recommendations published last month in his report as Federal bankruptcy investigator, and thanked the association for its contribution to the work.

As a result of the investigation of bankruptcy abuses opened a year ago before Federal Judge Thomas D. Thacher with the cooperation of three bar associations and the national and city credit men's associations, the findings summarized last night by Colonel Donovan are now under consideration as follows:

"Survey was made generally throughout the country, together with first hand study of the Canadian and English systems, which disclosed that the bankruptcy problem throughout the country differs but little from that of New York City. Evidence of corruption in many forms was disclosed on the part of attorneys, bankrupts and creditors.

"The weakness of the law has not been alone responsible for these conditions. Creditors have taken but little interest in the administration of bankrupts' estates. The courts were compelled to assume administrative duties they were not able to perform. Procedural intricacies have made of their administration a legalistic rather than a business system. We found no centralization of authority or responsibility."

Colonel Donovan repeated the remedies already recommended: speeding up administration of bankrupt estates; placing this administration on a business basis; relieving the courts of business responsibility by centring it in the executive branch of the Federal Government; circumscribing creditor control, and enforcing more effectively the criminal and discharge provisions of the present bankruptcy act.

The 1,500 credit men at the dinner heard Dr. Clarence A. Barbour, president of Brown University, who spoke on the "Cultivation of the Grace of Finishing Well."

John B. Kennedy, assistant editor of Collier's Weekly, spoke on "Civics for the Civilized."

Spring Hardware Trade Improves.

Demand for hardware throughout the country has shown an appreciable gain in the majority of the leading markets under the continued general prevalence of favorable weather, according to the weekly market summary of Hardware Age. The publication reports that the usual Spring demand in most sections was slow in developing, but that business now is brisk and indicates that sales for the first six months of this year will compare favorably with those of the similar period of 1929.

More Buyers in the Market.

Due to the increased number of buyers here yesterday on their usual post-holiday trips to the market, the week's total of arrivals was ahead of last week but fell behind a year ago. For the week ended yesterday, 652 buyers were listed in THE TIMES, as against 614 in the preceding week, and 786 in the corresponding week last year. The arrivals registered yesterday numbered 363, which compared with 245 reported for Tuesday last week.

Stores Rounding Out Stocks.

Special merchandise made at a price is now being sought by retailers to round out their stocks for post-Easter promotional events, resident buyers here reported yesterday. No great difficulty is being encountered with deliveries, it was said, most firms offering shipment within three days to a week or slightly longer. Business in Summer lines has not yet reached the active stage, being confined at the moment to the cheaper dress lines. Arrival of more buyers in the market here next week is expected to pave the way for an expanded demand for delivery from May 5 to 15.

Marked Rise in Favor for White.

The marked rise of white to favor, with pure white in the lead, is the outstanding development featured in the color index for silks issued yesterday by Cheney Brothers. Beige and brown tones have decreased in popularity, but yellow has been coming to the fore. Of outstanding importance are the blue tones, the index shows, with preference given to the bright, dark blues, and navys ranking next in favor. Pastel tones hold a strong position, which will undoubtedly be strengthened as the season advances, according to the index. The clear pastels and the very light tints such as perle blue are important for evening wear and are expected to be outstanding in Summer fashions.

Price Jobbers' Hose About May 1.

While a definite date has still to be set, it became known here yesterday that leading Fall lines of women's full-fashioned silk hosiery sold through the jobbing trade will not be priced prior to May 1. In view of the reductions made on these goods, as well as on some of the direct-to-retailer lines during the last six weeks, the new prices are being awaited by both jobbing and retail buyers with more than ordinary interest. Buyers expect lower quotations, but there is some question whether the recent recessions have not anticipated—at least for the time being—the lower raw silk prices on which these expectations are based.

Garden Pottery Sales Set Record.

Sales of garden pottery by manufacturers so far this year have broken all previous records for Spring business, it is reported in the market. The growing vogue for pottery in the decoration of small lawns of suburban homes has brought the general volume to a new high point. Small pieces retailing at prices from $5 to $35 are active, with those in the ranges from $10 to $15 most popular. Bird baths and pedestals in natural cement are wanted.

Await May Garment Collections.

Not for a long time has a due date for women's ready-to-wear bills been looked forward to here with more eagerness by garment manufacturers than May 10. It was said yesterday that not until then, under the 8—10—end-of-month billing system so common in the needle trades, will the full effects of consumer Easter demand be known one way or the other. The way consumers actually bought will show up very plainly in settlements by retailers. While the tendency here yesterday was to hope for the best, an undercurrent of uncertainty was reflected in comments heard in the market.

Orders for Better Glassware Drop.

Demand for medium and high price glassware has fallen off in the last two weeks. The only exception is said to be the steady call for beverage sets. These are being purchased in light green, amber and pink shades. Orders for crystal sets trimmed with black glass have been more limited than was anticipated. Chain stores are giving substantial orders on low-end glassware. All types of drinking glasses which can be retailed at 5 and 10 cents are in demand.

To Study Import Packing Costs.

A comparative study of case and packing costs among local stores was decided upon yesterday by the traffic and customs committee of the metropolitan division of the Import Managers' Group of the National Retail Dry Goods Association at a meeting here. It was agreed that such a study offered enough possible savings to make it of definite interest to stores here. Duty, it was pointed out, is payable not only on merchandise but on cost of case and packing, when the rate is on an ad valorem basis. Questionnaires will be sent out shortly and if the results warrant the study may be made national in scope.

Weather Retards Porch Furniture.

A week of warmer weather is all that is needed at this time to start reorders on porch and bungalow furniture, selling agents say. Early orders on this type of merchandise were about normal and stores are stocked with sufficient merchandise to carry them over the first buying activity. Stick reed pieces have been most popular in the buying done thus far, with burnt-bamboo next in demand. Reed and rattan have sold in good volume. Natural, green and red shades are wanted.

Little Snap to Gray Goods.

Snap to trading in gray goods was again lacking here yesterday. In the printcloths May deliveries of 39-inch 80-squares were sold at 8⅜ cents, and the same construction was bought at an eighth less for shipment in June, July and August. Other printcloth sales were 39-inch 68-72s at 6⅞ cents, 38½-inch 64-60s at 6 cents and 38½-inch 60-48s at 5. Good makes of 37-inch 48-square four-yard sheetings brought 6⅞ cents, and trading took place in 36-inch 56-60 four-yard sheetings at 7½ cents. Southern makes of 37½-inch 4.37-yard sateens moved at 9⅜ cents, and there was some buying of 40-inch 88-80 8.50-yard combed lawns at 10⅞ cents.

Management Group to Hold Dinner in 15 Cities of World

An international dinner, to be held simultaneously in this city, London, Paris, Geneva, Buenos Aires, Santiago de Chile, Bogota, Honolulu, Shanghai, Manila, Mexico City, Montreal, Toronto, Los Angeles and San Francisco on Tuesday, May 13, will feature the annual Spring convention of the American Management Association that is to be held at the Hotel Astor on May 12, 13 and 14. The various units of the dinner will be linked together by wireless, telephone and cable.

Management and international prosperity will be the keynotes of the speakers. These will include Lucius R. Merrill, president of All-America Cables, Inc., and tentative head of the Pan-American Society, and F. C. Page, vice president of the International Telephone and Telegraph Corporation, which will provide the hook-up. Henry S. Dennison, president of the Dennison Manufacturing Company and vice chairman of the International Management Institute, will preside.

THE CUSTOMS COURT.

Toy Containers for Handkerchiefs Held Liable to Two Duties.

Toy carts and automobiles used as containers for imported handkerchiefs were held subject to two duties in a decision made public yesterday by the United States Customs Court. As containers, according to the ruling, the carts and automobiles were liable to the same tax of 75 per cent ad valorem as the embroidered handkerchiefs they held and in addition were subject to assessment at the rate of 70 per cent as toys.

The decision was made in disposing of a protest filed by the Adams-Flanigan Company, which imported the merchandise as novelty articles for children. The plaintiff's claim that one of the two duties was sufficient under the law was dismissed by the court.

Wm. Hartmann & Co., Inc., newsprint paper importers, according to another ruling of the court, must pay a tax on a duty-free importation because of an oversight. The company was assessed $541.60 on a shipment of newsprint but in protesting neglected to base its complaint on the fact that newsprint is not subject to duty, leaving the court no alternative but to dismiss the case.

BIG EXPORT COPPER SALES.

Total of 8,500,000 Pounds Reported—Domestic Buying Dull.

Sales of copper by the larger producers to foreign customers amounted to 8,500,000 pounds yesterday.

Copper buying by domestic consumers was dull. While inquiries have increased, actual orders by domestic consumers have been small. In general, copper producers report, the domestic buyers are pursuing a hand-to-mouth buying policy.

SUGAR, COFFEE, COCOA.

Sugar.

The sugar market was quiet yesterday. Refined was unchanged in price, although the report of the Sugar Institute showed a sharp reduction in deliveries by refiners for the last month available. This is considered due partly to the increased distribution of domestic beet sugar, but generally to the uncertain condition of the country at the present. There was one sale of 17,000 tons of raw sugars afloat from Cuba at 1 21-32 cents to a New York refiner. There were other buyers in the market at the same price for prompt deliveries. Buyers, however, were holding for 1 11-16 cents. A lack of selling pressure, considered remarkable in view of the unsold Cuban crop and the dissolution of the single seller, has been noted in the sugar market. Buyers are interested only in sugars to be delivered before any tariff action in Washington.

The feature of the futures market was the decline to 1.58 cents per pound in the May contract, a new low for the contract. The selling was considered to be in anticipation of first notice day for deliveries against May, which is tomorrow.

Macy's Promotes J. A. Thomas.

John A. Thomas, who has been associated with R. H. Macy & Co., Inc., for nineteen years, has been appointed assistant treasurer of the corporation to succeed the late Otto Wise. During eleven years of his connection with the Macy store, Mr. Thomas served as manager of the silk department. "Although Mr. Thomas had announced his intention of retiring," Jesse Isidor Straus, president of Macy's, said yesterday in announcing the appointment, "we have been fortunate in persuading him to remain and take over responsibilities for which he is well fitted and urgently needed."

CHILDREN GET ESTATE OF MRS. HAVEMEYER

Mrs. Marion D. Shainwald Sevier Left $700,000 to Husband, Probate Filing Discloses.

Mrs. Alice Allde Havemeyer, widow of John C. Havemeyer, former sugar refinery owner, who died on April 13, divided most of her estate among her three children, it was learned yesterday when her will was entered for probate. The children are John F. Havemeyer, Ardsley-on-Hudson, N. Y.; Mrs. Alice Louise Moore, Richmond, Va., and Mrs. Harriet F. Craig, Montreal, Can.

The son gets $5,000, an Indian rug and one-third of the residue. Mrs. Moore receives one-third of the residue, half the jewelry and personal effects and a marble statue. Mrs. Craig gets a third of the residue, jewelry and personal effects, $5,000 and a $10,000 trust fund, the latter to be used for the education of her children.

The testament, dated Oct. 21, 1926, made bequests ranging from $50 to $500 to twenty other relatives, friends and employes.

Mrs. Havemeyer, who lived at 277 Park Avenue, was the daughter of the late John M. Francis, former Ambassador to Austria and founder of The Troy Times.

Mrs. Sevier Left $700,000

The will of Mrs. Marion D. Shainwald Sevier of St. Elmo, Tenn., was filed yesterday for probate, leaving her estate of about $700,000 to her husband, Colonel Granville Sevier, commanding officer of Fort Shafter, Honolulu, Hawaii, whom she named as executor. The testament, executed Nov. 30, 1926, directed that the estate should go to the University of the South, Sewanee, Tenn., if Colonel Sevier died before his wife.

An inquest into Mrs. Sevier's death on Aug. 27, 1928, resulted last month in the opening of her grave by her brother, Ralph Shainwald, who declared she died from other than natural causes. Major W. C. Whitmore, her personal physician, however, reported that she died a natural death.

When Colonel Sevier learned that the estate had been bequeathed to him, he said he and his wife had discussed some endowments to charity which she had planned.

Hecht Estate Sells East 95th St. House After Fifty Years—Other Manhattan Deals.

The new three-story business building at the southeast corner of Lexington Avenue and East Fifty-ninth Street was sold yesterday by the Schulte Real Estate Company, David A. Schulte, president, to John J. Dillon, proprietor and editor of The Rural New Yorker, a leading farm publication.

The property is known as 735-741 Lexington Avenue and is 80 by 95 feet. It was held at $1,600,000, according to Byrne & Bowman, brokers in the transaction.

The property is part of the plot of about 60,000 square feet purchased in 1925 by Frederick Brown from the Schaefer Company, representing the estate of the former brewer and comprising all but a small portion of the square block bounded by Lexington and Third Avenues, Fifty-eighth and Fifty-ninth Streets. The corner just sold was bought from Mr. Brown the following year by a syndicate composed of the Schulte Real Estate Company and the United Cigar Stores Company. The latter subsequently sold its interest to the Schulte Company, and the United took back a net lease on the property for twenty-one years with renewals.

In part payment for the Lexington Avenue corner Mr. Dillon gave the six-story elevator apartment house on a plot 102 by 100 feet at 450 West End Avenue, southeast corner of Eighty-second Street. The house contains twenty-two rooms and was valued at $500,000. It was transferred free and clear of mortgages. Negotiations are pending for its resale.

The purchase was made by Mr. Dillon for investment.

The estate of Jacob Hecht sold the three-story house at 166 East Ninety-fifth Street after an ownership of fifty years to a buyer for occupancy. The house is on a lot 18 by 100 feet, between Lexington and Third Avenues. It will be extensively altered. The sale was closed through Pease & Elliman and Richard C. Hollyday & Co., brokers.

Two five-story buildings, 50 by 95 feet, at 1,114 and 1,116 First Avenue, northeast corner of Sixty-first Street, will be sold by Muratori Bros. John F. Kuhn was the broker.

Maurice Wertheim sold for the Brant Realty Corporation, Barrett P. Smith, president to Dr. Joseph S. Glickman the four-story business building at 162 East Fifty-third Street, 75 feet west of Third Avenue, on lot 22 by 75 feet.

TO BUILD $1,300,000 HOUSE.

Realty Associates Plan Another Cooperative for Brooklyn.

Plans of a seventeen-story cooperative apartment house for Prospect Park West and First Street, Brooklyn to be erected by the Realty Associates at a cost of about $1,300,000, have been filed with the Brooklyn Bureau of Buildings. Emery Roth is the architect.

The structure is to occupy the site of the former home of George W. Washington, coffee merchant, now a resident of New Jersey. The building will be similar to the cooperative recently completed by the Realty Associates at Garfield Place and Prospect Park West. This structure is said to be 80 per cent sold.

Railroad Office to Move Uptown.

The Boston & Maine Railroad has leased executive offices on the fourteenth floor of the new Lincoln Building at 60 East Forty-second Street through Pease & Elliman, Inc. The lessee intends to move from the Woolworth Building at 233 Broadway.

Allan Doyle of Manhattan has purchased from Frank G. Carter of Brooklyn his waterfront estate at Paradise Point, Southhold, L. I.

The property was held at $50,000. The J. P. Ruebsaman Corporation negotiated the sale.

Improved Conditions In Mortgage Market

That the mortgage market is gradually loosening up and is well started on its way to normal conditions is reflected in the fact that $14,609,950 in first mortgage loans were announced yesterday by the Lawyers Mortgage Company. This total represents an increase of 45 per cent over the loans accepted by the company last month.

Compared with April last year the current commitments of the company show an increase of 40 per cent and are 13 per cent ahead of April, 1928, which was an unusually active year, according to R. M. Hurd, president of the company.

Building loans totaling $3,115,000 are among the new Manhattan and Bronx loans. In the Jackson Heights section they total $975,000.

The summary of loans accepted discloses that 43 per cent, or $6,187,000, were made on Manhattan properties. The remainder are divided as follows: Bronx $3,591,750, 24 per cent; Queens $2,855,150, 19 per cent; Brooklyn $1,137,950, 7 per cent; Westchester $837,500, 6 per cent.

CONFERENCE TO VIEW AMERICAN SHIPPING

Merchant Marine Problems Will Occupy Sessions at Washington of 300 Operators.

BROWN TO SPEAK TODAY

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 22.—About 300 shipping men will attend the third national conference on merchant marine which will open a two-day session at the Chamber of Commerce of the United States tomorrow under the auspices of the Shipping Board. Present problems of American shipping will be analyzed and discussed by legislators and government officials identified with the administration of the merchant marine laws and by leaders in various fields of private shipping.

Chairman T. V. O'Connor of the Shipping Board will open the conference. Other speakers tomorrow will be Postmaster General Brown, whose administration of the ocean mail provisions of the Jones-White law has brought him into close contact with American shipping in foreign trades; Senator Wesley L. Jones of Washington, coauthor of the Jones-White law; Representatives Wood of Indiana and Free of California and Mrs. Lowell Fletcher Hobart, president general of the Daughters of the American Revolution.

At the second national conference, held in 1929, committees were appointed to study various phases of American shipping problems and report their findings and recommendations to the Shipping Board. A number of these committees have completed their work and will report to the conference. Committee reports will be made on the reduction of differential between shipbuilding costs here and abroad; methods of increasing patronage for American ships; marine insurance; mail contracts and government aid to American ships not benefited by mail contracts.

The White Star liner Majestic arrived yesterday from Southampton and Cherbourg with 556 passengers and Captain E. L. Trant in command in place of Captain William Marshall, who is ill at Southampton and will not return to his post for some months, it was said.

One passenger was Fred B. Smith, Moderator of the National Council of Congregational Churches, who has been traveling abroad for ten weeks as the guest of The Christian Herald. He said he had motored through Palestine and Syria and found the roads good and the countries prosperous.

Mr. Smith said he saw warships in every port on the Mediterranean from Gibraltar to Beirut and expressed the opinion that any wars in the future would receive an impulse from countries along its shores.

ROOSEVELT GROUP GETS SHIPS FOR LINE

Sale of Five Vessels for New Baltimore-Bremen Run Is Authorized by Board.

CRAFT WILL BE REBUILT

Alterations Will Increase Speed to 16 Knots and Accommodations to 100 Passengers.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 22.—The Shipping Board today authorized the sale to the Roosevelt Steamship Company, Inc., of New York, of five 11,773-ton vessels to be reconstructed and used for the establishment of a new transatlantic passenger and cargo service between Baltimore and Hampton Roads and Bremen and Hamburg, with the privilege of calling at French Atlantic and Channel ports.

In authorizing the Merchant Fleet Corporation to proceed with this sale, the board declared that the route proposed is an essential trade route as defined by the merchant marine act of 1920 and acted in cooperation with Postmaster General Brown, who already has awarded to the Roosevelt Company an ocean mail contract covering this service.

The board authorized the sale on the basis of $30,000 cash for each ship, but it will be provided in the contract of sale that the vessels will be reconstructed so as to increase their speed to sixteen knots and provide accommodations for approximately 100 passengers.

This reconstruction will involve the modification of the hull lines of the ships and the substitution of new engines of considerably increased power. The details of plans covering these changes will be presented to the board for its approval when it considers the final contract of sale, which will be dependent upon the authorization by the board of a construction loan in aid of rebuilding the vessels.

The ships selected for the new line are the steamers Steadfast, Eclipse, Archer, Independence and Victorious.

"It is the general plan," the board stated, "that these vessels will be used for the inauguration of the new line, and that subsequently two new vessels of 18 knots speed will be constructed."

The board on May 15 will receive bids for purchase of the steamship Scantic, a Hog Island type cargo steamer which was seriously damaged by fire at New Orleans last month. The vessel is to be sold on an "as is where is" basis. The ship has been in operation on the Dixie Mediterranean Line.

PLANS NEW LINE TO ORIENT.

K. D. Dawson Maps Proposal to Interdepartmental Committee.

WASHINGTON, April 22 (AP).—The proposal of Kenneth D. Dawson of Portland, Oregon, shipping and lumber man, to establish a passenger and cargo service from New York to the Orient via Portland, was taken under advisement today by the interdepartmental subcommittee on merchant marine. Its recommendations will be made later to the parent committee.

Mr. Dawson, seeking a contract for carrying mail from the Pacific Coast to Asiatic ports, explained to the committee he planned to build five new passenger and cargo vessels with a speed of sixteen knots at a cost of approximately $20,000,000 if his application is approved. Should the committee favor the plan, Postmaster General Brown would call for bids for the ocean mail contract.

Senator Steiwer, Republican, of Oregon, and F. G. Gauntlett, counsel for the Dawson interests, attended the session of the committee.

TRANSFER OF ARABIC SET.

Liner to Start Final Voyage From New York on Aug. 9.

The White Star liner Arabic, which will be transferred from the New York-Liverpool service to the Liverpool and Montreal run to make way for the new motor vessel Britannic, scheduled to make her maiden voyage westbound June 28, will remain in the New York service for one extra trip owing to the temporary withdrawal of the Adriatic for a cruise to the Mediterranean in August.

The Arabic will be operated jointly with her successor for a round trip to maintain the weekly New York-Liverpool service that normally would be furnished by the Adriatic. The Britannic, a 27,000-ton vessel, is scheduled to reach New York for the first time July 6 and will start back July 12. The Arabic will sail from Liverpool June 7 and again July 26 and from New York June 21 and finally Aug. 9.

I. C. C. Refuses Baltimore Plea.

WASHINGTON, April 22 (AP).—Petitions for reopening of the request of the Baltimore Chamber of Commerce asking establishment of a differential export and import freight rate moving through Baltimore of 6 cents under that at New York was dismissed today by the Interstate Commerce Commission. After the commission had denied in December the request for the increased differential, the Baltimore Association of Commerce, the Philadelphia Board of Trade, the Philadelphia Bourse, the Philadelphia Chamber of Commerce and the Port of Philadelphia Ocean Traffic Bureau asked reopening, holding that the present differential amounted to unreasonable discrimination.

Statendam's Anniversary Marked.

The first anniversary of the Holland-America flagship Statendam was celebrated yesterday at a recital by Rudy Vallee and a buffet luncheon aboard the ship. About 400 persons attended. The observance will be continued at a Holland travel program at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon at the Wanamaker Auditorium, Wanamaker Place and Ninth Street. Jan Van Bommel, Dutch baritone, will sing, and Dr. Niel Van Aken, secretary of the Netherlands Chamber of Commerce in New York, will speak on "Holland, the Land of Color."

LUNN DEMANDS BROOKLYN GAS DATA

Commissioner Postpones Rate Hearing Till May 12, Insisting Company Produce Records.

CONSUMERS AFTER FIGURES

Counsel Says Concern Was Not Certain as to Meaning of Earlier Request for Information.

A further postponement of the rehearing on the rates of the Brooklyn Borough Gas Company, affecting gas consumers of the ocean front district of Brooklyn, was granted yesterday by Public Service Commissioner George R. Lunn when the company failed to produce data from its records requested by Maurice Hotchner, counsel for the Utility Consumers League, and Assistant Corporation Counsel Judson Hyatt. Impatient at the delay, Mr. Lunn ordered the company to produce the data on May 12.

Jacob Goetz, representing former Judge William Ransom, counsel for the company, told Commissioner Lunn that the company was not sure as to the precise meaning of the request for some of the data and desired a conference with opposing counsel to decide just what information was needed and what could actually be furnished by the company.

Mr. Hotchner and Mr. Hyatt pointed out that the commissioner had directed the company to produce the data on March 31. Mr. Goetz said some of the information could be furnished this week, but requested that the conference be deferred until Monday, when Mr. Ransom, now out of the city, could be present. This brought objections from Mr. Hotchner, who held that it was not necessary for Mr. Ransom to be present when only the matter of preparing statistical data was to be discussed.

"I don't think the company should benefit by its own default," he said.

Mr. Lunn reminded Mr. Goetz of his previous directions to the company to supply the information, and said he would not tolerate further delay. Pending the next official hearing on May 12 at 2 P. M., he said, the differences concerning the records should be ironed out.

"My time is valuable," the commissioner said, "and I cannot run down here from Albany for the hearing only to find that you want another adjournment. I do not want to waste any more time on this case."

The commissioner had expressed his impatience in a reply to a letter Mr. Hotchner had written to him concerning the company's failure to send the data. Following the hearing, Mr. Hotchner gave reporters the letter in which the commissioner said:

"I am surprised that the Brooklyn Borough has not supplied the data which you requested. It was the understanding that if they objected to any of the requests you made they could bring that to the attention of the commissioner. I fully expected them to give you most of what you wanted without any argument. We will have a definite understanding regarding this matter at the hearing on Tuesday."

A statement, including an analysis of the company's costs in serving different classes of customers, prepared by Dr. John Bauer, economic expert, was given out after the hearing by Mr. Hotchner to show "the inequalities of the 'initial charge' of $1 per month per customer."

FINDS WOMEN STUDIOUS.

Dr. Keppel Tells Wells Alumnae Here of Post-Graduate Trends.

There is more interest in informal post-graduate studies among the graduates of women's colleges than among graduates of men's institutions, Dr. Frederick Keppel, president of the Carnegie Corporation, told a group of Wells College alumnae at the annual Easter luncheon yesterday at the Hotel Plaza. There has been a trend toward an intensification of intellectual ties between colleges and their graduates during the past few years, and various means have been devised to further the "adult education" movement among college men and women, he said.

ELLIS ISLAND BARS COUNT.

Louis de la Bassetierre Excluded, Despite Six-Months Permit.

Count Louis de la Bassetierre, a young Frenchman who arrived yesterday from Cherbourg on the Red Star liner Westernland, was taken to Ellis Island to appear before a Special Board of Inquiry. After a hearing he was ordered excluded, and will take an appeal to the Secretary of Labor at Washington.

The Count had a six-months' permit to visit the United States but it was thought that he had come here to get work. The order of deportation was made on the ground that he was liable to become a public charge.

ALBERT PATRICK OPENS FIGHT ON DISBARMENT

Hughes Names Board to Proceed Against Lawyer Once Convicted of Rice Murder.

WASHINGTON, April 22 (AP).—Chief Justice Hughes today named committees to consider disbarment proceedings brought against two Oklahoma attorneys, Albert T. Patrick and H. A. Ledbetter.

Mr. Patrick was a member of the New York bar when admitted to practice in the Supreme Court, but was disbarred from the New York bar following his conviction on the charge of slaying William A. Rice in September, 1900.

He is opposing disbarment of the right to practice before the Supreme Court on the ground that he was pardoned by the Governor of New York and restored to full rights.

The committee appointed by the Supreme Court to consider his case consists of Nathan L. Miller, Charles C. Burlingham and Henry W. Taft, all of New York City. Patrick is now in Washington. His home is in Tulsa.

Mr. Ledbetter was admitted to practice before the Supreme Court here as a member of the bar of the Supreme Court of Oklahoma.

He was disbarred from practice before that court, and a committee consisting of Thomas F. Howe of Chicago, William L. Frierson of Chattanooga, Tenn., and W. H. H. Piatt of Kansas City, Mo., was appointed to recommend whether he should be disbarred. Mr. Ledbetter contends that his disbarment by the Oklahoma Supreme Court was due to prejudice and that the court had been the accuser, prosecutor and judge in the disbarment proceedings.

Albert T. Patrick figured in one of the most sensational of New York's murder cases from 1900 to 1912, The Associated Press recalls.

Charged with the murder of William A. Rice, an eccentric millionaire, he was convicted in April, 1902, and sentenced to death. He waged a legal battle from Sing Sing Prison's death house for four years before Governor Higgins commuted his sentence to life imprisonement, in December, 1906. He had been doomed to die three times and had obtained twenty-four reprieves during his stay in the death house. In November, 1912, he was pardoned by Governor Dix.

Mr. Patrick then went to Oklahoma to look after the oil interests of his brother-in-law, John T. Millikin of Eureka, Mo., who contributed most of the funds in Patrick's long legal fight.

3 PLANES BURN IN HANGAR.

Worker at Aviation Country Club Badly Burned Trying to Save Craft.

Special to The New York Times.

HICKSVILLE, L. I., April 22.—Fire destroyed three airplanes, valued at more than $50,000, endangered a score of others and severely burned a mechanic yesterday at the Long Island Aviation Country Club field near here, it was revealed today. Starting when a spark from a small electric motor ignited gasoline spray which was being used to wash down a motor on a Vought Corsair biplane, the flames quickly enveloped the entire plane, which was in the hangar at the field.

The mechanic who was operating the spraying machine, Joseph Seligman of Farmingdale, dragged the blazing plane out of the hangar, but two others were ignited before he could get it out. The flames also fired his clothing and he suffered burns about the legs. He is recovering at the Nassau Hospital, Mineola.

The burned plane was the property of Thorne Donnelly, a club member. The second plane is owned by Harry Hall, another member. The third was the property of the Vought company.

Other mechanics and field officials dragged the other planes to the open air and turned in a fire alarm. The Fire Department kept the blaze from spreading to the adjoining hangar with its valuable fleet of planes owned by Long Island sport fliers.

Aside from announcing the damage to the two Vought Corsairs at $20,000 each, and to one Waco as $10,000, the officials of the club refused to comment on the fire.
